U.S. Blasted In Japan, Russia, Cuba On May Day

Countries Parade Armed Might Before Thousands

LONDON (AP) — The United States was blasted in both hemispheres Sunday "as millions of workers celebrated Communist-paraded their armed might May Day.

Cuba's Premier Castro made angry 2½-hour harangue to between 250,000 and 500,000 shouting Cubans who turned a May Day rally into an anti-American demonstration.

Tokyo demonstrators hanged President Eisenhower and Premier Nobutsuke Kishi in effigy and blanketed the Japanese capital with placards denouncing ratification of the new U.S.-Japan security treaty.

On both sides of Iron Curtain parades, rallies and speeches marked the workers' holiday established 41 years ago by the international Socialist Congress in North America Labor celebrates as the first Monday in September.

NEW WEAPONS NOT SHOWN

Marching troops, guns and rockets were the centre of attraction in Moscow, where Premier Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders reviewed the mammoth parade. His display dispelled none of the terrifying new weapons Khrushchev talked about in a speech to the Supreme Soviet last January.

Communist East Germany's 110,000 - man army marched through East Berlin in a parade branded by the Western Big Three as "a threat to public order." Communist chief Walter Ulbricht and other East German leaders looked on in front of a huge sign proclaiming, "West Berlin will be a free demilitarized city."

Across the city line, Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin defied the Soviet threat to the city

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro celebrated May Day with another blast at the United States, but the widely heralded demonstration in support of his revolution drew a far smaller crowd than expected.

Between 250,000 and 500,000 Cubans assembled in Havana's vast Civic Plaza Sunday. It was one of the smallest of the public endorsements the castro forces have mustered from time to time.

The fiery, bearded premier himself was not up to his best form. Hoarse and dishevelled, he harangued the audience for 2½ hours, rehashing old charges. However, he offered a new twist, charging that the U.S. is preparing "aggression against Cuba through Guatemala." Previously, Castro has accused Washington of conspiring with the Dominican Republic against Cuba.

SLOGANS STIR CROWD

Castro talked for an hour without arousing much enthusiasm. Many in the crowd were beginning to leave when Premier Castro started the chant, "Cuba yes! Yankee no!" It caught on and mounted then.

Then, firing out at Washington, Castro also rejected as "baseless and absurd" a charge by Guatemala that Premier Yydigoras said that Cuba is being used as a springboard for an invasion of Guatemala.

The revolutionary premier also appeared to sound the death knell for government by ballot in Cuba in the near future. He said elections are not the only democratic process.

PROUD MOMENT

"We have voted for Fidel! We have voted for Fidel!" the crowd roared for five minutes while the premier beamed.

Earlier he watched a five-hour parade of the armed forces and thousands of members of his new "people's army" . . . uniformed workers, peasants and students. Hundreds of women were in the ranks.

Wave upon wave of blue-skirted militia women and green-clad militia streamed past the reviewing stand. Young Fidelista patrol Martin which served as Castro's reviewing stand.

ROYAL WEDDING REHEARSAL IN LONDON—The coach in which Princess Margaret will ride to her wedding May 6 leaves London's Clarence House Sunday during rehearsals for the royal procession. People line the sidewalk at right to watch the coach ride by.

NEW APPROACH IN TEACHING RETARDED URGED

Will Never Use Academic Education

HAMILTON (CP)—A new approach in teaching was urged here Sunday as the Ontario Association for Retarded Children wound up its three-day seventh annual conference.

During the weekend the 400 delegates also heard reports of research projects into the cause and mental retardation and a pledge by Ontario Health Minister Dymond to fight for mental health as long as he is able.

"We must get away from the classic dependence on academic education which the retarded will probably never need," said Dr. Max Dubrow, director of the New York City training centre and workshop for the mentally retarded.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Needed instead are workshops which will give vocational training for such jobs as messengers and porters for men and tray girls in hospitals and sewing machine operators for girls, he said.

"There are few, if any, vocational operations that a young retarded adult cannot be taught to do. Even complex jobs can be broken down adequately so simple steps—though it may not be economically feasible to do so."

Dr. Dubrow said that in six to nine months a workshop could train a young retarded adult to travel, read directions and handle change. This could lead to paid jobs.

RESEARCH PROJECTS

H. E. Foster, honorary president of the association, told the conference that three research projects have been undertaken by doctors in Toronto for study of mental retardation.

Dr. Charles Best at the Banting Institute is directing a study to determine basic chemistry of the normal brain so doctors will have a yardstick by which to measure brain chemical deviations. A. L. Chute at the Ontario Hospital is directing a urinary analysis aimed at learning more about amino acids and how they are related to mental retardation.

Thousands of Turkish Youths Clash With Troops; No Shots

ISTANBUL (AP) — Thousands of youths clashed with Turkish troops in Istanbul today as foreign ministers of the Atlantic alliance assembled for a last look at the West's strategy for the summit conference.

Shouting "Freedom! Freedom!" the crowd strained against a line of soldiers guarding the broad plaza within sight of the Istanbul city hall, where members of the NATO council of foreign ministers were gathering for the opening of their meeting.

The soldiers pushed the demonstrators back with the butts of their rifles. Suddenly the crowd broke and rushed into several small side streets. Officials and reporters watched the clash from atop the city hall.

There was no shooting, although Premier Adnan Menderes had warned Sunday that more violent government demonstrations would not be tolerated, and a government announcement said the army had been ordered to fire on demonstrators if necessary to disperse them.

Already under martial law since student demonstrations against Menderes last week, Istanbul was a virtual ghost town Sunday with imposition of a 36-hour May Day curfew. Only NATO conferees and reporters were free to move about with special passes.

Menderes accused the opposition Republican People's party of waging a "policy of rebellion" out of jealousy for the achievements of his regime.

"Their chances of winning a new election are nil, so they embarked on a nefarious policy of inciting some 3,000 to 4,000 students, taken to the streets at a time when a major international conference was about to take place in Istanbul."

Spokesmen for the Republicans outnumbered more than three to one in parliament, denied instigating the demonstrators.

The party, led by former president Ismet Inonu, has been beaten in three national elections since 1950 by Menderes' Democratic party.

Menderes, whose strong-arm rule brought the protests, warned he would be just as tough in preventing further outbursts.

Expect Showers to Bring Forest Fire Relief in N.S.

HALIFAX (CP)—Weary Nova Scotia foresters looked for relief today as the weather office forecast showers.

During the weekend which brought mild weather and sunny skis to all parts of the province, 10 separate fires were reported in blazeways of forests, resulting the province's worst fire threat in years.

More than 3,500 acres of woodland were blackened in the weekend blazes. This was greater than the total loss for the province in 1958 when 3,275 acres were burned over. In 1958 the figure was less than 1,500 acres.

Most of the losses in small bungalow near Sydney was razed by forest fires. Most of the area was in softwood stands, mostly spruce, although two fires in the Halifax area destroyed valuable hardwood.

Forest and forest extension director Lloyd Hawbold said it is too early to estimate the financial loss."

HARDEST-HIT AREAS

Hardest hit areas were Yarmouth and Shelburne counties where 1,275 acres broke out Saturday, and Halifax county where recorded nine outbreaks, three of them serious.

Anxious residents of the eastern shore community of Cow Bay, about 15 miles from here packed their belongings Saturday as a blaze raged unchecked for several hours along a one-mile front. Flames threatened several homes.

Woods and forests department officials said carelessness in burning grass and rubbish, and by fishermen, apparently the main cause for the outbreaks. A couple of fires were believed of incendiary nature.

Colonel Promoted

OTTAWA (CP) — Col. J. R. Allen, 46, of Gananoque, N.B., will be promoted to brigadier in July and appointed senior military adviser to the Canadian diplomatic mission in Indochina, army headquarters announced today.

He will be succeeded as staff chief of the Canadian Army staff at Washington by Col. Albert Bethenod, 43, of Kingston and Montreal.

Manhattan's Hay Salesman Has to Move

NEW YORK (AP) — Sam Muhlhan, who for 44 years has been selling hay—not hey-hey but hay for horses—in Manhattan's 42nd street.

The 76-year-old Muhlhan had to get out with other tenants from the soon-to-be demolished office building above Grand Central terminal. But he's going to keep on his hay-fevered Vanderbilt Avenue to just off Manhattan.

"I have had my office on 42nd Street all these years," he said Sunday, adjusting the bow tie he invariably wears. "But from here I can get there as easily to the docks in Brooklyn, or on the Hudson, where they come in barges or on the train."

He sells 500 tons of hay a week to retail dealers around the city. Some of the hay he inspects goes to feed the thoroughbreds at local race tracks.

Woman's Body Found in River

OWEN SOUND (CP) — The body of a woman found Saturday in the Sydenham River by two fishermen was identified Sunday as Gwenneth Marilyn Mortley, 29, of Owen Sound, 3 miles south of here.

Police said the body, found below Irad Falls, was badly decomposed. They said there was no sign of foul play.

$120,000 FIRE

LUCAN (CP)—Firemen from five municipalities near this London area village helped fight a fire Saturday night which swept through three 100 - year - old buildings housing a bowling alley, a hardware store and a five-room restaurant. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

Diefenbaker and Macmillan Confer, Nehru Visits Convalescent Bevan

LONDON (CP)—To the beating of tom-toms, a beaming Ghanaian student poured a libation of gin on the ground in front of Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah and invoked a divine blessing.

Outside the hotel of External Affairs Minister Eric Louw of South Africa, torch-bearing demonstrators waved placards and shouted protests against apartheid.

Ostentatiously or quietly, prime ministers arrived on the eve of the 10th and probably most momentous Commonwealth conference since the Second World War.

The initial scene was leisurely. Britain's Harold Macmillan found time between entertaining colleagues at his country residence at Chequers during the weekend to be installed as chancellor of Oxford University and to show Canada John Diefenbaker around Oxford.

CALLS ON BEVAN

India's Jawaharlal Nehru paid a call on ailing Aneurin Bevan, redoubtable deputy leader of the British Labor party, in a London hospital. Australia's Robert Menzies visited former prime minister Sir Anthony Eden and Sir Winston Churchill.

But the preliminary discussions centred on the place in the talks of Dr. Hendrik Verwoerd, South Africa's Commonwealth partners to her racial policies. It appears increasingly likely if not certain that statements by the prime ministers will be issued at the end of the outside the formal agenda.

While Louw himself made no statement, his friendliest colleague appears to be Sir Roy Welensky of the Central African Federation, who said he disapproves of the Union of South Africa's situation without permission of South Africa's people.

The most vigorous champions of a full-dress airing, Nkrumah and Malaya's Tengku Abdul Rahman, both have indicated willingness to pursue the issue more formally, although both insist that the South African problem cannot be ignored.

CANADA APPROVES

Diefenbaker is reported strongly favor dealing with the matter informally, a course that apparently would meet with support from Macmillan.

Nehru held a press conference today that South Africa "is acting in a manner which is opposed to the Declaration of Human Rights as well as the normal civilized conventions of international behaviour these days."

Malaya was "entirely opposed to apartheid and racial discrimination in any part of the world" and hoped the South African problem was not handled properly it would lead to "the most serious trouble on a very big scale."

Louw, in a statement for the wounded Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, was greeted by about 1,000 pickets carrying placards, torches and shouting "murder"

Body Identified

SARNIA (CP) — Police today identified the body of a well-dressed man found in the St. Clair River here Saturday as that of Frederick Melnick, 67, of St. Thomas.

The body was found 10 miles south of here by an oil company launch.

Police said there was no evidence of foul play. Cuts on Melnick's face and the back of his head, at first thought to indicate he might have been struck before drowning, were attributed by police to his having fallen on pavement here last Thursday.

CARYL CHESSMAN BREATHES LAST IN GAS CHAMBER

Executed 12 Years After Sentence

The condemned sex terrorist, who had staved off execution for 12 years, died a few moments before a lethal dose was prepared to give a 30-minute stay to the final appeal from Chessman's chief defence counsel, ailed last after the United States Supreme Court California Supreme Courts had rejected appeals.

Then his head went halfway backward and stayed tilted back for several seconds with the mouth wide open.

His head hair was neatly combed and he wore a white shirt, open at the throat.

SHOULDERS QUIVER

At 10:09 a.m., a little more than five minutes after the pellets had been dropped, his shoulders quivered slightly.

He had entered the chamber at 10:01 a.m., preceded by a guard and followed by three others.

The 60 witnesses jammed in front of the thick windows of the death chamber were silent. Hardly a breath stirred.

Assistant Warden Walter D. Ashuf announced the official hour of death.

The venetian blind behind which Warden Fred R. Dickson and a little official group from the chamber was partly open. Usually it is kept closed and opaque.

Chessman's 12-year court fight to keep the gas chamber ended with a series of stays of execution all within 45 minutes of the execution hour—and finally the last minute stay of execution that failed to hold.

The California state Supreme Court denied a series of petitions filed Saturday and Sunday, and an unprecedented special session of the legislature was convened this morning. They met again in three days to consider a bill filed 45 minutes before the death hour. Denial was at 9:50.

The Washington Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court of the United States refused to grant a stay only minutes before the death hour.

But U.S. District-Judge Louis E. Goodman said he tried to Queen, Philip Accept Bid for Pakistan Visit

LONDON (Reuters) —Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip have accepted an invitation to visit Pakistan, an authoritative source said here today.

The source said dates have not been fixed for the visit, which may also include a visit to India.

Source in New Dehli said Prime Minister Nehru had spoken to London an invitation from President Rajendra Prasad to the Queen to visit India. Nehru is in London for a conference of Commonwealth leaders.

But in London, Nehru told a reporter he had not invited the Queen to visit India and had no immediate plans to do so. However, he was "interested" in the Pakistani invitation.

The invitation to visit Pakistan was said to have been given by President Mohammed Ayub Khan when he stopped at Wilmington Castle Friday en route to the home of the Queen and her husband.

grant a 30-minute stay, but the deadly pellets already had been dropped. The petition was filed with Goodman at 10:06. He said he would have granted the delay to hear arguments on the petition.

Word that the pellets had dropped was flashed first from the office of Governor Edmund Brown in Sacramento.

Press secretary Hale Champion made the announcement while clemency secretary Cecil Poole was on an open telephone to the execution room.

Thus ended the life of a small, slim hoodlum, car thief and robber whose long struggle to escape the supreme penalty gave him possibly the most famous prisoner of his generation.

The persistence and brilliancy of the campaign of appeals which Chessman mounted from his cell in death row made his name a household word around the world.

In prison he wrote four books. One of them, Cell 2455 Death Row, became a best-seller in many lands. The royalties financed his appeals.

ADMITTED INCORRECT

Step by step, through state and federal courts, his chief argument was that his trial transcript was incorrect because a number of his notes were transcribed by another man.

In the end, he had succeeded in getting public opinion aroused from his crimes to his own personality as the larger issue of capital punishment.

Whole Continent Defence Plan To Be Discussed

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Pearkes said Saturday the Bomarc controversy and all other aspects of continental defence will be discussed in Ottawa in mid-July at a meeting of the joint United States-Canada defence committee.

Mr. Pearkes said in an interview that the last meeting of the committee was held in Washington in the fall of 1959 and it was decided at that time to hold the next one in Ottawa.

"These meetings are held to view the whole of the continental defence plan, including . . . and policies.

"The next meeting in Ottawa is to be held early in July and is expected to discuss the Bomarc situation. However, it will naturally be one subject of discussion in the review of continental defence."

The cabinet committee is made up of the ministers of defence, external affairs and the finance of both countries. Exact date of the meeting has not yet been decided.

BRING IN REFUGEES

KITCHENER (CP)—The Kitchener-Waterloo Council for War Refugees has decided to bring 25 Yugoslavian refugees, all bachelors between 20 and 40 years of age, to Canada in a contribution to World Refugee Year. The council is comprised of Protestant and Roman Catholic and Jewish congregations and representatives of service clubs.

Family of Five Escapes Death In House Fire

BRANTFORD (CP) — A family of five escaped possible death by fire of unknown origin here Sunday.

Awakened by the cries of their 5-year-old daughter, Bonnie, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bedford found their home filled with smoke and flames. They got out of the house with Bonnie and their other children, Billy, 7, and John, 4.

The house was extensively damaged but all contents were lost. There was no immediate estimate of the loss.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A weak weather disturbance moving across the upper lakes will give a few showers or periods of snow in the northern half of the province today. In the remainder winds will move the cooler air back toward Southern Ontario and bring with it a few showers or thunderstorms. Northern Ontario will be mainly sunny but cool Tuesday.

Wedding Procession Rehearsed In Quiet Streets of London

LONDON (Reuters) Princess Margaret's wedding procession was rehearsed in quiet streets Sunday as London was awakening.

Despite the early Sunday hour, a sprinkling of sightseers watched the procession struck eight, mounted policemen went down the Mall toward Westminster Abbey amid a clatter of horses' hooves.

As the 8:30 a.m. strike eight, mounted policemen went down the Mall toward Westminster Abbey amid a clatter of horses' hooves. Friday for Margaret's wedding to Antony Armstrong-Jones — to clear the way.

Behind them rode a detachment of the Royal Horse Guards. Dressed in khaki instead of their ceremonial uniforms the Horse Guards led the way for the first coaches which will depart from Buckingham Palace.

These coaches, including the state coach in which Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, and Princess Margaret will ride, were empty.

The coachmen were in place, however, impressive in livery and top hats in the scarlet, black and gold carriages.

Officials with stop watches made time checks.

At the exact moment the procession starts from Buckingham Palace reached Westminster Abbey, the two coaches in the bride's procession wheeled out of Clarence House, the London home of Margaret and the Queen Mother.

It took the bride's procession 10 minutes to reach the abbey, near the house of Parliament.

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, 63 - year - old chief of staff of the Soviet armed forces has retired and is said to be ill, informed sources said here today.

The sources said his successor is Marshal Matvei Zakharov, former commander of Soviet forces in East Germany.

It was Marshal Zakharov who for the first time greeted Western military attaches attending the May Day parade in Moscow Sunday.

The attaches were puzzled by the absence of Marshal Sokolovsky whose retirement has not been officially announced.

Zakharov, 62, was the mastermind behind the Soviet mobile forces in east Europe in the Second World War. He was appointed marshal last year.

There have been several recent reports that changes in the Soviet high command were imminent in view of the new strategy based on modern weapons and with new tactics.

Snow in Park, High Winds And Rain in Some Quarters Let Trout Fishermen Down

"Lots of weather—and very few trout!"

That is the general consensus of the speckle hunters after the opening weekend.

There were isolated cases in which good hauls were reported. There were several "skunks." A few came home with one or two.

The usually big-yielding streams in the northern haunts were devoid of trout, but the anglers were plentiful. It was one, if not the largest openings-day invasions in years, according to veteran anglers.

The weather man was in anything but the proper mood. High winds, rain and snow greeted the anglers in various parts of the district.

At Algonquin Park it snowed all day Sunday. "And when I say it snowed," said Bruce Bishop, who with Don Boyce, fished the park streams and came home with but a pair of speckles.

"We were told by other anglers," Bruce said, "that the trout were biting well for about an hour Saturday morning. Then they quit—just like that."

Fishing Raven creek, "Lefty" said he had contacted eight or nine other parties—and the story was the same. Nothing.

"Conditions," he said, "were about the same as five years ago the last time I drew a blank. The creek was running bank level but the water was clear and cold with little or no sign of insect life. The fact in some spots the creek-bottom looked like the bottom of a spring pool."

Mr. and Mrs. Don MacKinnon, who rarely—very rarely—come home without some trophy of the trout chase, also returned empty-handed.

"We were practically blanked the entire two days. We ran into high winds, and rain and some snow on Sunday. I had one nibble—it looked like a nine-incher but it shook itself free. Mrs. MacKinnon did get a strike. We used dry-flies, wet flies, worms everything we had — but got not a fish."

The MacKinnons fished Egan Creek near Kaladar, and the last stream was plentifully populated with anglers.

"Where we saw one or two cars in previous years, there were eight or ten this season," Mr. MacKinnon said. "They came from Brandon, Toronto, Kitchener and other distant places."

The water temperature was 48 degrees and the air temperature was 40 degrees, he said.

Better news came from the areas around and north of Kaladar where Dennis Hughes of Tweed and Jack Hughes of that city landed 13 speckles, some weighing in the vicinity of a pounds.

Unconfirmed reports stated that the rainbow were biting in Murray township along Shelter Valley, Brighton, Cold Creeks.

One disappointed angler decided to bring home some evidence of the weekend trout safari. En route home he came across a wandering snapping turtle. He took it in tow and says he will enjoy turtle soup for the first time.

Cryptic Rite Welcomes High Officer of Order

At the Masonic Temple on Saturday night, Zabud Council of Royal and Select Masters of the Cryptic Rite held a specially convened meeting to receive the Grand Inspector-General of Ontario East, Rt. Illus. Comp. J. Earl Davidson. He was Introduced by V. Illus. Comp. M—R. Hancock and given a hearty welcome by R. Illus. Comp. W. Haggar, Master of the Council.

The chief ceremonial of the evening was the conferring of the degree of Super-Excellent Master on a class of interested candidates. The distinguished visitor paid the officers high praise for the impressive manner exhibited in the ritual, and said there be further compliment in inviting the same group to do the same work at the meeting of the Grand Council in May. This is not the first high honour paid this Mille still a young organization the council is detailed to establish a council in Ottawa, and of the then Grand First Principal and Grand Master.

As a permanent reminder of the occasion, the Inspector-General was presented with several mementos of Belleville and its province. Added interest was brought to the occasion by the Grand Council Inspector in its career of Zabud Council.

Foresters Hold Bowling Party

The Foresters Bowling League held its annual presentation banquet and dance at the ANAF Hall Saturday night to mark the conclusion of the very successful season.

President Russ Rollins was returned to office for another term and during the evening thanked those who had helped to make both the bowling league and the banquet such successes. In a light-hearted talk Secretary-Treasurer Doug Moxam.

The fine trophies were presented prior to the dance. Merrill Brown's Oaks captured the championship trophy, followed by those presented by Bill Pappas. The Oaks defeated the Six Pioneers by one point with the Maples close in third position.

Individual trophies were also presented to high singles, triples and high average winners.

Many prizes were handed out during the course of the evening. Ron Hagerman, Ross Taylor and Ken Gibson took home three of the major prizes.

Body Recovered

OTTAWA (CP)—The body of Rene Godard, 40, of Casselman was found floating in the Ottawa River Sunday near the interprovincial bridge here.

Police said they were seeking possible companions of Godard for questioning into events leading to his death. He had not been in the water long, they said, and there were bruises on his face. A postmortem was ordered.

Q. Is it advisable to put twins in different classrooms at starting school?

A. It is generally advisable to gradually bring about some separation between twins. If they are together all the time and dealt with as though they were one person, they tend to lean exclusively on each other. It is also easier for twins to gain a feeling of individuality if they are not together all the time. Separate classrooms, when feasible, would seem best.

Y's Men Hear Talk on World Brotherhood

Guest speaker at the Y's Mens Club last Thursday evening was Mr. Linton Read, vice-principal of the Moira Secondary School. The speaker remarked the members of the need of brotherhood and peace. He said citizens were involved in tensions and forces that threaten peace and freedom. The Y.M.C.A. through out the world are dedicated to the task of inculcating in the youth a sense of moral and enduring values. Mr. Reid further elaborated on the various phases of the work of the Y.M.C.A. in World Service and its necessary complement, Buildings for Brotherhood.

The total budget necessary to carry forward this world-wide work is $11 million, of which the Y.M.C.A.'s in North America are pledged to contribute $5 million. The budget for the Belleville Y spread over a two year period is $3,800; one half of this amount has already been raised, and it is hoped that the remainder will be obtained by private and group contributions. The speaker was introduced by Y's man Harold Bankier and thanked by Y's man Tony Lazaro.

Club president John Luscombe and heads of committees completed plans for the "annual Mother and Son banquet.

Big Crowd Watches First International Go-Cart Races

TRENTON — The Community Gardens was the scene of the International — Go-Kart — Races Saturday night with more than 500 people on hand to cheer the racers on.

The races were sponsored by Jim Meeres of Belleville. As with professional big time speed racing, each driver was provided with a number of mechanics to service his "glorified lawnmower" between laps, or to take over as "pushers" if the go-kart stopped at a crucial moment.

Winners of the First Class A, qualifying event were: 1. Wally Istead, Belleville; 2. Jim McIlveena, Peterborough; 3. Bud Carlisle, Clayton, N.Y.

Super A, qualifying event: 1. George Cardwell, Peterborough; 2. Don Lovelace, Kingston.

Super A feature event: 1. George Cardwell, Peterborough; 2. Don Lovelace, Kingston.

Other participants included: Gerry Doyle, Belleville; Jim Harrison, Herb Caldwell, Peterborough; Mike Chalmers, Clayton, N.Y.; Bruce Swain, Bob Beacom, Kingston; Doug Slaton, Toronto; Fred Chase, Oshawa, and in the Powder Puff division: Betty Bowe, Peterborough; Gerry McCammond, Oshawa and Wava Holloway, Norma Fulmer and Ada Bazinet of Clayton, N.Y.

Ron Thornton, manager of the Gardens, said he was very pleased with the first Go-Kart presentation and that a second competition will be held at the Gardens in two weeks.

RCAF Officials Meet at Trenton

The group arrived Friday by the Composite Unit Dakota aircraft, at Air Transport Command Headquarters in Trenton. On hand to greet the group was Air Commodore F. S. Carpenter, air officer commanding Air Transport Command and Squadron Leader G. J. Moir, air cadet liaison officer.

Representing Trenton was Douglas Whitney, provincial vice-president of the Air Cadet League. The group was in conference all day Saturday. Previously, their conferences had been held at Committee headquarters in Toronto.

Attending the conference from Toronto were: C. E. Burns, J. Kennedy, R. Fenn, C. E. Brooks, A. R. Cousins, R. G. Dale, D. Boden, A. B. Smith and R. Grimme. From Hamilton came R. F. Inch and E. E. Eno of Kitchener was A. D. Lee and G. Wingle of Leamington, and W. Halsted of Windsor.

Among items discussed was the cadet summer camp which will be held at Trenton, and the international exchange visits.

Many Anglers Try Luck as Season Opens

TRENTON — The opening Saturday of the trout fishing season sent scores of ardent Trenton anglers in search of their finny prey.

On young angler, Jack Narrow of McCann Street, was believed to have caught the first trout, a 1½ pounder, in the creek behind Maybew's hill.

The fact that streams around Trenton were still rather high and muddy may account for anglers who only fished near the town had disappointing results. Those who went further afield, however, told a different tale.

Biggest fish recorded was a 14-pound grey lake trout, caught by Richard Bowman of Frankford, in Devil's Lake, north of Kingston. Mrs. Bowman, who accompanied her husband, caught several trout. Mr. Bowman used a minnow lure.

Nearer home, success was also reported by S. Yarrow and son, who caught 24 between them in Cold Creek. Members of the Trenton fire department were also lucky, with Bob Mills and Chief Ellis catching their limit. "Mac" Minty caught a trout 18 inches long and said that a bigger one got away. Bob Haker's catch was undersized.

In the police department, Constable Phil Noble caught 15, Constable Sid Vickers and Gordon Vickers were also out fishing.

Trenton anglers said that fewer fish were caught near the town than usual, owing to the fact that the town had placed "no fishing" signs on the reservoir where fishing in the past was usually allowed. Worms were used by most successful anglers.

College Principal Says Social Studies a 'Must'

TRENTON — J. D. Londerville, principal of Hamilton Teachers' College, Saturday advanced strong arguments in favor of the methods used today in teaching elementary students. He addressed Trenton and district members of the Ontario Elementary School Teachers' Federation at a meeting in Trenton High school.

Mr. Londerville said great changes that had taken place in the modern way of life in the past few years, and the shift from rural to urban living, had made such subjects as social studies a "must" on the elementary school curriculum. He said it was most important that the child be given an understanding of the problems of his fellowman on a national and international basis.

In the days of the country schoolroom, emphasis had been placed on the child being taught "the three R's", but with today's changing world, greater emphasis should be placed on subjects which would enable him to cope with social and economic problems which will be confronted later in life.

More than 200 elementary teachers from Trenton, Belleville, Picton, Bloomfield, Brighton and other points in the Quinte area attended the two day in-service training course, sponsored by the No. 2 Hastings unit of the federation.

OTHERS SPEAK

Friday night, Miss Edith Deyell, whose textbook on Grades 7 and 8 social studies' course, was approved for elementary schools in the province, spoke.

Miss Edith Cairns, head of the primary department for Ottawa public schools, spoke on Saturday morning.

After Saturday's session, the teachers attended a dinner in the Women's United Church, prepared and served by members of the Women's Association.

All arrangements for the training session were under the direction of Mrs. Ione Sutherland, president of the No. 2 Hastings unit, which encompasses Trenton, Batawa and Thurlow.

The Colorful Life

"Do you see any white? There's blue and pink and green — but no white. There's never any white."

A few years ago this wail could only have been heard in a dry goods store. Now it echoes through the super-market, from the aisle where what once was called paper is now-termed tissue, with an attached adjective which becomes a noun when applied to that article which once was invariably white but which now comes in a variety of hues which the blue, pink and green paper-cum-tissue is designed to match. (Whew — that sentence would have been so much easier if Jack Paar's experience had not proven the necessity for care and caution with respect to the pronunciation of the article whose name becomes an adjective when referring to the tissue whose color today matches the article in question.)

Well, anyway, to leave that aisle in the supermarket, the Wall Street Journal says the blues and pinks and greens are all official requirements in the modern emporium and any housewife worth her salt will match that condiment to her dishes, which were also once white but which now come in the same blues, pinks and greens in which one can purchase the article whose name is the adjective — ay heck, the bathroom fixtures.

With green bathrooms and blue kitchens and pastel pink imitation stone patios, modern man is firmly launched on the colorful life. He even manages to take it with him when he steps into his two-tone car and drives off to his rustic summer cottage constructed of small log sections painted red, with the chinks carefully oiled to give the artistic appearance of having tanned instead of weathered. His wife is probably a two-tone job herself, these days, with body of white and sepia and a grey and black or blonde and brown top.

The only thing that doesn't come in a dozen except shades this spring is the countryside, which persists in adhering to the old, jaded jade in grass and tree, with tame brown trimmings. Moreover, Mother Nature has not fully realized the possibilities which lie in orderly arrangement of these colors. If she would only take a trip through the new sections of Belleville, the land of green bathrooms and blue kitchens and pink patios, or vice versa or versa vice or whatever may be the combination of the householder's choice, she would find surrounding these vari-colored homes gardens of exquisite precision, each almost the exact duplicate of its neighbor, and two little cedars standing sentinel at the front door, a privet hedge around the front lawn, the back lawn neatly surrounded with brown borders, as yet offering no insolent if colorful challenge to the pink patios, the blue kitchens and the green bathrooms.

The Perfect Reply

Our compliments go to Wilson Mellen of Montreal, who in a brief two-sentence letter to the Montreal Gazette provides an unanswerable rebuttal to what he terms "the controversy and excitement caused with reference to tourist reaction to the 'silver ban'," the decision of Canadian banks to discount U.S. silver coins as well as bills.

Writes Mr. Mellen: "I defy any American or Canadian for that matter to carry more than three or four dollars in silver of either American or Canadian colnage in his trouser pocket without developing a limp, and I, therefore, fail to see why tourists will refrain from entering our country because of the ban."

We might with that, before this had appeared, and had been perused, before tourist resort owners from south-eastern Ontario, meeting in Peterborough last week, decided to accept "reasonable" amounts of U.S. currency, perhaps up to $100, at par. We suspect that this decision was prompted by the controversy and excitement referred to by Mr. Mellen, which he so conclusively proves to have been a tempest in a teapot. What the tourist resort owners decided to do was not made necessary by the colnage discount, but rather was a decision to provide a discount to foreign customers. How Canadians will feel about being charged more than foreigners remains to be seen.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY
LEAVE IT IN BETTER HANDS

No matter how little we may give us certain powers, and He think of ourselves and our powers, most of us down deep in our hearts believe that we can manage our own affairs if we have half a chance. We give Him no place to the sovereign power of God.

A man who had come to the end of his rope and who was about ready to give up before the battle was fought, said, "after a terrific struggle that I, God, could manage the universe he could manage my affairs. Acting on that assumption I put everything in his hands and found it worked."

Millions have found that this procedure works. There are many things we can do to make our lives successful. God has given us the power to choose. He will not overrule our decisions. Simply by yielding the extremes "for" to cold and "H" for hot is not enough; degrees of heat should be calibrated on the dial, with an "O" for the normal temperature.

But good as this device is, I am convinced that a real safety device for cars is the use of hands of dashboards. I wonder how many accidents have been caused by driver reaching for windshield wipers and finding he turned on cigarette lighter? And if you drive more than one car has millions of families in these days, a new trip is a manual re-education.

There should also be uniformity of safety devices, and they should be operated similarly. Every car should come equipped with a side of which passengers can slide the safe of Canadian wheat. This is a rather sordid approach to the problem, but it may create the impression abroad that this country's foreign policy is dictated solely by short-term economic considerations.

In all this line of argument one point seems to be overlooked. It is doubtless desirable to spare South Africa's feelings as much as possible. But what about the feelings of some of the Commonwealth members? The Commonwealth at present consists of 10 independent nations of which three are United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa—are either white or white-ruled. The other five — India, Pakistan, Ghana, Ceylon and Malaya — are colored. In rough figures, the white members have a total population of 100,000,000 and the colored members 500,000,000. It is obvious that the only foundation on which the Commonwealth as a concept can rest is racial equality and racial tolerance.

South Africa's Apartheid policy is in flat contradiction of these principles. It is based on the assumption that colored people, Africans and Asian, are inherently inferior to the white race and must be kept in permanent subjection to it. It is thus a standing affront to five-sixths of the people of the Commonwealth.

To India and Pakistan it is something more, because immediately after the partition of people of Indian and Pakistani descent are among the victims of the Apartheid system. The conflict between South Africa and the Asian and African members of the Commonwealth is very high, and will inevitably rise as the Verwoerd government goes further down the road of repression and terrorism. If South African racial policies are not challenged by the other white members nations, the colored members will be strongly tempted to leave the Commonwealth.

No one wants Mr. Diefenbaker to quarrel unnecessarily with the South African representatives at the Prime Ministers' Conference. But he must make clear to all that Canada repudiates Apartheid and all it works and that it upholds "freedom and democracy and a full respect for the inherent dignity and humanity of all men."

Commonwealth Crisis

Toronto Globe and Mail

A good deal of important business is scheduled for the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference which opens this week — the admission of Nigeria, the status of Cyprus, the dispute between India and China. All of these matters, however, are overshadowed by the tragic developments in South Africa. These have brought the long-standing issue of race relations to a head, and threatened the Commonwealth with the most serious internal crisis in its modern history.

It is unfortunate that as Prime Minister Diefenbaker rises to represent Canada at the conference, he is not supported by any clear statement of this country's stand in the matter. In April the British Parliament voted unanimously to condemn Apartheid and declare that peace and tranquility in South Africa can only be secured in the long run on the basis of freedom and equality of rights for the inherent dignity and humanity of all men."

Wednesday's debate in the Canadian House of Commons unfortunately produced no similar official statement. The procedural rules under which it was held apparently prevented the adoption of any resolution. Perhaps as a result of this, attendance was poor, and the discussion was rather prefunctory.

* * *

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has blamed the weakness of the Commonwealth Confederation for this disappointing result. He said although he and the rest of the CCF would introduce a private member's resolution on the subject on Monday, but instead they continued their divorce filibuster.

* * *

This is rather ironical, in view of the fact that Canadians have been denouncing South Africa. Nevertheless, it is surely the duty of the Government to give a lead in matters of this importance, not to re-open debate on an opposition group to start the ball rolling. If the Cabinet has any policy on the racial question, it could easily have arranged for a government resolution to be introduced. Mr. Diefenbaker's speech on Wednesday indicated, however, that he did not want a vote to take place on the subject.

* * *

The Prime Minister emphasized that members of the Commonwealth had no right to sit in judgment on each other, and pointed out that if South Africa were expelled or withdrew, the African population, as well as those whites who disagree with official policies, would be abandoned to their fate. These are valid considerations. It should be noted that Mr. Diefenbaker then added another on a much lower level.

* * *

He rejected — quite rightly in our opinion — the idea of a boycott of South African goods as a means of expressing national disapproval, but he gave as his reason that it would inevitably lead to the ending of trade with South Africa, and in this connection he made jocular allusion to the sale of Canadian wheat. This is a rather sordid approach to the problem. It may create the impression abroad that this country's foreign policy is determined solely by short-term economic considerations.

Can't Figure Out Why the Novelty in Cars

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I have been looking over some of the new cars, not because I need one, but because the three-year rule of depreciation tells me that I had better trade now if I want to get anything for my old one.

At any rate, I don't understand why the automobile manufacturers can't or won't standardize their dashboards. Each model has a highly individualized, and absurd — most of them with little relation to need, comfort, or good sense.

In some, the dash instruments are hard to see at all, since they are grouped too closely or too far apart. And there is no uniformity of dash instruments, which I think should be made mandatory by law. If the auto companies won't get together and do it themselves.

The gas gauge often doesn't give enough specific information about how much gas remains in the tank. In some cars, a red light flashes when the generator is not charging. The effect is worse than useless — because the driver has to consult the book to tell us the rate, and the rate of charging is what is important for the battery.

There should also be a dial to report how much air remains in the tire. There is no excuse for a run-down battery in cold weather, but a flat tire can cause serious nuisance easily avoided by signals.

The water temperature dials also need more precision. Simply labelling the extremes "C" for cold and "H" for hot is not enough; degrees of heat should be calibrated on the dial, with an "O" for the normal temperature.

But good as this device is, I am convinced that a real safety device for cars is the use of hands of dashboards. I wonder how many accidents have been caused by driver reaching for windshield wipers and finding he turned on cigarette lighter? CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 2nd, 1940

Mrs. D. J. Jeffs, treasurer of the Ladies Auxiliary Canadian Legion Branch 90, B.E.S.L., recently sent an order for 6,000 cigarettes to a tobacco company despatch to some twenty members of the C.A.S.F. now overseas. This order has received the best attention of the company which writes that "from the many letters which we have received from the 'Boys' overseas, you can be assured that your generous gesture is greatly appreciated by these men."

Approximately twenty men from Belleville and district have been placed in the Hydro camp at Napanee and, with other workers, are now engaged in cutting the right-of-way for the high tension line to run between Kingston and Trenton.

Total rainfall during the month of April, 1940 amounted to 2.46 inches with 6.5 and three-tenths inches of snow fell during the same period making a total precipitation for the month of 2.99 inches.

Paper Clips Are Donated

Sherbrooke Record

A report form Baltimore quotes Dr. Ernest Dichter, in charge of the mail receiving room of the local office of the Internal Revenue Service as saying that his department could have ordered a paper clip for the past ten years.

His office gets plenty of clips, he admits, but he asserts that they are provided free by an unwilling public.

The explanation is not too difficult. During the three weeks before the April 15 deadline for filing, United States income tax returns, taxpayers are expected to use more than enough clips to supply the office for the next twelve months.

It might be interesting if a report could be received on the habits of Canadian civil servants in regard to the salvaging of paper clips. Are these little useless articles promptly put on some pretty fancy performances.

To Your Good Health

HUSBANDS RESPONSIBLE FOR HALF OF CHILDLESS MARRIAGES

"Dear Dr. Molner: My son and his wife are unable to have children. His wife went to a doctor and was told nothing was right. Then he was examined and found to have a low sperm count.

"One doctor said the condition was hopeless, and that he could help, and the sperm count increased, but they still have not been successful. But he won't go to this second doctor.—Mrs. A. B."

Either reduced fertility or sterility occurs in approximately one marriage in ten. It used to be that writers automatically inherited all the blame, and I refer you to history for documentation of the attitude of certain monarchs of the past.

More recently, however, facts began to filter through. Perhaps it wasn't always the fault of the wife. Over quite a number of time the old notion prevailed, and women went to the doctor, had defects corrected (if they were any), and sometimes found that they still remained childless.

Finally husbands were given some attention, and it was found that they were at fault in something like 50 per cent of the childless marriages.

The normal sperm count ranges from 40 to 100 million cells per cubic centimeter of fluid. It is generally considered that 20 million is adequate for fertility. Actually, of course, a simple sperm cell, theoretically, is sufficient. Some medical authorities believe that a count lower than 20 million is adequate, but the point is that a low count therefore cannot be assumed that individual cells will not be up to par in structure and vigor of motion. So the presence of the sperm count is not wholly a matter of sheer numbers, although it is a fair index.

Troubles the wife may have, such as a tipped uterus or the common trichomonas infection—are principal causes that need correction. It is also important for both partners to attain as good health as possible. Certain extract has been found to be quite effective in improving the calibre of the sperm. Examination of other defects in the male may also be required.

I realize that many husbands consider it a reflection on their masculinity to have their wives need medical attention. Well, it isn't a reflection, but it is sometimes necessary.

A couple like the one we are discussing here should make some further attempts to solve the problem. Artificial insemination now are being made in overcoming infertility.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have diabetes and have gone to a laboratory for tests. It got normal for blood sugar? The doctor told me I should lose weight.—B.W."

A reading of 93 is normal. I presume it is a test taken before breakfast. Up to 120 is normal before breakfast. Two hours after breakfast a reading of 150 or less is normal. Many diabetics who are overweight can get back to normal blood sugar by reducing. (as you evidently have) and can live normal lives without either insulin or the restricted, non-"diabetic pills." But you must keep your weight normal.

U.S. Marines Too Choosey

Owen Sound Sun - Times

Studies into U.S. military buying and surplus disposal reveal that it costs the taxpayer $50,000 a year just for the superpork necessary to provide the marine corps with special "mahogany finish" shoes. This does not include the actual cost of the mahogany. Another way to say it is because the marines don't want to save their money by switching to the plain black or brown shoes worn by the rest of the military services. They claim the "mahogany finish" gives a better shine to the caps and belts of the marine uniform.

This is just one incident in the vast program by which the U.S. defence department spends nearly $25,000,000000 a year for new weapons and supplies and tries to get rid of $10,000,000 worth of worn-out or "excess" goods.

It makes one wonder!

Fruit Flavor Fags Coming

Cape Breton Post

Japanese smokers soon will be getting fruit-flavored cigarettes, it is reported here. The fruit flavors as apple, orange and grape are expected. This seems an uncongenial mixture, good only for an experimental stomach, we should think. Indeed it seems nauseating.

One with an appetite for fruit would do better to eat an apple, orange or pineapple sundae. A cigarette is hard to relish for tobacco. Smoke mingled with the taste of fruit, we suspect, would be a poor excuse for incense, but it isn't said here that Japanese are incapable of so odd a taste.

DOGS AND BABIES

Two of the most interesting creations, to my notion, are dogs and babies. Each is a bundle of mystery, dependent on humans for growth and love.

For quite a spell I watched a baby in its little wheelcart, and had a companion there was a bright black haired little dog. Every time that this small world of love and service passed by, a store it was to get at the heels of the master. No matter how greatly loved by others those "four feet behind," as Kipling expressed it, would move every little master did. Faithful gift from the gods, big or small, no breathing animal in this world mystery, deserves to be treated as genuinely as our friend the dog.

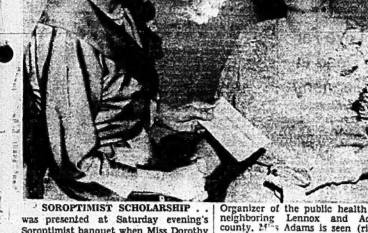
THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK



Many of our newspapermen have gone to war, and have had it brought to their attention that the language of the fighting services has appeared, there came upon the air from all directions a most scholarly blizzard of wonderings of the name: Foot-varit, Foot-varit, Foot-varit. Foreword. Fivvoot. All the boys know was that it had to do with those numbers they made it as queer as possible.

The successive French premiers have also provided the American public with some diversion. Premier Pflimlin came out as Flimflam, Flimflim, Pflimlin; and, as one exquisite among the boys put it, Pfilf-lim-le-lmm, and had difficulty setting our those numbers at the end.

But what they did in Premier Quesille and Minister Bourgeois-Maunoury doesn't bear recollection. Copyright: Canada Wide

SOROPTIMIST SCHOLARSHIP . . . was presented at Saturday evening's Soroptimist banquet when Miss Dorothy Adams, supervisor of public health at Fort William received a $500 scholarship for entry to Columbia University. Organizer of the public health unit in neighboring Lennox and Addington county, Miss Adams is seen (right) receiving the scholarship from Dr. Barbara McLaren, [illegible]ersity of Toronto, as chairman of Soroptimist Fellowship Committee.

Trout Plentiful and Hundreds Fishermen Out for Opening Day

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Plenty of fish and hundreds of fishermen were reported in fishing areas throughout Ontario as the 1960 trout fishing season opened during the weekend.

Biggest catch reported was a 10¼-pound rainbow trout hooked by Bill Hatfield of Detroit at Owen Sound.

Third was an eight-pound Kamloops trout caught at Granite Lake north of Tweed by Bill Beattie of Toronto, using spinning tackle.

A seven-pound rainbow was caught by Jerry Blair, who, with his brother Darryl, netted 10 trout by 9 a.m. at Owen Sound Saturday. Albert Blair of Oakville got a 6¼-pound rainbow at Collingwood where 40 hundreds of fishermen were out in the harbor.

Among the small fry, Tommy Forhan, 12, of Owen Sound caught a 4½-pound rainbow on the opening day.

At Cobourg, Arthur Moon got a five-pound rainbow in Shelter Valley Creek and Gordon Clark took three in the three - pound class.

There was a fishing field day at Thornbury where 40 rainbows were taken in four hours. Terry Jackman of Clarksburg got a six-pounder and Allan Edwards of Thornbury got two four-pounders. Salmon eggs and spinners were used by the fishermen.

At Smith Creek south of Allliston, Dave Hughes of Nobleton got a brown trout that was only two ounces off five pounds.

Many two- and three-pounders of both speckled and lake trout were caught in lakes around Uxbpah. Jim McCurdy and Fred Forster of Orpah had the best catches, five- and six-pounders, at Egg Lake.

Over 200 anglers were reported in the Eugenia area, 25 miles southwest of Owen Sound. Paul Gates of Flesherton landed the first speckled trout of the season in the area, a 2-pounder.

In the Markdale area James Whitson caught his limit of 15 speckled trout by 9 a.m. Saturday. Norman Bartley and his son Jim caught 20 between them at Markdale pond.

Smith fishermen were also busy at the mouth of the Nottawasaga River and at Collingwood harbor, where some of them said they caught huge rainbows in their nets—monsters.

Two Men Held For Entering Store Warehouse

An anonymous tip received by police resulted in the arrest early Sunday morning of two Belleville men who are charged with breaking and entering the Simpson Sears warehouse at the corner of Everett and Henry Streets with intent to steal.

The two men, John Hamilton, R.R. 3 Belleville and Roy Taylor, 22 1-3 Forth Street, both 33, were found by police inside the warehouse premises. They are being held in custody for court appearance Tuesday morning.

City Police Detective Harold Reid said the lock on the door to the warehouse had been broken with an iron bar. The door used by the two men was found backed up to the warehouse door.

With the telephone tip that prowlers were believed in the vicinity of the warehouse police converged on the premises in two police cruisers and the two men were located in the building before they had a chance to make their getaway.

The Henry street building is used by the Simpson Sears store for storage of TV's, electrical appliances of all kinds and other store merchandise.

Other charges are said pending against the two men.

Tonight the prime ministers will be dinner guests of the Queen at Wind[illegible] the luncheon guest Tuesday at 10 Downing Street, with a one-day break Friday when the prime ministers attend Princess Margaret's wedding.

The agenda for the conference to be worked out by the prime ministers at their first session, is expected to cover:

1. Prospects for East-West summit talks beginning in Paris May 16, which Macmillan will attend immediately after the Common wealth conference.

2. An analysis of Soviet and Chinese Communist foreign policy.

3. A survey of latest developments in Europe, the Middle East, South Asia and the Far East.

4. The complex problem of general and complete disarmament, and the vital issue of banning nuclear weapon tests.

5. Sterling-area problems and trade developments, particularly those concerning the British-led seven-country European Free Trade Association and the Colombo plan for economic development of South and Southeast Asia.

Two London newspapers have called editorially for members of the Commonwealth to subscribe to a code of human rights.

This, suggest The Daily Herald Labor and the News Chronicle Liberal, would provide the best way out of the dilemma caused by South Africa's racial policies.

Soroptimist President Says Respect Will Bring Peace

Canadian-born Mrs. Lily E. Quarnberg of Vancouver, Wash., president of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, Saturday night said, "Peace on earth still depends on human relations and respect, respect for each other and respect for God."

She told the 28th conference of the Eastern Canada Region of the Federation, which yesterday ended a three-day meeting in Belleville, that it is people getting to know people that one day will bring world-wide peace.

Mrs. Quarnberg, who has travelled extensively on behalf of Soroptimism, said she once was among 7,000 delegates at a White House conference on children and youth at Washington, D.C.

"We spend too much time figuring out how to do something before even considering what to do," she said. "I think the same thing can be applied to some of our Soroptimist workshops."

Mrs. Quarnberg arrived at Ottawa last Wednesday and was met by Florence Cross, immediate past governor of the Eastern Canada Region.

"This has been a very wonderful week for me," said Mrs. Quarnberg. "I shall never forget the beautiful drive along the waterway to Belleville."

She recounted some of her experiences on trips to Switzerland, France and South America and stressed the international aspects of the movement.

"We as people can be undone by our leisure time," she said, remarking that automation has presented problems. "It will undo us if we don't learn how to use our spare time constructively. We will look deeper into these problems."

She said Soroptimism realized that economic problems were a cause of war, "so shortly after the second World War we did something about that. We realized that lack of education was another cause — and we also did something about that."

Mrs. Quarnberg said all Soroptimists must "look deeper[illegible] higher and further and then reach out and build the world we want . . . but each of us must do her part."

Among the 131 delegates attending the conference were representatives from Cornwall, Fort William and Port Arthur, Ottawa, Hull, Peterborough, Toronto, Scarborough, Kingston, London, Montreal, Port Colborne, Cobourg, Oshawa and Verdun, Que., and Belleville.

Mme. Lea Chapon of Vichy, France, added a touch of international interest when she took time out from an engagement at Toronto to come to Belleville to attend the banquet in the Hotel Quinte. Mme Chapon, an artist, has returned to Toronto where tomorrow the Toronto Soroptimist club will honor her at an afternoon tea. Founder and president of the Union Feminine Artistique and Culturelle Federation Internationale, she has won acclaim for her flower pictures and portraits in pastels.

Mrs. Georgia Smith, president of the Belleville club, was chairman of the banquet. Mrs. Ena Corke of Belleville received a thunderous ovation for her efforts in organizing the conference.

Miss Myrtle Sargent of Peterborough, retiring regional secretary, thanked Mrs. Quarnberg on behalf of the conference and presented her with a rhinestone necklace and matching earrings. Earlier, retiring governor Mrs. Nora Partridge of London was presented with a rhinestone bracelet and matching earrings by Mrs. Smith in appreciation for her two years of "devoted work" while in office.

Election of officers was held Saturday. Mary Lampshire of Fort Arthur succeeded Mrs. Partridge as governor of the region.

MRS. LILY E. QUARNBERG, Vancouver, Washington, president of Soroptimist Federation of America, who addressed concluding banquet of 28th conference of Eastern Canada Soroptimists here Saturday evening.

Liberal Leader Says Money Being Wasted

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said Saturday night the federal government is spending millions of dollars on the construction of two Bomarc bases "even though military experts tell us that this weapon can never help defend us."

Speaking in French on the CBC program The Nation's Business, Pearson said on the French-language network, Mr. Pearson said Defence Minister Pearkes remains confident in the weapon.

With the approval of the Conservative government, Mr. Pearkes "continues to waste public money."

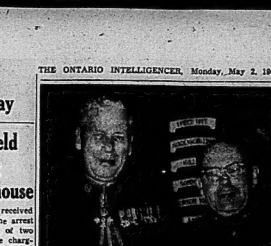
Mr. Pearkes confirmed in the Commons Friday that the U.S. House of Representatives defence appropriations committee has recommended scrapping of the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile project and spending more money on the F-108 supersonic interceptor.

Only Thing Changed Is Color Of Bus Tickets as City Takes Over Transportation System

The only visible evidence of the change was the color of the bus tickets, but the city of Belleville was officially in the bus transportation business this morning.

All routes operated as usual and the bus operating personnel was the same, but the bus tickets have changed in color to a dark red instead of the yellow previously used by the Rawson bus company which Saturday concluded over 35 years bus service in Belleville.

Under the new city management no fares remain the same —two for 25c, or 15 cents each cash fare. Tickets are stamped Belleville Transit Commission.



Saturday, the last day of bust operation for Rawson's, saw riders, who had used up all their old tickets, digging down for cash fares. The new tickets were not available until this morning.

The city took over the Rawson buses at a purchase price of $42,000 and the agreement will be operated by a city transit commission, consisting of Ted Schwalb, Kenneth Pinder and Sid Sillitoe.

Lt.-General H. D. Graham Spends Last Day of Service With Buddies of Hasty Pees

Saturday evening provided a very special occasion for a very auspicious event for the officers of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and Lt.-General H. D. Graham. For the former Chief of the General Staff of the Canadian Army it was his last day of active duty following 43 years of service with the Canadian Army, and he was spending it with the officers of his old regiment on the occasion of their annual mess dinner.

As guest of honor, General Graham gave an interesting talk on the various tours of duty which he has served with the Canadian Army since he first signed up some 43 years ago after giving up into Belleville with horse and sleigh to join the 155th Battalion, A former commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment during the Second World War, he said that he was very happy to be spending his last day of active service with his former regiment.

Many of the incidents which General Graham related proved extremely interesting to a number of those persons present, who had served under him, either when he was C.O. of the regiment in England or when he commanded the First Brigade during the Sicilian and Italian landings and the early part of the Italian campign.

During the course of the evening's activities the guest of honor was presented with the traditional mug for former officers of the regiment and was allowed to make his mark alongside the impressions of both a former and present commanding officer of the regiment with all due ceremony which the occasion engendered. Lt.-General Graham will be living in Oakville on his retirement.

Of the 56 officers present at the very successful seventy-first course mess dinner, there were a number of special guests, among whom were Brigadier Lyle Carr of Port Hope, and Lt.-Colonel Everett Bowman, a former C.O. of the Hasty Pees.

Also on the special guests list were Col. T. Bigelow, Port Hope; Major Padré A. S. McConnell, Belleville; Major H. Long of Port Hope; Majors H. Reid and James Inrig of Picton; Major Newell Wood, Madoc; Major Ed Loucks of Frankford and Captain R. Dulmage of Belleville.

Captain Alec Cunningham was president of the dinner with Lt.-Colonel Atkinson acting as vice-president. Members of the dinner committee was Major K. D. H. Willcocks, who was aide-de-camp to Captain Al Durand of Picton, whose catering staff did an excellent job.

The Milltown Birthday Club met at the home of Betty Mae Bride on the evening of April 21. A pleasant game of euchre was enjoyed by the members, and refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next euchre party will be held at the home of Ruby Kilpatrick.

Seven Minutes Long Enough for Woman to Talk

EDMONTON (CP) — If a woman can't say something in seven minutes she shouldn't be talking, says Mrs. Edmund Brigham of Newport, Wash., director of Region Eight of Toastmistress International.

Mrs. Brigham, visiting three clubs in Edmonton, said she joined the ranks of the talking women 10 years ago because she felt that other women's organizations have too informal a business procedure.

The organization was founded in California in 1938 by a group of women who resented their Toastmaster husbands' ability to speak in public. Now Toastmistress International has 800 clubs.

She admits that her ice-breaker speech—the term for a first address to a Toastmistress club—was made in fear and trembling but she soon overcame her nervousness and enjoyed the strictly parliamentary procedure.

Although Toastmistress International is known as "an international group of talking women, this doesn't include talking all night," Mrs. Brigham said. Each part of the club's program for an evening is carefully timed, and a meeting must always be over in two hours.

A Toastmistress speech is judged on content, style, manner, on how well it covers the topic and how well the talk is received, she added. There are two penalties for going over the five-to-seven-minute time limit.

An especially valuable part of the program is the evaluation period when any appraisal is given of a speaker's technique and mannerisms, including the way a woman stands when she speaks, her gestures and general speaking appearance.

Participating in Toastmistress clubs makes a woman dissatisfied with knitting and crocheting, said Mrs. Brigham.

Ottawa Brides Getting 'New Look' Bouquets

Long-stemmed red roses formerly led in popularity. Now bridal bouquets run the gamut from geraniums to orchids, predominantly white.

Ottawa florist Sam Low, who has been preparing bridal bouquets for 30 years, says brides today want "something different"

Ladies' B.L. Elects 1960 Officers

The Thursday Afternoon Ladies' League closed another season of good bowling when they had their annual delicious turkey dinner at the Club Canara.

The awarding of prizes took place after dinner. Each team received awards according to their final standing. The league trophy and individual trophies were won by the Sunbeams captained by Ann Avery. High average trophy donated by Win Smith, went to Rose Locke.

The high single trophy, donated by Bayro, went to Glass White and the high triple, donated by Mr. Bill Warren, went to Irene Trudeau.

The league presented a cosmetic case to the president, Nora MacDonald, for a well done job and a number of door prizes were given to various players.

The rest of the evening was spent by playing cards, which were enjoyed to the fullest by all present.

Paintings Will Mark Women's Club Fair

The University Women's Club Spring Fair, the main attraction of which has been for many years an extensive display of paintings by Manly Macdonald, will be held again this year on May 7 at the Kiwanis Centre. This exhibition, together with tea and bake sale, provides a social highlight of early spring which is eagerly looked forward to by those in the immediate area and even from more distances.

Mr. Macdonald's generosity to the local club in donating one of his beautiful paintings each year has enabled the branch of the Club to have an important scholarship program. Each year, two scholarships of one hundred dollars are presented to girls of Belleville or district who plan to attend university.

One is known as the University Women's Club Scholarship and the other as the Manly Macdonald Scholarship.

The painting donated by Mr. Macdonald this year is a particularly beautiful one; as usual, the draw at the close of the afternoon will be a thrilling moment of suspense. The University Women's Club extends a warm invitation to all to take this opportunity to view Mr. Macdonald's beautiful paintings along with "something old something new, something borrowed and something blue." The difference is often in the bonnets.

A bit of heirloom lace, for instance, is blended with flowers tied with a blue ribbon. The blue ribbon is concealed in the bouquet if it doesn't blend with the predominant wedding color scheme. "Something old," such as a ring, is also concealed in the bouquet.

Colored bridal bouquets tend to complement the color scheme chosen for bridal attendants, artificial tinting being used if necessary.

Mr. Low has even been asked to study color schemes for bridal arrangements. An old English saying, "where the ivy grows, no man proposes," is said to be responsible for banning greenery from wedding arrangements.

Green is also considered an unlucky wedding color. However, Mr. Low has been called upon to make up an all-green bridal bouquet, along with bouquets of ivy for the attendants at one wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wayne Denike are shown cutting the wedding cake following their marriage in King Street United Church, Trenton. DENIKE — WESSEL

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized on Saturday, April 23rd, in King Street United Church, Trenton, when Joanita Evelyn Wessel, of Trenton, daughter of Mrs. Fred Wessel, and the late Mr. Wessel, became the bride of Robert Wayne Denike of Belleville R.R. No. 7, son of Mrs. Robert Mindenhall of Belleville R. R. No. 7, and Mr. Ray Denike of Belleville. The Reverend J. D. Ross, B.A., B.D., officiated before a background of white carnations, daffodils and tulips, interspersed with fern.

Mr. Roy Kendall, presided at the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Patrick Palmer, who rendered "The Wedding Prayer", before the ceremony, and other selections during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Albert Coombs, of Milnico, Ontario, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta, fashioned on princess lines in waltz-length, with molded bodice having a rounded neckline and long, sheath-like sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. Her headdress of leaves and seed pearls held her waist-length tulle illusion veil, and she carried a shower bouquet of an orchid surrounded by American Beauty pink carnations and white lily-of-the-valley. Matching pearl earrings and necklace, the gift of her bridegroom, completed her ensemble.

She was attended by Miss Yvonne Crocker, of Belleville, as maid of honor, wearing turquoise Chantilly lace over taffeta accented by a taffeta frock bow. She wore a matching feathered headdress and gloves and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Little Donna Denike, six-year-old niece of the bridegroom, was a demure and sweet flower girl in her white Chantilly frock over pink taffenta with pink sash, white headdress, shoes and gloves, and carrying a nosegay of white carnations. The two senior attendants wore matching pearl necklaces and earrings, and the flower girl matching pearl and bracelet, the gifts of the bride.

Mr. Glenn Denike, of Camp Petawawa, attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Robert Wessel, brother of the bride, of Trenton, and Donald Young, of Belleville, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church parlor, where the bride's mother and the bridegroom's mother received the guests; the former gowned in powder blue lace with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses, and the latter in a white sheath gown brocaded in black with black duster, black and white accessories and corsage of red roses.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa and parts of Quebec, the bride chose a dusty-rose ensemble with beige accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

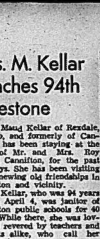
Mr. and Mrs. Denike are residing in Belleville.

Mrs. M. Kellar Reaches 94th Milestone

Mrs. Maud Kellar of Rendale, Toronto, and formerly of Cannifton, has been staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pound, Cannifton, for the past few days. She has been visiting and renewing old friendships in Cannifton and vicinity.

Mrs. Kellar, who was 94 years old on April 4, was janitor of Cannifton public schools for 40 years. While there, she was loved and revered by teachers and students alike, who call her "Grenny."

Many a cut finger, headache and bruised limb she helped heal and many a man and woman walks the happy road of life today through her tender guidance and advice.



She was also janitor of Cannifton United Church and the Thurlow township hall, also the Cannifton Orange Lodge hall, for the same time.

All with Mrs. Kellar many happy returns of her birthday, and hope she will be spared to see many more.

She made a visit to the Cannifton W.A. quilting circle on Wednesday and had lunch. Mrs. Kellar is a member.

Free Love Far From Dead in East Germany

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP)—In Communist East Germany the party's foremost propagandist frowns on free love but the idea is far from dead.

One group of three girls in East Berlin has announced the notion: "fall in love often, get engaged once in a while—but never marry."

Show us a marriage of young people, they ask, that isn't contracted "under pressure." Besides, they maintain, marriage is old-fashioned and it's better to live with a boy friend and not bother with a wedding.

HUSBANDS GROWL

"A boy friend has to stay in a good humor. A little while after the wedding a husband starts to growl if his dinner isn't ready when he gets home."

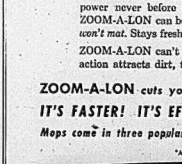
These sentiments appeared in a letter signed by Gisela Miller, Kirsten Peters and Dagmar Stolper in Junge Welt (Young People), the East Berlin youth daily.

They were to have had a reply from Gerhart Eisler, the party's leading propaganda light. At 62, he has spent 40 years in the Communist movement—one of them in a U.S. jail for contempt of Congress—and contributes a column of advice to the youth paper.

This time his wife Hilde Eisler signed the column. He asked her to write it, she said.

SHE DENIED IT

"You say marriage is old-fashioned?" she asks. "Well, our earth must be an old-fashioned planet, because in all the directions under heaven and in all parts of the world people are busy getting married . . . Don't be afraid of marriage! It's a great idea for man and woman. They can work together on it, and by mutual give and take can contribute to its success."



Putting the proper party line flavor into her advice, Mrs. Eisler explains that in the bad old days there were reasons against marriage — unemployment, poverty the need to bring up younger brothers and sisters. This, she says, is no longer the case "in our worker-peasant state."

She ends on a note that might have been called "bourgeois" in her own youth:

"Let's agree that a husband ought to be a wingman's best boy friend, and a wife her husband's best girl friend."

ON GUEST LIST

LONDON (AP)—Jackie Chan, the actress who was a favorite model of Antony Armstrong-Jones in his photographic days, is reported on the guest-list for his wedding to Princess Margaret Friday. The Sunday Express quotes her as saying: "I have not made any final plans about what to wear or anything."

RURAL HOSPITALITY PROBLEM

A reader, calling herself "a country village woman", has written in to ask a rather interesting question. Making her home in the country, a few miles from a town, she finds herself faced with the following problem:

Busily engaged in her kitchen, Mrs. Doe notices a car drive into the yard. It is her Green, accompanied by his wife. Mr. Green gets out of the car and goes directly to the barn, where he feels pretty sure he will find Mr. Doe. He leaves Mrs. Green sitting in the car.

Now it may be that Mrs. Doe has never met Mrs. Green, but wouldn't it be friendly, she pushes out to invite her to come into the house. The answer will likely be, "No, no, my husband will only be a few minutes. I'll wait here." Mrs. Green should know better! Long years of experience should have taught her that the men will probably be at it for at least an hour!

Now for the problem. Should Mrs. Doe stand out in the hot sun, or the cold wind, whichever the case may be, and talk with the visitor, or should she politely say goodbye and return to her household chores? Maybe ignoring the car in the first place might have been the safest thing to do! In this case, Mrs. Green could have come to the house or not, as she saw fit. But no, this wouldn't work either, because Mrs. Doe then runs the chance of being called "high hat." So what to do?

Having lived in the country myself, I can readily understand this predicament. Unfortunately, it is a situation that often has to be faced. Of course, we all know that the fault lies with Mrs. Green. Even if her husband, by some miracle, is only gone for a few minutes, the courteous thing for her to do is graciously accept the hospitality offered. This is in keeping with the spirit that prompted the invitation in the first place.

In my opinion, Mrs. Doe will more than meet the demands of graciousness if, after her invitation is turned down, she chats for just a moment, and then excuses herself. Explanation for returning to the house need not necessarily be given, but comment such as "I must retrieve a cake in the oven" may make it a little easier. I see no reason why she should have a guilty feeling if Mrs. Green does sit and wait for an hour. She has done her part.

Question: I have a problem that confuses me. I am a fashion artist and use my maiden name in business; I am married, and my question is how to introduce my husband to my business acquaintances. If I use the correct form ("May I present my husband") without mentioning his name, it is completely confusing. What do you advise?

Answer: It is perfectly correct, and sensible in this case, to say "May I present my husband, Mr. Jones." Confusion will result unless you identify both the relationship and the name.

Veiled Beauty

By ALICE ALDEN

Silken fabrics veiled with lace provide a favorite device with designers everywhere.

Sof-Balmain, the gossamer fabric posed over tea-rose pin taffeta. The white lace, intricately inlaid in dotted tulle, has a bold wide-spread pattern which becomes even more dramatic over the taffeta. This is a dance dress to take one all through spring and into summer.

Women's Activities

CANNIFTON W.A.

The regular dinner and quilting meeting was held in the Sunday School rooms on Wednesday. Dinner was in charge of Mrs. R. MacMurter and Mrs. A. Boyd and their assistants.

The long tables looking attractive, centred with daffodils and Easter novelties.

The president, Mrs. A. Boyd, called the meeting to order.

The reports were read and approved. The treasurer, Mrs. A. Holgate, reported that a nice sum had been realized from the dinner, and seven more members paid their dues.

The new oil furnace the association has had installed in the church is working well and the warmth and comfort were enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Boyd thanked all who had helped at the recent wedding reception and announced the next meeting would be on May 18, with plans made for a blossom tea in June when there will be homecooking and apron booths.

Mrs. Furmidge, secretary, asked for coupons which the W.A. is collecting for a coffee maker.

The president asked how many would be interested in chartering a bus to the International Plowing Match to be held in Elgin County in October. Anyone interested is to get in touch with her. As the W.A. hopes to cater to the match in 1961 when it will be held in the vicinity.

Thank-you notes were received from bereaved, sick and shut-in members.

The worship service was opened with the hymn, "Ride On In Majesty" with Mrs. H. Empson at the piano.

The Easter story was read from the Scripture, Matthew 1, and a lovely Easter monologue was given. Those taking part were Mrs. T. Howard, Mrs. R. Poong and Mrs. Willis Brenton. An Easter reading, "An Old Patchillian Donkey" was given by Mrs. Furmidge.

FRA... LORD UNITED W.M.S.

FRANKFORD — The Easter meeting of Frankford United Church W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Carscadden on Thursday afternoon.

The meeting was opened with quiet music played by Mrs. Walter Morrow. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Grills, 1st vice-president, took charge of the meeting. A poem was read and a hymn sung, followed by prayer.

Mrs. Grills and Mrs. J. Morris were in charge of the program. A hymn was sung and an Easter worship service held.

A temperance reading was given by Mrs. R. Moran. Mrs. W. Morris sang a beautiful solo, "Lead Me To Calvary," accompanied by Mrs. Charlesworth. Mrs. Jas. Montgomery read a chapter of the study book. Two duet readings were given, one by Mrs. P. E. Bonisteel and one by Mrs. Joe Morris.

The singing of a hymn and the benediction brought the meeting to a close.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Carscadden, Mrs. Grills and Mrs. Morris, and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

He is always ... to saying the best girl — meaning me — is taken.

* * *

All this is flattering, but I'm getting a little tired of having him around all the time. I want Vic to tell him to give himself a little more scarce, but he's reluctant.

Victor N. — Roberta agrees with me that we don't want to give up Max's friendship. That means it's going to be very hard to handle this thing tactfully.

If I were in Max's position, I wouldn't mind so much if my buddy's wife gave me the stitch. After all, women look at things differently. We all accept that. But if a guy tells another guy he would rather not see so much of him — well, the friendship is washed up.

The fact is that I don't mind having Max around as much as Roberta does. She says he's always underfoot, and is beginning to shoulder the brunt of it. In the evening, He's an interesting fellow. I also think he needs somebody with whom he can talk things over. He's mixed up.

The Council: The problem here is not whether Roberta or Victor should tell Max he is imposing on their hospitality, but whether Roberta and Victor can come to an agreement about their home life and their relationship to their friend.

We have a sneaking suspicion that Roberta was quite flattered with Max's attentions in the early part of the relationship. Having two admiring young men around her all the time did things to her feminine ego.

Now, however, this situation has slightly outworn its charm and she rightly suspects that the flattering situation was something of an illusion.

A young married man who is deeply in love with his wife likes to have her to himself as often as possible, especially in the early stages of marriage. The young couple usually finds other young married couples with whom to socialize. When one partner or the other clings excessively to an old single friend there is a suggestion that he or she longs for the premarital way of life.

Roberta has good reason to feel a bit resentful of having to share her husband with Buddy Max.

On the other hand, Roberta has probably also wired up to the fact that Max's apparent admiration is a bit phony. Max has set her up as a kind of stick figure against which to measure other girls unfavorably and justify his bachelorhood to himself. It is quite likely that if Roberta were free, Max would be quite as critical of her as he is of his other girl friends.

Roberta and Vic need to arrive at a closer understanding — both emotionally and intellectually. When they do the problem of Max will disappear. They will find a tactful manner of sending him on his way — if he doesn't just go by himself.

"LA CHATTE" HAIR STYLE OF THE MONTH

The Kitten Look is short, harmonious and characterized by a light, airy effect. Rather full on top and sides, it gives the illusion of an inverted triangle. Short back locks are softly brushed up with a calculated casualness that sees each curl wisp fall neatly in place. A neat, clean neckline adds sleekerness to nape and neck. RURAL HOSPITALITY PROBLEM

A reader, calling herself "a country village woman", has written in to ask a rather interesting question. Making her home in the country, a few miles from a town, she finds herself faced with the following problem:

Busily engaged in her kitchen, Mrs. Doe notices a car drive into the yard. It is her Greek, accompanied by his wife, has Greek gets out of the car and goes directly to the barn, where he feels pretty sure he will find Mr. Doe. He leaves Mrs. Green sitting in the car.

Now it may be that Mrs. Doe has never met Mrs. Green, but wanting to be friendly, she pushes out to invite her to come into the house. The answer will likely be, "Oh, no, my husband will only be a few minutes. I'll wait here." Mrs. Green should know better! Long years of experience should have taught her that the men will probably hobnob for at least an hour!

Now for the problem. Should Mrs. Doe stand out in the hot sun, or the cold wind, whichever the case may be, and talk with the visitor, or should she politely say goodbye and return to her household chores? Maybe ignoring the car in the first place might have been the safest thing to do! In this case, Mrs. Green could have come to the house or not, as she saw fit. But no, this hostess's work either, because Mrs. Doe then runs the chance of being called "high hat." So what to do?

Having lived in the country myself, I can readily understand this predicament. Unfortunately, it is a situation that often has to be faced. Of course, we all know that the fault lies with Mrs. Green, for her husband, the same miracle, is only gone for a few minutes, the courteous thing for her to do is to graciously accept the hospitality offered. This is in keeping with the spirit that prompted the invitation in the first place.

In my opinion, Mrs. Doe will more than meet the demands of graciousness if, after her invitation is turned down, she chats for just a moment, and then excuses herself. Explanation for returning to the house need not necessarily be given, but comment such as "I must put on a cake in the oven" may make it a little easier. I see no reason why she should have a guilty feeling if Mrs. Green does sit and wait for an hour. She has done her part.

Question: I have a problem that confuses me. I am a fashion artist and use my maiden name in business; I am married, and my question is how to introduce my husband to my business acquaintances. If I use the correct form ("May I present my husband") without including his name, it is completely confusing. What do you advise?

Answer: It is perfectly correct, and sensible in this case, to say "May I present my husband, Mr. Jones." Confusion will result unless you give both the relationship and the name.

Veiled Beauty

By ALICE ALDEN

Silken fabrics veiled with lace provide a favorite device with designers everywhere.

Lynne Lee is used by the House of Balmain, the gossamer fabric posed over tea-rose-pink taffeta. The white lace, intricately inlaid in dotted tulle, has a bold widespread pattern which becomes even more dramatic over the taffeta. This is a dance dress to take one all through spring and into summer.

Women's Activities

CANNIFTON W.A.

The regular dinner and quilting meeting was held in the Sunday School rooms on Wednesday. Dinner was in charge of Mrs. R. MacMurter and Mrs. A. Boyd and their assistants.

The long tables looked attractive, centred with daffodils and Easter novelties.

The president, Mrs. A. Boyd, called the meeting to order.

The reports were read and approved. The treasurer, Mrs. A. Holgate, reported that a nice sum had been realized from the dinner, and seven more members paid their dues.

The new oil furnace the association has had installed in the church is working well and the warmth and comfort were enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Boyd thanked all who had helped at the recent wedding reception and announced the next meeting would be on May 18, with plans made for a blossom tea in June when there will be homecooking and apron booths.

Mrs. Furmidge, secretary, asked for coupons which the W.A. is collecting for a coffee maker.

The president asked how many would be interested in chartering a bus to the International Flowing Match to be held in Elgin County in October. Anyone interested is to get in touch with her. As the W.A. hopes to enter in the match in 1961 when it will be held in the vicinity.

Thank-you notes were received from bereaved, sick and shut-in members.

The worship service was opened with the hymn, "Ride On in Majesty" with Mrs. Jas. Empson at the piano.

The Easter story was read from the Scripture, Matthew 1, and a lovely Easter monologue was given. Those taking part were Mrs. T. Howard, Mrs. R. Young and Mrs. Willis Brenton. An Easter reading, "An Old Palestinian Doorkey" was given by Mrs. Furmidge.

Mrs. W. Brenton once again reminded the ladies of the good used clothing for overseas relief.

Quilting was the order of the day. There were 16 members present.

FRANKFORD UNITED W.M.S.

FRANKFORD — The Easter meeting of Frankford United Church W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Carscadden on Thursday afternoon.

The meeting was opened with quiet music played by Mrs. Walter Morrow. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Grills, 1st vice-president, took charge of the meeting. A poem was read and a hymn sung, followed by prayer.

Mrs. Grills and Mrs. J. Morris were in charge of the program. A hymn was sung and an Easter worship service held.

An Intemperance reading was given by Mrs. Hall. Mrs. W. Morrow sang a beautiful solo "Lead Me To Calvary," accompanied by Mrs. Charles-worth. Mrs. George Montgomery read a chapter of the study book. Two Easter readings were given, one by Mrs. E. Brodkin and one by Mrs. Joe Morris.

The singing of a hymn and the benediction brought the meeting to a close.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Carscadden, Mrs. Grills and Mrs. Morris, and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Roberta N. — Vic should tell his friend to make himself scarce.

Victor N. — The woman should give him the pitch.

* * *

Roberta N. — My husband and I have been married a little over a year and have only one serious problem. It involves my husband's buddy, Max, who is still a bachelor.

Max is a very nice guy and anxious to get married. We have introduced him to several girls, but nothing has come of it. The real problem is that Max sits around our house for hours nearly every night of the week talking about his plans and what he likes or doesn't like about them. He always winds up by saying the best girl — meaning me — is taken.

* * *

All this is flattering, but I'm getting a little tired of having him around all the time. I want Vic to tell him to make himself a little more scarce, but he's a coward.

Victor N. — Roberta agrees with me that we don't want to give up Max's friendship. That means it's going to be very hard to handle this thing tactfully.

If I were in Max's position, I wouldn't mind so much if my buddy's wife gave me the pitch. After all, women look at things differently. We all accept that. But if my wife tells another guy he would rather not see so much of him — well, the friendship is washed up.

The fact is that I don't mind having Max around as much as Roberta does. She says he's always underfoot, but I enjoy schmoozing the breeze with him in the evening. He's an interesting fellow. I also think he needs somebody with whom he can talk things over. He's mixed up.

* * *

The Council: The problem here is not whether Roberta or Victor should tell Max he is imposing on their hospitality, but whether Roberta and Victor can come to an agreement about their home life and their relationship to their friend.

We have a sneaking suspicion that Roberta was quite flattered with Max's attentions in the early part of the relationship. Having two admiring young men around her all the time did things to her feminine ego.

Pine Grove W.I. Holds Annual Meeting, Elects Officers

MARSH HILL — Mrs. Leslie Finkle was hostess on Wednesday for the annual meeting of Pine Grove Women's Institute with an attendance of 13 members and five children.

Mrs. William Slater opened the meeting.

Mrs. Leslie Finkle gave her financial report. Receipts were from social evenings, collections at meetings and catering at sales.

Gifts of money were given to several charitable organizations; to new babies; expenses of delegates to district annual and area convention were paid. The Institute purchased printed programs; contributed to the F.W.I.O. World Refugee Fund and Adelaide Hoodless Museum; A subscription to the A.C.W.W. magazine, "The Countrywomen" and the Canadian Association of consumers bulletins were purchased.

The district director, Mrs. Alwyn Finkle, reported that the West Hastings District Institute will be held May 12th in Scott's United Church with Uniondale Branch as hostess.

Mrs. William Slater, thanked the members for their co-operation during the past two years.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

The conveners of the Standing Committees read their reports stating that a meeting had been held on each committee topic, and a short report given at each meeting.

Mrs. Harry Coulter, public relations representative, reported that the meetings were reported in the press and also that a campaign for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was held which amounted to $42.85.

The secretary reported that five members had attended all the meetings.

The members were in favor of a county scholarship. It was decided to send for the Canadian Association of Consumers again this year.

Mrs. Harry Coulter filled in the survey on radio and television. Fifteen dollars were donated to the finance chairman of the "Emergency No Vote" which is to be held in Sidney.

Report of the nominating committee was given by Mrs. Fred Campbell. Mrs. Harry Coulter conducted the installation service, the ceremony from the handbook. Mrs. Harold Detlor is to be delegate to the district meeting.

Mrs. Slater closed the meeting with the poem, "Friends."

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss V. Rabel Gives Talk To Lions Club

FRANKFORD — Miss Vlasta Rabel, one of 20 finalists of 127,000 Ontario students competing in the Ontario Public Speaking contests, was guest speaker at the Lions Club meeting last Monday night.

Daughter of Lion Frank Rabel, Vlasta gave her competition speech which was presented during the finals in Toronto. The contest was sponsored by the Federation of Ratepayers and the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

The talk, entitled "Education As I See It," outlined a typical Canadian story, tracing the education of a young man from kindergarten through university graduation, to final placement in a position as an electrical engineer.

During her address, Miss Rabel stressed that today the country is short of specialists and only well-educated people can supply the man-power requirements of the nation.

Following the meeting the members enjoyed an oyster stew lunch.

Harts-Riggs W. I. Elects New Slate

MADOC — The Harts-Riggs W.I. meeting was held in the school.

Preceding the business meeting a luncheon was served and a quilt quilted.

Mrs. Broadworth presided over the business meeting and the secretary presented the financial statement for 1959. The conveners of standing committees presented their reports, which were most gratifying.

Mrs. L. Trotter presented the new slate of officers for 1960-61 and Mrs. Max Burnside presided at installing officers.

Officers elected were: president, Mrs. Allan Franks; 1st vice-president, Mrs. N. Broad; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. C. Fleming; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Harry Stout; district director, Mrs. P. Broadworth; branch directors, Mrs. E. Sexsmith, Mrs. N. Evans, Mrs. K. Gordon.

Conveners of standing committees are: agriculture and Canadian industries, Miss J. Bristol and Mrs. F. Allan; citizenship and education, Mrs. C. Woods and Mrs. W. Bateman; public relations and press reporter, Mrs. L. Trotter; historical research, Mrs. N. Broad, Miss A. Walsh and Mrs. A. Fleming; home economics and health, Mrs. A. Ketchesen, Mrs. Eli Alistair; resolutions, Mrs. Don Fleming; auditors, Mrs. Ted Mersaw, Mrs. A. Woods. The new president, Mrs. Franks, then took the chair. Mrs. Woods expressed the appreciation of the members to the retiring president, Mrs. Broadworth, for her years of service in the W.I.

T. Franklin Gives Talk at Men's Club

MADOC — Trinity United A.O.T.S. Men's Club held the April meeting in the Sunday School auditorium with vice-president W. Hulin in charge. The company sat down to a dinner catered by Trinity W.A.

Lynn Empey was appointed sergeant-at-arms. Ivor Hughes conducted a sing-song while the tables were being cleared.

W. E. Connon introduced the guest speaker, P. M. Wood.

Mr. Taylor Franklin of Belleville carried out initiation service for Kel Kincaid and Mel Shultis, who were unable to be present on charter night. Ross Fleming presented club pins.

Rev. R. A. Milley conducted the devotional exercises, choosing his text from Luke's gospel, chapter 24.

Mr. Taylor Franklin was introduced by Ray Burris and chose as his theme "The A.O.T.S. and Me." He explained the nation-wide scope of A.O.T.S. and outlined projects that can be undertaken not only on a local level but internationally. Kel Kincaid expressed thanks to the speaker.

Com. membership was given by secretary Ross Fleming. Archie Ashley gave a report on the council meeting at Trenton. He mentioned two highlights of the meeting — conference at Muskoka in May and the fall rally at Stirling next fall.

Ray Burris reported on suggested projects. Every member a new member; choir from Deseronto; Sunday School guards at highways; planting shrubs at church and taxi service for Sunday service.

A motion by Ray Burris was passed that Deseronto choir be contacted for an engagement on April 30th. The chairman, W. Hulin, closed the meeting and benediction was given by Mr. Frankland. Larry Stickwood thanked the ladies and Mrs. George Fox replied.

Ladies' Club Members Enjoy Talk on India

MADOC — Trinity Ladies Club held its April meeting at the home of Mrs. Ken Holmes with a large attendance. Mrs. Allan Smith presided.

The meeting was opened by singing an appropriate hymn, "There Is A Green Hill" followed by the Lord's Prayer. Following the business period Mrs. George Dowsley conducted the devotional period, the theme of which was "The Old Rugged Cross." It was an inspiring message and was enhanced with the singing of "The Old Rugged Cross" by Mrs. K. Holmes and Mrs. Hulin. Reading were given by Mrs. G. Murray, Mrs. Devolin and Mrs. Martin.

The guest speaker, Mrs. H. Jairath, was introduced by Mrs. Earl Burnside. Mrs. Jairath, whose husband teaches at Madoc High School, was born in India and has only been in Canada six months. Her first impressions of our country, still vivid in her mind, enabled her to draw some interesting comparisons between Canadian life and Indian way of life.

Her talk was based mostly on the home itself, the type of structure and the conveniences in the home. She also described the ways of wearing their native dress and the materials used.

The members also learned more about the country geographically and of its people, particularly noting the influx of Western ideas since World War II, and of the great strides that have been taken both in education and development since India gained its Independence.

Mrs. Jairath, a vivacious person, held a captive audience and her talk was enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. Stickwood expressed the club's appreciation, after which refreshments were served.

Health Hints

(by Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa)

The gall bladder is a small sac which is a temporary storage place for the bile necessary in digestion. If it becomes clogged with stones, there may be pain in the abdomen, and also attacks of indigestion. Modern treatment sometimes removes only a change of diet and exercise, as prescribed by the doctor.

The full glare of sunlight is harmful to the eyes. A hat should be worn in strong sunshine to protect the eyes. Sun-glasses, especially if they are made to the eye doctor's prescription, will afford protection to the eyes.

Early dental care, preferably from the age of three, will help to develop strong straight teeth in well formed jaw s. Teaching a child to use the toothbrush immediately after eating will help to keep the teeth free of acid forming foods.

MOIRA — Mrs. Jeff Calvert was hostess to Moira W.A. for his monthly meeting. There was a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Wesley Farrel, opened the meeting and led in the worship service, with Mrs. Ross Jeffs taking part. The quizzes was read by Marjorie Thompson from Romans 8:1 and 13-17.

The convener, Miss Myrtle Emerson, had charge of the program with the topic given by Mrs. Farrel on "Holy Spirit."

A solo by Florence Mumby, "My Friend of Calvary"; reading by Helen McIlroy, "Rebirth"; solo by Miss Foster, "I Do Not Ask, O Lord, that Life May Be"; a reading by Lois McIlroy, "Country Mother"; piano solo by Lily Vanderwater, "The Robin's Return"; reading by Myrtle Emerson, "The Message of the Empty Tomb," and "How To Stay Young."

Lunch was served by the hostess and her helpers.

Flattering Drapery

By TRACY ADRIAN

From Philip Hulitar's new spring collection comes this heavenly blue crinkle silk chiffon dress which is a chic and becoming selection for afternoon.

The frock has a cleverly draped bodice with a low, square neckline and fitted three-quarter sleeves. The skirt features an attractive over-drape and a velvet bow in the same shade of blue identifies the waist line.

Continental Veal

by Mary Moore

Shirley M. wrote to me: "I had a real recipe that was very similar to the one I am going to give you, and at the time you said if anyone had a different version, you would like to hear about it. This one is good and my husband loves it, but I think it is expensive to serve very often. So he's lucky if he gets it on his birthday."

VEAL CORDON BLEU:
(Courtesy Shirley M.)

Have your butcher cut you two whole slices of veal cutlet. I get it from the leg, but the trick is to have him cut it just as thin, thin as he can get. Pound them two slices again, making it thin as paper. Take one slice and sprinkle it with grated cheese, place a slice of boiled ham, more cheese and top it with remaining slice of veal. Pinch around the edges to seal it, then dip in bread or cracker crumbs, an egg mixed with a tablespoon of cold water and then back into your crumb mixture. Of course, salt your meat, but sparingly. Now take some butter — yes butter, and fry your meat about 2 minutes on each side or until nicely browned. I usually saute a few mushrooms in the butter first and then use the mushroom butter to pour over the meat. This is very rich, but it is very good. See what I mean when I say I serve this few and far between economy binges? Another thing: I find this much better if I bread it at least an hour before serving to let the breading dry a little. Shirley M."

The above is French and exceptionally good, and I am grateful to Shirley for giving us her variation.

The next veal offering is Viennese and the name is familiar — Wiener Schnitzel — but how many of you have made breaded veal cutlets with an anchovy or sour cream sauce? Try it next time you are having guests for dinner.

WIENER SCHNITZEL
2 pounds veal cutlet, cut ¼" thick, 1 egg, beaten, 1 tablespoon water, 1 cup dry bread-crumbs, ¼ cup flour, 1 teaspoon minced parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup water, 6 anchovy fillets (optional), juice of 1 lemon (optional), ¼ cup sour cream (optional).

Have butcher pound meat with cleaver to make it very thin. Dip each cutlet in egg beaten with water and then in a mixture of breadcrumbs, flour, parsley, salt and pepper. Place the breaded cutlets on wax paper and allow to stand about 30 minutes. Melt about three-quarters of the butter in a large frying pan and saute the cutlets, a few at a time, until golden brown on both sides. Return browned cutlets to frying pan and add water. Cover and cook slowly until tender (about 30 minutes). Transfer cutlets to a heated serving platter. Heat the remaining butter with mashed anchovies and lemon juice and sour cream (if used). Pour over cutlets and serve with a garnish of parsley and lemon slices.

Springbrook W. I. Holds Annual Meeting

BONARLAW — The annual meeting of Springbrook Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Cassidy on Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was opened with Mrs. James Spry in the chair.

The roll call was answered by members paying fees. Mrs. W. J. Barlow dealt with the correspondence and read the "thank-you" cards. A memorial service was held with two minutes' silence observed and Mrs. J. McKeown playing soft music for a valued member, the late Marian Stiles.

The auditors report was given, showing a balance on hand of $263.93 in the bank.

A presentation was made to Mrs. Malcolm McMullen who is moving to Stirling vicinity.

Reports of the standing committees' convenors were given and the election of officers followed.

Officers are: president, Mrs. Gerald Burkitt; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Gordon Webb; 2nd vice - president, Mrs. Myrtle Cassidy; secretary - treasurer, Mrs. W. J. Barlow; district director, Mrs. Wallace McIlroy; board of directors, Mrs. Fred McKeown, Mrs. A. Burkitt and Mrs. Charles Gordaner; pianist, Mrs. John McKeown; press reporter, Mrs. A. Burkitt; and auditors, Mrs. George Thompson and Mrs. Everett Heath.

The lunch committee was appointed and the homes chosen for the meetings.

The hostess and assistant hostesses served dainty refreshments.

Mrs. G. Burkitt thanked Mrs. Cassidy for opening her home.

An exchange of slips, bulbs and plants was held.

The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wallace McIlroy on June 1st.

Growing Body of Expert Opinion in South Africa Says Apartheid Plan Impossible

EDITORS: In three preceding stories, Lynn Heinzerling, the chief of AP's South African bureau, gives us the background to the country's racial turmoil. In this concluding story he assesses how the present situation may affect the future.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

In the neighboring Central African Federation and the two Portuguese territories of Mozambique and Angola there are perhaps another 500,000 whites. Almost everywhere else to north the white man has either abdicated or is being swept aside in the great tide of nationalism.

Against this challenge and to claim ancient fears of black domination among its own people the South African government has offered one bulwark—apartheid.

Although the doctrine of apartheid was put forward nearly 12 years ago it never has been fully implemented. A growing body of expert opinion in South Africa believes it is impossible.

SEPARATE UNITS

Strictly interpreted, apartheid means splitting the country's population "into separate socio - economic units inhabiting different parts of the country, each enjoying in its own area full development rights." That was the definition given in 1948 by Dr. W. W. M. Eiselen, now secretary of the department of Bantu administration and development.

But nearly two-thirds of the 10,000,000 Negroes are either working on the white man's farms or in the mines or working in his factories. To drive them back to the reserves would wreck the economy.

When Prime Minister Daniel Malan introduced his program of apartheid in 1948, he had before him a report of a government commission that the concept was unsound.

EARLIER REPORT

Legislation, however, is based on a report of an earlier commission which declared in 1922: "It should be a recognized principle of government that native men, women and children should only be permitted within municipal areas insofar and for so long as their presence is demanded by the wants of the white population and should depart therefrom when they cease to minister to the needs of the white man."

Prime Minister Hendrick Verwoerd expressed his view in Parliament in 1958: The ideal must be total separation in a white sphere. But everyone realizes such a thing cannot be attained within a few years nor for a long time to come.

Already in a state of national emergency, South Africa must choose whether to plunge ahead along a course denounced by much of world opinion—or change its signs.

BIGGEST ON CONTINENT

The white population of 3,000,000 is the largest on the continent.

South Africans are not recent settlers. They and their forefathers have developed the most modern and most highly developed country on the continent. Negroes have provided much of the labor for this development, but the whites have furnished capital and knowledge.

Furthermore, it is a contention that when the whites first landed at the Cape in 1652, the Africans were just moving down from the north and have no right of prior settlement.

The "one man, one vote" idea proposed by black leaders of the new states to the north would sweep the whites aside.

Gradual extension of democratic rights in Negroes means a Negro government some time in the future.

OWN RULE IN RESERVES

The government has held out to the Africans the prospect of eventual self-government in eight or nine Bantustans or reserves around the country.

But development of these rural areas cost around $30,000,000 over the first 10 years and the government has shown no sign of providing that kind of money in definitely.

Urbanized Africans also show no inclination to return to these rural areas.

More and more a cry for consultation with moderate African leaders is coming from white moderates and intellectuals even within the governing Nationalist party. Most often mentioned as a moderate leader is the former Zulu chief, Albert Luthuli, president of the now outlawed African National Congress.

But Luthuli and most other African leaders are in jail under the emergency regulations.

Truck Industry Says Subsidies Are Necessary

OTTAWA (CP) — Transportation subsidies if necessary but not necessarily subsidies, the Canadian trucking industry advised the royal commission on transportation Friday.

"It is the view of the Canadian trucking associations that subsidy should be avoided in our country," said part of a massive brief being presented to the commission. "There can be no denial, however, that subsidy is and will probably continue to be an important instrument of government transportation policy."

SUGGEST ALTERNATIVES

If the subsidy can't be paid to the transportation customer or to all forms of transportation, some other policy should be considered, it suggested.

The shipper should be paid the subsidy directly in the case of such commodities as coal or grain where a comparatively few shippers are involved. Where customers outnumbered carriers by a wide margin, the carrier should get it.

Entry of the railways into the trucking field should be strictly regulated on the basis of their contributions to the public interest. The end result of the nationally - owned Canadian National Railways in dickering for purchase of trucking firms would amount to nationalization of trucking service.

Princess and Archbishop Will Be Central Figures In Romantic Event of Year

On Friday Princess Margaret and the Archbishop of Canterbury will be central figures in the romantic event of the year, her marriage to Antony Armstrong-Jones. But five years ago Margaret and the archbishop were central figures in a romantic drama with a less happy ending. Here is the story, first of a series on the royal wedding.

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — Two principals in one of the strangest dramas of British royalty—a beautiful, gay princess and a balding-pokes, richly robed Archbishop — will meet again Friday at the altar of Westminster Abbey.

"Margaret Rose," the archbishop will say, "will thou have this man to be thy wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of matrimony?"

"I will," the princess will reply.

And the archbishop may then be permitted a moment of self-congratulation.

Five years ago Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury and Anglican Primate, was instrumental in breaking up Princess Margaret's romance with Peter Townsend, the divorced air force war hero and to marry.

TEACHING UPHELD

On Friday the archbishop will be officiating at her marriage to Antony Armstrong-Jones, a commoner. Townsend will have come to a happy ending, and the church's position on the sanctity of marriage will have been upheld.

The archbishop is one of the great brains of Britain. He lives simply, smokes a pipe, has a genial good humor. He likes a game of cricket and a glass of wine.

In short, he is exactly the sort of man Britons normally approve of. Yet no one would call him popular.

After the Townsend affair he was booed in public. Newspapers said he was out of touch with the 20th century and called for him to resign. All this made no difference in his belief in the lifelong duration of Christian marriage, in the sanctity of the words "those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder."

This was the view he pressed on Margaret in 1955 and the view she accepted—that she must not marry the divorced Townsend.

RENOUNCED LOVE

Her historic renunciation of her love for Townsend said:

"Mindful of the church's teaching that Christian marriage is indissoluble, and conscious of my duty to the Commonwealth, I have decided to put these considerations before all others."

As this public renunciation and the months that followed showed, the princess is a deeply religious woman. Suggestions that she might enter a religious order were not entirely idle gossip.

And so her marriage, enriched by its incomparable abbey setting of pomp and pageantry for the royal bride will be a deeply religious experience.

DIVORCEES GUESTS

But despite the ceremony's insistence on the lifelong nature of the marriage vows, the Royal Family's list of the wedding will include a number of divorced relatives.

One is Princess Georg of Denmark, Margaret's cousin, who divorced her first husband. Her son was on the archbishop's advice that the British Royal Family should not be represented at the second marriage to the prince.

In the place of honor behind the bride and bridegroom will stand the bridegroom's divorced parents, the bridegroom's third wives of Armstrong-Jones Sr. will sit in the nave.

Also notable absentee will apparently is barred—the Duchess of Windsor, the twice-divorced American for whom Edward VIII gave up the throne. Neither she nor the duke will be at the wedding.

HEADS VETERINARIES

RICHMOND, Que. (CP) — Dr. Hermann Jacques of Richmond, who has been practising veterinary medicine here since 1943, has been appointed director of the provincial veterinary medical school at St. Hyacinthe.

Reduced Hours Of Work With More Pay Asked

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A four - point program aimed at alleviating unemployment in Canada has been adopted by the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (Ind.)

A conference to be asked by national council, attended by 135 delegates representing 25 Ontario locals, was held here Saturday and Sunday.

The program calls for elimination of the means-test provision in the Unemployment Insurance Act.

It also asks for an increase in unemployment insurance benefits and the extension of benefits for duration of unemployment. The third request is that the training of youth and retraining of unemployed workers should be paid for by government and employers.

The final point is the institution of a 30-hours of-work to make more jobs available.

The delegations, said the union, point to a permanent pool of unemployed of more than 600,000 persons, even during the best period of employment, the summer.

SHORTER WORK WEEK

A sharp reduction in hours of work was seen as a key labor demand.

"The achievement of a universal 30-hour week with increased take-home pay would create jobs for more than 1,000,000 workers," said C. S. Jackson, national chairman.

The conference also urged that contract demands which the union will make when present contracts come up for renewal.

Included in the labor program were recommendations for:

Substantial wage increases to all employees in the bargaining unit with assurance of protection of real wages and some degree of income security during layoffs;

Reduction of the work week to below 40 hours with take-home pay maintained;

Provision for training and retraining programs at employers' expense in advance of technological changes;

Full hospital, medical and surgical insurance to be paid by employers on behalf of laid - off workers and pensioners.

Labor benefits at least equal to annual earnings, to be paid by employers;

Improved pension benefits with provision for eligibility age and early retirement in case of illness.

DEBRIS FROM WRECKED BOMBER — A United States coastguardsman examines uniforms, seats, seat cushions and other pieces of wreckage found in Lake Michigan off Milwaukee, Wis., where an RCAF B-25 Mitchell bomber crashed April 29. The aircraft was attempting an emergency landing at Milwaukee's General Billy Williams airfield but it came up short of the field when collisions occurred toward the lake where it crashed. Six airmen, including Air Commodore J. G. Stephenson of Windsor, Ont., were aboard the plane. (CP from AP)

Divers to Seek Airmen's Bodies In Lake Michigan

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Expert deep-water salvage divers planned to dive to the bottom of Lake Michigan today to search for the fuselage of a Royal Canadian Air Force plane which crashed Friday night moments after the pilot said he was confident of a successful emergency landing. The plane carried six men, including an air commodore.

A team of five volunteer skin divers searched the murky depths Sunday. They found additional debris from the plane but visibility of only a few feet and 40-degree water temperatures prevented a more thorough search.

The RCAF said the two-engined Mitchell bomber, with Air Commodore J. G. Stephenson of Windsor one of the passengers, was bound from Ottawa to Madison, Wis., where Stephenson was to begin an inspection of the North American Air Defence Command.

CRASH SITE LOCATED

Wing Cmdr. Joffre Woolfenden, RCAF officer attached to the 30th North American Air Defence Command, said that it was soon located the fuselage today an attempt would be made immediately to raise it to the surface. He said the discovery Sunday of various parts of the plane confirmed the general location of the crash scene, a spot about 4,000 yards east-southeast of the lighthouse at the main entrance to Milwaukee harbor in 60 feet of water.

The plane's pilot—it was not known here who was at the controls — had radioed Billy Mitchell Field here for an emergency landing, saying he had feathered one engine because of a runaway propeller.

Wing Cmdr. F. W. MacDonnell, heading a board of inquiry for the RCAF, said the pilot was apparently calm and confident that they would make a safe landing. A tape recording of the conversation between the pilot and the control tower was made on the night of the crash.

JULIANA'S BIRTHDAY

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 150 members of the Ottawa Dutch community were guests at the Netherlands Embassy Saturday at a reception held in honor of Queen Juliana's 51st birthday. D. J. Van Balluscel, Netherlands ambassador to Canada, told the group that since the Second World War some 150,000 Netherlanders had arrived in Canada as immigrants.

West's Summit Plan Given Approval by NATO Ministers

ISTANBUL (CP) — NATO foreign ministers, meeting within the confines of a city under martial law, today endorsed Western proposals on disarmament to be put to the Soviet Union at the summit.

State Secretary Christian Herter of the United States read to the conference a special message from President Eisenhower saying that the Western Big Three meeting with Premier Khrushchev, opening in Paris May 16, probably will not produce any quick or spectacular results.

Eisenhower cautioned that the Paris meeting is only one move in "in what may prove a long succession of diplomatic exchanges dealing with some of the most difficult problems of our era."

The ministers readily approved the Western position on disarmament as outlined by Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd on behalf of the five Western powers "represented in the deadlocked Geneva East-West disarmament conference.

Lloyd reported:

The West sincerely desires general and complete disarmament and Khrushchev has proposed—provided this is done under adequate and effective controls to keep the powers from cheating. The West wants the summit meeting to issue some concrete joint suggestions to the 10-power Geneva conference.

Canada's External Affairs Minister Green feels a partage deal would be one way to get the disarmament talks moving faster. For example, the West might offer to negotiate a reduction of conventional forces if the Eastern side would agree to negotiate nuclear disarmament measures.

"In a package deal we take one of their pet proposals, link it with one of our proposals and in that way solve the problem," the Canadian minister said.

He was confident that the NATO Allies in general would support this proposition.

Green listed these three steps to overcome the impasse at Geneva:

1. A directive from the summit meeting to the Geneva committee to stop talking about principles and starting discussing specific measures.

2. Private sessions where the members could let their hair down and try to get results.

3. Linking Eastern and Western proposals in a package deal.

It was understood that the other four foreign ministers whose countries are represented at Geneva reacted in a friendly way to these suggestions made by Green at a meeting with them Sunday night.

Neither Premier Adnan Menderes nor President Celal Bayar was on hand to greet Jo nister, apparently because they had their hands full with the local crisis, Foreign Minister Fatin Rustu Zorlu deputized for them.

Halvard Lange, foreign minister of Norway and current chairman of the NATO Council, told the session the Atlantic allies look to the Big Four summit conference opening in Paris May 16 for "a first step toward disarmament under effective international control."

"There can be no doubt that the alternative to disarmament surely is a nuclear arms race with all its terrible implications. The Soviet Union, like us, seems to have realized that such a development must be prevented."

State Secretary Christian Herter of the United States and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told their colleagues, including Canada's External Affairs Minister Green, at the conference meetings Sunday that the Western Big Three will propose to Russia that both West and East Germany vote in a plebiscite of West Berliners to decide whether they want to end the occupation of their city.

The foreign ministers also are working out conditions for a proposed interim agreement with Russia that would leave the Western Big Three powers in Berlin at the end of any agreed period. It would also call for limited air services that Western rights of access to the city would be maintained.

Russia has rejected the West's proposal for a free Germany-wide election for an all-German government as the starting point of a peace settlement, Khrushchev has called for the two Germanys to negotiate terms of reunification whether the Big Four later could accept. If that fails, Khrushchev has said his government would be willing to conclude a peace treaty with East and West Germany.

Gasoline Prices Take a Drop

TORONTO (CP) — Gasoline prices in this city moved downward during the weekend, but there has been no sign that a means a general price-cutting war.

Imperial Oil Limited cut its retail price to 37.5 cents a gallon Friday and Texaco and British American are reported to have followed suit. The reductions were on regular-grade gasoline only.

24 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An accidental death toll of at least 24, including 13 road fatalities, was recorded in Canada during the weekend.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 8 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday showed that half the highway fatalities were in Quebec province, which also reported one death by accidental hanging and another in a fall.

Ontario's total of five was made up of four road deaths and one asphyxiation by gas.

Three persons were killed by fire in Nova Scotia, which also had two deaths in traffic.

PROBE DROWNING

Not included in the count, which covers deaths in normal holiday activities, are the drowning of a man in the Ottawa River at Ottawa. Police are investigating the case.

Ontario dead:

James Joseph, 58, of Sarnia Indian reserve, Saturday when struck by a car on Highway 7 near Perth. Police are seeking the driver who did not stop.

William Leslie Reichsbeld, 47, London, Ont., Saturday night when 8-y panel truck hit a telephone pole in the village of Aylmer. Police are looking for the driver of an automobile which is believed to have forced the truck into the ditch. Truck passengers, Earl Robertson, 42, and Joseph L. Morgan, 54, both of London, were injured but not seriously.

Leo Holmes, 46, Port Credit, Sunday when his car went out of control on the Queen Elizabeth Way near Toronto.

Carl Saxby, 59, accidentally asphyxiated Sunday night when he fell against a stove in his Toronto flat, turning on a gas jet.

Inmate Stays In Prison to Complete Course

KINGSTON (CP)—Walter Pelekka of Toronto will be discharged from Collins Bay Penitentiary Tuesday after completing a vocational training extension of his 15-month sentence.

Pelekka asked to be allowed to stay in prison to complete a release on parole because he wanted to take a course in human relations conducted among the inmates by classification officer William Donnelly.

Pelekka was among 23 inmates to receive their certificates in ceremony in the penitentiary Sunday at the end of the six-week course.

The 26-year-old salesman, who was convicted on possession of an offensive weapon, said:

"The reason I wanted to stay on that sales work I had been making a very fundamental mistake. I was thinking only of making a dollar than I was in helping a customer to find what he needed. This also ran true in my personal life; I was interested in only one person—myself."

Directors of CP, the national news co - operative owned and operated by the country's dailies, meet Tuesday, CP's annual meeting is scheduled for Wednesday.

CDNPA directors meet Thursday and Saturday. The CDNPA annual meeting is Thursday and Friday.

Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, chairman of the Atomic Energy Control Board will address the annual Canadian Press dinner Wednesday night.

15 Yrs. Ago Today Canadians Reached Wismar on Baltic Coast to Cut Off Russians

OTTAWA (CP) — On the evening of May 2, 1945, the 1st Canadian Parachute Battalion reached Wismar on the Baltic coast, cutting off a Russian advance into Denmark.

The unit's diarist recorded: "All resistance had collapsed, because the Germans wanted us to go as far as possible. They reasoned that the more territory we occupied, the less the Russians could occupy. Thousands of Germans trooped filled the roads and crowded the villages, some even cheering us on, though most were a despondent — looking mob."

The parachute battalion, first Canadian unit to land in Normandy on D-Day, June 6, 1944, made the deepest penetration of any Canadian formation into Germany.

At 8:20 p.m. May 4, Field Marshal Montgomery announced a ceasefire on 21st Army Group front for 8 a.m. May 5 and ordered all offensive operations to cease "from precisely this instant."

23 DIED

There were 60 Canadian Army casualties May 4, a third of them fatal and 10 on May 5, three of them fatal.

One of the last Canadians killed was Protestant chaplain Capt. A.E. McCreery of the Canadian Grenadier Guards. He and Lieut.-N.A. Goffin lost act of on the afternoon of May 4 to bring in some wounded Germans. Both officers were killed in circumstances which remain obscure to this day.

On May 5, Col. - Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz surrendered the 25th German Army to 1st Canadian Corps in the Netherlands. The surrender took place in the Hotel de Aereld at Wageningen.

At 3:30 p.m. May 7, at Reims, Generaloberst Alfred Jodl signed the unconditional surrender of the Armed Forces of Germany to the Allies and the Second World War in Europe ended the following midnight.

Thus V-E day, May 8, came to the world 15 years ago.

Gen. H.D.G. Crerar sent out from a message to all ranks of his First Canadian Army in which he said: "In relinquishing my supreme accomplishment we shall remember the friends who have paid the full price for the belief that they also held dear and sacrifice in the interests of the principles for which we fought could now be great."

Nearly 42,000 Canadian servicemen had been killed—22,966 in the Army, 17,100 in the RCAF and 1,837 in the Navy.

Nearly 55,000 veterans of the Second World War are still drawing disability pensions, a peak for more than 2,000 amputees; 1,555 men lost one key, 89 both legs, 1,000 one arm and 198 both; 198 were totally blinded; 242 are paraplegic.

On V-E Day itself, Montgomery

"Butter and two cows."

wrote this letter to Crerar:

"My dear Harry:

"I feel that on this day I must write you a note of personal thanks for all I(at you have done for me since we first served together in this war.

"No commander can ever have a more loyal subordinate than I have had in you. And under your command the Canadian Army has covered itself with glory in the campaign in western Europe. I want you to know that I am deeply grateful for what you have done if ever there is anything I can do for you, or for your magnificent Canadian soldiers, you know that you have only to ask!

"Yrs always

"Monty."

OTHER LETTERS

There were other letters for Gen. Crerar. One came from Hanns Rauter, SS Nijmegen in the Netherlands where 13,000 Canadian soldiers had been killed.

"... At a young girl of 19 years, living in this powerful and big world, I wishes inform you about my happiness and to thank it was you, General Crerar, and your Canadian troops, who liberated the greater part of my country.

"It was your boys who gave their lives and blood, and it was your people who had to accept, in the interest of our country, so many sad reports about sons being killed action."

It would like to finish this letter in thanking you once more for our liberation, and may God bless you."

RCAF Ground Observer Corps South of 55th Parallel Will Be Disbanded on June First

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF Ground Observer Corps south of the 55th parallel will be disbanded effective June 1, Defence Minister Pearkes said today.

The observation posts north of the 55th parallel, which extends through the foot of Hudson Bay, will continue to be maintained to supplement the DEW line and Canada warning lines and provide assistance to the RCAF Search and Rescue Service.

The Observer Corps, comprising mainly civilian volunteers, was established in 1951 to assist the air defence system during its development by providing low-level coverage and early warning.

Mr. Pearkes said in an interview this important contribution has been superseded in the Canadian area by improvement in the radar systems and other means for providing information on aircraft flights.

There are about 55,000 persons in the corps, a small minority north of the 55th parallel.

THE RESTRICTIONISTS

Mr. Pearkes said the civilian volunteers in the corps carried out their role with a great enthusiasm and efficiency and he thanked them for their long service and the defence department.

It is understood that some thought has been given to making corps volunteers to participate in the militia's national survival role.

This role is the monitoring and assessment of nuclear explosions and fallout and rescue work.

However, many of the Ground Observer Corps posts are not properly located for such a role.

Quit Attempt To Paddle Canoe For 90 Miles

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Three Canadian sportsmen, drenched by 36-foot waves, paddled their kayak in their attempt to paddle a canoe to Cuba from Key West.

They gave up after 90 miles of the 90-mile distance across the south Florida Straits when their kayak, their escorting shrimp boat pulled them and the 15-foot canoe aboard and returned here.

The party had been out for 15½ hours.

The three said they would have attempted to paddle the canoe had not put their flashlights out of commission. They f e a r e d they might lose the record boat in the darkness.

The Canadians were Alphonse Gagnon, 44-year-old millionaire from Chicoutimi, Que., who had been canoeing from the Indians; Pierre-Elliot Trudeau, 31-year-old labor lawyer and publisher from Quebec City; and Valmor Francoeur, 28, an employee in a department store owned by the Gagnon family.

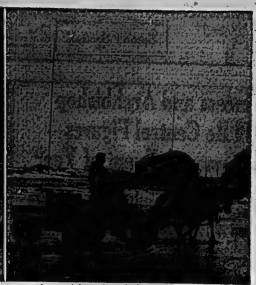
Vigilant Sable Island Weathermen



Rob Graveyard of the Atlantic

Sable Island, off the Nova Scotian coast, is a slender crescent-shaped sand bar which centuries of Atlantic sailors and fishermen have shunned as the "dust of death". It is the visible portion of a treacherous sand bank which extends in hidden bars for more than a dozen miles under the sea. These grisly ridges have sucked to destruction some 100 ships and more than 10,000 victims, justly earning the eerie epitaph: graveyard of the Atlantic. The Island itself is shrinking as the insatiable tides eat away at the shoreline: Lighthouses erected on either end of the 25-mile long island eventually fall before the endless beating of the sea and new lighthouses must periodically be rebuilt further inland.

Every big blow uncovers relics of sunken ships which the island children collect with endless fascination. But lessons must come first; Mrs. Art Dooks sees that her children's work is complete before dismissing them to hunt for buried treasure.

Population of the lonely island, which is administered by the federal Department of Transport, numbers about 20 —meteorological personnel, radio operators, light keepers and their families, who work on the island in one-year shifts.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Bob Brooks.

Mariners claim some sinister quality is possessed by the sands of Sable Island which will confuse the best compass made if an unfortunate ship should venture too near. Many Nova Scotian fishermen keep a sealed flask of Sable's yellow, insidious sands among their marine mementos.

Last ship to come to grief on Sable's sandy shore was the Manhasset in July, 1967. Department of Transport personnel on the island, aided by the latest weather tracking devices, issue regular weather bulletins and warn navigation of approaching storms.

In days gone by only communication with the mainland was by carrier pigeon. Today Department of Transport vessels make from 4-10 visits a year. Above, departing technicians bid farewell to newly arrived group beginning one year's stint of duty. The island is rich in legend and old-timers pass on tales of the headless horseman who accompanies you on patrols on stormy nights, the ghostly shapes of lost schooners which rise out of the mists and the soft sounds of drowned sailors whispering in their sandy graves.

Tall, Handsome Que. Farmer New Light-Heavy Champion

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Canada's 1960 light-heavyweight boxing champ is Burke Emery, a tall, handsome farmer from Quebec's eastern townships with the kind of left hand the oldtimers talk about.

A crowd of 1,800 gave homebred Emery lusty support in his underdog bid for the crown vacated last November by fisherman Yvon Durelle of Baie-Ste. Anne, N.B.

Emery's purse was 12½ per cent of the $3,000 gross receipts. Baldwin, 34, making his debut in the 175-pound class after campaigning as a heavyweight, had a flat $300 guarantee.

DECKED TWICE

The Torontonian, decked for the second time in the seventh round of the scheduled 12-rounder, was counted out while propped in a corner, glassy-eyed and helpless.

He tried to get up at the count of seven but collapsed. There were two more left in that round when the referee tolled 10.

Emery sent Baldwin down the first time with a left-right combination. He rose at eight and a wicked flurry finished him off.

All three judges had Emery ahead in every round under the five-point scoring system.

MANAGER TAKES BLAME

"It was my fault," said Sullivan. "Gordie was down too low in weight. He was weak, as a kitten.

"He weighed 205 three months ago. When I brought him down I brought him down too far. I was afraid he wouldn't make the weight. But he should have come in five pounds heavier."

Said Baldwin slightly:

"I actually won that fight in my dressing room. They say a fighter does," Emery said. "They had to kick me out of the gymnasium when they closed."

The victory gave Emery a record of 28 wins and two draws in 38 pro bouts.

Wolves Defeat Chelsea 5-1, Burnley Draws With Fulham

LONDON (Reuters) — Wolverhampton Wanderers beat Chelsea 5-1 Saturday but won't know until today if it has won the English Football League title.

Burnley is a point behind Wolverhampton but has a game in hand, to be played against Manchester City at Manchester today.

The other team with a chance of winning the title before Saturday's matches began, Tottenham Hotspur, trounced Blackpool 4-1. But, with the Wolves winning, the best the Spurs can hope for is the runner-up berth if Burnley loses today.

COULD WIN DOUBLE

The Wolves' tension is heightened by the fact that if they win the league title they have a chance to pull off the rare "double" of winning both the league championship and the Football Association Cup.

The "double" has not been achieved this century. The Wolves meet Blackburn Rovers in the cup final at London's Wembley Stadium next Saturday.

The Spurs took a long time to master the wiles of Blackpool's dribbling wizard, 45-year-old Stanley Matthews, but after getting ahead with a goal by John White, the London team piled on the pressure.

Burnley, playing without ace tactician Jimmy Mellroy, showed a lackadaisical approach. It was lucky to get a draw.

DIVISION CHANGES

Birmingham City beat Blackburn 1-0 and managed to stay in the First Division. This forced Leeds United down from Division 1 to Division 2, with Luton Town.

Aston Villa and Cardiff have clinched promotion from Division 2 to Division 1, while Hull and Bristol City are relegated to the Third Division.

Southampton and Notwich move up from Division III to Division II.

Dundee United returned to the Scottish First Division after an absence of 29 years with a 1-0 home win over Berwick.

Thomas Sets World Record High Jump

A record crowd of 42,138 saw Thomas go over on his first try. There was daylight between him and the crossbar.

The old mark of 7-1 was set in 1957 by Russia's Yuri Stepanov. Stepanov made his record with the aid of the controversial elevator shoe. His mark was accepted but the shoe, which had a raised sole, later was banned.

Another highlight of the relays was Ray Norton, who equalled the world record of the 220-yard dash around a turn with a clocking of 20.6.

Regas Lepa, 19-year-old Lithuanian-born Canadian, starred as Michigan won the four-mile relay Saturday and the distance medley Friday. His anchor finish won both.

Thomas, 19, already had cleared his indoors but the International Amateur Athletic Federation recognizes only outdoor records.

This was only his second outdoor competition as a collegian. Last week he equalled Charlie Dumas' American outdoor record of 7½.

Collins Leads Houston Golf

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Bill Collins met the challenge of rising pressure with a four-under par 68 Sunday to pull out of a tie with Arnold Palmer and Jack Fleck and take a two-stroke lead in the $35,000 Houston Classic golf tournament.

Collins had 205 for 54 holes.

Palmer fashioned a 70 to come securely in second place, with 207. Fleck faltered to an even-par 72 and dropped to third place at 208.

The three started the day with 137 for 36 holes.

Canada's two contenders were among those who found the going tricky.

Al Balding of Toronto and Crystal River, Fla., went to 73-75-75—223.

Jerry Magee of Toronto, tied with him after Saturday's rounds, took three more strokes than Balding for 74-72-78—224.

Says Canada Should Find Better Way for Entry Or Drop From World Hockey

TORONTO (CP)— The Ontario Hockey Association's annual meeting passed seven regulation amendments Saturday, but spent most of the time talking about Olympic and world tournaments.

Canadian Amateur Hockey Association president, Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., said Canadian entries in world hockey competition should be representative rather than all-star teams.

He said picking a team by using players from other teams caused disruption of entire leagues.

Ray Bauer, an official of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen who lost the Olympic title to Russia in 1956 and came second this year said Canada's entry should be called the Canadian Olympic team and not bear the name hockey.

"It's not fair to expect a single city to put the 'hockey' he said to "The Russians didn't have to ration off cars to raise money to come."

George Dudley of Midland, Ont., OHA treasurer and CAHA secretary manager said a more satisfactory method must be found for entering Olympics or world play, or Canada should drop out altogether.

The chief regulations amendment was one calling for teams to forward franchise fees set by their leagues to the OHA executive or face possible playoff disqualification.

The change was sparked by refusal of Whitby Dunlops and Chatham Maroons to post $2,000 bonds as required by the Senior A loop. Each team pleaded insufficient funds. George Dudley protested the change and suggested the question should be left to the executive.

Napanee Wins Intermediate A Hockey Crown

NAPANEE (CP) — Napanee Comets won their third straight intermediate A Ontario Hockey Association championship Saturday night when they defeated Georgetown Raiders 8-3. Napanee won the best-of-seven series 4-2.

Dave Irons, Wayne Thompson and Blake Ingles scored for Georgetown.

The Raiders, outplayed throughout the game by Comets, were saved from a more humiliating defeat only through the brilliant goaltending of Barry Smith.

STORM OF PROTEST

MELBOURNE (AP)—The Australian Olympic Federation's decision to send a team of 222 to the Rome Olympic Games has aroused a storm of criticism from local newspapers. Sports writers say a team of that size will include many "no hopers" who are not good enough to wear an Australian uniform.

Examination by an OHA-approved doctor of any player deemed by a team incapable of playing because of injury whereever a substitute is asked.

Suspension of a manager who permits a player to take part in a game without a player's certificate or OHA authorization.

Earlier registration of players, and permission to release one import or waived player for a substitute if the player is released before Dec. 15 and not played more than three games.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

There was a mischievous gleam in the eyes of the elderly English soccer veteran. Asked the origin of soccer, he had replied, "It was born in Britain when Caesar's legions were invading the Island. Seems the Britons kicked stones in their faces when they scaled the shore cliffs and they became so accurate booting the small pebbles that they later took it up as a sport."

Someone said he had heard the game was invented in Ireland. The old veteran snorted. "That's not so, laddy," he said. "No one beg to teach the Irish. They were kicking the stuffing out of everything that served as a ball round the dawn of the Christian era. Most of 'em thought a ball was superfluous and only got in the way. It was better sport kicking shins."

Asked if he could account for the global resurgence in soccer popularity, the old veteran suggested it might be the very simplicity of the game. "Picked up an American newspaper the other day. I think it was from the Middle farm, somewhere in California," he said. "The paper stated some 250,000,000 persons are playing soccer in the world today —and 650,000,000 pay to see it."

He chuckled. "You would think those Oakland sports writers would be beating the drums for baseball and the new California gold rush started by the transplanted Dodgers and Giants," he said.

These figures, he pointed out, might help to explain why William D. Cox, president of the New York American League club, decided it was time soccer could be highly profitable—to bring championship professional-league soccer on a big scale to Gotham.

So an international soccer league was organized and teams from eleven other countries will join the Americans in a competition that will start May 25 at the Polo Grounds and continue through July 30.

The elderly veteran takes it from here. "A playoff in the Cup final between the winners in the two divisions of the league will be held on August 6. England, Ireland, Scotland, Germany, France and the United States will play in one section, while Italy, Sweden, Yugoslavia, Austria, Portugal and Brazil will compete in the other.

Until the beginning of this century, professional league soccer was of minor importance except in Great Britain and Ireland. Since World War I the game has made big advances on the continent of Europe and South America. It has been taken up in South Africa, Australia, the Soviet Union, Japan and India and has been catching on more and more in Canada and the United States.

"And cet an eyeful of this," remarked the old veteran, "the biggest sports arena in the world is the Maracana soccer in Rio de Janeiro (we thought the huge setup in Yankee Stadium, New York, and Soldier Field stadia), and it seats 200,000. In 1950, 173,850 customers paid more than $300,000 to see the world cup final between Brazil and Uruguay."

Banner days has seven soccer stadiums and four of them accommodate 100,000 each. Glasgow has three with capacities of 150,000, 128,000 and 100,000. It is nothing uncommon for crowds of 100,000 to 120,000 to turn out for a match in England, Scotland or Wales. Throngs go w ld over soccer in many countries in Europe.

Its popularity in Canada is increasing in leaps and bounds, the old veteran said. "In this district the sport is growing, and with minor soccer playing an important part of the current plans, it may not be long before the game will be one of the most popular hereabouts."

The eyes of the old veteran twinkled again. "And don't forget," he said, "soccer is the great-grandaddy of all football. The American and Canadian games would never be played if it hadn't been for an over-zealous schoolboy who was playing soccer in 1823.

"He was playing for a school named Rugby and was tired of being unable to advance the ball with his feet, so he picked it up and ran with it while outraged fellow players stood aghast at the spectacle. But the act of William Webb Ellis started a new game. It gave football powers-that-be a new idea and from it the English game of Rugby was born. This in turn gave birth to the Canadian and American versions.

RUSSIANS OUT

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP)—Russia lost its chance to defend the Olympic soccer championship at Rome this summer when Bulgaria defeated Russia 3-2 Sunday. The victory gave Bulgaria first place in the three - team battle in group three for the sole berth in the Olympic tournament. Bulgaria finished with five points, Russia four and Romania three.

BASKETBALL TOURNEY

STRATFORD (CP)—Toronto's West-End YMCA basketball team defeated the Stratford YMCA team 43-31 here Saturday to take possession of the Stratford Y's men's Ontario juvenile basketball championship. Eight teams from Toronto, Barrie, Kitchener, Guelph and Stratford, vied for the championship, finishing in a 16-game tournament.

Bucs Up Streak To 9; Tribe's Young Braves Click

Law, Friend Hurling Backed With Plate Power Aplenty; Indians, Chisox Win Twins

BY JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

When Frank Lane traded away Cal McLish, his 19-game winner, the Cleveland Indians announced to the world that they were going to gamble with young pitchers.

Wynn Hawkins and Dick Stigman, two 24-year-old members of the 1960 rookie crop, made general manager Lane and manager Joe Gordon look good Sunday when they managed complete games in a doubleheader sweep over Kansas City.

Hawkins, a righthander from the Middle farm, allowed 10 hits but lasted nine innings to win his second game 6-4 with the help of five runs batted in on two homers by Bubba Phillips.

Stigman, a southpaw out of San Diego, turned in a steady six-hit effort in the 3-1 second game won by Vic Power's two-run single with the bases loaded.

SOX ON TOP

Despite the success of these precocious Indians, the defending champion Chicago White Sox took over the undisputed American League lead for the first time this season. The White Sox whipped Detroit 8-3 and 5-2 on the relief pitching of Gerry Staley and Frank Baumann.

Baltimore's young Chuck Estrada survived a three-run first inning and went all the way to a 9-5 decision over the New York Yankees. A Washington-Boston doubleheader was rained out.

The Yanks had a brief moment of glory, earlier holding first place all alone after walking all over Baltimore pitching with 20 hits and a 16-0 shutout. In other American League games, Cleveland shaded Kansas City 2-1 on Woodie Held's two-run homer and Minnesota nipped Washington by the same score. The Detroit-Chicago game was rained out.

Hawkins might have needed relief in Sunday's game if it hadn't been for Phillips' slugging. He was nicked for two homers by Norm Siebern and one by Whitey Herzog among the 10 Kansas City hits. The Indians piled up an early lead off loser Ned Garver. Stigman helped himself in the second game. He started a rally with a single to open the first inning and scored on Johnny Temple, the pitcher bumped into catcher Harry Chiti at the plate and the catcher dropped the ball. The only run off the Tribe's unbeaten.

Staley, crowding 40, gave the Tigers only one hit after replacing Bob Shaw in the sixth. Al Smith homered for the Chisox and Al Kaline for the Tigers but the winning blows were doubles by Sherm Lollar and Billy Goodman in the three-run sixth.

Baumann, former Boston Red Sox lefthander, took over for Dick Donovan with two out in the first inning of the second game with Detroit leading 2-0. He shut out the Tigers the rest of the way, allowing only three hits. Luis Aparicio, who had driven in a run in the first game, snapped out of his slump with three RBIs in the second game.

Chicago now has won five in a row and Sunday has been a straight after winning its first five.

The Yankees started out as they planned to repeat Saturday's clobbering, scoring three in the first on Estrada. They faded when the Orioles attacked loser New York pitchers' for six runs in the fourth inning.

WINS NORTH-SOUTH

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Charles Smith slayed off the challenge of Arnold Palmer Sunday to win the North and South amateur golf tournament 5 and 3 Saturday.

Kingston Wins Ten-Pin Title

TORONTO (CP)—A Kingston team won the Ontario 10-pin team bowling championships here Saturday. Noon Connections Limited captained by Edward Donnelly, rolled a total pinfall count scores of 3,123 to win $1,000 and individual prizes.

The Kingston team beat 32 teams from across the province for the title for which 40 competitions began two months ago.

The final three games were played here.

OPTION PITCHER

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore Orioles Sunday optioned pitcher John Anderson to Miami on the four recall, reducing their roster to 27 players. Anderson, 22-year-old righthander, had a 12-6 record last year with Miami. He pitched only 4 2-3 innings with the Orioles.

The pre-season line on Pittsburgh read: "sound defence, good speed, this pitching lacks power." This is the same club that scored 12 runs Saturday and 13 runs Sunday while stretching its winning streak to nine games, the club's longest since 1946.

What happened?

The batting averages tell part of the story. Bradley Burgess .438, Roberto Clemente .377, Dick Groat .360, Bob Skinner .327. The pitching records tell the rest: Vern Law 2-0, Bob Friend 3-0.

Overshadowed by Bob Friend in previous years, Law compiled his brilliant 15-9 season last year only to play second fiddle to Elroy Face's sensational relief pitching (18-1).

NO STOPPING LAW

But there has been no stopping Law this season. His fourth straight Sunday was a sound nine-hitter over Cincinnati. He allowed only three harmless singles after the third inning.

Friend, who has been headed home run off Don Newcombe in the first inning, Bill Mazeroski got a three-run homer in the eighth.

Pittsburgh has a two - game lead on San Francisco which, like Pittsburgh, had an unusual Sunday open date.

Billy Bruton collected five hits, including Bob Bolin's homer of the year, in Milwaukee's 3-4 victory over Philadelphia Sunday. Don McMahon relieved Bolin in relief in the ninth.

Frank Taylor drove in three runs with his four hits in a 5-4 decision for Chicago Cubs over St. Louis. Lindy McDaniel in relief work as the third Cub pitcher gave the victory for starter Glen Hobbie.

Saturday, Pittsburgh flattened Cincinnati with a 13-5 decision, Milwaukee whipped Philadelphia 9-3 and Chicago defeated St. Louis 4-3.

Willie McCovey unloaded two home runs and batted in four runs as San Francisco Giants defeated Los Angeles 6-3.

Ed Bailey's inning homer by Leon Wagner, his second of the game, gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-4 victory over Chicago Cubs at St. Louis.

SHOVED INTO CELLAR

The Pirates' rout of the Reds was Cincinnati's 11th defeat in 15 games, shoving the Reds down into the cellar.

Milwaukee's 3-1 lead into ninth at Milwaukee only to run into trouble. After three runs scored, McMahon came in and ended the game with one pitch by getting Richie Ashburn to ground to Eddie Mathews. The loser was Don Cardwell.

Bolin took over for the Cubs with the bases full. Chicago leads the St. Louis by 2-0 count on Leon Wagner. He got Wagner on a pop up, yielded a run on a sacrifice fly by Ken Boyer and and struck out Bob Nieman. Darrell Sutherland hit his fifth homer for the Cards.

On the Track

FORT ERIE (CP) — Jockey Cliff Potts and the partnership of Larkin Jr. & Sr. Louis and Conn Smythe of Toronto, had a successful afternoon Saturday as they combined to win three races, including both divisions of the $7,500 Victoria Stakes.

Men at Play, won the first division and Wild Win took the second division.

There was an accident in the first division when Bagpipe, half brother to Sword Dancer, went down on the far turn, fatally dumping jockey Armando Viola as he veered to avoid the railing. Viola escaped with bruises.

WINS ENGLISH AMATEUR

HUNSTANTON, England (AP) —Doug Sewell, 30-year-old member of the British Walker Cup team, Sunday won the English amateur golf title after the longest match in the history of the championship, on the 41st hole. The longest previous match was in 1953 when Joe Roberts defeated Harry Bennett at the 39th.

Columbus Snaps Bison String; Royals Split

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are no streaks going in the International League today and at least two clubs—Columbus and Miami—are more than a little glad.

Columbus snapped a six-game losing streak in the second game of a doubleheader against Buffalo Sunday, beating the league-leading Bisons 4-2 and snapping Buffalo's five - game winning streak. The Bisons took No. 1 in the opener, 4-3 and have won 10 of their 12 games.

Miami broke a five-game losing string with a 3-1 opening game victory over Montreal but the Royals snapped back and took the nightcap 4-2. Rochester defeated Richmond 11-10 in the first game of a doubleheader, then lost the nightcap 4-3. Havana and Toronto were not scheduled because of May Day celebrations scheduled in Havana.

Pidge Browne's double drove in two runs in the ninth inning to help Columbus break its losing streak and stay in seventh place a half game ahead of Miami. Ed Louis picked up his first victory for Columbus while Don Erickson lost.

FOURTH HOME RUN

Joe Leonetti's fourth home run and Bob Bowman's pinch pair started Buffalo's opening game victory that went to Dallas Green. Bill Hoeft and Jim Bunker homered for the Jets, as Dick Lines lost.

Jerry Stevenson and Ron Samford hit home runs to help Miami end its streak as Wes Valentinetti pitched a seven-hitter for the Marlins. Babe Birrer lost.

Coach Hank Foiles put in a two-run homer and Angel Scull forced all the way to four runs and on an infield out in the final inning for Montreal's victory. Miami's Lou Burdette and George Staley of the Royals hit home runs.

Cal Browning became the first Rochester pitcher to hurl a shutout as two walks, a wild pitch and Bill Harrell's double drove in Rochester's three runs in the first. Stafford, Mark Freeman needed relief help in the seventh as Richmond while Lynn Rube lost.

BUY FOUR CONTRACTS

BUFFALO (AP) — Buffalo Bisons of the International League have purchased the contracts of four more players on their roster from Philadelphia Phils. The Bisons announced the option to purchase of infielder Harry Bridgebrook and catcher Joe Lonnett Monday night. Earlier the club said it had bought the contracts of outfielder Don Landrum and pitcher Don Erickson. The terms of the four-player package was not disclosed.

'Dancer' Prances Past Field In $70,000 Pre-Derby Race

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Two horses, who a year ago were in the Kentucky Derby limelight as Tompion and Bally Ache are today, promise to add plenty of zest to the handicap division this year.

While Bally Ache was solidifying his position as the second choice to Tompion for Saturday's $152,000 added Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, Sword Dancer edged First Landing in the $70,000 Grey Lag Handicap at Aqueduct Saturday.

It was just a year ago that both Sword Dancer and First Landing were stabled at Churchill Downs, awaiting the Derby. First Landing was the favorite. Sword Dancer was highly regarded. But Tomy Lee won, beating Sword Dancer by a nose with First Landing third. Sword Dancer went on to become the 1959 horse of the year.

WINS BY NECK

Sword Dancer, carrying top weight of 126, ran the mile and a furlong in 1:49 3-5 to pay $7.30, $4.20 and $3.70. First Landing, returned at 4.80 and $3.60. Wallaby started at 23 to 1 and paid $7.50. It was a big day for Arcaro. He had five winners.

While Tompion was resting Saturday after his Blue Grass Stakes victory, Bally Ache scored a three-length victory over Vance Junction Way in the Stepping Stone purse.

Both horses carried 122 pounds, four under the Derby weight. Tompion, seven furlongs, in three lengths less than the Derby route. Bally Ache covered it in 1:22 3-5, three-fifths of a second off the track record.

Bally Ache returned $3.40 and $2.20 in the $5,000-added event and Venetian Way $2.20. There was no show payoff for Pontine Comedy, a possible Derby contender.

Eagle Admiral, regarded as a Derby challenger to Tompion and Bally Ache next Saturday, was scratched.

Bally Ache was cut from 4 to 1 to 3 to 1.

Venetian Way was 5 to 1 and Eagle Admiral 8 to 1.

Canuck Fourth In Walk Race

JAMAICA, N.Y. (CP) — Alex Oakley of Oshawa, a member of Canada's 1956 Olympic team, placed fourth in the United States 10-kilometre walking championship Sunday.

Rudy Haluza, 28-year-old U.S. Air Force captain, won the six-mile 376-yard race by a 25-foot margin in 48 minutes three seconds.

Oakley, 29, finished two minutes, 10 seconds behind Haluza who took the lead after the first mile and was never headed.

Maroons Point From Cup: TeePees Clobber Kings

Shade Fighting Smokies 2-1 In Close Hard-Fought Fray; Gary Sharp Scores Winner

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Chatham Maroons are playing it safe both off and on the ice. They need only a tie to win the Allan Cup but will make no predictions on the outcome of tonight's game.

Trail Smoke Eaters gave the Maroons a ugly battle Saturday night. The score was 1-1 early in the third period. Then Gary Sharp went the length of the ice to score at 10:46 and give the Maroons a 2-1 victory.

Chatham leads the best - of - seven final for the Canadian Senior A hockey championship 2-0 with one game tied and needing only a tie tonight to win the title.

NO PREDICTIONS

He added: We haven't won it yet and for two periods out there it was touch and go.

"I knew when we got by the first period that we had the game. No one can stand up to our third-period pace and we had them really going then."

Billy Forhan of Chatham opened the scoring at 12:11 of the second period. Pinoke McIntyre made it 1-1 at 2:04 of the third period.

Cesare Maniago held the Maroons up in the first 40 minutes and finished the game with 34 saves. He suffered a three-stitch cut when hit by a flying puck early in the third.

DOFFS HIS MASK

Sein Martin at the other end, playing for the first time since mid-December without his fiesh-colored face mask, stopped 33 shots — 17 in the final period. Martin discarded the mask because it was too hot and blurred his vision on low shots.

Forhan's goal, his fourth of the series, came during a scramble. Martin kicked out a shot by Joe Malo and the rebound bounced to the shifty right winger, who calmly banged it in.

McIntyre was given credit for Trail's goal in the third when defenceman Don McGregor accidentally knocked the puck into his own net.

Sharp commended afterwards: "It's a good thing I got that goal. I didn't do anything else during the game. I still doesn't feel too good."

REFEREE BUSY

Referee Frank Dingsault had his hands full keeping players under control. Several times wild jamming occurred around both ends with Trail playing - coach Bobby Kromm and Maroon defenceman Copper Leyte leading principals in most.

The best check of the night came with two minutes to go when defenceman Don Fletcher hit Ted Power of Chatham at centre and sent him flying. It took Power 10 seconds to regain his feet.

Power immediately ran into a tripping penalty. Knowing he was going off, the veteran centre prodded Smoke Eaters' Harry Smith into a penalty also.

In all, 11 penalties were handed out, seven in Maroons, but none figured in the scoring.

Horeck singled out forward Malo as the big man in Maroons' victory. Malo displayed hard skating and backchecking.

Kromm had little to say.

Kromm said the absence of winger Gerry Penner hurt his club. Penner suffered an eight-stitch cut on his right ankle last Wednesday.

Sweep Past Albertans 9-2, In Powerful 3rd Game Show; Favored to Take Next Two

TORONTO (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees today have one stake in the door leading to their second Memorial Cup championship in six years.

They hold a 2-1 edge in games in the best-of-seven final series over a badly disorganized and inept Edmonton Oil Kings and, unless they leave their equipment in the dressing room or suddenly lose their scoring punch, they should wrap up the title in the next two games.

The Eastern Canada champions, who defeated the Oil Kings in five games when they first reached the cup final in 1954, overcame the Albertans 9-1 here Sunday afternoon before a crowd of 10,886, the largest to watch a Canadian junior final since 1946.

ONE-SIDED SCORES

Sunday's victory followed a 6-2 triumph two nights earlier after the Teeps dropped the opener 5-3 at home last Wednesday. The fourth game is Tuesday night and the fifth Friday. The latter was switched from Wednesday so it would not conflict with the International League baseball opener.

The only comment from Teepee coach Max Kaminsky on the game Sunday was: "If we stay sharp like we are now, we can't miss winning the whole thing."

Observers agreed.

Coach Harry Allet of the Oil Kings said "You many things that went wrong for us", and promised the Teepees would find opposition in the remaining games. He admitted the Teepees "beat us to the punch all afternoon."

The shots on goal—54 to 28—told the story. The Teepees kept the Edmonton defence off balance with their backchecking and forechecking.

SOON TAKE LEAD

St. Catharines went ahead just 42 seconds after the start of the game, made it 2-0 at the end of the first period and went into the final 20 minutes with a big 7-1 lead. The Oil Kings threatened only on two occasions, midway through the first period and in the opening two minutes of the second when St. Catharines led 3-0.

Centres Ray Culien and Murray Hall paced St. Catharines with two goals each. Singles went to defencemen Pat Stapleton and Bill Speer and forwards Duke Harris, Chico Maki and John Brenneman.

The Teepees bombarded Russ Gillow in the Edmonton nets with three drives by centre Ron Schock and clicked on their fourth when Maki took a pass from Stapleton and his rising shot found a corner. Hall scored what proved to be the winning goal at 7:12 and Brenneman added another at 18:48.

MUFFED CHANCES

Oil Kings had excellent scoring chances when Cliff Pennington, Bruce MacGregor and Goebel coasted in on Roger Crozier but they couldn't beat him.

Goebel and Joyal almost collided with close-in blasts in the opening minutes of the second period. But the Teepees charged back to score four goals in four minutes and 29 seconds.

Gillow, who suffered an eight-stitch cut over his right eye in the series opener and had to sit out the second game, said "I couldn't see out of my eye."

"What really got me was the boards," he added. "Those pucks were coming off the back boards like ping pong balls."

Teepee forwards were able to get to him almost at will and he had little chance on most of the goals.

Muskegon Gets Hockey Franchise

CHICAGO (AP)—The International Hockey League gave a franchise to Muskegon, Mich., Sunday after listening to applications from six other cities—St. Louis, Denver, Washington, D.C., Green Bay, Wis., Winnipeg and Windsor, Ont.

Muskegon boasts a metropolitan population of 140,000.

There is a strong possibility that further changes will be made at the annual meeting in St. Paul June 4-8.

Toronto Man Was Top Gun.

TORONTO (CP)—L. J. Walton of Toronto was top gun in this weekend's Ontario skeet shooting championship. He won three titles, including the high overall title which he scored 286 out of a possible 300.

In spite of strong winds, Walton fired his highest score Sunday in the all-gauge event, breaking 90 of 100 targets.

Runner-up in this event was C. H. McCreary of Ottawa, with 97 out of 100. Walton won the 20-gauge title Saturday with a 97.

Championships in the .410 and the 28-gauge were won by A. N. Francis of Montreal. Francis won the .410 in a shoot-off with Walton.

Walton and McCreary were members of a five-man Ontario team that won the Ontario-Quebec challenge trophy with a total of 485 out of a possible 500. Other shooters in the club are Joe Rossi, Sault Ste. Marie, with a 95.

Mrs. W. K. White of Montreal won the ladies' championship in the Ontario open all-gauge event with 83 out of 100.

Yesterday's Stars—

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting—Bill Bruton, Braves—led Milwaukee to 5-4 victory over Philadelphia with five hits, including his first home run of the year and a double.

Pitching — Gerry Staley, 42d Trade Baumann, Wally Schafer, turned in brilliant relief pitching to help in doubleheader sweep over Detroit 6-3, 5-2. Staley allowed only one hit in four innings of the second game, blanked Tigers with three hits after replacing Dick Donovan in first inning of second game.

Quinte Trap, Gun Club

Cy Gardner and Dr. M. Walcott were the top marksmen at the Quinte Trap and Gun Club during the weekly shoot Sunday. Both men turned in scores of 24 to top all shooters.

Not Likely Denizens of Deep Will Ever Replace the Horse

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

But, though a full hour of skin divers grappling with sharks 27 feet down in a pool and skin divers reefing on the backs of turtles and whales is more fascinating entertainment for the young crowd than the adults, I doubt, however, that denizens of the deep will ever really replace the horse.

Roy and Dale did their smiling best, including a little singing—if very musical—to enliven this NBC squarodeo.

Over on CBS there was in progress a broad and not too amusing comedy treatment of the princess and the pea story. It's not that this can't be funny—there is a Broadway hit based on the same folk tale currently doing very well. But this adaptation called The Ugly Duckling, with Joanna Barnes as the plain princess and Oscar Homolka as the worried king, was neither witty nor high-spirited.

On NBC a musical—variety show occupied the Sunday Showcase spot. Frances Langford was hostess-star, and she's a singer with a nice way with a song. The special was notable for a revival of one of those old Bickerson sketches she and Don Ameche used to do on radio. Miss Langford and Ameche, playing husband and wife, started glibly back and forth. But hurling poison-tipped barbs has become such routine television that the Bickersons just sounded ill-tempered and rude.

Alfred Hitchcock on CBS came up with a suspense drama which was extremely well done. It involved an English tycoon on an ocean voyage meeting a man he thought he had murdered years before.

Eric Portman played the terrified millionaire who feared revenge, and Oscar Homolka was the man who was supposed to be dead.

There were bright spots here and there during a weekend of viewing, but there also were evidences that many need a vacation. That undoubtedly includes many of us who have seen so many shows during the season that we have become sated and hard to please.

CANAL TRAFFIC DOUBLES

PORT COLBORNE (CP) — A total of 507 vessels passed through the Welland Canal during last month compared with 246 for the same period last year, it was reported Sunday. Better ice conditions and an earlier opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway were given as reasons for the increased number of vessels.

General Tendencies: Until midafternoon very adverse aspects are in effect, so take no chances and especially don't permit yourself the luxury of getting emotionally disturbed or you can lose out in many directions. Then tonight get good night's rest and avoid any excitement or you can lose perspective and make mistakes.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be certain you set diplomatically forward close ties until 3 p.m. Use tact in endeavoring to obtain what you desire. Evening is then fine for social affairs or fun as you prefer. Keep purse strings tight, however. Be economical.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Take particular care on the road or with one who would lead you in the wrong direction, until 3 p.m. Have your wits about you. P.M. do not rub out of own clan the wrong way. Have a quiet and pleasant evening.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — An excellent day to set up a better housekeeping system and make the necessary repairs to property. Exercise caution with finances and also in whatever you say to others, too, or there can be some rather unpleasant and disturbing results.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Don't indulge in skit-pity today. Realize that others are possibly in more difficult circumstances than you are. P.M. spend time figuring out what and how to economize and how to increase present holdings wisely.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A secret anxiety could depress you today, if you permit. Forget about it quickly. Then handle all personal affairs efficiently. P.M. fine for having fun, but be sure you keep your purse zippered. Simple pleasures are the best.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Don't permit that rather unscrupulous friend to fleece you out of what is yours. Use tact. P.M. do yourself of that mountain of kids and cods.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Higher-ups may be either too demanding or overly meticulous. Remain calm, knowing all will be well. P.M. do not attend that very expensive social affair — it is not worth it.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be alert to any new and worthwhile outlets today. This will enable you to forget about any depressing worries, and you can work most constructively. Be meticulous in all that you do and take care not to lose temper with higher-ups.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It is best not to confer with that famous adviser until a better day, since you may not be able to give a true picture of present situation. P.M. steer clear of that overly-dynamic acquaintance or you lose out, become unhappy.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Important you realize what your duties are in connection with associates and carry through with them religiously, ethically. P.M. fine for doing necessary bookkeeping so that you know your true position financially.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Begin week properly by clearing up important duties awaiting your attention. Come to better understanding with fellow workers. P.M. consider well that new idea proposed by associate. Do not make any snap decisions.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A day to be particularly careful while driving and with mechanics of any sort. The evening is then ideal for studying real estate and other holdings so that you know best how to improve and increase same.

If your child is born today—The intelligent child born today will best be suited for work connected with the betterment of condition for the mass...or protection thereof... Be sure to foster early love of truth in your fine youngster. A government career would be ideal, so be sure you give your child an opportunity to study along these lines and do not neglect spiritual studies for finest results.

Tuesday, May 3, 1960

General Tendencies: Until 3 p.m. you have all sorts of difficulties with those in positions of power and authority if you try to force anything. However, if you wait until evening before placing in effect your plans, you find that a surprising amount of inventiveness is present and very up-to-date persons are willing to give you a helping hand.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be particularly careful not to invest unwisely today or waste funds on worthless entertainment. The evening then brings a very pleasant invitation and you can enjoy the company of most charming and inspiring person.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Refrain from becoming irritated with one living under own roof in A.M., or there will be unhappy results. P.M. an unexpected event at abode can very easily bring about added income and a more secure position in other affairs.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Morning is fine for shopping, visiting, etc., although some private worry will not permit of a very early start. Put it behind you. Plan a meeting with partners this evening and come to a far better understanding.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Listen to ideas of close comrades today rather than unfeeling business persons or expensive advisers. During p.m. you can then make your plans for increasing abundance and getting property interests in better shape.

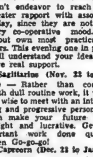
Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Disagreement with higher-up can reach major proportions if you are not careful. Attend to matters of credit instead and increase prestige. P.M. fine for analyzing true desires, and knowing how to attain them wisely.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Put aside dull doldrum existence early today and garner excellent ideas for advancement via your paper or other printed media. Be broadminded. P.M. sit down and plan future activities intelligently. Be enthusiastic.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Steer clear of that practical-minded individual during a.m. who has an eye on what belongs to you. Get advice from a good comrade. P.M. fine for social pleasure and gaining prestige.

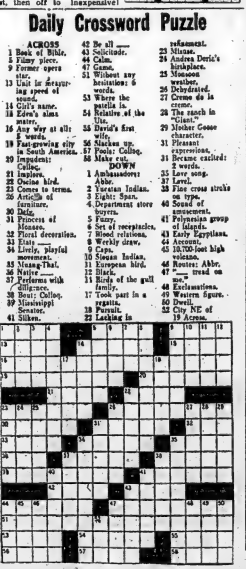
Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Don't endeavor to reach any greater rapport with associates today, since they are not in a very co-operative mood. Go about own most practical affairs. This evening one in power will understand your ideas and give real support.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Rather than continue with dull routine work, it would be wise to meet with an interesting and progressive person who can make your future more bright and lucrative. Get important work done quickly, then Go-go-go!



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — First get your appearance at its best, then off to inexpensive but satisfying pleasures. P.M. make plans for future activities wisely and know how to increase present holdings. Then be more affectionate with loved one.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Close ties and acquaintances do not agree in any way now, so do not waste time being arbitrary. Keep busily occupied with personal affairs and duties at moment. P.M. have fun at own fireside. Be jolly and kind.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — It is possible to shop for the items you need today, or this evening. However, see that you do not tread on the shoes of a diligent co-worker. P.M. fine for getting abode more orderly and adding charm, objects d'art, etc.

If a child is born today—The very interesting little child born today will possess a rare mentality, since there will be the ability to comprehend the full scope of any enterprise as well as be able to work out the minutiae. Also a rare combination of the practical and the aesthetic. There will be great success in whatever may be the forte, and particularly in fields of entertainment. Be understanding with your precocious one.

Eisenhower Asks Public To Block Foreign Aid Cut

'America Speak,' Plea In Televised Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower counted on public support today AP foretell a proposed billion-dollar cut in American foreign aid spending which he said would have "calamitous results.

"Let America speak, and this will not be done," he said in a specially televised appeal Monday night.

He welcomed as a "bright development" the Senate's passage a few hours earlier of an authorization bill which would cut only $2,500,000 from the $4,175,000,000 he proposed. The vote was 60 to 22.

The big fight will come this month, however, at the authorization bill merely fixes ceilings for spending. The actual amount of money will be determined later in an appropriation bill.

Any drastic money cut, Eisenhower said, would be a crushing defeat in the struggle "between communistic imperialism and freedom founded in faith and justice."

The authorization bill the Senate passed Monday night is about $87,000,000 higher than the House authorized. Differences in bill will be worked out by a conference committee.

The Senate acted after a daylong battle over efforts to eliminate all new commitments in the area of foreign aid funds.

Despite state department warnings that "harmful repercussions" would result, the Senate is effect, voted to reaffirm its opposition to any foreign aid assistance to the United Arab Republic as long as it continues its blockade of ships shipping in the Suez Canal. The action is not binding on the president.

Canada May Seek Swap Deal to Replace CF-100

OTTAWA (CP)—RCAF acquisition of an American manned interceptor to replace the CF-100 may depend on United States willingness to buy a Canadian transport plane.

Authorities here and in Washington are talking about a Canada-U.S. swap in loose parlance but no decisions have been taken. The matter has not yet reached the Canadian cabinet and may not for some time.

The idea is that the Canadian government might be willing to buy the American F-101 Voodoo jet interceptor for the U.S. Air Defence Command if the U.S. government would buy the Canadian CL-44 for the U.S. Air Force's Military Air Transport Service. The CL-44 is manufactured by Canadair Limited, Montreal.

Such a swap could be classed as production-sharing, a method that has been practised by the Canadian government since cancellation of the Avro jet interceptor program early in 1959.

The proposed exchange has taken on added interest because of the recommendation by the U.S. House of Representatives appropriations committee that the Senate anti-aircraft missile program be scrapped. Canada is preparing allies for two Bomarc squadrons.

Danish Freighter Believed Lost With 18 Aboard

COPENHAGEN (AP)—A small Danish Greenland freighter is feared lost in a storm south of Greenland with 18 people aboard. Officials announced today that wreckage has been found "presumably" belonging to her.

The Hanne S, of 499 tons, carrying 15 crew members and three passengers including two women, has been overdue for a week. Saturday morning when she reported her position some 200 miles south-southwest of Cape Farewell, southernmost tip of Greenland.

This is the same area where a Danish Greenland liner, the Hans Hedtoft, hit an iceberg in January last year and went to the bottom with 95 aboard. All of them perished.

The presumed loss of the Hanne S would be Denmark's third maritime disaster in 12 months. Last summer an excursion boat sank in a lake in the South Jutland, and 34 lives were lost.

The Greenland trade department, who chartered the Hanne S for a trip Copenhagen-Godthaab cargo of crystlite ore, reported today that some wreckage was found Monday by a ship in the area of the position last given by the missing ship.

Found were a red-painted yawl and some crates with reserve parts for navigational instruments. The ship's yawls are red, and the reserve parts were the same kind as those known to have been aboard the Hanne S.

Although the department said the wreckage "is presumably from Hanne S," it still held out the possibility that it might have been weatherbeaten, or might even belong to another ship.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A boundary line between mild and cold air stretches across Lake Michigan and Lake Huron to Central Ontario. This boundary is expected to start moving north Wednesday across the upper Great Lakes, spreading rain into Northern Ontario. Southern Ontario will continue to enjoy mainly sunny skies today and Wednesday.

$275,000 FEE IN LAND DEAL HEARING TOLD

Will Recall Gray To Witness Stand

TORONTO (CP) — The royal commission investigating the purchase of Sarnia Indian reserve land will recall Metropolitan Toronto's assessment commissioner, J. G. Gray, to the witness stand today.

Evidence was given Monday that Mr. Gray had a contract with Dimensional Investments Limited under which he was to receive a fee of $273,000 for his part in the land transaction.

Dimensional bought 3,100 acres of the 3,450-acre reserve at about $2,000 an acre after signing an agreement with the federal government March 4, 1959.

Evidence has shown the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission agreed to buy 978 acres of the land from Dimensional for $2,695,000. The royal commission was set up by Premier Frost after CCF charges in the legislature that Hydro bungled the deal.

Counsel produced Monday showed that Dimensional offered Mr. Gray $215,000 in addition to a $60,000 fee provided by an earlier contract.

REFUSED TO QUIT

The letter was produced by R. L. Kellock, the Ontario Liberal party treasurer at the probe. He threatened to quit the hearings when Commissioner Council Warren Borlin and Joseph Sedgwick, royal commission counsel, refused to cross-examine him in a law firm representing former Dimensional investors in a litigation.

The letter was signed by Sam Gindin, Toronto financier, and called for directors of Dimensional to have the company purchase the land.

In earlier testimony, Mr. Sifter said no money was to be given to Mr. Gray until all the $100,000 in Dimensional's share capital had been sold.

The files from which Sifter was produced had been sought for some time by the commission. Mr. Borlin remarked how he had finally come into possession of the letter. He said he had reached the conclusion that there was a conspiracy of some kind between Mr. Kellock and his assistant, Royce Frith.

RETURNS LAST WEEK

Mr. Frith is a member of the legal firm of Magwood, Frith and Cary. Mr. Frith was appointed last week to represent Saul Saltman and Norman Pantlin in the Pilgrim Estates affair, Mr. Cary.

Evidence showed that Dimensional paid $10,000 each to C. McNeil for loss on exchange of U.S. currency.

Mr. Groner was hired in June, 1959, for legal expenses to be technical adviser and engineer in design and construction of the Dimensional cement plant at Picton. He was dismissed in September, 1957.

Capital Punishment Just Vengeance Chessman's Last Words to Society

The following statement by Caryl Chessman originally was made in 1955, when his execution was postponed, did not name Chessman and assistant manager-editor George Flowers of the Long Beach Independent revised and condensed slightly. The independent published the copyrighted story Monday afternoon, after Chessman was executed.

BY CARYL CHESSMAN

(Copyright 1960 by Long Beach Independent, distributed by The Associated Press.)

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—These words are not intended to be published unless the state of California has finally taken its vengeance upon me.

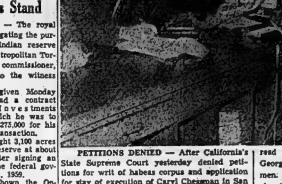
Then, you see, I put what capital punishment is.

Now that the state has had its vengeance, I should like to ask the world to consider what has been done.

I know that there are many who say that the presence of Caryl Chessman upon this earth is a monstrous evil. But society has had many other opportunities to keep Caryl Chessman from the mails, in fact, for nearly 12 years, it was able to keep this notorious "Red Light Bandit" from intruding upon anyone's property or privacy.

Capital punishment, it is said, is applicable to those who cannot be rehabilitated. Yet the Caryl Chessman who came to death row so long ago, and the Caryl Chessman who was poisoned by gas fumes, were quite different persons.

I feel that I had a useful life ahead of me, had the state been interested in justice, instead of vengeance. Perhaps my books and my literary prospects are figure, but they were readable and printable, and possibly of some contribution to human understanding. There might have been more and better books.



You have asked me if I am sorry, and I am sorry. I am sorry for a childhood that was filled with many ironic twists most of my childhood was spent in institutions that were designed to correct me in ways and manners. They failed to do that for me.

Now I am gone. Whatever use I might have been to society is cancelled by an act of vengeance.

Capital punishment is not a deterrent. Three times, these last few years, I have realized I might be a blessing to the tormented struggle and into inhumane harassment.

I have seen the poor, the friendless, the mentally ill, led to the slaughter of execution. I was told that society has each time, children and grandchildren. There were the mistakes of civilization. Instead of correcting mistakes, society multiplies them. Out of sight, out of mind.

You ask me if I have a confession to make. I have not. In my lifetime I was guilty of many crimes, but not these for which my life was taken. You ask me about a future job. I believe there is none. Caryl Chessman has gone to oblivion, so that society can forget one sorry life time.

PETITIONS DENIED — After California's State Supreme Court yesterday denied petitions for writs of habeas corpus and application for stay of execution of Caryl Chessman in San Francisco, court clerk William I. Sullivan, right, read court's findings to Chessman attorney George T. Davis, right at counter, and newsmen. Chessman was executed in the gas chamber.

Order to Delay Execution Reached Chamber Too Late

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—The bitter conflict Caryl Chessman created in life reached into today after his execution, finally curried out after 12 suspense-filled years in death row.

A federal judge, telephoning to order a delay, got through to the gas chamber Monday just moments too late. He said sharply that one of Chessman's lawyers should have reached him sooner.

Before the cyanide pellets dropped, state Governor Edmund G. (Pat) Brown debated Chessman's fate with protesting pickets on his mansion lawn and later was cheered by the "Chessmaniacs" called by the picket leader, Stanley Mosk, California attorney-general whose official duty had been to resist Chessman's persistent court appeals, said justice had been done under existing law. But he declared Chessman's death "should give impetus to demands that the law be changed."

Chessman, 38, convict - author condemned for kidnapping and sexually abusing two Los Angeles women in January, 1948, died with dignity, as he had said he would. And he insisted to the end that he was innocent of the crimes that cost his life.

Just before taking the last 13 steps into the death chamber, he told Warden Fred Dickson he was not the Red Light Bandit who took two women from parked cars in lovers' lanes and forced them at gunpoint to perform acts of sexual perversion.

Strapped in the straight-backed death chair, the dark - haired Chessman smiled reassuringly at a red-haired woman reporter he personally had invited to witness his execution.

Ignoring all the others of 60 witnesses pressed against the chamber's heavy glass partition, Chessman talked to Eleanor Garner Leeds, trying to have her understand a final message she could not hear through the sound-proof glass.

Mrs. Leeds, Los Angeles Examiner reporter, recalled his lips as saying, "Tell them I'm still a goodguy." Whatever else he said could not be grasped.

The farewell was for Rosalie Asher, Sacramento lawyer. In Chessman's last night in the waiting room outside the gas chamber he named Miss Asher as the executrix of his estate in a handwritten codicil to his will. He directed that future royalties from his books and writings be used

Flouridation Way to Stop Tooth Decay Says Professor

TRONTO (CP)—Prevention of tooth decay by water flouridation rather than dental repair of already decayed teeth was urged Monday by Dr. Gordon Nikiforuk, professor of preventative dentistry at the University of Toronto.

He told the three-man Ontario royal commission on flouridation that Canada never will have enough dentists to keep pace with the present rate of tooth decay.

Dr. Nikiforuk said that only about one-third of Canada's people gets adequate dental care, and it would be impossible to train enough dentists to provide for the treatment of two-thirds.

He agreed that supervised oral hygiene, such as brushing teeth periodically, has been found to reduce decay by as much as 50 per cent, but said this is not a success.

A more practical method of reducing dental disease was to flouridate drinking water, he said. Surveys showed this has checked decay in the teeth of adults by 60 per cent and 40 per cent in children.

Dr. Nikiforuk showed a colored slide of a cleavage of a two-year-old's mouth, showing all the teeth decayed. He said one in 100 American children was similarly affected, and only one in 700 was free of tooth decay.

Surveys in Toronto showed the average five-year-old had five decayed teeth, and by the age of 19 the average young Torontonian had decay in 15 of his 32 secondary teeth.

Flouridation of water supplies was also made public by the Canadian Dental Association and the Canadian League of Nations. The commission has studied the briefs since it was formed early in 1959 after flouridation was alleged to be injurious to health.

Dr. Nikiforuk was questioned by lawyers for the anti-flouridation spokesmen during his all - day stint on the stand. He told Dr. B. Davies, a Hamilton naturopath, that flouridated water is not distasteful. Mr. Davies had said the water at Brantford, which is flouridated, is "distasteful."

Dr. Nikiforuk also said that 22 Canadian communities have flouridation and all have shown a

Will Continue Work on Two Bomarc Sites for Two Months

OTTAWA (CP)—Work on the two Bomarc sites in Canada will continue for another two months at least, Defence Minister Pearkes declared in the Commons Monday.

He said no final decision on the Bomarc program by the United States government is expected until the end of June.

"Until the government of the U.S. changes its policy, entailing a decision to change it or consults us regarding a change, Canada intends to live up to this agreement" to provide two bases for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile.

Replying to a series of questions by Opposition Leader Pearson and CCF House Leader Hazen Argue, Mr. Pearkes noted again that the U.S. House Appropriations subcommittee has recommended scrapping of the Bomarc program.

"As far as the government of the U.S. is concerned, there has been no change in their policy regarding the Bomarc," he added.

Trade Minister Churchill, government House leader, said the 1960-61 defence estimates of $1,- 536,000,000 and defence production estimates of $23,000,000 will be submitted to the special 15-member Commons defence committee for study.

COMMONS HEARS OVERTURE TO N.S. ELECTION

Non-Confidence Motion Drafted

OTTAWA (CP)—The overture to the Nova Scota election campaign began in the Commons Monday.

It will end tonight with a vote on a Liberal non-confidence motion phrased in an apparent attempt to put the Atlantic provinces' financial problems before MPs—including four cabinet ministers—on the spot.

The four-point motion closely follows the wording of the "Atlantic provinces" section of the Conservative candidates in the 1957 and 1958 federal general elections.

It calls for establishment of an Atlantic capital projects fund and special fiscal incentives to encourage private investment in the region, an immediate inquiry to determine the effects of national monetary, fiscal and economic policies on Atlantic development, and adjustment of freight rates and provision of transportation facilities to overcome the area's geographic handicaps.

PICKERSGILL QUIPS

Composer of the piece was J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista-Twillingate). He commended it to House support on a non-partisan basis.

But Revenue Minister Nowlan didn't see it that way. Nova Scotia's cabinet representative remarked on the "mere coincidence" that a general provincial election was coming.

Louw Objects To Discussion Of Apartheid

Willing to Hold Talks Outside Formal Parley

LONDON (Reuters)—South African External Affairs Minister Eric Louw today objected over discussion of his country's racial policies at the opening session of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

An informant said South Africa's policy of strict racial segregation was raised at the first formal meeting this morning of the 11-nation conference.

Louw, deputizing for South African Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, was reported to have expressed his willingness to meet other prominent ministers at the 11-nation assembly outside the formal conference to inform them of developments in his country.

Louw was understood to have objected to discussion of South Africa's domestic affairs at the conference on the ground it was not in accordance with past traditions of such meetings.

MUST CONSULT

No topic can be put on the agenda unless it has the consent of all the Commonwealth delegates. South Africa maintains that its racial policies are its own domestic affair.

Tunku (prince) Abdul Rahman, Malayan minister, who made an advance notice he would refer to the racial issue in his response to United Kingdom speech of welcome at the opening meeting, said: "Some Commonwealth countries he told reporters he could not say anything about."

The meeting was opened officially by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at 10 Downing Street, the official London residence, 10 Downing Street.

There was no statement after the morning session of the conference. Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker joined her colleagues for lunch with Macmillan. Mrs. Diefenbaker accompanied her husband for the lunch.

The 11 men represent some 700,000,000 people of many races —a quarter of the world's total population. This is the largest such meeting since the Second World War, and the most crucial in the history of the Commonwealth.

For the first time in the history of Commonwealth meetings, they are confronted by an issue so explosive that it may split the entire—the problem of South Africa's racial policies.

Follies mindful of weekend anti-South African demonstrations in London, the unusual security clearing all sightseers from Downing Street and Whitehall—there were no disturbances.

In the next 11 days the prime ministers must find a way of dealing with the problem in terms mild enough to satisfy South Africa representative, External Affairs Minister Eric Louw, out of the chamber, yet forthright enough to convince

South African House Approves Republic Vote

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — nationalist government won proval in the House of Asser here Monday night for a pla hold a referendum aimed at ing South Africa a republic.

The bill to put the republ issue to an all-white elect was passed after opposamendments were defeated. bill's passage through the Se is considered certain.

South Africa no has a pementary system of governm based on the British pattern

Prime Minister Hendrik woerd has stated that a simajority in favor of a rep will be enough to justify sev from the direct ties with monarchy and the appointm of a South African as head of s

Many observers here think Nationalists will obtain a m ity in a referendum, but pr that it will be close.

Tony Said Charming Young Man But Not Thought as Marrying Kind

He's colorful, but not flamboyant.

He used to give midnight parties in his arty basement apartment, but pictures never got the wild abandoned revels that some people reported.

He's a witty commentator on people, places and things, but lacks the acid tongue of a wit or a man of the world.

Tony is 30.

He's known and liked by widely varying people—London toughies, wet young men, debutantes, lissily sloppy juveniles, actors and actresses, exotic beauties, and aristocrats as well as average British subjects.

Although highly attractive to women he was not until he wooed Princess Margaret — regarded by girls as the marrying kind.

Yet among this varied circle of friends few if any ever have been known to say they don't like him. In describing him they invariably use the word charming.

By profession a photographer, be abandoned his trade to wed. But the public probably will link him with a lens for the rest of his life.

Four years ago he pointed a camera at Princess Margaret, and fate stared over his shoulder. With the snap of a shutter he was on his way down the royal road of romance.

The tall, red-haired Duke liked what Tony's camera did for his family photographs. He was important, perhaps, the duke's mother liked the picture, and the Duchess of Kent is an admirer of fashion behind-the Royal Family. One of the persons to whom the duchess spoke was the Queen.

Tony scored a second double and then parlayed this into a commission to take Princess Margaret's official birthday photograph.

Thurlow Twp. Will Enforce Dog By-Law

Point Anne residents are up in arms!

That is, about dogs running at large and making a general nuisance of themselves.

And as result, Thurlow township officials have given instructions to their dog catcher to make a clean up of all stray dogs, not only in Point Anne but in the rest of the township as well.

Township Clerk Earl Dafoe pointed out that it is an offence under the township by-law to allow dogs to run at large and owners and harborers of such dogs may be charged in court.

There are also a number of dogs without 1960 tags. This is also an offence under the township by-law.

Speaker Poses Serious Question At Rotary Club

"Is the Canadian brewery industry justified in asking for government tax relief?" was the question posed by Mr. John Kemp executive vice-president of the Molson brewing firm in Ontario, to members of the Belleville Rotary Club yesterday at their dinner meeting. Mr. Kemp, a University of Toronto graduate said that the brewing industry has been subjected to a continual accord of tax increases by both federal and provincial governments since 1939. He added that Canadian breweries have found time to be the only manner in which the industry has been able to hold down the price of beer and ale and that, as a result, a number of smaller breweries have "gone under".

In pointing out the various taxes which the Canadian brewing industry pays it is interesting to noted with the speaker noted that the special tax imposed at the time of the Korean war has been lifted from all other industries on which it was imposed with the exception of the brewing industry. He also said that the products of the Canadian breweries which is an entirely Canadian industry employing employment for close to 62,000 people, are taxed three times more heavily than foreign wines which contribute little, if anything to the Canadian economy.

TELLS OF INDUSTRY

The former officer of the Black Watch also gave a brief account of brewing through the ages and lay especial emphasis upon the part which it played in Great Britain's history. He also referred to the research work at Guelph investigating the problem of alcoholism in which it has been determined that a high beer consumption is usually band in land with a low rate of alcoholism.

It is the brewing industry's announced policy to pass on 100 per cent of any tax relief directly to the consumer, said Mr. Kemp for it is felt that current prices are much too high.

He pointed that the lower price on beer and ale would probably result in the consumption of popular drink and, according to experiments in this direction in other countries, would be acceptable in bring down Canada's alcoholism rate.

Mr. Kemp was introduced by Court Miller and thanked by Ab Wonnacott. Jack Yanovei, immediate past president of the club, was chairman in the absence of club president Bill Hurst. George McIlhern introduced the guests and grace was given by Joe Demeza.

GARNET ROY BAILEY
Toronto
Mount Pleasant Rawdon

RAWDON — Garnet Roy Bailey, 51, Glenvale Avenue, Toronto, died on Thursday, April 28th, 1960, in the General Hospital, Toronto, after a long illness of seven months. He was born at Mount Pleasant, Rawdon township, on November 11, 1908, the son of the late Albert Bailey and his wife Alberta Reid.

Following his public school education at the Allen School, Rawdon township, he attended High School in Stirling and thence to Peterborough Normal School. After his graduation he taught for a term in enlist and served overseas in the Army with the rank of Captain during the war he received a wound in the right leg which was amputated above the knee. He married Miss Lillian Winstone, daughter of the late Rev. Mr. Winstone, a Methodist minister of Rawdon circuit. After farming for a number of years in Hungerford and Anson, he returned to Peterborough Normal and completed his training for the teaching profession. He then taught in Peterborough Collegiate Institute before joining the staff of the Earl Grey School in Toronto where he taught for over 30 years. In 1931 he established Camp Bailey on the Half-Burton district. For the past few years he has devoted full time to this project following his retirement from the teaching profession.

He is survived by his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Joanne Lee (Barbara) Short, Armprior, and five grandchildren, Peter, Lisa, Billy, Tom and Jimmy; one brother, Mr. Charles A. Bailey of Regent, Manitoba; two sisters, Mrs. Harry (Isobel) Beeson, and a great sister, Mrs. Pearlie Benson, of Ivanhoe. Two sisters, Mrs. Lewis (Vita) Locke and Mrs. Percy (Gertrude) Shaver, are predeceased.

He rested at the Trull Funeral Home, 2704 Yonge Street, Toronto, until Saturday morning, when the private funeral service was held. A family friend, Rev. Dr. W. J. Johnston officiated. Dr. Johnson had also officiated at the funeral of Mr. Bailey's parents and at their daughter, Barbara's wedding.

Interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Rawdon.

Hospital Career Explained to Hundred Pupils

KINGSTON — Over one hundred high school students taking vocational guidance teachers from 30 high schools in the Kingston area took part in a Hospital Careers Day sponsored by Hospital Council No. 3 and held in the three Kingston hospitals, Kingston General, Hotel Dieu and the Canadian Forces Hospital, on Saturday.

The high school participating included Belleville Collegiate, Bayside Secondary School, Albert College, Moira Secondary School, Madoc High School, Marmora High School, Bancroft High School, Campbellford High School, Sterling High School, Trenton High School, Tweed High School and Picton Collegiate.

J. L. Murray, principal of the Queen Elizabeth Collegiate in Kingston, was general chairman and was on hand to greet the visitors at Etherington Hall, Kingston General Hospital, for registration, a panel discussion and a film during the morning.

The panel made up of nurses in different stages of their training, an x-ray technician, a pharmacist, an occupational therapist and a therapy assistant, a dietitian, a record librarian, a certified nursing assistant, a laboratory technician and an administrative assistant were on hand to explain the training required for their particular positions and to emphasize the satisfaction to be derived from each field. Miss Lorraine Orser, Guidance Director at Q.E.C.V.I., was moderator of the panel. Perhaps the most enquiring member of the panel was M. J. Brown, a graduate nurse now who is director of nursing in the Napanee and Pickering Hospital. Mr. Brown explained that the shortage of nurses is attracting more men than ever before. He said that at the present time there are 2,000 male registered nurses in Ontario and quite a number of others who have not completed their training. Miss C. Brown, of Belleville Hospital was the dietitian on the panel.

Following the panel discussion, a film titled" Helping Hands for Julie" was shown which effectively illustrated how the many different workers in the hospital are brought into the picture as a team on a single case involving a seven-year-old girl with meningitis and pneumonia.

A question and answer period was followed by a delicious and substantial lunch served by the girls of the high school in their parish hall. The students and teachers then separated into two groups. One group toured the nursing school, the X-ray laboratory and the blood bank at Hotel Dieu Hospital; the other group toured the new Canadian Forces Hospital and visited the records library, an emergency operating room with a most effective demonstration of a first aid case, the diet kitchens, the occupational and physiotherapy departments, and other parts of this beautiful and modern hospital.

Trout Anglers Filled Creels In 'North'

Thirty-five pounds — count 'em — thirty-five pounds of luscious speckled trout.

"Cy" Gardiner of the Division Court Office, Belleville was a member of the party. So was Al Day of this city and Durland Sawyer of Oshawa, formerly of Belleville and two friends.

"We caught one of the biggest ones while trolling in the Sunday snowstorm," said Cy. "And we caught another also trolling using a flatfish."

They caught the others using worms and spinners."

Gardiner said the party caught one of the ten beauties on Saturday in rain and the rest on Sunday; two of them in the middle of a miniature blizzard."

ANOTHER NICE HAUL

Another nice haul was that brought home by Jack O'Brien and party of this city who bagged 15 speckled beauties of the trout.

The speckles weighed between one-half and two pounds. The guys weighed three and four pounds respectively.

Resting after the angling in the Plevna area using spoons and spinners. The grey trout went for the spinning bait.

IN MEMORIAM

GUNNETT. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Bernard Gunnett, who passed away May 3rd, 1954.

We walked together, you and I, in sorrow and in joy,
We shared our trials and happiness, with love without alloy.
The circle of the Wonderful Maker
Has drawn you near and dear,
For through the mist I see
The shining light of heaven
Reflected by wife and daughter.

GILLESPIE. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary J. Gillespie, who passed away May 3rd, 1954.

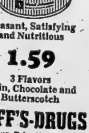
Lord, in stirring Bible of duty,
Service and giving the wisdom of the way.
A cheerful heart of gold,
So the dearest mother the world could hold.
—Always remembered by daughters Mabel and May, sons Hugh and Pete.

ROSS. — In loving memory of a dear cousin, Carrie Louise, who passed away May 3rd, 1954.

Memories are sweet dear cousin,
As we think of days gone by,
Years that seem to change never,
Our loving memories of you.
—Lovingly remembered by Jessie and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all who helped us in the past week dogs from the Internment Prisoners of War Camp, Belleville, the Salvation Army and Red Cross, especially Mrs. Ruth McCabe, for their kindness, many friends, relatives and neighbors for their help during our illness and sorrow, for their gift of money which was received, and for the lovely floral tributes. Thanks to Rev. Dr. Evenson and Rev. Smith for their comforting words at the funeral service and for their interment given. Our sincere thanks for assistance and offers of transportation.
—Jack and Doris Andrews and family.



I would like to thank the nurses and staff of Belleville General Hospital for their kindness and helpfulness, also my many friends and neighbors, cards, fruit, candy and flowers I received. I also thank those kind friends to Dr. Empson, Father Hamilton, Rev. Hummel and Father Simonin.
—Mrs. John Wragge.

The family of the late Nell Woodcock, Frankford, wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to their friends, neighbors and relatives for their many kindnesses and beautiful floral offerings. Special thanks to Dr. Ross Field, Dr. Hall, Dr. Empson who so generously donated their services, the Ontario Provincial Police, Mr. Ostrom, the funeral director and Rev. D. McMullen.

Johnny Horeck Gets 3 Offers To Coach Teams

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Three Western Hockey League clubs are vying for the services of manager-coach Johnny Horeck of Chatham Maroons, 1960 Allan Cup champions.

First to put in a bid and the most likely professional club in the league-loving city, Horeck were Vancouver Canucks. Also seeking his services were Victoria Cougars and Spokane Comets.

The manager of Canada's 1960 senior amateur hockey champions refused to elaborate on any of the offers, saying: 'My plans for next season still are up in the air."

But he said he would consider seriously any offer to coach a professional team in the WHL.

Horeck met here with Art Chapman of Vancouver, Roy McBride of Spokane and Bill Laycock of Victoria.

Chapman, assistant general-manager of Canucks, has been Canucks' coach since 1952. An influential spectator at the winter has sparked reports at Vancouver that he would likely give up the coaching reins next season.

Horeck, 39, played for Chapman from 1945-46 Buffalo in the American League. Each holds the other in high esteem.

Chapman will talk to Horeck again next week when the Moncton coach returns to his Detroit home.

Housing Starts Greatly Reduced For Last Year

A drastic reduction in the number of new housing starts this year is having its effect on the local building trades as well as in a drastic reduction in business for local supply houses.

City Building Inspector Grant Sickle today noted there had been only 14 new residential units started in Belleville, so far this year with a value of $186,600.

The new apartment house this year is being constructed on West Bridge Street at the corner of Dundas Extension, and for the new apartment block is now commencing.

MONEY TIGHTENING

Reason for the drastic drop in residential construction and in the generally given as the tightening in money available for loans.

"It is unfortunate because the housing construction has been one of our major industries in Belleville," stated building inspector Sickle.

Mr. Cecil Bluser, manager of the Belleville National Employment office, had the same view. "Building in Belleville is by construction to get the trades people working," he noted. "We are hoping for a change but the prospects are not too bright."

Four Out of 10 Parking Meters Out of Order

TRENTON — At last night's meeting of Trenton council a report from the supplier of the town's parking meters was read. A service man connected with the firm has been conducting a survey into the reasons why the town has been losing revenue on the meters for several months. Last week all the meters in town were checked and repaired where parts were available. The report concluded that four per cent of the meters has been unserviceable.

During the past two and a half years, $66.16 has been spent on repairs to the meters. For some time, several of the curbside meters have been broken and the majority of the meters in the Front Street parking lot have not been working properly. Thus several persons have found that parking spots which didn't cost them a penny, but which, on the other hand, didn't bring revenue to the town's coffers.

Mayor James MacDonald suggested that a parking compulsion should be appointed to supervise the meters. Councillors D. R. Fraser and R. J. Whitley suggested that the parking of the meters could very well be taken out and a man appointed to collect parking fees at the parking lot. It was felt that this individual could also be used to aside meters as part of his job. The matter was left in the hands of the Trenton police force supervises the meters and the collection, with the hint that a man hired to do the job would be a less expensive way of handling the situation.

The matter will be discussed at committee level and a report submitted to council as a whole.

Plan Fireworks

TRENTON — Members of Trenton's fire department are busy organizing plans for the second annual giant fireworks display to be staged on Mount Pelion on the evening of May 23.

There has been a good response to appeals to merchants and factories in town for donations to be used to buy fireworks. Individuals wishing to contribute to the general fund may leave their donations at the fire hall.

Last year's show was a great success and it is expected that this year's display will be better still.

Economy-Minded Councillor Critical of Town Workers

TRENTON — Councillor R. J. Whitley, noted for his versatility, has turned his talents to weather forecasting. He informed his fellow-councillors that "it's going to be a hot summer", at last night's council meeting. The councillor qualified his statement by adding that the temperature would depend on the action taken by town employees to his demand that the engineer be cut down.

Mr. Whitley said that he had been elected by the people of Trenton because

Pearkes' Misfortune

We have the deepest sympathy with Hon G. R. Pearkes in his present predicament. It is his misfortune to have become Canadian Minister of National Defence at most difficult time in the country's history.

His woes with the-Bomarc Bee have grown into the proportions of a soap-opera series and his latest burden is the decision Friday of the appropriations committee of the U.S. House of Representatives to recommend such a decisive reduction in the appropriations for the Bomarc that, if approved, it will mean that Canada will not obtain the planned two squadrons of these ground-to-air missiles.

If the recommendation is approved and finalized it will not be in keeping with arrangements made over a year ago by our two top ministers of defence and finance, Mr. Pearkes told the House of Commons Friday.

Mr. Pearkes' foes will chuckle at his embarrassment but he deserves sympathy. He has the unhappy fate of being theoretically responsible for the defence of Canada at that time when technological developments have transferred actual control of defence arrangements from Ottawa to Washington. What has happened to Mr. Pearkes will happen to future defence ministers, as long as Canada is too small to afford to develop space-age weapons of her own and as long as the legislative and executive branches of the U. S. government are divided, so that an executive decision can be over-ruled by the legislative branch refusing to appropriate the necessary money. President Eisenhower's position, and that of his defence secretary, are basically precisely the same as that of Mr. Pearkes, but they are accustomed to the unanimity surrounding the best-laid plans of president and secretary and are not so uncomfortable over the fact that Congress makes them gang aft agley. What's more—it is their own Congress, and not that of a neighboring country, which forces them to suffer the same fate as mice.

Errata—Otherwise Know As Boo-Boos

" . . . we have seen in one publication that Canada ports more to South Africa than it imports from that ntry when the reverse is true." Ontario Intelligencer torial April 26.

"Canada exported goods worth $51,397,000 to South ica last year and we imported goods worth $6,651,) from South Africa." Prime Minister Diefenbaker aking in the House of Commons April 28.

We feel sure that Prime Minister Diefenbaker ld be certain of his figures on such an important nt and we call your attention to the correct istics. Our statement was based on a December 1959 ade and Commerce synopsis of an article in "Foreign ade" and was read and re-read before being quoted. e statement has since disappeared into the "waste-ket basket but memory suggests the explanation for error may have been a misplaced decimal sentence in ich the words "slightly higher" should have been ten to mean the increase in imports compared with increase in exports, rather than the total of imports compared with the total of exports.

No doubt handy excuse is available for a sentence in editorial published April 20 with reference to tement by Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds that "well trained military forces of high morale will never be obso-." Re-reading the editorial, reproduced without ment in the Windsor Star, we find that we said if h forces never become obsolete "it will be because whole human race has been made obsolete in a d whose radioactivity it cannot survive." We did mean such a gratuitous insult to members of well-ned military force, the only possible inference from sentence as quoted being that we do not consider h soldiers are members of the human race.

Historic Hastings

It has been some time since we brought our readers up to date on the work of the Hastings County Historical Society. Accordingly, we would call attention to the following aspects of our work:

Despite its name, the Hastings County Historical Society is interested in more than the history of this county alone.

One of its aims is the encouragement of the study of history throughout Canada, and the Society endeavors to do what it can for other historical groups.

Many items of local interest that do not pertain directly to this county are received from local donors. These are turned over to the appropriate bodies, at once.

For example, among the papers of the late Col. W. N. Ponton, received by the Society was a copy book of despatches from the South African (Boer) War. This was forwarded to the Dominion Archives at Ottawa, where it is known to quite a few Canadian scholars interested in that period.

Similarly, when the Manitoba Historical Society held a 1959 dinner commemorating the centenary of the Nor' Wester and the Selkirk Settlers, two articles displayed were brought to the attention of the Hastings County Historical Society. These were a prospectus for the dinner and an early copy of the paper — donated by Mr. Wallace Ramsay family of Belleville.

Donations of pictures postcards, from the collections turned over to the local society by Mrs. Lucy Yeo and Miss Alice Lin- ton have been made to the Archives Advisory Board of Ontario, Northumberland and Peter- borough historical societies, as well as the Ontario Archives at Toronto.

Material has also been trans- ferred by the Quinte Archives and a proposed transportation museum at Toronto.

Another service the Society provides is the clipping of in- formation regarding ancestors and conditions in this area. Material has been supplied to persons in Quebec, Manitoba, and British Columbia as well as parts of Ontario.

For those persons visiting Belleville for conveyance, etc. the Society has put out short tours and historical sketches. A three page illustrated account of Belleville was distributed to Sesquicentennial attending their convention here this last week- end, courtesy the Hastings County Historical Society.

Meanwhile, the Society has continued its policy of collect- ing artifacts from such archives and proposed museum. Dona- tions of material and financial assistance are sincerely acknowledged from the following: the Ontario Archives; Archivist Mrs. James Dorsey of Honey- wells Corners, Perth; Mr. Hugh Salmon of Melrose; Miss Hazel Far- mer of Trenton; Mrs. Don Farns- worth of Norwich, Que.; Mrs. Lennox and Addington Histor- ical Society; Mrs. Stevenson of Ft. Lyon, London Eng.; Mr. Harry M. Morden of Pembroke; Mrs. Walter Wright of Trenton, and the following Belleville re- sidents: Mrs. Jas. Bell, Mr. D. S. Denyes, Mr. W. N. Hurst, Mrs. A. E. Fitzgerald, Miss Helen Frallick, Mr. John Johnson, Mr. Don McKinnon, Mr. Keith Mc- Coy, Mr. Gordon Mills, Detec- tive Chief Walter Probert, Mr. Thomas Ramsay, Mr. Kenneth G. M. Ross, Mr. T. G. Wright- more and Mr. F. H. Wills.

Our thanks to all of these people!

It Will Have To Be Robots From Here On

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I read recently that a New York psychology student (whose thesis discussed the effects of human gullibility) inserted an ad in a newspaper offering well- paid jobs as servants. He was said to have received more than 7,000 replies.

I think this indicates much about human gullibility; it just demonstrates what people will do in the present state of the way of servants. Not human be- ings, but robots, animals.

What the more comfortable classes today call "the servant problem" is a late-day social symptom of the master problem. In past ages, when labor was cheap and the "lower orders" were thought to be scarcely human, servants were consider- ed little more than machines that happened to walk, talk, eat and sleep.

The technological revolution has had its revenge. The virtual disappearance of the servant class is already a re- bellion against that degrad- ing idea. Now, when employers have to go begging to get servants — even to treat them like human beings — they apply much more satisfactorily.

Anyone who has ever ob- served the maids' rooms in old- fashioned apartments would know how impossible it is to recruit smaller primates) were in the habit of living in such dreadful cav- ities. A servant, at the turn of the century, was supposed to live in a hole, have little or no per- sonal life, be absolutely sexless and anonymous, and simply eat and sleep when not called upon to serve.

I am not suggesting that all, or even most, employers were in- humane. They were not con- sciously cruel; they simply didn't look upon servants as the same kind of human being with the same ends and desires and de- mands and frustrations. Back- stairs was a menagerie.

Then offices and factories be- gan to bid workers with promi- ses of regular hours, decent pay, and some kind of life of their own. The householders be- came frantic — new furniture and gas and electric stoves, dish- dishwashers and television sets ad- vertised as labor-savers. Churches and Sundays given off — it still didn't help few takers.

And the "servant problem" is going to get worse, unless per- haps we consider genetic steri- lization. We are beginning to learn that those quaint crea- tures never really enjoyed their jobs, that they were filled with resentments and frustrations, and seized the first opportunity to upgrade themselves. The age of the well-trained ape has disap- peared; it will have to be robots, madam, from here on.

Phone Offers Free Advice

Louisville Courier-Journal

Overweight has become a prob- lem in growing numbers of ma- many. Even the telephone books have shown an alarming spread, growing so heavy that only a weight lifter can cope with them. The post office department which runs the telephone service, vows to do something about it.

The basic reform is to allow each subscriber only two ack- demic titles, abbreviated, after his name in the telephone listing. This will be a sad deprivation in a land where the Herr Doktor Professor is still regarded as a great esteem. Also, only two indivi- tions of a subscriber's business will be permitted in the classified listing of a small firm as "chess- makers Incorporated," whereas timber merchants, wholesalers and retailers of coal and heating oil must shrink to "coal and fuel".

The German telephone service is ambitious in many ways. It has recently introduced automa- tic translation for telephone calls to Britain and Ireland, and plans a service to Australia shortly. The simple gesture of dialing a number will bring such free in- formation as the correct time, sports, football and racing results, the weather, and even the local theatres, a daily recipe and a fairy story.

Hamburg and Berlin have gone even further. Those needing ad- vice can now dial a number and get somebody to tell them how to deal with a philandering hus- band, cope with a nagging wife, sh mother-in-law. Here the ef- fect surely outreaches itself. Either the oracle of the telephone will prove so successful that peo- ple will spend their entire time pouring their troubles into the re- ceiver, to the destruction of all normal service, or the advice will lead to so many disasters as to pull down the government, post office, phone system and all.

Infallible Trade Recipe

Vancouver Province

There is only one infallible recipe for trade. It is made up of three ingredients: Quality, price and delivery.

No trade or tariff arrange- ments can equal these three things as a means of drumming up business. When quality, price and delivery are satisfactory one can be sure the other segments of the trade problem will fall into place.

When they are unsatisfactory no trade or tariff arrangement will do us much good.

TREATMENT EFFECTIVE IN MILD CASES OF DANDRUFF

"Dear Dr. Molner: How can I get rid of dandruff? My scalp is very moist, and it keeps me awake nights scrat- ching.—C.W."

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a very dry and flaky kind of dandruff, and I've had it for until it's almost unbearable- ly itchy.—Mrs. D."

Remember, friends, that not every speck at the scalp is dan- druff. A certain amount of flak- ing from the scalp is normal. I say this because many people begin to worry when they happen to see a few flakes on their collar and they go through all sorts of irritations and worry when they needn't be at all.

Now what is dandruff? Gen- erally it is a skin disease called seborrheic dermatitis. (There are other conditions which may be confused with dandruff, but this is the usual one.)

The exact cause remains open to argument, although there is very persuasive evidence that some low-grade infection may start it.

Anyway, the sebaceous glands at the hair roots become over- active, producing an excessive supply of a material called sebum, a rather greasy or fatty material so it is not surprising that a flow of old skin to be quite greasy.

Now a certain amount of bac- teria, as well as fungus, is or- dinarily present on the scalp anyway. With a case of dan- druff, they seem to increase in number, and while they also seem to have any effect on the dandruff, when the patient scratches a lot, he may open up a place where spots of infection can develop, and this may aggra- vate as well as the confounded itch.

Best treatment? Shampooing with tincture of green soap is often helpful and if you have a tendency to make the scalp dry and flaky, shampoo with a cream containing selenium disulphide. It is very effective. (Directions should be followed carefully.)

If such treatment doesn't work (in mild cases it usually does, however) it's a good idea to take the problem to your doc- tor. Dry, flaky scalp (or a scalp with a tendency to itch) can be one consequence of thyroid deficien- cy, for example.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have what has been diagnosed as phlebitis. My leg swells con- siderably during the day, es- pecially about the ankle and ankle. I have been advised by some people that I am a case- alistic stocking, and by others not to. What do you advise?— M.T."

I'd advise you to remember that "some people" cooks can spoil the broth, and there's more than one way to skin a cat.

By which I mean, madam, that some people think it is a good Thanksgiving pie the day before and some like to make it on Thanksgiving morning. As with pie, so is fine but if you try to do it both ways you wind up either with too many pies or none.

If your phlebitis is in the se- vere stage, rest, support with an elastic bandage, and suitable medications are in order. Per- sonally, I wouldn't get an ela- stic stocking on a bed patient- ly under my tending. Later on, the stocking.

One thing I firmly suggest: Follow the advice of your cur- rent physician. Those who have not seen you personally in your case aren't as well equipped to say. (That includes me, too!)

Family Trees In Big Demand

Minneapolis Tribune

British genealogists report a new boom in tracing family trees for Americans. Americans in England are a sudden interest in ancestry and heredity and decide they should like to know more about their ancestors.

Sometimes the tree, some colorful stories about their fore- bears and perhaps a plaque with a coat of arms in it has a prestige value among their new-country friends, but most of them show a genuine pe- riod interest in the British ex- perience. Many of the histo- ries in the closet often turned up after careful search of the records seldom bother the Americans, who prefer those that offer all these generations the solid drama to the family history.

The genealogists deplore the sudden interest, for it gives them as a basis for their research only the barest facts. Certainly it is a common failing, they are speaking, for Americans to be peculiarly absent-minded track of their family connections even a few generations back. It will one day it occurs to them to think a little more about a certain branch, and there is a relative around who can fill in the gaps. The old custom has been to record of vital statistics on family records, but the family Bible had its advantages. Even Americans not interested in fol- lowing the tribe back to the 16th Century might enjoy sa- sembling some notes on the re- collections of their older rela- tives. It would be a bonus pecus of fossing a coin, watching on that, and then defrauding himself at the end, to make him realize his decision.

You may add that when he accepts the decision. It is with the darkest misgivings. Copy- right: Canada Wide

One of my cronies is a mad mesalliance by marrying a girl living up his mind. Indecision is not only natural to him, he seems to like it.

His usual course, when faced with a decision, is to say: "Heads I do," he says, firmly, "I don't know."

Up goes the coin and comes down heads.

"Two out of three," he says, quickly, tossing the coin.

It comes down heads again.

"Three out of five," he's ex- claims, anxiously.

CHRIST CHURCH BANQUET

Over 150 sat down to the annual father and son banquet, Tables, decorated in the Group colors of yellow and green, candles, daffodils and a beautifully-made centrepiece of real birds and butterflies, presented a gay welcome to the guests. The place cards were small cloth neckerchiefs, looped around candy airplanes — unique and novel. The turkey dinner served by the ladies was evidence that their talents included good cooks too. A wonderful dinner for which the convener, Mrs. John Johnston, and her ladies, well deserve the tributes paid to them by Alfred Wagner, President Mrs. Rainbird replied to the vote of thanks.

Mr. Doug McBride introduced the head table: F. J. Lancaster, president. District Council; Scout Robert Low, O.S.D.; Scoutmaster L. Blaker; A.S.M. E. Yader, O.S.D.; District Commissioner Phil Allcorn; Dr. H. House, Mr. C. Dafoe, chairman, Cub Jim Dafoe, Rev. Earl Smith, Cub Michael Hayward, S.M. A. A. Williams, Cubs, Rev. H. A. C. Massish, Scout Peter Sleoli, O.S.D., Mr. Bruce Palmer, representing Christ Church Men's Club.

Dr. House told us many things about honey bees in a very entertaining and informative talk on a subject he is well versed in. The Roman General, Scorpio, refused to advance because a swarm of bees landed on his tent. Myths exist to this day. Politically if bees are attracted to a person he is considered to be good. Bees communicate by signs and tokens, partially understood by people. When food is found the bee finding it passes the information to the hive by dancing in peculiar ways. By this means they are told how far away the food is, and the direction. Samples are brought back so that they know what to look for. The speed of the dance denotes distance, the further away the slower the dance. Headwinds and obstructions are indicated by energy, thus a mile with difficulties would be about as a mile and a half. If food is close by, the dance becomes a staggered walk, meaning that no trouble will be experienced finding it.

The boys, indeed all of us, followed Dr. House with interest as he described many other little known facts about honey bees and were sorry when he ended his speech.

INVESTITURE AND BADGES

Akela Kemp, assisted by Rikki (Joan Brendall and Raksha (Mrs Gibson) awarded Second Stars to Cubs Jim Dafoe and Richard Wagner The ceremony was made interesting because Akela Kemp explained the different steps in detail. Various very clever and amusing skits were presented by the Cubs. Scout Glen Rainbird was given his Cub Instructors badge. Glen has been a great help to the Pack and was thanked by Akela for his valuable services. Scoutmaster Lionel Blaker awarded the following badges: "Healthyman" and "Missioner" to Glen Rainbird, Geof Gray, Bruce Johnston Frank King, Brian Cooney, Bill Elliott, Mike Nichols, R. Herring, S. Middleton, Timmy Cole, D. Lexington, D. Reid J., Gray, Bill Gibson. "Ambulance" to R. Herring, Timmy Cole. "Entertainer" to D. McMurray. "Knotter" to Glen Rainbird. "Fireman" to Glen Rainbird, Geof. Gray, Bruce Johnston. "Debater" to Geof. Gray. "All-Round Cord" to Glen Rainbird and Geof. Gray. Promoted to Second Class Scouts: Mike Nichols, Don Niles and Richard Herring.

The evening was brought to a happy conclusion by the presentation of a beautiful bowl of flowers by Scout Timmy Cole to Mrs. Eleanor Blaker and Akela Kemp from Mrs. Rainbird in appreciation of their long and useful service to Scouting.

On behalf of the boys from the O.S.D., Cubs, Scouts and Rovers of Christ Church and the fathers we extend to the ladies of the Boy Scouts Auxiliary our grateful thanks for a wonderful evening of Scouting. To chairman R. Dafoe and the group committees our congratulations on a well planned program.

We are proud to be associated with such well turned out boys and leaders and wish you "Good Hunting" and "Good Scouting".

ARMY STAFF COLLEGE STUDENTS PREPARE FOR EXERCISE — An exercise of a tactical nature without troops and with no firing will be carried out by approximately 75 student officers and members of the Directing Staff of the Canadian Army Staff College, Kingston, in the Trenton-Belleville-Shannonville areas during the period May 18 to 20. 75 RMC Student Officers To Take Part in Exercise

KINGSTON — Approximately 75 student officers and members of the directing staff of the Canadian Army Staff College, Kingston, will be carrying out an exercise in the Trenton-Belleville-Shannonville areas, and north to the Stirling area during the period May 18 to 20. The exercise will be of a tactical nature without troops and with no firing. It will be directed by Brigadier Roger Rowley, DSO, ED, CD, Commandant of the Canadian Army Staff College.

Although most of the exercise will be conducted on roadways, occasionally it will be necessary for student officers, in preparing their appreciations of the ground, to go onto private land to view tactically important features. When students have finally selected the land from which they will give their solutions to the problems, approval to use that particular land will be obtained from individual landowners. A similar procedure has been followed by the Staff College in the Kingston area for many years. Student officers will be in small groups of about six, headed by a senior member of the directing staff.

In the past, the Staff College has generally obtained landowners' consent to use their land prior to the exercise taking place. As the areas involved in this exercise are greater and include many more landowners, it is not feasible to contact all those concerned beforehand. The Staff College recognizes that spring planting will have been done and students will take precautions not to walk on crops. Gates will be left closed.

Ladies' Section Q.C.C. Plans New Furniture

An executive meeting of the ladies' section of the Quinte Curling Club was held at the home of the president, Mrs. R. J. White.

The past president, Mrs. R. J. Cooke, said the executive that a committee must be approached to draw up a constitution before the next annual meeting.

It was agreed to wait until the constitution was drawn up before deciding on having a second vice-president, the purpose being to avoid tying up any individual for three years. And also, to allow more members the opportunity of joining the executive.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. F. Fallwell.

Mrs. A. Woltenden, chairman of house committee, was enthusiastic over her proposed plans for furnishing the club house. She felt that the club should take a long range view when furnishing. New furniture should be purchased rather than patching up the old so that eventually the members would have a cloth house of which they can be proud. This will have to be approved by the men's division of the Quinte Curling Club. A letter is to be sent to the men's annual meeting requesting their permission for this project.

Mrs. Cooper, convener, Mrs. E. Gowsell, discussed the various problems to be solved before next year's curling.

Mrs. V. White suggested that a monthly bulletin be sent to all members, thus enabling the membership to be kept informed of the various activities of the club. This idea was greeted with enthusiasm and Mrs. G. Robb has agreed to act as bulletin editor.

Mrs. T. Fallwell volunteered her services as Sunshine Chairman.

Bayside H-S Assoc. Holds Fine 'Fun Fair'

The Bayside Home and School Association held a successful "Fun Fair" in Bayside School on Friday evening. There was a large crowd in attendance and everyone taking home some prize money in one game or another or bought from one of the many tables.

The table for baking was convened by Mrs. C. Ackerman, who was assisted by Mrs. Smith (Carter), and Mrs. Hall; the sewing table by Mrs. Thurston, assisted by Mrs. Terry; the white-elephant table by Mrs. Arthur, assisted by Mrs. Billham, Mrs. Dale and Mrs. Wallbridge; the fish-pond by Mrs. Campbell, assisted by Mrs. Clydon, Mrs. Richards and Mrs. McLaughlin; soft drinks and potato chips by Mrs. Cavers, assisted by Mr. McAllister; the games room by Mr. George Miller, assisted by Messrs. McLaughlin, H. Parks and Pickett, while the darts and movies were convened by Mr. Glydon, assisted by Mrs. George Ackerman.

TEA ROOM

The tea room was convened by Mrs. Carter, assisted by Mrs. Little and Mrs. Cliff Miller. Behind the tea room table were yellow and mauve with small flowers decorated with mauve flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitby received donations and Mrs. Rose showed a large display of quilts, Brownie, Cub and Scout work. All the efforts of the above were capably coordinated under the careful direction of Mrs. Christina Gendron.

The executive and members would like to express their thanks to those assisting to make this "Fun Fair" the overwhelming success it was.

A special thanks goes to Mrs. Ray Gendron who must have spent many hours in preparation for this event, and a special thanks to all those who contributed so generously to the various tables.

Special prizes were won by Mrs. Thurston, (hamper of groceries); Glenn Cryce, (bracelet and set); and F. Jones ($5.). These were the draw prizes. The door prize, a $5. groceries voucher was won by Jimmy Wallbridge and the crochet centre piece by Mrs. Richardson. The crochet apron was won by Miss Bailey and the bean count by Mrs. Adam.

All attending were reminded of the next regular meeting on May 12th, at which time the teachers will be in their classes at 7.30, a half hour before the start of the meeting, to see the parents who have displayed their children's progress in school.

The nomination committee will have their lists ready for this the annual meeting.

Wedding

ELLIS — SARGINSON

MARMORA — St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Campbellford, was the setting on Easter Monday for the wedding of Kathleen Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Sarginson of Campbellford, to Clayton William Ellis, of Marmora, son of Mrs. James Murphy of Orillia and the late Alonzo Ellis.

The Reverend J. C. Maloney performed the ceremony. Sister Armand presided at the organ and St. Cecelia's junior choir sang.

The bride chose a gown of Chantilly lace in floor length with bell-like bouffant skirt over crinoline, finished with a tiered bustle back of silk tulle. The Sabrina neckline was edged with pearls and the sleeves were lily-pointed.

Her finger-tip silk illusion veil was caught to a crown of baby pearl petals and rhinestones, and she carried a bouquet of red roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Ann Collins and Miss Eileen Sarginson were bridesmaids, wearing gowns of pure silk organza in pink and mauve with tiered inserts of French lace in the bouffant skirts. Nose-length veils were caught to their matching crowns of moire hair. White wrist-length gloves and tear-drop bouquets of white, pink and yellow 'mums to match their dresses completed their costumes.

The flower girl, Miss Christine Ibey, wore a floor-length gown in blue crystalette frock with matching headdress and carried a basket of blue and white flowers.

Mr. Clifford Ellis was groomsman for his brother, and Messrs. Raymond Ellis and Kent Ibey were ushers.

The reception was held in the Legion Hall, Campbellford, with decorations present from Niagara Falls, Brockville, Orillia, Ottawa, Peterborough, Marmora and Havelock.

Mrs. Sarginson received the guests in a navy and white ensemble and the bridegroom's mother chose a dress of navy lace with pink accessories, each wearing a corsage of red carnations.

The couple will live at Richmond Hill.

Roslin W.I. Holds Annual Meeting, Returns 1959 Officers

The annual meeting of the Roslin Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Gray and Mrs. Earl Gray on April 14th.

Mrs. J. D. Empson, president, opened the meeting with all present.

Roll call was answered by the paying of fees with 19 members renewing and two new members. One visitor was present.

Correspondence consisted of the annual Red Shield Appeal from the Salvation Army, an appeal from Care, a letter from the president of the FWIO in connection with an appeal from the Canadian Association of Consumers; an offer from the Medical Association to provide speakers; an article in the Globe and Mail on Adelaide Hunter Hoodless, and an appeal to those preparing their reports to give their best efforts.

The 4-H Club achievement day was announced; also a letter from Miss Helen McKercher, enclosing short course applications.

In connection with the Salvation Army appeal, it was decided to canvas the village and vicinity, and the secretary was to write for a copy of the Adelaide Hoodless article to put in the Tweedsmuir History.

Mrs. William Bates gave the auditor's report.

The conveners of the standing committees gave their reports for the year as follows: agriculture and Canadian industries, Mrs. Norman White; citizenship and education, prepared by Mrs. Arthur Bates and read by Mrs. Ed. Meeks; historical research and current events, prepared by Mrs. D. Sills and read by Mrs. R. Sills; home economics and health, Mrs. W. Chisholm; public relations, Mrs. W. Chisholm.

Mrs. H. Sills gave a report on the flower fund.

The executive meeting for preparing the programs for the year is to be held at the home of Mrs. J. D. Empson.

A motion was passed at the March meeting that the slate of officers for the coming year would be the same as for the preceding year. They are as follows: president, Mrs. J. D. Empson; 1st vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Chisholm; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. John Fargey; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. K. D. Sherge; district director, Mrs. John Fargey; institute directors, Mrs. H. Sayers and Miss A. Wilson.

Standing committee conveners: agricultural and Canadian industries, Mrs. Norman White; citizenship and education, Mrs. Arthur Bates; historical research and current events, Mrs. Don Sills; home economics and health, Mrs. W. Chisholm; public relations, Mrs. W. Chisholm.

Delegates to district annual meeting: Mrs. Empson, Mrs. John Fargey, Mrs. Ken Sherge and Mrs. A. Grey; flower committee: Mrs. Harry Sills and Mrs. W. H. Chisholm.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of the president, Mrs. J. D. Empson.

Mrs. A. Grey and Mrs. Norman White offered to bake.

The meeting was turned over to the leader, Mrs. H. Meeks, who gave the motto, "Life Is A Garden; What Are You Sowing?"

Mrs. Norman White gave a reading, "My Grandma's Garden."

The topic, "An organization is like a hedgehog, it stands still until it is pushed," was given by Mrs. W. Colden.

Mrs. W. Chisholm gave an easter reading and the leader closed with an Easter prayer.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses assisted by their aunts, after which a social half-hour was enjoyed.

Club Activities

BETHEL-ISTON 'LIFE SAVERS'

The seventh meeting of the Bethel-Iston "Life Savers" was held at the home of Beverley with 14 members present.

Members discussed public health services in the community; general rules for food plentiful and first aid for burns and fainting.

The home assignments were given.

The next meeting was a work meeting, held at Mrs. Wellman's, when members worked on covers and charts for Achievement Day.

WHITE CANE CLUB

The White Cane Club held its monthly meeting at the YMCA. Mrs. Waite opened the meeting with the club song, "The More We Get Together." The roll was called and welcome was extended to all.

The correspondence was read by Mrs. Rollins and the members were to be guests of the Moose Club at a dinner on May 12.

Mr. Burford rendered several mouth-organ solos.

A "Word" game was held by Mrs. Rollins, with prizes going to Mrs. Waite and Patricia Beverstock.

The birthday song was sung for all who had birthdays during April.

The Kiwettes served refreshments and were thanked by Clarence Morris.

Shopping Centre U.S. Utopia to Women Abroad

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—Know what women of Europe and the Orient most envy in the life of the North American woman?

Women just naturally love to shop, says David Muss, Chicago builder whose firm has built shopping centres all over the U.S. And in more luxurious shopping centre, the more time the average woman will spend in it and the more she will buy.

With the growth of the suburban shopping centre, family buying habits have changed, says Muss. Nowadays mom doesn't go alone to buy the groceries for the week. Instead she takes the whole family, and the shopping trip becomes a picnic.

Maybe the family shopping date is Thursday night, when the store is many minutes stay open late. Mom bundles the kids in the station wagon, meets dad at the bus stop or parkway, and the family takes off for a night out.

At the modern shopping centre they can have dinner in a restaurant, maybe see an art exhibit or motor show, stock up on all the family needs from school clothes to garden supplies and even drugs to groceries, then wind up the evening with a movie.

"Family one-stop shopping is the new thing," says Muss. "New centres have all categories of shops, plus restaurants, movies, play areas, nurseries—even bowling alleys, in some cases. The idea is to have something to interest all the members of the family, and make the family shopping trip fun."

The current trend, says he, is toward evening shopping, and many shopping centres stay open until 9:30 every night except Saturday.

All this is a far cry from days when a housewife bought her food at the corner grocery, her medicine at a drug store across town, her clothing at still another distant shop and lugged all the parcels home, too tired to face the prospect of getting dinner.

AND SIDNEY — Many friends, relatives and neighbors gathered recently at Allen's community hall to honor the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hamilton.

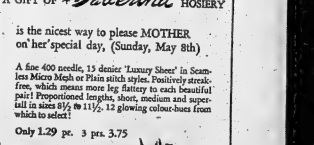
The bride of 25 years ago was presented with a corsage of maurve and white flowers and the bridegroom with a white carnation boutonniere.

The couple were married in 1935 by the Rev. W. A. Merry of Canning.

The minister, the Rev. W. G. McMullen, was master of ceremonies for the evening. Mary Wilman gave a reading called "Newlyweds." Mrs. Ross Marshall and Mr. Spafford sang a duet called "The Peach Basket Hat, Built for Two." Mrs. McMullen favored with a reading in the same vein.

At the close of the program the happy couple received an address by Mrs. Orliff Pearson, showing the years of their life which both were held in the community for they have been great helpers at the church and in the neighborhood. They were wished many more happy years of married life.

An electric frying pan and a walnut coffee table were presented from the community and relatives; a step-table from their own boys, and from sister and brother-in-law, crystal cake plate with silver leaves; a chrome plated butter dish from Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cowan of Canning; a lovely cup and saucer trimmed with silver from Mr. and Mrs. Pharnam and Claudia of Canning; a hammered aluminum serving tray with handles from Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Hamilton; floor lamp from Mr. and Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton and Frankie.



The gifts were presented by Ernest Kells, Kenneth Jones, Orliff Pearson and Sam Marshall, on behalf of the community relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton received many cards from their host of friends, their son, George, took flash pictures of the event.

QUESTION BOX

Question: I always get very upset and confused when I introduce my friends to my parents. Do I say 'This is my mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Smith'? If not, what do I do?

Answer: When introducing a relative, use the name differs from yours. It is only necessary to state the relationship. The most gracious way to present your parents to your friends is to say, "Mother and Dad, I would like to have you meet Jack Dowse." The same rule applies when introducing a girl to them.

Question: I am to be married next month. It is to be a double-ring ceremony. My question is, do I buy both rings, or, should my bride-to-be purchase mine? We are having quite an argument about it.

Answer: You may purchase both rings if you care to. However, the usual procedure, for sentiment's sake, is for the bride to present you with your ring.

Question: My next door neighbor drives me crazy by borrowing things two or three times a day — everything from eggs to the lawn mower. Naturally the eggs, sugar, or what have you are never returned and it's a case of having to go and get the item myself to get it back. How can I stop this without causing hard feelings? I'd hate to run out the outs with the people that live next door, but this is getting to be too much!

Answer: Your only recourse is to tell some "little white fibs"! When she wants eggs, or what have you, tell her you are sorry, but you are all out of them, not having been to market. Keep this up in a tactful way and maybe it will sink in that you just don't want to "lend" things. If this doesn't work, the only other alternative is to be perfectly frank and tell her the truth. This may bring about hard feelings. If so, it can't be helped!

Foxboro W.I. Headed by Mrs. C. H. LaRue

The annual meeting of the Foxboro Women's Institute was held at the LaRue residence with the president, Mrs. C. H. LaRue, in the chair.

The roll call was answered by the paying of dues for the coming year.

A report of the year's activities was given by the convener of each standing committee and the card secretary.

Misses Rose Ann LaRue and Nancy Reynolds sang two delightful duets.

Mrs. M. B. Shorey declared the offices vacant and the report of the nominating committee was given by Mrs. W. Simmons as follows:

OFFICERS — 1960-61

President — Mrs. C. H. LaRue; 1st vice-president — Mrs. C. Samber; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. L. Lewis; secretary-treasurer — Mrs. J. Reynolds; assistant secretary-treasurer — Mrs. C. Arthurs; district director — Mrs. C. Hubble; branch directors — Mrs. J. Ewing, Mrs. W. Simmons and Mrs. C. Arthurs; pianists — Mrs. R. Skinner, Mrs. W. Rombough; flowers — Mrs. G. Cooper; card secretary — Mrs. G. Schell; auditors — Mrs. B. Hollinger, Mrs. G. Duncette and Mrs. M. B. Shorey.

Conveners of standing committees: home economics and health — Mrs. M. Waller; agriculture and Canadian industry — Mrs. G. Gay; citizenship and education — Mrs. S. Hayton; historical research and current events — Mrs. A. Mann; resolutions — Mrs. B. Rollinger; public relations representative — Mrs. J. Churchill.

These officers and conveners were installed by the past president, Mrs. C. Hubble.

One evening during the past month some of the ladies of this branch entertained at the Hastings County Home. Mrs. W. Rombough delighted the audience singing with guitar accompaniment and a film "Chairmaker and the Boys," was shown.

Fruit was served and a social time spent with the old folks. Mrs. Kilpatrick is the representative for Foxboro Branch on the Auxiliary of the Hastings County Home.

The May meeting of Foxboro W. I. will be held on May 4, at the home of Mrs. J. Ewing.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each week a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. L. F. — Rose's parents take advantage of her.

Rose F. — It makes me happy to do things for others.

* * *

Mrs. L. F. — I am very much upset about my 20-year-old daughter, Rose, who is constantly getting hurt because she is too devoted to her friends.

Rose has always done the greatest favors for her girl friends. When she likes a girl she'll spend endless time and energy doing things for her. It makes me angry when I see her running errands or sewing a dress for a girl friend who is just taking advantage of her good nature.

Recently one of Rose's "friends" had the opportunity to introduce her to a very nice, good-looking cousin from another community. Instead, she introduced him to another girl and they have become seriously interested in one another. I'm furious! Rose did so much for Dianne.

* * *

Rose F. — I think Mother's attitude is just awful. When I do something for someone I like I don't think about rewards. I do it because I want to. It makes me happy.

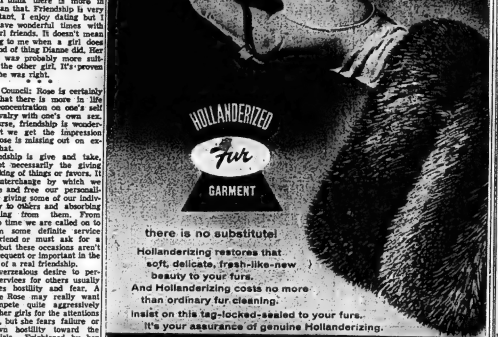
The way Mother sees things, girls can never be close friends. She thinks every girl is trying to outdo the other. She says I should only look out for myself.

Mother thinks I should spend all my time studying myself more attractive and trying to win a man. I think there is more to life than that. Friendship is very important, I enjoy mine but I also have wonderful times with my girl friends. It doesn't mean a thing to me when a girl does the kind of thing Dianne did. Her cousin was probably more suited to the other girl. It's proven now she was right.

* * *

The Council: Rose is certainly right that there is more in life than concentration on one's self and rivalry with one's own sex. Of course, friendship is wonderful, yet we get the impression that Rose is missing out on exactly that.

Friendship is give and take, but not necessarily the giving and taking of things or favors. It is an exchange by which we enlarge and free our personalities by giving some of our individuality to others and absorbing something from them. From time to time we are called on to perform some definite service for a friend or must ask for a favor, but these occasions aren't very frequent or important in the course of a real friendship.



An overzealous desire to perform services for others usually indicates hostility and fear. A girl like Rose may really want to compete quite aggressively with other girls for the attentions of men, but she fears failure in her own hostility toward the other girls. Frightened by her own strongest impulses she presses to try to "buy" the friendship of girls with her favors.

But friendship can't be bought. True friendship is usually slow in developing. Each partner treads gently for fear of encroaching further than the other wishes to go. Well-meaning girls will shy away from Rose because they feel overwhelmed by her and are possibly a bit mistrustful of her motives. But self-seeking girls may take advantage of her favors and rejoice in the chance to get something without giving.

We don't care for Mrs. L. F.'s way of putting the problem, but her instincts are on the right path. She wants her daughter to express her feminine impulses in an honest and aggressive manner. This is certainly more important than her unrealistic attempts to win friendship. Perhaps when Rose gains a little more confidence in her ability to attract men, she will be able to relax and better enjoy her friendships with women.

Spring Color

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Beige—especially the bone and light biscuit shades—is the big color this spring. It is seen in everything from hat to shoes, not forgetting suits, coats, handbags, and gloves. Bone beige wool is used for this young and very smart new suit, pleated in a slightly deeper tone. The open throatline makes a fine foil for a necklace or a scarf. The separate belt has fringed ends. There is a short peplum below the one-button closing and the elbow-length sleeves are belled.

Cottage Cheese — Its Qualities And Virtues

by Mary Moore

By accident I tuned in a TV commercial about cottage cheese. (I'm no TV addict.)

A couple of slim models with sunken cheeks were just finishing their main course which included cottage cheese pressumably, for one salad. What do we eat with our cottage cheese now?" The implication was, I think, that the more cottage cheese you eat the thinner and slimmer you get.

Actually there are 95 calories in about 3 1-2 ounces of cottage cheese or 453 calories in one pound. So you can't eat cottage cheese with abandon and reduce. You can eat it with discretion though, and consume an excellent source of protein. It is economical too.

I love the stuff and the following recipes give my favorite combinations. All are pretty and flavorful. Most are easy.

CUCUMBER CHEESE MOULD:

1 tablespoon gelatin, 1-3 cup cold water, 1 1-2 cups cottage cheese, 1 1-2 cups coarsely chopped cucumber, drained, 1 teaspoon finely chopped onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons vinegar or 1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1-2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes, dissolve over hot water. Mix cottage cheese, cucumber, onion, salt, vinegar or Worcestershire sauce. Stir dissolved gelatin into dressing, combine with other ingredients. Pour into a mould and chill until firm. Turn out onto lettuced-lined salad plate.

STUFFED TOMATO SALAD:

Wash tomatoes, scoop out centres, sprinkle with salt and invert to drain. Fill with Cottage Cheese Salad: Two cups cottage cheese, 1-2 cup chopped green onion or chives, salt and pepper, cream and salad dressing. Combine cottage cheese and onions, season and moisten with dressing. This amount will fill 6 average tomatoes.

GRAPEFRUIT COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD:

In a crisp lettuce cup placed at the back of salad plate put 1-3 cup cottage cheese. Garnish with sprinkling of paprika and stuffed olive slices. At front of plate, arrange a semicircle of drained grapefruit sections alternated with fresh peach slices and orange sections. Serve with a sour cream dressing. (Note: Reducers don't need dressing.)

MRS. RIGGER'S COTTAGE CHEESE IDEA:

I have told you this before but it is well worth repeating. Every summer at raspberry time, Mrs. R. would make lovely bright red raspberry jam. One summer Sunday we had a picnic in our garden. She brought a big jar of fresh made raspberry jam and a 3-lb portion of fresh cottage cheese. When it came time to serve supper from the picnic table she presided over these 2 items, first spilling a big mound of cottage cheese on each plate and then topping it with her treasured raspberry jam. All members treasured until they could find a place to light and take their first delicious forkful.

Use the Naran Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

. . It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full twice a day and follow the Naran plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Accept no substitutes—insist on NARAN CONCENTRATE

Darts Association Area Champions

Winners of the area finals of the Ontario Darts Association were decided at a closely - contested tournament held in Trenton Saturday.

The victorious "dartsmen" will compete against other Ontario areas at the provincial finals slated for St. Catharines Saturday, May 21. The Ontario Darts Tournament is sponsored by the Labatts Breweries.

R. J. Hallam and H. J. Rice of the Sergeants Mess, Royal School of Artillery, Picton, won the doubles award while the singles winner was Art. Jenkes of the Belleville Darts League.

The second - place doubles prize was won by another army duo from the 5th Signals Squadron, Barriefield.

The tournament marked the best event of its kind held in this area. The entries were the highest in the three years of Ontario Dart Association competition here.

Now the third largest area in the province, it will be represented by both first and second winners in the Ontario playoffs.

Following the tournament on Saturday the awards were presented by Labatt officials, Bert Weir, area representative and Nick Stefan, local representative. Also on hand was Lionel G. McCaffrey, local organizer for the Ontario Darts Association.

Oil Kings Hope to Make Cup Comeback

TORONTO (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings' coach Harry Allen may hope the deluge of water pouring over Niagara Falls will help his charges forget the deluge of goals that has poured into the western net in the last two games of the Memorial Cup finals.

The Oil Kings travelled to the Falls Monday to recuperate from a 9-1 blasting suffered Sunday at the hands of St. Catharines Teepees who now lead the best-of-seven Junior A final 2-1.

Oil Kings won the opener 5-3 at St. Catharines, lost 6-2 and then 9-1 as Teepees outshot the western crew 54-28.

"They've been outskating and checking us," Allen said. "But that doesn't explain the way we've played. We've been bad before and outplayed too, but we've always come back."

Despite the 13 goals against them so far, the Oil Kings have had good goaltending from substitute Dale Gaume and regular Ross Gillow. But the defence has been slow on passing and interceptions and poor on clearing.

Allen made a few lineup changes Sunday but Teepees weren't impressed.

While Oil Kings were at Niagara Falls, St. Catharines held a light drill. Teepee fans are making ready for a big celebration Friday night when the fifth game of the series will be played here.

The sixth and seventh games, if necessary, will be here Sunday and Monday.

In St. Catharines, Teepee coach Max Kaminsky announced he may use Ben Greco, a graduate of Sault Ste. Marie juvenile hockey, on the third line. Greco played with Teepees in the early part of the season but was unable to get back into the lineup before Christmas.

If he is dressed either Bill Ives or Bob Maxi will be dropped.

IT'S MILES PLEASANTER

The Way of the Worry-Free

Travel today has many spokesmen—each for a different way.

Haste urges you to take the swiftest road. Adventure, Glamour, Convenience—all loudly voice their reasons why.

Ask the venturer who leaves his car behind why he rides with Canadian National Railways—and you will find that luxury, restfulness, quiet and roomy comfort are all wanted things. But there is something more:

There is peace-of-mind as you go your way.

Concerned and thinking motorists contrast this ease of riding with the tension of driving—in the traffic of today's highways. And growing numbers say—"I take it easier, I take the train".

take it easier—take the train

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Is world tournament hockey, as far as Canada is concerned, going to be like Mark Twain's statement about the weather, "Everybody talks about it—but nobody does anything"?

Amateur hockey officials and others "talked a lot" about it at the Ontario Hockey Association annual—now it remains to be seen if anything will be done.

It was agreed by all hands that Canada should compete in world hockey tournaments, but a new system of selecting the team should be undertaken—and government aid should be forthcoming.

Ray Bauer, an official of the Kitchener Dutchmen, suggested that the team should be called the Canadian Olympic team and not named after any particular city. He felt it was not fair for one city to pay all the bills. "The Russians didn't have to raffle off cars to raise the money to come,"

He further suggested a manager be appointed in August; a coach chosen who is well qualified and willing to serve. Bauer also suggested that players be checked for off-the-ice conduct as well as their hockey calibre. "There is a tremendous amount of international relations work to be done."

There is only one Canadian team that we know, which did anything but better international relations while on European hockey junkets. And it was not the Belleville McFarlands nor the Whitby Dunlops. The Maes and the Dunnies will be welcomed in Europe any time they want to go back.

Alderman Bob Temple told this corner the other day that during his visit to Russia recently, sports-minded Muscovites asked about the McFarlands in general and "Big Doo" in particular. "Big Doo" was Al Dewsbury.

Harold Ballard of the Toronto Maple Leaf organization came up with a suggestion which we believe, will not sit very well with the professional moguls.

Ballard suggested the CAHA ask the National Hockey League governors and owners to form a committee, organize a team, take a week off and fly over to the series with a team "that will give them a good licking."

He added if the NHL support was asked it would mean players like Ralph Backstrom, Bobby Hull, Stan Mikita, Billy Hicks and Red Hay sitting out a year of NHL play a year before the Olympics. "You can't win against amateurs coached and built by the NHL, they would form a team to teach the other countries some respect for Canadian hockey."

A mighty good idea but who can imagine Mr. Campbell and company going for it. The pros have been looking down their collective noses at senior hockey for three some years and we do not believe the big playfor-pay hotpoed will change its spots overnight, so to speak.

Besides we do not believe there is anything wrong with Canada's senior hockey, that government subsidies, the proper organization and training and handling will not cure.

This business of permitting a team to pick up 21 or so reinforcements, dependent upon the managers of the clubs, and getting the team together a day or so prior to embarking for overseas, or wherever the tournament is held, is strictly "for the birds."

We believe that senior hockey in Canada is good enough to retain world titles, if organized and trained properly. O.K., let's emulate the Russians, Czechs, Swedes and what Europeans have you. Let's organize the club six months prior to the big event; let it be trained and play as an entity, then yell "Sic 'Em" and watch 'em go.

Let the team play in a league to give it steady work and find out its weak points—but leave the playoffs gravy to the remaining squads. We do not think there would be many complaints. And let the cost of the national club be borne by Ottawa.

And we do not believe that Canadian hockey prestige has been dealt its death-blow with the loss of the last two Olympics titles. We believe the champion American team, playing on the eleventh cloud, truly inspired, and in a home town environment, would have been beaten by the Dutchmen on the following night.

Let's forget about losing our prestige and worrying about other international clubs. Their nations look after them—as has been proven many times. The answer lies with the Canadian hockey bodies and the federal government.

So let's form the "Canada" team in October under the proper managing and coaching heads. Let senior club managers display a little more national pride and less club greediness and above all, let the government foot the bill. Then if we can't win a world title, send the press over.

Burnley Wins League Title, Shades Manchester City 2-1

LONDON (CP)—Burnley, fighting every inch of the way, defeated Manchester City 2-1 Monday night to grab the English Soccer League championship from the reeceing hands of Wolverhampton Wanderers.

In one of the most dramatic finishes in the 72-year history of the competition, Burnley, by winning its last game of the season, took the title by one point and dashed Wolverhampton's hopes of winning both the league championship and the Football Association Cup. The double victory has not been achieved in this century.

FATAL ERROR

Manchester City battled back Monday to equalize the score after being down 1-0 in three minutes, but a defensive error enabled Burnley to take the lead for good.

Burnley appeared the better team, particularly in attack, in the English first league championship since 1921. Burnley will represent England in the European Cup competition next season.

Burnley wound up the season with 54 wins and seven ties for 55 points, followed by Wolverhampton with the same number of victories and six ties for 58 points.

Smoke Eaters Reach Trail's End; Chatham Wins Cup

Undefeated Eastern Champs Sweep Series With 5-4 Win; Cesare Maniago Key Man

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Chatham Maroons left for a victory celebration at home today with their first Allan Cup championship.

The power - packed eastern champions subdued Trail Smoke Eaters 5-4 in the fifth game to win the best-of-seven Canadian Senior A hockey title 4-0 with one game tied.

They are the second eastern team to invade the West and win the championship without losing a game. The other team was Moncton, N.B., which won a best-of-three final 2-0 from the University of Saskatchewan in 1932.

Maroons are the fourth straight eastern team to win the Allan Cup, the 14th since 1940 and 17th Ontario Hockey Association member to turn the trick since the cup was awarded in 1909.

It was Chatham's second Allan Cup appearance. The Maroons lost in five games to Vernon, B.C., Canadian title in 1955. The Smoke Eaters won the trophy 22 years ago at Calgary, defeating Cornwall 3-1 in a best-of-five series.

TOUGH SERIES

"It was a tough series," said Maroon manager - coach John Horeck after the game. "Even when we came out here we knew we had to be 25 per cent better to win the championship and we proved we were. I never had any doubt about us winning after we took the opener. It was a question of keeping the team up.

"They had to be good to come West and win the Allan Cup," said a disappointed Bobby Kromm, Trail playing-coach.

"I'm not saying we were unlucky not to win a couple of games, but you can't win close games without a few breaks."

The victory makes Chatham an odds-on favorite to be selected for the world hockey championship next spring in Sweden. Allen open is a trip to Russia.

Horeck said: "If the CAHA asks us to represent Canada in Sweden we would go and I'm confident that my present club would win it all."

PLAYER-PREPER RUSSIA

However, it's more likely the Chatham club will bid for the Russian tour. Most of the players indicated this was their choice.

Kromm said his club would seek the trip left vacant by Chatham and with only a bit of strengthening—another defenceman and a couple of good forwards"—would be victorious.

Horeck singled out goalie Cesare Maniago, Trail-born, as his club's key man. Maniago joined Chatham in the playoffs when regular Maroon netminder Clem Hicks fell ill.

"Maniago was tremendous here, especially when the pressure was on," said Horeck after the game. "It was really on us tonight. The last game always is. They (Trail) put up a heck of a fight and for the first time in the series really outshot us. Maniago made the tough saves for us."

The Smoke Eaters fought mainly on desire. They had 10 natives on their roster and the majority of the others have played most of their hockey here. NO DEFENCE

"We didn't have one import on our club and I don't think any other Allan Cup finalist can say that," said Kromm. "And Maniago, another Trail boy, was the big stumbling block for us."

The Maroons overcame a two-goal deficit early in the game to hold a 3-2 margin entering the second period. Chatham outscored 3-1 in the second before Jim Conlin broke a record-tying Olympic hockey team last February, scored the winner 32 seconds into the final.

Scoring for the Maroons was shared by five players, Joe Malo, Terry Sharp, Bert Trehan, Frank Baltgaste and Connelly. For Trail the team's captain Cal Hockley, Norm Lenardon, Pinoke McIntyre and Frank Turik.

The only serious injury of the series was to Ed Cristofoli, who suffered mild concussion when checked heavily early in the first period Monday. The young defenceman was taken to hospital after the game for observation. He is expected he would be released today.

Chatham scored 4-1, 7-4, 2-1 and 5-3 victories in the series with the second-game ending in a 5-5 overtime tie.

57 Enter Sixteenth Running Ken Colling Memorial Race

Fifty-seven student hopefuls will face the starting gun tomorrow afternoon in the 16th running of the Ken Colling Memorial Cross Country Race.

Eight schools of the COSSA, Bay of Quinte District, will be represented. These include BCHVS, Quinte Secondary, Moira Secondary, OSD, Albert College, Tweed High School, Madoc High School and St. Michael's Academy.

BCI will send 21 runners to the mark; Quinte 4, OSD 4, Albert College 2, Tweed 4, Moira 2, Madoc 3, and St. Michael's 2.

Up until a few years ago the race, then a fraction over five miles, was confined to entries from BCHVS. Recently the course was shortened to four miles to eliminate the danger of railroad crossings, and the entry list expanded to all schools in the COSSA, Quinte district.

A handsome trophy is presented to the winner annually by Mr. Cleo Colling, brother of the late newspaperman. Mr. Colling also presents special awards to the first six to finish, and cents to the entry list.

The present trophy is the second to be donated by Mr. Colling. The original is now the permanent possession of a well-known BCI athlete, Jimmy Green, who won it three times in a row, the third time setting the present course record.

Green, now making his name in athletics at Queen's set the mark of 20.16 in 1958, running under the Quinte Secondary school colors.

Don McMullen of BCI, won the 1959 event, covering the four miles in 20.47.8, seconds over the record.

Stew Wood won the first race back in 1945 covering the 5 1-4 miles in 24.27. Bradshaw won it in 1946-47.

The next three years Ewald was king setting a track record of 22.08 which stood for five years when Gault covered the route in 22.03. Gault broke his own record the next year with 21.58.

However in 1958 Jim Green shattered the previous marks for this course galloping over the distance in 20.06 in 1954. The next year he won the first race over the new four-mile course with a mark of 20.29. He set the present record in 1958.

Tomorrow at 4:30 the starting gun will send the field away from BCI campus. It will follow the course along Queen Street to MacDonald Avenue, then out Bridge Street East to Southview to Herchimer to Station street through Church and the final "uphill" grind to the finish line.

It is noted that three of this year's entries finished "in the money" last year. They are E. Fowler, QSD, who finished third; Bill Vermilyea, QSS, who was second and Terry Thompson, QSS who came in sixth position.

Pirates Parade Halted; Indians Share Top Rung

Cards Trump Pittsburgh Ace As Giants Shut Out Braves; Tribe Wins, Birds Pick Sox

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Frank Lane's trades, which had fans so wild they hung the Cleveland general manager in effigy, now have the Indians in a first place tie with the Chicago White Sox.

The Tribe made it with a 3-2 victory at Washington, their fifth in a row, Monday night while the White Sox were losing 11-4 at Baltimore in the only American League games scheduled.

It was Johnny Temple, the second baseman Lane got from Cincinnati, whose two out single scored the clincher against the Senators. And it was Herb Score and Don Ferrarese, two southpaws Lane swapped to the White Sox, who were tagged with seven runs as the third place Orioles (.222 points behind) cut Chicago's streak at five games.

The Indians scrambled to the top in a three-run seventh inning at Washington after Score had cut out five hits by loser Pete Ramos (0-2).

Singles by Russ Nixon (the catcher Lane couldn't get rid of) and pinch-hitter Bob Hale, plus a walk, loaded the bases in the seventh. Vic Power brought in two with a two-out single. Then Temple put it away.

SIX-HITTER

Right-hander Gary Bell (2-1) had the Senators blanked on one hit until the seventh, when singles by Bob Allison and Jim Lemon and Julio Becquer's pinch double got their two. Bell finished with a six-hitter.

The Orioles made it seven out of eight although out-hit 11-6. One of those half-dozen hits off six Sox pitchers was a three-run homer by Jim Gentile. It came in the top of Dick Donovan.

Baltimore had it bagged by then, however. The Birds scored three in the first off Score—on four walks and a two-run single by Gus Triandos—and a bases-loaded

Harvey Wins Norris Trophy For Fifth Time in 7 Years

MONTREAL (CP) — Doug Harvey of Montreal Canadiens rated one of the best defencemen ever to perform in the National Hockey League, was announced Monday as winner of the James Norris Memorial Trophy for the 1959-60 season.

The 35-year-old, Montreal-born star now has won the trophy five times in the seven years it has been up for competition. He also got $1,000 from the league.

The trophy is awarded annually to the defence player "who demonstrates throughout the season the greatest all-round ability in that position."

Harvey received 129 points of a possible 180 in the balloting, more than three times the 42 for runner-up Allan Stanley of Toronto Maple Leafs. Marcel Pronovost of Detroit Red Wings was third with 29.

Harvey and Pronovost were previously named defencemen on the NHL No. 1 all-star team. Stanley was named to the second team.

Harvey has played 13 seasons in the NHL, all with Canadiens. He has been named to the first all-star team eight times and to the second team once. He has won six Stanley Cup championship teams.

Defensive defencemen in all received points in the voting for the Norris Trophy. Terry Sawchuk of Chicago Black Hawks had 32 points, Tom Johnson of Montreal 32, Bill Gadsby of the New York Rangers 22 and Bob Armstrong of Boston Bruins 21.

Voting was done by hockey writers, broadcasters and television writers in the six NHL cities.

"No Hitters" Moans Tigers' Jimmy Dykes

NEW YORK (AP)—Less than a week ago, Detroit Tigers were rolling along in first place in the American League with a 5-0 record—the only team that hadn't been defeated.

But since April 26 the Bengals have lost six games and have tumbled to a three-way tie for fifth place.

When the Tigers were 5-0, the team as a whole was batting .246. Not sensational but adequate to win behind solid pitching. Now the team average has dropped to .202 and Dykes is getting desperate.

"I can't fault the pitchers," Dykes said. "They have been coming through fine. But those hitters, ugh!"

Rocky Colavito hit three homers in three days and has only one hit since. Al Kaline, limping a little from a twisted ankle, has knocked in just one run since the second game. Steve Bilko went 0-for-25. And so on down the line.

Royals Win Over Marlies; Leafs Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Royals have won seven of their last 10 games to creep within two of first-place Buffalo Bisons in the International League and are only a half game out of second. But they can't attribute their climb to any great display of power.

The Royals needed four singles, a walk and a hit batsman Monday night in coming from behind to beat Island Marlies 7-6. The Royals have hit only 14 homers in 14 games.

In Monday night's only other games, Havana and second-place Toronto Maple Leafs split a doubleheader, the Sugar Kings winning the opener 3-2 and Toronto taking the second 9-3.

Behind 4-2 in the fifth, the Royals loaded the bases on a walk and two singles and got one run when Joe Allobelli was hit by a pitch. Two more scored when Mike Gollat's single and the fourth came home on George Kisley's one-bagger. The last two hits were off reliever Art Kay.

Jack Waters drove in both Toronto runs in the nightcap snaking them to hold second place. He singled to home Billy Moran, who had doubled in the third, and hit a sacrifice fly in the eighth. Ron Negray won his second for the Leafs, though giving up a homer to Jim Pendleton.

Borrego Alvarez' seventh-inning homer broke a 2-2 tie and won the opener for the Kings and Luis Arroyo, who relieved Howie Nunn, Frank Funk lost.

Staley, Lown Doing Well As Reliefers

Staley and Lown combined for 21 victories last year, when the club won its first American League pennant in 40 years.

In continuing to win, Staley and Lown are upsetting a trend. More than a few of baseball's outstanding relievers have followed a sensational campaign with a nondescript one. Not so Staley and Lown.

Jim Konigsmy won 18 games for Cincinnati Reds and was valuable player award in 1956 while Jim Konstanty of Philadelphia Phillies won the pennant. The next season Konstanty managed only four victories.

Joe Black of Brooklyn picked up 15 triumphs in 1952 and followed with a mere six in 1953. Joe Page was 14 for New York Yankees in 1947 and posted 7-8 record in '48.

Among today's relief specialists, Bill Henry of Cincinnati is off to the worst start. Henry was a workhorse for Chicago Cubs last year, winning nine games. So far this season, the lefthander has won none, lost one and shown his earned-run average of 7.71.

Don Elston of the Cubs, a 10-game winner in '59, has dropped three decisions as well.

Roy Face of Pittsburgh, who had a phenomenal 18-1 mark last season, has yet to win. Face has lost two, but has pitched creditably.

Hal Roach Tells Why He Plans to Bring Back Fun

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "What happened was that my son lost $5,400,000 in four months."

This was Hal Roach Sr. telling why at the age of 68 he is deep in plans to revive his famous fun factory.

"I thought I was all fixed for an income of $60,000 a year for the rest of my life," said the dimunitive producer, "when the day I woke up and discovered I wouldn't be assured of that income. It was coming from Hal Roach Productions, which was broke. So I had to go back in business."

The reason for the Roach debacle was a stock manipulator named Alexander Guterma. Hal Roach Jr., who had been guiding the studio fortunes in recent years, got the company enmeshed in the Guterma empire, which had swallowed other reputable concerns. When the Guterma bubble burst, the Roach studios knocked with it.

EAGER TO LAUGH

"Recently I saw three or four of the new screen comedies in New York," he said. "They were not funny in parts, but it seemed to me that the audiences were laughing hard, so six Hal Roach channel comedies were especially funny, but they were the kind of comedy that we had to develop before the movies had sound."

Roach says he will put back that kind of comedy, for the home and theatre screens.

Among performers he has approached are Buster Keaton, Imogene Coca, Ben Young, Ed Gardner, Zasu Pitts, Reginald Gardiner, Eddie Bracken. All expressed a willingness, he said.

As proof of the public yen for comedy, Roach cited the continuing TV popularity of his Laurel and Hardy comedies—"And I haven't made one in 25 years."

That Was While Ago, By Yiminy!

NEW YORK (AP) — Bjorn Lingaas, a Norwegian carpenter who now lives in Brooklyn, gasped today when he heard the name of Ingemar Johansson.

"Yes," he admitted, "I beat Ingo when we both were smaller in Oslo in 1952.

"But I'd hate to let Ingo know it said so. He might not like it."

Lingaas made his professional debut Monday night at St. Nicholas arena by decisively outpointing Al Thomas, a last-minute substitute, in a preliminary four-rounder.

Lingaas admitted he won a three-rounder from the current world heavyweight champion eight years ago when both were getting ready for the Olympics. "I was a decider," he observed with a smile. "Then he turned pro and I became a carpenter."

More than a touch of hilarity is contained in "A Touch of Larceny," which is showing Tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre. It is one of the funniest jokes ever told on film, and thanks to three superlative performances by the stars, James Mason, Vera Miles and George Sanders, one of the most thoroughly entertaining.

For Once The Boss Was Right

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)— Clancy, assistant to manager-coach George (Punch) Imlach of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, was fined to the races Saturday by his boss, Punch.

Smythe had chartered a helicopter to fly to Fort Erie but Clancy turned down the ride and went by train. It turned out later that Smythe's helicopter was grounded, as was the plane he had booked.

Meanwhile, Clancy reached the race track and bought three $2 tickets on Flying Chevrons and Happy Jack for the daily double. Both horses won for daily double payoff of $50.60 for the three.

Clancy then bet on Smythe's Just Don Show, which won at 7 to 1, on Smythe's and Larkin Maloney's Men At Play, which won at 5 to 1 and again on Smythe's Royal Win, which won at 3½ to 1.

Furthermore, Clancy was asked to make the presentation to Maloney after Men At Play won. He also accepted the presentation for Smythe for Royal Win's victory.

Television Viewing Monday Night Said Best of Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Greer Garson and Christopher Plummer brought to joyous life Monday night George Bernard Shaw's 60-year-old comedy, Captain Brassbound's Conversion.

It filled out one of the best evenings of television viewing this season. Preceding the 90-minute NBC Hall of Fame production there was another hour-and-a-half of drama on CBS. That was the Playhouse 90 production of The Rope of Rivers, telling of the final, tragic decade in the life of Mark Twain.

Franchot Tone, with a putty nose and assortment of wigs, was the convincing Samuel Clemens. Although it was a poignant and slow-moving play, it was sparked with flashes of Twain's irrepressible humor and oblique view-point.

Shaw's mischievous satire was by contrast, fragile, witty and brilliant. The contrasting performances of a beautiful lady of indomitable will and fluent wit and she led a group of bumbling males unwilling to muster their salvation. Greer Garson rifled a perfect Shaw heroine, and she was assisted by a fine cast. Christopher Plummer played the title role — the smuggler who came into her life a raging lion and left it meek as a lamb.

Gilbert and Sullivan purists continue to consumerize with each other over what they call the desecration of The Mikado last week-end when Groucho Marx in on the receiving end of their most furious comment. The Savoyards complain that Groucho — as Groucho — for all of his costume — and he slowed down and fouled up the usually zippy pace of their delightful comic operetta in the NBC version.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, May 4, 1960

General Tendencies:— This is one of those days when most everyone can get a great deal accomplished, in proportion to the outgoing qualities you and I manifest. Be sure you do think in big terms, for nothing much that is petty will amount to anything, but if you go after the largest aims you can envision, you can have a considerable amount of success.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Now you know how to commercialize more wisely on your special talents. Be more practical. Also, through co-operation you reach greater rapport with associates. P.M. fine for relaxation and fun at favorite sports.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Be sure you co-operate with family ties today so that you can get fine benefits and bring about greater harmony with them. Also, use that fine, artistic, dramatic flair for beautifying the home. There is nothing nicer than an original touch.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) You have great mental clarity today, and if you combine this with gentility toward others, you can accomplish so much that is worthwhile and lucrative as well. Be sure you look into the most modern systems of operation, too.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 24) — A most clear intuitive flash will be yours today about exactly how to make your existence more abundant in all ways. Be sure you check with experts, especially in financial fields. Then full speed ahead.

Leo (July 25 to Aug. 21) — Fine day for thinking along personal lines since you can envision the future and how to attain your desires with accuracy. Concentrate on key people and get them to co-operate. Then advancement comes very quickly.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)— You can confer with the right people today so that you realize a greater abundance. Just be sure you check your literature, paper and other printed media that is worthwhile. P.M. plan your campaign on paper wisely.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)— An ideal day and evening to contact refined, enlightened and happy persons so that you get the benefit of their good advice, though they may seem a bit uppity. Be sociable, co-operative. Grow.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Anything connected with your credit, finances, the public in general, should be handled most efficiently today, even though some unexpected and surprising situation may arise which needs prompt attention. Be thorough.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — By raising your level of consciousness to more worthy, while endeavors, persons and systems, you can realize your fondest ambitions. You have been using only a small fraction of your innate capabilities.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An ideal day to consult with highest authority in civic, personal or mercantile affairs you are able to contact. Then be sure you get your credit handled properly. Use right methods to collect what belongs to you.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be sure you comprehend the ideas and suggestions of good associate today. And although enterprises may seem overly large, they can be brought down to practical size. Come to a better understanding with everyone.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Fine day for getting your appearance as well as abode or office, in A-1 condition. Harmonious colors can do wonders. Invest in some new gadgets that will make work easier, too. Think and act positively.

If your child is born today— The very interesting little child born today will be possessed of rare talents and ability that will be conducive to great success before the public in general, whether for entertainment or political purposes. Imagination and idealism are here in great measure, but early teach to avoid excessive pride, which could be your youngster's downfall. Trust a wealth of talent in this chart. Guide it properly.

NOTICE
PROCLAMATION

CORRECT POSTURE
WEEK
WHEREAS the physical health of our citizens is of the utmost importance to the future moral and spiritual well-being. This applies to young and old, to those in the home, on the farm, in the factory, in the office, in schools, and if the people of this Province follow the true principles of good posture, we should all obtain vital benefits.
THEREFORE I, by virtue of the powers vested in me by Statute, proclaim civic support for Correct Posture Week in the City of Belleville, to be held from May 1st, 1950 to and including May 7th, 1950, and urge the observance of good posture during that week.

COMMONS HEARS ORDER TO DELAY

election has been called for Nova Scotia on June 7 and that one is expected in New Brunswick this year.

He accepted the motion as one of non-confidence in the government — although Mr. Pickersgill insisted that he didn't intend it as such.

Of the original Atlantic resolutions, Mr. Nowlan said:

"We drafted and prepared them; we have largely implemented them and we are going to stay in office until we conclude the implementation of them."

TO STUDY SPENDING

The question arose as the Commons began debate of a government motion to place the House in committee of the whole to discuss government spending estimates for 1960-61.

Appended to the Liberal amendment was a CCF sub-amendment, introduced by Erhart Regier, calling for maintenance of the Atlantic provinces' steel industry, along with expansion of the industry by "every appropriate means"—including provision of a publicly-owned steel mill.

WILL CONTINUE

Earlier, the government had rejected opposition demands for committee examination of the 1960-61 defence estimates.

The committee will comprise 10 Progressive Conservatives, four Liberals and one CCF member. Mr. Pearkes said he will be available to testify.

Mr. Pearkes said the Canada-U.S. cabinet defence committee will review North American air defence policy here July 12 and 13. The meeting was arranged at the committee's last meeting in Washington last fall.

DELAY HOUSE DEBATE

Mr. Pearkes and Acting Prime Minister Fleming made it clear that there will be no government-sponsored defence debate in the Commons until the special committee has finished its work.

However, they indicated that the committee will be perfectly free to discuss the Bomarc program.

Some $8,000,000 is included in the 1960-61 defence estimates for preparation of the Bomarc sites near North Bay and Mont Laurier, Que. About $500,000 has been spent on the sites so far.

Mr. Argue asked whether the special committee will have the power to recommend deletion of the estimate for the Bomarc.

Speaker Roland Michener said it is not Mr. Pearkes' responsibility to interpret the committee's powers.

ORDER TO DELAY

to campaign for the abolition of capital punishment.

The ritual of death was over in 10 minutes for Chessman, after 12 years of court battling which took publication of eight government execution dates and attracted world-wide attention to his case.

His body was to be cremated today without ceremony at the Mount Tamalpais crematorium and the ashes sent to Glendale, Calif., his one-time home.

He was strapped in the chair at 10:06 a.m. Two prison medical officers officially pronounced him dead at 10:12 a.m.

LAST-DITCH ATTEMPT

Miss Asher, along with lawyer George Davis, was in federal Judge Louis Goodman's chambers when the judge tried to delay the execution to hear counsel's last-chance petition for a stay.

They had rushed there after the state Supreme Court, by a 4-to-3 vote, had twice rejected appeal moves in the final hour of Chessman's life.

A telephoned appeal to Justice William O. Douglas of the U.S. Supreme Court also was turned down.

Dashing to their waiting car outside the state building at 9:55 a.m., Miss Asher and Davis reached the federal building three minutes later and were in Judge Goodman's chambers at 9:58.

Judge Goodman listened to them for two minutes. They asked time to argue whether the U.S. Supreme Court could be requested to review the state Supreme Court's denials.

A clerk came out at 10:02 and asked Goodman's secretary, Cecile Hickey, to telephone the prison. She misquoted the number, and could not reach San Quentin until the clerk had given her the number again.

TOO LATE

The phone finally rang outside the gas chamber after the lethal potassium cyanide pellets had fallen into a pan of sulphuric acid.

"Has the execution started?" Judge Goodmakn asked.

"Yes, it has, judge," replied associate warden Lord Nelson. "It's too late."

Reporters at first understood Judge Goodman to say he would grant a half-hour delay, but the judge later told reporters: "I wanted an hour's delay.

A. L. Wirin, Los Angeles civil liberties counsel who worked with Davis and Miss Asher in the case, declared in a statement:

"California's action today in sending Chessman to death on so narrowly divided a vote of the California Supreme Court will bring everlasting shame, the world over to the administration of justice in California."

GOVERNOR'S VIEWS

The governor, who wound up alienating both sides on the death penalty issue, said in a statement:

"My personal opposition to the death penalty remains as profound as ever. I continue to hope that the people of California will change the law."

But until they do, Brown said, he must continue to uphold it.

On Chessman's execution day, Brown was called "the haignest of California" by Dr. Isadore Zilerstein, Los Angeles psychiatrist and leader of pro-capital pickets at the governor's mansion in Sacramento.

"I am convinced that Governor Brown only talks of being against capital punishment," Dr. Zilerstein said.

FLUORIDATION

Dr. Nikiforuk told another questioner that there had been some "mild mottling" of teeth of children in communities where fluorine had been added to water higher than the recommended one-in-1,000,000 ratio. But it had never occurred at a lower level, he added.

Austen Cooper, commission counsel, said outside the hearing that he expected the hearing here to last two weeks.

The Health League brief said the mass of Ontario's population should not be made of suffer to satisty the beliefs or a tiny but vocal minority of dissenters.

The league proposed that the government make fluorine mandatory for all public water systems within three years and also provide the capital cost of the necessary equipment. It said every Ontario community could get fluoridated water at a total cost of not more than $500,000 a year.

The Canadian Dental Association said that with only about one-third of the population now receiving adequate dental care there was no hope of controlling decay by present methods alone.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort
Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids
Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this prescription, whether right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.
In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.
Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!
In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 30 years' standing.
All this, without the use of harsh, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance—Bio-Dyne—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Bio-Dyne is the only wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.
This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Sidney Farmer Saves Sons From Blazing Barn

Releases 11 Cows But Livestock Loss Heavy

A six-year-old boy who ran to the house to tell his father there was smoke in the barn, was credited last night with giving the alarm which saved the two younger brothers from possible death in a blazing barn.

Mr. D. Maitland Harder, 3rd concession of Sidney, just had time to carry his two young sons to safety and release 11 cows from their stalls before the barn was a mass of flames.

Lost in the flames were 13 cows, eight head of young stock, a purebred Guernsey bull and between 40 to 50 chickens. Many of the animals were ready for shipping. The large barn was burned to the ground.

Mrs. Harder and three boys, Dexter, 6, Ralph, 4, and Eric, 3, had been playing in their father's barn after supper, when about eight o'clock Dexter came running to the house to tell his father there was smoke in the barn.

Mr. Harder ran to the barn and carried the two younger sons to safety, then returned to freeing the cattle tied in the stable. He had let loose about 11 of the herd of milch cows before the flames drove him from the barn by the smoke and flames.

EQUIPMENT ALSO LOST

Besides the barn, a hammer mill and cream separator, along with other barn equipment were lost in the fire.

Trenton Fire Department answered the call for assistance but could no nothing toward saving the building and concentrated its efforts toward saving nearby buildings.

The loss to the Harder family will be a heavy one. The 13 cows destroyed in the blaze were valued at approximately $200 each, while the hogs and other shipping weight also represent a big loss. Origin of the fire is unknown.

Prices for Food Push Living Cost Index Higher

OTTAWA (CP) — Widespread price increases, especially in food, pushed the consumer price index up by one-half of one per cent in March, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The consumer price index climbed to 127 on April 1 from 126.9 a month earlier, reversing a four-month downward trend. The rise of one-fifth of a point compared with the four-month decline of 1.4 points from the record high of 128.3 last Nov. 1.

The April 1 index level, based on 1949 prices, was 127.0 compared with 125.4 a year earlier.

The bureau reported higher prices in all sectors of the consumer budget, with a 5-per-cent increase in food prices.

The food index, largest component of the consumer price index, rose to 120.9 from 119.4 during March with more expensive fresh bread, eggs, citrus fruits, apples, potatoes and chicken. Beef and pork prices were generally lower, as were most imported fresh vegetables.

SHELTER HIGHER

The shelter index reached a record level of 130.4 on April 1 from 142.9 a year earlier, as home-ownership costs increased while rents remained unchanged.

The March rise in living costs was preceded by an increase in industrial wages. The index of average industrial wages and salaries, at March 1 — latest figure available — was 175.3 compared with 174.9 a month earlier and 170.2 a year earlier. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

This wage index, computed from a survey of firms employing more than 15 persons and covering a wide range of industries, represents an average of total wages paid.

In other sections of the consumer budget, there were isolated increases in the prices of some items of men's and women's clothing to push the clothing index up by .4 per cent, to 110.3 from 110.

The index of household operation costs edged upwards in April from 123.4 as higher price tags on 1960 model appliances, furniture and some household utensils more than offset lower textile prices.

Higher doctor and dentist fees were behind an increase in the index for other commodities and services to 127.1 from 127.0, as prices of goods — bicycles and toilet soap declined.

Wholesale prices showed almost no change during April.

The Canadian farm index, calculated on the same 1935-39 base, rose to 218.8 from 217.9 during the period March 25 to April 22.

De Gaulle Home, Finds Problems Awaiting Him

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle came home today from a successful search for peace in the World to find plenty of problems at home.

Seventeen fatiguing days in Canada, the United States and the French west Indies have built his overseas prestige to an all-time high, but he faces an angry parliament and the need for bold new steps toward peace in Algeria — the central cause for the summit meeting and an easing of France's darkening farm crisis.

Today's Chuckle

There days a child who knows the value of a dollar must be mighty discouraged.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Brilliant sunshine will move the mercury into the 70s in Southern Ontario again today and there is no immediate end in sight for this area's fine weather. But except for intervals of brightening, cool, showery weather seems to be in the cards for all areas north of lakes Superior and Huron.

WORKS MINISTER DEFENDS GOVT. IN HOUSING DEBATE

2 Non-Confidence Motions Crushed

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons version of the Nova Scotia election campaign ended in confusion.

Following a two - day debate that ranged over all manner of Atlantic - region economic problems, the Conservative majority crushed two non-confidence motions calling for more federal aid to the Atlantic Provinces.

The debate, in which most of the participants were members of Atlantic area, was accepted on both sides of the House as a launchpad for the provincial election, scheduled for June 9.

MOTIONS SWAMPED

A Liberal non-confidence motion was defeated 160 to 56 as the CCF supporting the main opposition party, with exception of Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur), who abstained.

A CCF motion was turned back 211 to 8, with the Liberals as well as the Conservatives voting against it. The CCF had called for establishment of a publicly-owned steel mill in the Sydney region.

HOUSING DEBATE

After the divisions, the Commons embarked on a 10-hour housing debate, initiated on a non-confidence motion by the Liberals, the Liberals' housing critic, Jean - Paul Deschatelets, urged federal government can create 200,000 jobs by using the mortgage insurance fund — a plan sanctioned by Parliament and which he said was justification for the government sitting on its hands while there are 800,000 unemployed."

Works Minister Walker, defending the government's decision to withdraw from the mortgage field, said it would be unfair to keep pumping about $325,000,000 a year into housing as in the past few years.

But if this spending were continued there would be no government go for help in the event of a recession. This was the year to cut back on housing.

Mr. Walker said he was "very disappointed" at the action of bank lending under the National Housing Act to fewer than 25 NHA loans in the first quarter of 1960 as against 25,000 in the whole of 1959.

CUTS ESTIMATES

However, he reduced his earlier estimate of 175,000 housing starts this year by only 2,000.

Mr. Walker said he had urged lenders, such as insurance and trust companies, that would be back in the mortgage market.

Mr. Garland noted that loans made by insurance and lenders in first quarter of this year dropped to 5,881 from 17,000 in the comparable 1959 period — a decline of 70 per cent. In the same period, housing starts were down 45 per cent.

BANKS ACT—Criminal

said Canada's housing plight began to worsen after the banks and public works ministry to become external affairs minister — after he had conceded that the move and the present troubles may be only coincidental.

He suggested that "as serious as the international situation may be," Mr. Green has been devoting his public works "for the good of the country."

Honeymoon Yacht, Britannia, Ready for Cruise After Wedding

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret's honeymoon yacht Britannia sailed down the Thames early today and anchored in a city bright with banners and bustling with preparations for the royal wedding Friday.

The royal yacht Britannia, gleaming she sparkling white, waited in the shadow of the grim Tower of London to take Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones aboard for a Caribbean cruise after the wedding.

British society and visitors here by the wedding prepared magnificent gowns for the glittering ball the Queen will give tonight at Buckingham Palace for her younger sister and the ex-photographer she will marry in Westminster Abbey.

The ball will launch a three-day whirl of parties and official

Carrying Place Angler Meets Up With Bear Near Coe Hill

CARRYING PLACE (CP)—Ron Currie came face to face in the bush trip Tuesday with a bear story and the marks to prove it.

The, 63 - year - old First World War pensioner said he was walking through the bush near Coe Hill, 75 miles north of this Belleville district community, when he stepped on a log, disturbing a 300 - pound black bear nursing three cubs.

The next thing he knew the bear was roaring, gnashing its teeth and slashing at him with its sharp claws.

"Its paw shot out and grabbed the back of my suit coat, and I was buried 15 feet through the air," he said, rubbing a bump on his head.

The bear then charged, Mr. Currie said, and wrapped its paws around him. He thought my head and felt its nose go by my ear and its teeth snap. It missed my throat.

"Then, still hugging me, it started to roll over on its back. As a bear hunter, I knew what was coming. Bears lie on their backs and bring up their hind feet and then rip down with them, ripping you wide open from the chest down."

Mr. Currie said he almost managed to break free but the bear caught his coat with its rear claws and threw him through the air again.

He picked himself up and fought back. Using a log and branches over the bear's head between charges, he and emerging with a tattered coat, bruises, glasses, a gash on his right finger and a bump on his head, but no worse.

Two fishing companions watched the encounter, but were too far away to help.

MOVE TO WIDEN INQUIRY MADE AFTER RULINGS

Gray Insists No Money Received

TORONTO (CP)—A move to broaden the scope of a royal commission inquiry into the purchase of land from Indians in Sarnia was made Tuesday.

Kenneth Brown, QCF member of the legislature, objected to four rulings by Mr. Justice G.A. McGillivray of the Ontario Court of Appeal, presiding at the hearing, and said he would apply for a stated case.

The royal commissioner said he would not reconsider his rulings. Mr. Brown said he would consult with his lawyer about the next step, but he would mean a direct application to Court of Appeal.

TAKE BREATHER

Meanwhile, the hearing into purchase by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission of land that formed part of an Indian reserve near Sarnia stands adjourned until Friday.

Mr. Brown objected to:

A refusal to have produced the bank account of A. J. B. Gray, former Indian agent, assessment commissioner, who did land conveyancing for Dominion Explosives Limited in his spare time.

A refusal to have produced the minute book and bank statements of Dominion Explosives, which sold the land to Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario acquired title to the land;

A decision to proceed with the inquiry into the Indian Act and W. W. Gardiner, a Toronto real estate dealer called as an expert witness.

$60,000 FOR GARDINER

Mr. Gray said at Tuesday's hearing he believed Wesley Gardiner was to receive about $60,000 commission for his part in the land deal.

A cancelled cheque produced from Mr. Gray's bank account by Mr. Gardiner had been paid $1,000 by Dominion Explosives on Aug. 28, 1958. Basil Sigler, a former major shareholder in Dominion Explosives, said the $1,000 was down payment against commission.

A subpoena was issued earlier by the commission to have Mr. Gardiner produce the documents. Commission counsel Joseph Sedgwick said: "We may draw some conclusions, perhaps unfavorable

Toronto Youth Stabbed to Death In Apartment

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today they are holding a youth on questioning in the stabbing death of Alexander Bakalis in an apartment building here early Saturday night.

Police found Bakalis' body after a man picked up in suburban North York phoned police and told them someone had been killed in Normandin's apartment. He said he have led police to Bakalis' body and where they had battered down the door and found

Expect Last Decade's Development To Pay off in Higher Production

TORONTO (CP) — Newspaper executives gathering here from across Canada for a series of meetings are told to expect a big year economically than 1959.

They see the construction and development of the last decade beginning to pay off in production in the 1960s. Increased capital expenditure planned for this year is based on as one of the bright spots in the economy, which will also be helped along by better agricultural prospects and by such an improving market for crude oil and export of natural gas.

But the world will continue to the drop in housing construction, the tapering off in uranium production and a lower level of minerals production are regarded among the dark spots.

From the long-term standpoint, publishers and editors see the St. Lawrence Seaway as an engineering feat in the world sense but at the same time intensifying competition for Canada's second-

Simcoe Reformer Becomes Daily Next October

TORONTO (CP) — Membership in The Canadian Press for Simcoe Reformer, planning to publish five days weekly beginning next October, was approved Tuesday by CP's board of directors.

It will bring CP membership to 101. The 100th member of the national co-operative, the partnership of Canadian dailies exchanging the news of their areas, was the Red Deer Advocate, which moved into daily publication March 1.

SOUTH KOREA NAVY REPORTS Red Landing Attempt Foiled

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A South Korean navy frigate today reported it sank a North Korean torpedo boat attack which the navy claimed was designed to cover a Red landing in the rear of marines in the crisis-torn south.

The navy said the encounter was over in less than five minutes and the three attack craft fled the scene. Soviet Union's 1,200-ton frigate returned fire, but the navy said there were no casualties or material damage, a spokesman said. It was not known whether the attackers were hit.

The clash attacked 15 miles off the east coast, about two miles south of the 38th parallel dividing line separating north and South Korea, the navy said.

The navy communique expressed belief that the Communists were trying to land spies or saboteurs in South Korea to "take advantage of the April 26 political turmoil."

The North Koreans, meanwhile, have demanded formally the UN forces get out of South Korea. The demand was made at a meeting of the military armistice commission called by the Reds to protest Tuesday's UN demand, as usual, rejected the demand.

South Korean students paraded for the fourth straight day through the city of Pusan demanding election of a new national assembly. Some 2,000 high school pupils marched three miles, chanting slogans until they were dispersed by troops at the city hall plaza. Tanks and armored cars were called up, but no violence was reported.

NATO Powers Warn Russia To End Attacks on Germany

In their closed session the ministers heard first-hand accounts from the delegates of West Germany and Greece of the new psychological and political pressures Russia has been mounting up against their governments.

Only last week in Tehran, at a meeting of ministers of the Central Treaty Organization, American State Secretary Christian Herter and Britain's Foreign Secretary, Selwyn Lloyd were given a similar report by leaders of Iran, located on Russia's southern flank.

The NATO communique said of all this:

Although desiring a true international detente (relaxation), the ministers therefore cannot be satisfied with a formula of "peaceful coexistence" under cover of which subversive activity is made against individual members of the alliance.

"Detente, like the peace, is indivisible,

"Thus, the efforts of Soviet propaganda to discredit the Federal Republic of Germany and the governments of certain other NATO countries are inimical to the detente as a whole and inconsistent with a real improvement in international relations.

The effect of this warning was to put the Russians on notice, 12 years after the Soviet Union first sat in Paris, that they cannot expect choice countries and regions of the world with which they mean to play fair.

Canadian Millionaire Acquires Citizenship in United States

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canadian millionaire businessman and sportsman Jack Kent Cooke wants to become a citizen of the United States.

He wants American citizenship soon, excluding a year in a corner on the five-year road by having a U.S. congressman go to bat for him in the Senate and House of Representatives.

Cooke, 47, who owns a Toronto radio station and has a controlling interest in the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball team, among other holdings, was described before the House committee on Immigration Tuesday as "wanting to build a big business empire in the U.S.

Representative Francis E. Walter, a Pennsylvania Democrat, told the House that "Cooke feels that in the United States, as an American citizen, he can realize personal satisfaction."

"He hopes to make a real and lasting contribution to the United States."

A bill introduced by Walter would waive the usual five years of Cooke's entrance into the U.S. before citizenship papers are filed Sept. 28, 1950, thus giving him more than the five years' permanent residence needed to become a citizen.

The bill was passed by the House and sent to the Senate. If the Senate gives its approval, the bill needs only the signature of President Eisenhower before Cooke can apply to a U.S. district court for citizenship.

Walter said Tuesday night Cooke would not comment on the action or his reasons for wanting to relinquish his Canadian citizenship.

An official of the Board of Broadcast Governors in Ottawa said it would study the broadcasting licence application of Cooke's application for U.S. citizenship would be studied by the board.

Prearrangement Seen In Handling Of Racial Issue

Brief, Amicable Debate Avoids Formal Approach

LONDON (CP)—With a dispatch that hinted strongly at prearrangement, the Commonwealth prime ministers have hit on a way to keep Commonwealth solution of the controversial apartheid issue.

After a brief and amicable debate, they decided Tuesday to keep the question of South Africa's racial policies off their conference agenda and take it up in informal discussions with External Affairs Minister Eric Louw.

The decision was an example of how the flexible Commonwealth association adapts itself to new problems without departing from the basic ground rules under which it operates.

Exclusion of apartheid from the agenda effectively settled the basic principle that Commonwealth members have no power to eject one of their number because of its domestic policies.

In the same debate Tuesday's brief debate broke new ground in that it made the conduct of Commonwealth relations the subject of the conference. The point was made by Nigeria's prime minister that prime ministers issued an annual communique which was unique largely devoted to the South African debate.

Under the ruling of the issue by Tunku Abdul Rahman, Malaya's prime minister, the conference will not discuss the question of the prime ministers talking about South Africa's racial discrimination while they were in London. But, significantly, he made no demand for inclusion of the item on the agenda.

That left the way open for Louw to invite his colleagues to take the matter with him informally. Then the conference would limit its attention to its less-controversial discussion of international affairs.

Norman Smith Named Chairman Of Press Union

TORONTO (CP) — I. Norman Smith, Ottawa Journal, was elected chairman at the 1960-61 session, Commonwealth Press Union, at the annual meeting here Tuesday. Mr. Smith succeeds F. I. Kay, Southam Company Ltd., Montreal, as honorary chairman. Mr. Smith is succeeded as vice-chairman by T. E. Nichols, Hamilton Spectator.

Elected to the executive committee were the following: Norman Telegram; Floyd S. Chalmers, Maclean-Hunter Publishing Company Limited, Toronto; Oscar Gilbert, Quebec Le Soleil; R. Hamilton Ketchum, Fort Frances; and H. E. McCormick, Montreal Monitor.

Nixon Is Winner Over Kennedy In Indiana Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a day crammed with primary elections, Vice-President Richard Nixon appeared to have the lightweight Democratic opposition all to himself.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota won his first Democratic primary in the light-voting District of Columbia. And, as expected, Nixon swept all 30 Indiana delegates to the Democratic national convention. Nixon apparently took all the Republican delegates in that state.

With returns from 3,665 of the state's 4,261 polls, Nixon had 339,502 votes and Kennedy had 285,

Capacity Audience at Youth Rally

The new Billy Graham film, "Caribbean Crusade" was shown to a capacity audience at the regular Youth for Christ rally at the Masonic Temple on Sunday night. This film takes the viewer on a scenic tour through the West Indies and Caribbean area. Last year the Billy Graham Evangelistic Team conducted a crusade in these tropical area. This film is a documentary report of the tour and the results. Many interesting scenes of native life are shown. The city market, the farm scenes, fields, the rhythm loving natives, at festival time, and even up-to-date scenes of the Castro Revolution in Cuba were portrayed.

As the spiritual leaders of the Caribbean realized the spiritual unrest, they decided to invite the Graham Team to preach the gospel. This dynamic film portrays the love and sheer power that the native people had to the gospel. One interesting scene showed 40,000 people in San Juan gathered in the rain to listen to the message. At the end, about 4,000 came forward to register their decision for Christ. The film proved a great challenge to the capacity audience of 350 teenagers and adults that viewed it.

SPECIAL GUESTS

The special guest for the evening were the Ambassador Male Singers from Toronto. This 20 voice choir, under the direction of Mr. Cyril Redford, rendered many beautiful numbers in song. Some of the old hymns of the church were done in a new and refreshing way. This group of dedicated men were really inspired.

The Bible Quiz was again enjoyed by all. The first quiz saw Quinte Secondary Comento. The final score was Deseronto 160, Quinte 20. In the second quiz the score was a close 40 to 20 for B.C.I. over Quinte.

The audience was challenged by the testimonies of two teenagers, Brian Moscow of Moncreff High School, and Leland Conley of Trenton High, gave testimonies telling what the Lord Jesus Christ means to them.

The audience was thrilled to hear that Mr. Homer James, TV and Radio personality would be present at the next rally, Mr. James is currently campaigning with members of the Billy Graham team, and his presence is greatly appreciated. Also on the next program on May 14, the new film on the life of Peter will be shown. It is entitled "Power of the Resurrection'. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy this program.

27 Members Ottawa Kiwanis Club on Hand for Return Visit

Twenty-seven members of the South Ottawa Kiwanis Club, including club president, Bruce Scrivens, were guests of the Belleville Kiwanis Club for their regular weekly meeting Tuesday at the Kiwanis Centre.

The Ottawa Kiwanis members were repaying a visit made by the local club on April 5th, to the boys Ottawa club.

Highlight of the meeting which was under the chairmanship of club president, George Tripp, was the induction of three new members into the Belleville club.

Mr. Wettlaufer, who came to Belleville in 1950, was introduced by president George Tripp. Mr. Hall, a native of Winnipeg, Man., who came to Belleville in 1956, was introduced by Leo McKee; and Mr. Philp, a native of Ottawa, was introduced by John Trafford.

The induction ceremony was conducted by Mark Vanney, who in a brief address, outlined some of the projects carried out by the local club in the past, the club rules and regulations, particularly regarding regular attendance, and stressed three of the international organization's objectives — to give primary study to the principles and objectives of life, to practise the Golden Rule, and to form lasting friendships among fellow members.

He presented each of them with a Kiwanis kit, containing Kiwanis pamphlets, club button, and membership certificate, and officially welcomed them into the club on behalf of president George Tripp and members of the club.

BLITZ BIG SUCCESS

Wars and Means chairman Ken Pinder reported the Kiwanis Peanut Blitz on last Wednesday night was a big success, netting the club a total of $324.51.

It ehanked all the Kiwanians, and Key Carriers who assisted for their fine efforts in making the blitz a success, singling out for special commendation Ron Godden, and the seven club members who assisted Ken Pinder in organizing the peanut blitz.

Mr. Pinder presented each of his seven assistants: Ralph Graham, Doug Sleek, Ron Kell, Dick Kuntze, Len Foxard, Gord Crawford and George Payne (who sold the highest amount of peanuts and peanut butter, $73 worth — with a white coat on).

Conon A. S. McConnell expressed thanks to Mr. Pinder on behalf of the club, for the efforts in organizing the peanut drive. President Tripp added his thanks and presented Mr. Pinder with a rose.

Past Lt.-Gov. Cliff Barrager, who was in Florida when the attendance tabs were presented was presented with his 12 year years-perfect- attendance tab by president Tripp.

President Tripp announced next week's speaker will be the secretary of the Japanese Embassy who will speak on "Trade Relations with Japan."

Program chairman Ken Burnett announced that Bobby Thrall, Glenn Hand's hockey player will be a guest of the club at the May 17th meeting, along with C.J.B.Q. sportscaster Jack Devine. He urged all Kiwanians to bring either a son or a young male guest with them.

Guests from the nation's capital were introduced by membership chairman Bob Prestone of the Ottawa Club.

Entertainment was provided by about 10 members of the Ottawa club, who, under the direction of John Thompson, club musical director, presented their club members with a song about the Belleville Mascot and the city's financial troubles.

The local club reciprocated by presenting the Ottawa club with a song eulogizing the hesitating of the Ottawa clubs's first visit to a member of his local club.

A brief address was given by the Ottawa club president, Bruce Scrivens, in which he said he and his fellow members were "happy to be here" and thanked the club for inviting them.

He announced the Canadian Tulip Festival will be held in Ottawa, May 17th to 24th, and presented president Tripp with a bouquet of red tulips for the club.

The visitors returned to Ottawa by chartered bus, happily in possession of their fine box of Belleville Mint Cake, the gavel which they surreptitiously managed to swipe at the conclusion of the meeting. The gavel was presumably taken to Ottawa by their local fine box which had been handcuffed to the transit-at-arms during the meeting.

MISS ELLA MAUD REEVES

Highly respected and esteemed resident of this city for many years, Miss Ella Maud Reeves, 212 Charles Street, passed away suddenly at her residence this Wednesday morning Miss Reeves was in her 89th year.

Born in Belleville, a daughter of the late Mr and Mrs. George Reeves, she was the last member of her family.

Miss Reeves is survived by two nephews, Jesse Eugene Reeves and Clarence Reginald Reeves, both of Belleville.

She was a descendant of a long line of members of the Bridge Street United Church, her grandfather having attended there in 1835.

A lifelong member herself, Miss Reeves took a deep interest in the work of the church. She was a teacher of the Sunday School teachers and a member of the Woman's Missionary Society and the Women's Auxiliary.

She was treasurer of the Women's Christian Temperance Union for 37 years.

Resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, 70 Victoria Ave. at Church St., the funeral arrangements are pear elsewhere in this edition.

Mrs. Myra Kerr Died Year Ago

Mrs. Myra (Smith) Kerr, wife of the late John A. Kerr, died one year ago today, and will be remembered by a wide circle of friends in this community.

Born at Shakespeare in 1892, the former Myra Smith was the third generation of Ontario-born descendants on her paternal side of an immigrant from the Isle of Skye. Sisters who settled more than a century ago at the small village of Bowen, Ont., at the point the family has spread all over Canada and have lived prosperous lives in both in peace and war.

Myra Kerr was the eldest of six children born to the late Charles Smith and his wife, the mother and all her brothers and sisters survive her.

Educated at the St. Thomas high school and Ontario Teachers' College, Hamilton, she taught school in Western Ontario and Alberta prior to her marriage to the late John A. Kerr.

Following her marriage to John Albert Kerr, of Belleville, she became highly involved in the life of this community. After her husband ceased to be sheriff of Hastings County, she proved herself a business woman of outstanding merit, carrying on her husband's death she took over the family responsibilities with marked success. Both professionally, at Kingston, and in Belleville, Mrs. Kerr's work she was an outstanding success.

Myra Kerr was also interested in people in every walk of life. She, not matter what her circumstances, found time to always available to help those who were in need of help.

Never robust, she suffered for a lengthy period from the illness which was the ultimately expired, but met all life's problems with undaunted courage and fortitude. Her sense of humor was delightful and she had the good side of everything. In consequence of her cheerful outlook on life she endeared herself to numberless friends made the with in her journey through life.

SPLENDID TRIBUTE

A graduate in 1920 of the School of Social Work, the following tribute was published in "Scope," the official publication:

Mrs. Kerr was one of the first trained social workers to enter the field of child welfare in this small community. At the time of her graduation a request came to the School for a social worker to act as assistant to the Children's Aid Society of Belleville. Myra Smith (as she then was) took the position as it was a good opportunity and one for which there was little previous experience to serve as a guide. For a graduate of that time, it was a very great test and one that Myra Smith began with characteristic courage and confidence. She set up case records where none had existed and wrote them by hand. She introduced into the disbursement of funds a system of personal casework she had learned at the School.

She later joined the Neighborhood Workers Association in the Mummy-under District as a canine district secretary. Here, she established a set and above a warm interest and skill in working with individuals. A flair for organization and administration. At the time, family welfare tended to be associated with poverty and dependency. Myra Smith, early and did not hesitate to use her personal charm in securing from any community source the help needed by distressed families in the area.

Myra Kerr retired from social work only briefly after her marriage to John Kerr, then Sheriff of Hastings County. She became active in the Women's Canadian Club and during the war she helped organize a busy sewing rectory in Belleville for the families of servicemen. After the war she served as a volunteer to find housing for the families of discharged servicemen. When her husband died in 1945, she returned to active social work and in 1949 joined the Children's Aid Society in Kingston. And two years ago, Mrs. Kerr returned to the School she had left more than a quarter of a century before, to take a summer course in supervision. Dr. A. Jacks, executive director of the Kingston Society, said of Mrs. Kerr: "She was a very skilful caseworker, an excellent supervisor, a pleasant and cooperative colleague, and a typical employee. Her sense of humor was always very much in evidence. She was highly regarded and well-liked by all those who work in the field of welfare."

Accused Given Two-Year Term In Penitentiary

Two years in the Kingston penitentiary was the penalty handed out by Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson, to one of two Belleville youths charged with breaking and entering and theft of chain saws from a Shannonville garage.

Sentenced to the penitentiary term was Bernard J. Minchin, while sentence for David M. Bryans was suspended with the same Shannonville offence, was deferred until May 24th.

The pair pleaded guilty to the Shannonville offence, while Minchin was also charged with theft of car radios from Wellbanks Motors in Belleville.

The chain saws stolen from Cook's Shannonville garage were recovered.

The court was told that efforts were being made to assist Downes a job. Judge Anderson said if such was the case, it may influence the sentence, which might be given.

Trade Minister Churchill Stands by His Version of Talk With AP Correspondent

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill said Tuesday he stands by his version of a talk he had with an Associated Press reporter in Moscow, which resulted in a story quoting Mr. Churchill as saying Canada would be willing to sell uranium to Russia.

In the Commons April 25, after his return from Moscow, the minister described the story and a subsequent one by the reporter, A. I. Goldberg, as "false in their entirety."

Mr. Goldberg, in a reply carried Tuesday by The Canadian Press, said Mr. Churchill had "deformed every quotation and every circumstance" of their talks in Moscow on which the dispatches were based.

NO CHANGE

Asked by Douglas Fisher (CCF—Port Arthur) to comment on the reporter's charges, Mr. Churchill reiterated that the stories were false. "I stand by the statement on Monday" April 25, he said.

Mr. Fisher also asked Mr. Churchill whether he had considered making that Mr. Goldberg or the senior representative of the AP in Moscow be called before the bar of the Commons "to explain his reflections upon the ministerial statement."

Mr. Churchill said he had not considered such a procedure.

The minister, a clipping of the reporter's statement in his hand, said the account was "largely a reprint of the statements which I declared in the House April 25 to be false and I so declare again."

There was very little comment in the exchange of Goldberg "except for the flat statement that I have been incorrect in what I have said," Mr. Churchill noted. The rest was a "somewhat garbled account."

USES SARCASM

Mr. Churchill spoke sarcastically as he read the clipping.

He described as a "calamity" the fact that through a transmission error between Moscow and AP New York the word "not" was altered to "and" in Mr. Goldberg's original dispatch.

"I notice that Mr. Goldberg has had 20 years' experience. By inference I have had none.

"I notice he was stationed in Paris, in Prague and at the United Nations; he has been abroad. I was stationed abroad for six years—in France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Germany and the United Kingdom."

Mr. Churchill, a First World War veteran, also served in the Second World War as commander of the 1st Canadian Armored Carrier Regiment in northern Europe, attaining the rank of lieutenant-colonel.

His went on:

"Mr. Goldberg's opinion is to be relied upon apparently because he was a war correspondent. I was not a war correspondent. Many of them saw considerable danger in the course of their activities. My experience, unfortunately, was limited to just 20 bottles."

Mr. Churchill said that in Tuesday's statement Mr. Goldberg attempted "to implicate a distinguished civil servant in the affair" (ex-assistant deputy trade minister Herbert Norman, who died after a large 33; A medium 33; A small 27; B 31; C 27.

Many Projects Now Under Way By P.W. Dept.

With the clement weather prevailing over the recent workdays the city's Public Works department has been quite active on a great number of different projects. The spring has been going on for the past three street cleaning project which has been completed to-day. The department will still however continue flushing service for leaves and brush, which citizens have gathered from their lawns so that this refuse will not find its way into the catch basins and block the sewers.

A special catchbasin cleaning program is now underway and will be going on throughout the city. This project is expected to last for approximately three weeks.

A number of construction projects have been started recently. On the north side of Highway No. 2 the construction of stone and cinder sidewalks from the Ontario School for the Deaf to Avondale Road is nearing completion. Another sidewalk project is currently underway on the north side of Bridge west of Herchimer. This sidewalk, located on the south side of the street, will be 480 feet in length and should be completed soon.

Public works crews have also been busy on sidewalks along Highway No. 2 west to the city limits and new curbs are expected to have been completed by this evening. Along the line of roadwork in the business section. It is hoped that all sign posts in the city will be removed during the summer months. Repairs have also been made necessary to a number of name signs, and these stop signs due to their having been broken or defaced by vandals.

The sewer crews have also been busy with the installation for new homes as well as the cleaning of basins and manholes throughout the business section. It is hoped that all sign posts in the city will be removed during the summer months. Repairs have also been made necessary to a number of name signs, and these stop signs due to their having been broken or defaced by vandals.

The sewer crews have also been busy with the installation for new homes as well as the cleaning of basins and manholes throughout the business section.

Work will also continues on the grading and oiling of Bridge's street between Bridge and the asphalt patching crew will soon have their busy filling up the holes caused by the spring thaw.

Work on the snow plows and winter equipment of the department has been completed by the mechanical crew and this equipment has now been stored ready for the first snowfall of next winter. The crew is also busy, of course, with the fall and winter tenance and check-up of the department's summer equipment.

1957 he has complained about being shadowed. Speaker Roland Michener ruled the question out of order.

In his statement April 25, Mr. Churchill expressed regret that Goldberg should have been asked to get in touch with him in Moscow to check the statements attributed to him.

Mr. Fisher asked him Tuesday whether he was aware that two Canadian newspapers actually had taped interviews with Mr. Goldberg.

The minister replied that he had so been advised in a note from the Parliamentary Press Gallery. He said he could have been reached at his hotel in Moscow had the telephone operator got through.

Finding Detour While Subway Built Is Problem

TRENTON — Work has begun on the CNR Sidney Street subway, and within a month, the street will be closed to through traffic until the end of this year. Trenton councillors are now faced with finding an alternate route for incoming and outgoing traffic. A proposal to build a temporary road from the existing tracks and also across the temporary by-pass which will be installed by the railroad for use while the construction of the subway is in progress, and the present scars roads leading back into the Trenton bypass, met with little enthusiasm from the councillors when it was pointed out that the project would cost over $10,000.

If the two trucks come down through the town, another problem presents itself. Division Street will be torn up and re-paved this summer. If the trucks use Dundas and Queen Street West, they are sure to encounter, and cause, traffic difficulties at the Dundas Street intersection.

Council decided that a letter should be sent to the Department of Highways and advice sought concerning the detour problem.

Are No Major Fires In Trenton in April

TRENTON — There were no major fires in Trenton during the month of April, the fire department answered 49 calls, two of which were false alarms.

In his monthly report to Trenton council, Fire Chief Cecil Ellis stated that there had been two fires which would fall in the "suspicious" category, one at the home of Gerald Dezell, Front Street, where fire had caused an estimated property loss amounting to $7,000 and the other to a garage on the premises owned by F. J. Martin at 247 King Street, causing damage estimated at $225.

During the months there were 13 grass fires, one of which was in the township of Murray. Seventeen chimney burner fires and two car fires. Other calls were to fires of a minor nature.

28 Building Permits Issued During April

TRENTON — During the month of April, 28 building permits were issued by Trenton's building inspector, Wilbert Anderson. The total estimated worth of the building activity cited is $176,933.

There are expected increases in building over the previous month. In March, six permits were issued with a total value of $16,660.

In his breakdown Mr. Anderson said that 15 permits had been issued for new dwellings, the total monetary value of which is estimated $151,700.

Other permits had taken out a permit to build a $20,000 addition to the Trenton bulding. Commercial building repair amounted to $2,240, and three garage dwellings were chalked up at $2,518.

Receives Old Photo

TRENTON — First Chief Cecil Ellis of Trenton received a package from E. H. Burke of Kingston this week, containing a group photograph of the Trenton Volunteer Department taken in 1886. The photographer was W. W. Higgins of Trenton. The fire chief at that time was R. Wardell.

Probe Robbery

TRENTON — Inspector R. J. Rutherford of the Trenton police department is still investigating a "smash and run" robbery which occurred Monday night.

A corner of the large plate glass window at the side of the Garrett and Lusby Funeral Chapel in the Dundas Street West was knocked out. This was discovered by Constable R. F. Miller when he was making his rounds around 11 p.m.

After the owners of the shop had been contacted it was learned that five transistor radios had been taken.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — Tonight at 8 p.m. an open meeting of the Canadian Red Cross Society will be held at the Trenton Legion Hall. A film, depicting the work of the Red Cross in the event of a disaster will be shown. The purpose of the meeting is to spark interest in the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic, which will be held in the basement of the Trenton United Church on May 12. Last year, 318 units of blood were given this year the target is 350.

SHOULD NOT PANIC

At council meeting Monday night, N. J. McNair, Trenton's senior citizen, said, during the discussion of the current mill rate and the proposed increase in taxes that 50 years ago there were no pavements, no lights and no inside toilets in homes, and that the town had still owned a sizable debt at that time. "But we've got things to show for our money", said the councillor. "We've got to be careful, but nobody should panic over the proposed situation."

WANT STREET WIDENED

The Masonic Lodge of Trenton had written to town council asking that local Street West, in front of the Masonic Hall, be widened to provide more parking facilities. The sidewalk would have to be moved to the north, enough to where it could be done, and trees would have to be cut down. Council noted that the widening was not warranted, but that a resident who would be out there to look after the trees, a former volunteered Councillor Whitley.

One in Every Fifty Farm Accidents Fatal

About one in every four farm families in Canada is involved in farm accident, and one in every fifty is fatal.

This was indicated in a cross country farm accident survey — taken for a year's period — which has just been completed. Results are announced by J. F. White chairman of the Agricultural Committee of The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and E. McArthur, of Belleville president of the Canadian Council on 4-H clubs.

In the period studied, according to the survey,

Over 59 per cent of all farm accidents involved under 20 age groups.

July is the most "dangerous" month of the year and accounted for 13 per cent of accidents August being second, and third.

One out of every four accidents involved farm machinery

A female was injured in one out of every five farm mishaps

Mr. Wyrie said that a report containing a composite picture of the Canadian farm accident situation would be made available in printed form in about two weeks' time. "This publication," he said, "should make possible more effective farm accident prevention programs."

The survey was carried out by the Canadian Council of 4-H Clubs the Provincial Department of Agriculture, The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the Canada Department of Agriculture, and The Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Mr. Wyrie said special tribute to members of the 4-H Clubs in the "important work they played in reporting accidents to people living on farms for the purposes of this survey."

Awaiting fly delivery, to spread on the dusty, unpaved street in the town, will be a number on the Streets in question "in a highly incensed mood, it will be literally spreading oil on troubled waters".

Too Late

Caryl Chessman died in the San Quentin gas chamber Monday. His death, though, will do nothing to still the controversy that has raged about his case. His execution was deplorable, no reasonable person will deny. There will, though, be a sharp difference of opinion as to why it was shocking. Many will contend that he should not have died at all. It is our contention that the execution came much too late. Chessman should have died at least seven years ago. Justice delayed is just as truly justice denied when a guilty person escapes prompt punishment as when an innocent person is wrongfully deprived of his right to liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Citizens of the United States are proud, not without some reason, of the system of checks and balances, the variety of courts to which a convicted person can appeal. That this is a safeguard against an innocent man being wrongfully punished we will grant. Alas, in the Chessman case it was apparently used entirely to that end. Every effort was used to enable a guilty man to delay beyond all reason his due punishment.

Even some of those who hold capital punishment to be a fit and proper penalty for murder and some other crimes, (in Chessman's case for kidnapping, for robbery and committing perverted sexual attacks on two women), may have felt that the long period which had elapsed since the crime made the eventual imposition of the death penalty undesirable.

Certainly it could no longer be pleaded with any rationality that Chessman's execution might serve as a deterrent to prevent any other person committing similar crimes. The delay in his execution had been much too long for the penalty to have this effect.

It could even be argued with considerable force that the Chessman who went into the gas chamber was not the same man who so many years ago caused two women a dozen years ago. In the intervening years he had changed, his personality and character had developed. There must be grave doubt in all our minds whether, if he had been pardoned, he would have been a threat to the safety of any person.

Time, for all intents and purposes, the only remaining reason for killing this man was in revenge, the worst of all possible motives for supporting capital punishment.

The best argument for capital punishment is that once a murderer or a kidnapper is executed he never repeats his crime. That some few men may change themselves for the better, as Chessman did, is no reason why society should expose completely innocent people to the threat of being the next victim of the majority of such criminals who do not reform. Chessman's punishment, to die after a twelve-year fight for life, was cruel and unusual as maintained in one of his many appeals, this was partly his own fault. The major part of the blame, though, must lie at the doors of the U.S. courts and the system in which they operate. There can be a much too long a period to wait for a final and irrevocable decision.

Wants Defence Expenditure Cut

Money being spent on vast armaments could be used more profitably on education, health, aid to underdeveloped countries and in lowering taxation.

That is a familiar theme these days. Nobody ought to be surprised to hear such sentiments voiced by speakers at any of a variety of gatherings in western countries.

But when these things are said by a soldier, at a dinner of a famous regiment, then they do suddenly acquire a novelty.-

The occasion was the centennial observance of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada. The speaker—why none other than Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, of course. Who else but Monty would dare voice such sentiments in such a place?

When a civilian says these things, the military sometimes shrug their shoulders in scorn. Is it too much to hope that, when Monty speaks, somebody may forget his post-war reputation as a bit of an odd-ball and will recall that here is a man who won the hard way a reputation as one of the most famous and ablest soldiers of his time?

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

AVOID THE DIVIDED LIFE

Jesus once made the statement that no man can serve two masters.

There is nothing tremendously profound in this statement. It is so basic that it forms the foundation of the religion which Jesus came to establish and all the peace of mind which you need I can ever hope to have. Present-day psychiatrists have discovered that nothing tears the soul and mind of man apart so much as division of loyalties. When a man knows who his master is and serves that master, he is happy. When he is not sure whom he should serve, he is not happy.

Let us bring this down into the affairs of every-day life. There are many a few confirmed and dedicated atheists in the world, but they are few indeed. Most people believe themselves to have some sort of religion. Yet how ineffective that religion often is. They go to church when it is convenient for them to do so. They live the life of their own means to religious and charitable work that they would like to perform for their neighbors know how stingy they are in this respect. They pray only when they are up against it or are standing on the edge of some perilous precipice.

Such people are suffering from divided loyalties. Their lives are divided. They crowd into the office hours of psychiatrists and counselors but no one can give them much help. They will have to help themselves if they are ever to be cured and happy.

Avoid the divided life. It can wreck all possibility of happiness.

Lifetime Reading Course

Ottawa Journal

Reading books on what to read presents something of the same dilemma as books on how to read books. It is a question of beginning, a question of the chicken or the egg. Clearly one should get to know much more on books about books. But just as clearly everyone needs guides to the best that has been thought and written. The real problem today is not separating the marvelicious books from the good, but finding the easy enough. The infinitely more difficult task is to weed out the lesser books from among the merely good. What are the fundamental books, the few that everyone should have read, the books, to take Carl Van Doren's phrase, that doesn't have to be re-read?

Mr. Clifton Fadiman, an intelligable merchant of popular culture, has written a book bearing the suggestive title "The Lifetime Reading Plan" (New-ton Foster and Scott) which is a most selective list of books which ought to be read. Perhaps it is more accurate to say that Mr. Fadiman has merely passed on a consensus on the books which the experts endorse.

This is a disturbing volume-not because it seems to us to be something like a life sentence to self-conscious culture. There is only a selection of 100 Books, really no "plan". The book is only a selection of Great Books. But it a unsettling because it is such a painful expose of our own misspent youths.

The first thing that anyone does with this volume is check Mortimer Adler's or Arnold Bennett's of years ago as a way to run down the titles and see how many of them he has read. He begins with a protective superiority complex and ends instructively humiliated.

It is always better to reverse chronological order for there is a much better chance of doing justice to the contemporary writers. The front of Mr. Fadiman's list has such reassuring entries as W. Somerset Maugham, "Of Human Bondage"; Aldous Huxley, "Collected Poems and Plays," Ernest Hemingway, "Short Stories," Robert Frost, "Collected Poems". It is easy to feel familiar here, comfortable, pulsating, informed.

Push back into time, however, and the first-hand acquaintances grow sparse. How many have really not merely "Hamlet" or "Julius Caesar", but William Shakespeare, "Complete Works"? Or have we read the other dramatists, Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, Ibsen, Shaw?

This is an age of unprecedented interest in psychology and politics. Yet what intimacy do we have with the great germinal works of Thomas Hobbes, "Leviathan"; John Locke, "Second Treatise on Government"; Sigmund Freud "Works"; Rene Descartes, "Discourse on Method"; William James, "The Principles of Psychology".

We talk about, sometimes, but we don't really read any more, Montaigne, Swift, Laurence Sterne, Cervantes, Froudat, Melville. It is one thing to have encountered-through a classical language. But who has read all of Aristotle, Plato, Thucydides, Sophocles? Humanely, we cut the chronicle short.

The same business raises a problem which Mr. Fadiman does not face. There is no Book Book orthodoxy, the things we read out of a sense of duty with resentment. There is also no one's natural taste. The prestige of great books is a powerful force for intimidation. But it should be realized that David Hume may be an sagging spirits: he might even repel. The reader will sometimes be badly caught between duty and pleasure. The uncongenial text should be put down, not because good reading in two ways easy, but it should not be considered a waste of time. One ought to be read which will give delight to do a dozen lifetimes, plan or no plan.

Strictly Personal

Is the Push To Masculinity Too Rapid?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was pleased to see an offbeat item in the paper last week from London, the heavyweight wrestling champion of Scotland had announced that his "secret hobby" is designing wedding dresses.

What pleased me was the acknowledgement by a robust male that there is no shame in combining a practice usually considered feminine with a masculine one. In our country, a man who designed a dress or knitted a sweater would be considered a sissy, and the butt of amused contempt.

There is a sharp division in our minds between "masculine" and "feminine" activities. Nobody is pure male or pure female; all of us have slight tendencies of the opposite sex, which require healthy expression.

Yet boys and culture are not permitted to express this. The girls, during the 20th century, have made inroads into their traditional roles: it is now considered creditable for a girl to engage in sports, or drive a car, or smoke a cigaret, or even wear pants.

The boys, however, have not built the counter-positive tendencies. It is considered "sissy" for a boy to be anything but a rough, roistering figure with a good left hand and a free-swinging teeth. In the tenderest ages, parents make these definite distinctions between the sexes.

The competition among boys to grow up and be tough and rough has been accelerated in our society by the longer adolescence. Times it seems as if we are afraid of our masculinity, for we are always trying to assert it and to implant it early in our children, instead of nurturing it quite naturally.

I think that this exaggeration has two grave results: with it some sensitive little boys, it makes the struggle against their own tendencies and drives them further away from normal masculinity; with others, it gives them the false idea that toughness and aggressiveness are the true marks of manhood. Much of what we call "juvenile delinquency" is motivated by this misguided idea of how a "real man" should behave.

We are, of course, the most sex-conscious society in the world; all one has to do is look through the ads of any general magazine to all the evidence we need. But all our commercial emphasis on feminine desirability and masculine virility has not succeeded in producing more cold women and more impotent males than we had ever believed was possible.

The reason for this, no doubt, are deep and complex; but one factor we cannot ignore is our relentless pushing of small children to become "little women" and "little men" before they are ready to adopt either role. When we do this, we can scarcely blame our adolescents for placing these roles to the dangerous hilt.

Equip Cars For Co-Pilot

Christian Science Monitor

A few days ago, echoing a safety expert , we said a few words in support of the safety seat driver. As if that were not sufficiently emphatic, it now appears that certain mechanical half-century ago there was a "co-pilot" to the driver of vehicles have been in long with the idea of a partnership in the mariner.

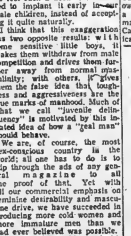
One is a tall, brass-bound, high-wheeled touring car of the 1905 Pierce-Arrow built to be chauffeur driven. One of its features is a pair of push-button buttons by which the owner could signal to the driver as "start", "stop," "fast," "back," and "home."

Another exhibit is a model of a car which an Italian manufacturer will make to order for a mere $15,000. Its rear compartment has four facing seats like a parlor car, and in addition there are two front seats for the driver, but it is not complete set of foot-pedal controls. Steering wheel then is transferable, so that it makes either a right-hand or left-hand drive, depending on where one is travelling, or to enable the driver to change seats, if you rather drive, suppose you take the wheel."



There are times when that arrangement might be worth a substantial part of the $15,000.

Water Is Key To Fine Whisky

St. Thomas Times - Journal

One of the questions in a quiz conducted in Great Britain recently was: What is the most important ingredient in Scotch whiskey? The right answer was —water! Distillers of Scotch whisky agree that though the barley, the peat used in the drying process, and the distilling method all affect the final product, it is the water that determines the character of the whisky.

Of course it is water, but a water with a special quality—soft water is. Scottish distilleries are mostly clustered along the banks of the river Spey, the water of which has the right properties for which Scotch whisky is noted.

It is the same with beer or stout. These commodities are brewed all over the country, but it is the beer brewed at Burton-on-Trent, such as Bass, that is the best. And it is the water around Dublin that makes the products of the Guinness

This area was settled in 1751 by immigrants from Hanover in Germany and the place to this day retains to a certain extent its German character. The name is a corruption of Luneberg, a town in Hannover Germany. At the time it was known for its fast clipper ships.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

RHEUMATIC FEVER IS PRECEDED BY A STREP INFECTION

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would moving to Arizone help a person who has rheumatic fever and who lives in the midwest? He had it 15 years ago and apparently suffered no after-effects until about a year ago. "He is now in his 30s and seems to be getting worse. What can be done? — Mrs. R., N."

Let's be sure we don't confuse rheumatic fever and rheumatism. They aren't the same at all.

Rheumatic fever is an inflammatory disease which follows a streptococcus infection. Or, either, let's put it the other way round: Rheumatic fever is always preceded by a strep infection, although of course not all strep infections develop into rheumatic fever.

In the acute phase of rheumatic fever the patient may (or may not) have joint pains. But the important, the life-threatening action of the heart. As the inflammation subsides, it usually leaves scars on the heart valves, so that they don't function efficiently. May — not will — for some rheumatic fever patients recover with little or no discernible heart damage.

But there is the danger. Once a person has had an attack he is more likely to have others, and these he must guard against. Each attack even an attack so slight that it is not recognized at the time, can add to the damage to the heart valves.

The only way to avoid rheumatic fever is to avoid strep infections. Only in recent years have we been able to do this, but today there are a number of recovered rheumatic fever patients who are taking regular doses of long-lasting penicillin, thus constantly protected against strep.

This method permits us to say that a last form of control of controlling the disease.

In addition, a person damaged by rheumatic fever can be protected from strep. It is much better it is to avoid than to repair such damage.

So now, after all this explanation, I'll get back to your first question. Does a change of climate, moving from a western state to eastern, for instance, not guarantee that, the young man will escape strep. Because strep in the mild throat or sore throat may be less likely, but strep infections in other locations elsewhere in the body are definitely not uncommon in Arizona.

I know that some people with arthritis (rheumatism) find that a change of climate helps. Doctors let's their joints move more easily. But, as far as I know, it has not been quired about such a climate for rheumatic fever. So I suppose, that's an entirely different matter.

There is no harm in the use of a deodorant — the only qualification being that it must be chemically an individual happens to be perfectly safe in its ingredients. In such an instance, the usual allergic troubles may ensue, such as skin irritation, rash etc.

THAT SPIRITUAL ANCHOR

It takes experience to appreciate the value of a spiritual anchor. So it is not surprising that times of spiritual anxiety, like the present, are times of spiritual awakening. Every day of our lives we need a liberal supply of Faith, and often someone near to turn on the light! There is no courage so like the courage of a child. It is the Soul. Call it God's Anchor. It is full of meaning.

It listened to President Wilson giving an important speech a few years ago, and I shall never forget one sentence. He said: "There are great things in life are those of the Spirit." I believe they are! We need to be strong in a Spiritual Anchor. It will keep us safely in Port.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of the most addicted cigaret smokers among my acquaintances has for years paid the village blacksmith to have a patented filter in it. Small tubes of clay while crystals are inserted in the holder daily, or often. And when the smoker changes the filter, it comes out as brown and shiny as a date. This proves to him that he is missing the tars and nicotine the advertisers refer to.

Recently he tried a double gimmick. He smoked filter cigarets in his filter holder. And you can imagine his astonishment when he found that his crystal had changed from white to a fast clipper ship.

aret people; but they didn't answer him.

The reason all this reminds me of my childhood and the amazing proficiency of worth and social standing who chewed tobacco. Now, if there is any virtue in chewing the juice of the tars and nicotine in tobacco, it must be by friction on the part of blacksmtrap chewing tobacco down the gullet. Certainly it is behind your molars for a good long soak. Among those I knew well who enjoyed fatal health were university professors, medical doctors, general managers of large implement factories, colonels of regiments and one clergyman, all of whom lived to ripe old age and died, as you might say, in good health. Seeing-Eye Dogs' Training Told To Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD — Guest speaker at the regular luncheon meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club this week was Mr. Bert Gostlin of Toronto. He told of the training and capabilities of seeing-eye dogs used by blind persons and of the Leader Dog School in Rochester, Michigan, where a blind person is able to obtain a trained dog.

There is no charge for the animal or for the time spent in school. The entire training program is free to blind persons. He or she is registered and when called, travels to Rochester where he is met and taken to the 14 acre site of the school. About 12 persons can be accommodated at one time and dogs are donated to the school from all parts of the world and funds likewise given to keep the school in operation.

A dog is trained for three months before it is ready for the patient. From the time it is assigned to a blind person it is strictly under his care and pays no attention to anyone else. It is trained so that it will not only accept food from another person, and sleeps in its master's quarters.

After the patient arrives at the school, he ventures forth with the dog into the streets of the Michigan town of 5,000 and learns to get about on his own with the animal. He must guide the dog by signalling left, right, go or stop verbally as the blind person can tell from sounds if it is safe to cross a road. Contrary to belief, a dog cannot distinguish color or traffic lights, but will refuse to obey it if is dangerous.

Having been trained in a smaller place, patients are taken to Pontiac Michigan, there they go about the streets for further seasoning in handling of their new guide.

The school is open to all who are mentally alert and who are not over 45 years of age.

to Mr. Gardiner, about the fact he has not appeared."

Mr. Gardiner later was reported to be in Chicago and scheduled to fly back to Toronto tonight. He is completing a business trip.

HIRED AS AGENT

Mr. Gray said he knew Mr. Gardiner had been retained as agent for Mr. Sigler and Sam Ray, Mr. Sigler's partner in Dimensional Investments at the time of the purchase of 3,100 acres of Sarnia Indian reserve. The company paid $6,521,946 or about $2,300 an acre for the land. Ontario Hydro subsequently bought 176 acres of the land from Dimensional Investments for $1,250,000 or about $7,000 an acre.

Mr. Gray repeatedly denied Tuesday that he was to be paid $275,000 under a similar agreement for his services to Dimensional. A letter dated with the commission Monday said he was to receive $275,000 as a consultant and verbal evidence was presented that he was to get an additional $50,000.

DIDN'T TAKE EFFECT

Mr. Gray said the document, dated Jan. 18, 1958, was ineffective because Mr. Sigler declined to accept it unless amended.

The Metro assessment commissioner maintained that Mr. Sigler insisted the agreement was to be inoperative unless it contained a clause saying no money would be paid to Mr. Gray until all the 3,100 acres of land bought by Dimensional had been sold.

Mr. Gray said that when Mr. Sigler refused to sign he (Mr. Gray) was informed by Mr. Ray, present head of Dimensional, that the whole thing was washed out.

Mr. Gray reiterated testimony he gave April 26 that he had not received a penny from anyone in the Sarnia land deal. He said the general public had never been told the full story and "it was just a case of smearing Gray."

May Queen Crowned at BCIVS

Prospect Lost Because of Rate Says Mayor

DESERONTO — The regular meeting of the town council on Monday night was a brief one with council dealing mostly with correspondence. There was some discussion at the close of the meeting regarding the reassessment of the town because of the high mill rate this year. Mayor Seeman told the council of a prospective client for one of the vacant factories in town, who last week lost his enthusiasm when he learned the mill rate. Council finally decided that the time was not right for a reassessment and will discuss the matter at a later date.

Councillor Detlor, who is chairman of the water search committee reported to council that considerable progress had been made on the project. The second large well hole has been drilled and as soon as the screen is installed the well will be tested for capacity. According to reports the supply should be sufficient that the town will be able to have suitable water for fire purposes.

In dealing with the correspondence a letter from the Girl Guides Mothers' Association asking for the use of the ring for an auction sale was referred to the Athletic Association, who have a free use of that property.

BASEMENT FLOODED

There was considerable discussion about a letter from A. E. Burley complaining about the drain on Brant Street. Apparently during the last heavy rain the water forced the plug from his drain and flooded the basement of the house to a considerable depth. The Mayor told council that on investigation the basement was higher than the drain and the trouble was apparently caused by too small a drain. The mayor thought the drain should be enlarged but the chairman of the Streets was not in favor of this. The matter was finally referred to the Streets committee with power to act.

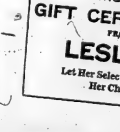
H. Newman, Dundas St., complained about the sidewalk in front of his property. He claimed that council had promised to do some repair last year but this was not done. This was also referred to the streets committee. A letter from Mrs. Leslie Beach regarding a tree on her property was referred to the streets Chairman for a further report.

DEAL WITH MOTIONS

Two resolutions from the town of Paris were dealt with. Council were in favor of the one proposing that a limit be put on salaries of teachers according to localities and ability. Appreciating both councils are in accord that the high costs of education are caused by the ever increasing salaries. In a great number of municipalities the cost of education takes half the taxation.

The other resolution asking for poll tax on women over 65 years was filed.

There were no committee reports tabled but Reeve Metcalfe advised council that the County Roads committee would be visiting Deseronto within two or three weeks. The Reeve also moved that all requests to County Council should be by letter so that he could follow up the matters. This motion was passed.



Councillor Thorrin requested information regarding the requested grant that were referred to the finance committee. These grants will be again brought before council for their consideration.

SEEK TORONTO GIRL

TORONTO (CP) — Police are conducting a province-wide hunt for Dianne Lee Cole, 13, of suburban North York, missing from her home since April 24. She was last seen by her mother in the yard behind their house. Police said she could pass for 16 or 17 years old.

77-Year-Old Bowler Wins Triple Award

The members of the Monday Morning Men's Bowling League enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner at their annual presentation banquet held at the Orange Hall on Monday.

Guest speaker was Mr. "Wicky" Rose, who presented the championship trophy to the Trailmen. The Trailmen captured top honors by just one point over the Old Pensioners, a team comprised of bowlers ranging in age from 70 to 77. The runners-up also received a trophy.

Mr. Rose took pleasure in presenting Mr. W. A. Meens, 77-year old member of the Pensioners with the high triple trophy. Mr. Meens took the award with a 787 score.

During the presentations the speaker thanked the members for the invitation, mentioning the fact that this was his 19th visit at the banquet, and said that it was a real pleasure to meet once again his friends, the Old Pensioners, whom he so seldom had a chance to talk with. He wished them the very best of health for many more years.

The election of officers was also held and the past executive thanked for its excellent work.

Mr. W. A. Meens was elected president, Frank Bateman, vice-president, Harry Maracle, secretary-treasurer and Bert Newman, chairman of the committee.

St. George's Guild Sponsors Successful Tea

Bright sunshine and blue skies augured well for the dainty tea and homecooking held yesterday afternoon in St. George's Chapel, Station Street, under the auspices of St. George's Guild.

The auditorium was a hive of activity with the threshing over and half styles. There were also crib quilts in blue with white embroidered squares, and pink and white, and one in Paisley pattern squares; knit articles for the wee bits or queens of the home in pastel shades of pink, yellow, blue and red. Sleeveless sweater, Baby Bunting doll in blue knit outfit, fancy handmade, stuffed toys, place mats, African violets, hobnail mats, and pincushions; dolls clothes, and lovely lace-edged and embroidered pillow slips both in fine, white cotton and others in factory cotton.

The candy booth drew its sweet-tooth addicts with its little yellow cups and cellophane bags, filled to overflowing with maple creams, chocolate fudge and chocolate. Mrs. H. Armstrong, Miss A. Hooker and Mrs. R. Sharpe were the sales ladies here.

DELICIOUS HOME COOKING

The homecooking booth, under the direction of Mrs. F. Collins, Mrs. S. Turner and Mrs. Garrow, was almost sold out before it began. There were apple, peach, rhubarb and lemon pies, raisin and nut barmilk, cookies; tiny cupcakes, white iced and topped with a walnut meat, layer cakes in white and dark with delicious fluffy homemade bread and buns, muffins and many other kinds of good things.

Though not one of the largest attendances, yet one which is always looked forward to with anticipation for the spirit of fellowship. Commendation goes to the convener and her assistants for a most successful tea.

Boudoir Beauty

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Sheer tricot is used for a bridal nightie and peignoir ensemble, a delightful trousseau choice. The gown has an extra low bodice with tiny shoulder straps. It is Empire style with a softly flaring skirt with inserts of lace all around the hem. The robe is gathered from the shoulder yoke below a turned-over collar of cern lace with a beige satin ribbon bow.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

After having lived in Belleville for over twenty years, we had to wait on the Bay Bridge last week for the first time, while the bridge was open for a boat to go through.It was a beautiful day and we were in no hurry so that it was a pleasure to watch the boat move east. It was a surprise to find that it was a familiar boat, the Greenville, which is outfitted at the Marine Depot in Prescott to carry buoys, etc., to their places on the Great Lakes. It was good, too, to see that lovely flag fluttering in the breeze - in our ignorance we do not know what to call it or if it has a special name. The field is bright navy with the Union Jack in the upper left corner and the crest in the lower right. Without getting into any argument about flags, or without trying to arouse any prejudice or sentiment, it would be hard on purely scientific grounds to find a more beautiful or dramatic flag.

At this very moment of writing, we are listening to something else that we cannot remember happening since living in Belleville. We can hear the bell of a scissors grinder as he goes up and down the street. That, indeed, is from the past; there are probably many young people whose memories do not include the scissors grinder's bell, or the peddler as we used to know him. True, there are peddlers but they have's changed status now days. It must be the spring that awakens these institutions once alive again.

Do you realize that 1960 is a problem year for white grubs in your lawn? In most parts of Ontario white grubs are in a three-year cycle and this year are in the larval or grub stage, which is by far the most destructive. They are the larvae of June beetles which live in the soil and feed on the roots of plants. They are particularly fond of lawn grasses and can ruin a lawn in a very short time.

These white grubs are now in the soil in areas where the June beetles laid eggs last summer, in lawn, turf, grassy places and weedy areas. As soon as the soil warms up, the grubs will come up to within a few inches of the surface and begin to eat the roots of growing plants. If nothing is done to stop them, they will quickly devour all the root system of many plants and cause large dead spots in the lawn. Home owners may remember similar damages to lawns in 1957.

First step in the treatment, according to the Ontario Department of Agriculture, is to measure the lawn and then purchase sufficient insecticide, such as aldrin, chlordane, dieldrin or heptachlor, to treat the whole area. Apply as directed on the container, probably as much material to every thousand square feet of lawn. Most of us area of the proper size, measure the necessary amount of insecticide and then divide it in two parts. For even distribution and coverage, apply one part north and south and the other half east and west. As soon as the material is applied, it should be washed into the turf with the help of lawn sprinkler, as it is of no value lying on the surface. A lawn requires treatment for white grubs once every three years.

Gleanings from the UNESCO Courier:

In Poland, engineering is the most popular profession for both boys and girls, according to a public opinion poll carried out by the Polish Radio Organization among 2,400 graduate students. Professions selected by small students in order of popularity were: engineering, scientific research, medicine, law and the army. For the girls the choice was: engineering, teaching, medicine, artistic professions, scientific research, law.

A world press picture tells us that some 30,000 newspapers (6,000 of them dailies) are published in the world. Daily newspapers (250 million copies) represent a circulation of about 82 copies per 1,000 people. Roughly two-thirds of these newspapers are published in North America, Europe (including the European USSR) and the rest are spread over the rest of the world.

Christ Church W.A.E.B. Plans Future Events

On Monday evening the members of the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church met in the parish hall.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. A. Bongard.

The group enjoyed a plastic demonstration, presented by Mrs. R. Sherry. After viewing the variety of articles, a contest was won by Mrs. I. Wells and Mrs. O. Ragsdale.

Mrs. J. Spencer was the winner of a prize for bringing the largest number of guests.

The president made mention of events of the future, among them a rummage sale and the trip by bus to Kingston this week for the WA annual meeting.

Hostesses for the evening were: Mrs. A. Cooper, Mrs. H. Rose, Mrs. R. Row and Mrs. G. Cherry.

Dinner At Garners At Leicester Square

by Mary Moore

Your travelling correspondent was laid low by bronchitis so her travels were limited to bedroom, hall and bathroom on the second floor of Marianne's house, instead of the eagerly anticipated run between Camberley and London.

However I had personal representatives of a high order. My niece Beverley came from Bristol (where she is senior house officer of the plastic unit of Frenchay Hospital); and her husband Geoffrey came from Oswestry (where he is registrar in orthopaedic surgery) — to Marianne's house for the Easter weekend. We had a grand old reunion of all the members we could muster of our family in England.

Marianne had tickets for "Majesty of Onc" at the Phoenix Theatre in London for Easter Saturday evening starting at 5:15 p.m. After the play Beverly herded them to Garners on Wardour Street, near Leicester Square, famous the world over for their seafood dinners.

This whole evening was courtesy of my brother, Bev's Dad, back in Stoney Creek in Ontario, so the kids really laid it on.

When they came home at midnight Herbie made tea and sitting on stools, the floor and the edge of my bed, they told me all about it. Interruptions, contradictions and corrections flowed fast and funny. I never did find out if the play had a happy ending — because by then all hope I still may live to see it myself. There's a comforting thought.

(To be serious for one minute Bev. treated me by having my head lower than my chest, then pummelled my back which stimulated drainage from my plugged bronchi. It was surprisingly effective and comforting. I was in a daze, being practically upside down, but I think she called it Frisanat postural therapy.)

To get back to dinner at Garners. Beverley had Dover Sole Meuniere, that she says was so big that it overhung both sides of her plate. Head and tail were left on, it was fried in butter and garnished with wedges of lemon and tomato. Marianne had Fried Scampi (Geoff. says they are outsize shrimp) and for dessert a Pineapple and Kirsch Liquer Flambee which burned with a lovely low blue flame and looked beautiful in the subdued lighting of the dining-room. Geoff. had Trout Grenobloise with Julienne green beans and shoestring French frite. Herbie ordered Double Sirloin Steak which was cooked in butter with Worcestershire Sauce. That, I'm going to copy.

Bev. says the coffee was the best she had ever tasted — demi tasses half full of boiling hot coffee, strong, then filled with rich cream from a pot shaped like a bed warmer.

Then came a silver comport of sweets — of which there were five pieces for four people. The one leftover became the subject of fifteen minutes' discussion. Should they bring it home to me in Marianne's new purse or in Herbie's pocket? No. It wouldn't go with the half pound of cooked prawns she was bringing me. Should they bring it home to Gary and Davey? No. They were having too many sweets from the Easter Bunny next day. It ended up in Marianne's stomach. It was a lemon-y petit four garnished with angelica and pronounced "devine".

From the Scilly Isles we had six dozen spring flowers to beautify our house for Easter — daffodils, jonquils, iris, freesia, narcissi and fragrant tulips. It is a glorious country and we are going to see "My Fair Lady" on Saturday.

W.A.-WMS Hold Joint Meeting

WELLINGTON — The Woman's Association and the Woman's Missionary Society of the Wellington United Church recently held a joint meeting in the Sunday School room.

Mrs. McNeill played quiet music. Mrs. Pierson, president of the W.A., opened the meeting and read "Atop of the Hill."

When the two organizations are joined they will be called "Women's Fellowship."

The W.A. rally was held at Crofton, April 26th. Money is to be used to send the bale.

Mrs. Hamel, president of the WMS, took over the meeting. Letters received were read by Mrs. Hamel. Christian citizenship was reported by Mrs. Walt, assisted by Mrs. Palmer. Mrs. Hamel and Mrs. Teskey.

The topic was "Refugee Year." Group four of the WA gave the devotional, John 19: 16-30, "Jesus, Woman's Friend"; John 20: 16-20, "How Good the Tidings of the First Easter" was given by Mrs. Nash.

A short program was given by Mrs. Poulter's group. A solo by Mrs. R. McCulloch, and Mr. Poulter showed a film "The First Easter," also some pictures taken at the last joint meeting.

Benediction was followed by lunch, served by Group 4, and a social time was spent.

BCI Home-School Assoc. Holds Meeting, Presents Fashion Show

The Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Institute Home and School Association held its annual meeting on Monday evening in the auditorium with approximately 450 people present. The meeting opened with "O Canada," accompanied on the organ by Mr. C. Templer. Mr. Linscott, president, welcomed the guests, and gave a full report of the year's activities, and expressed the hope that next year the membership would multiply.

Under the show director and Household Arts teacher, Miss Margaret Snell, the Home Economics Department presented its fashion show. Miss Jean Buchanan, wearing a stunning dress of black silk velvet and nylon chiffon with turquoise at the waist, was commentator. The first scene was a children's birthday party showing the girls wearing colorful dresses of English smocking, which were done by students of Grade 11, and 12H. The little models were sisters and friends of the seamstresses.

Furniture used in this scene was a product of the woodworking department, and made under the direction of Mr. Lambert. The presentation of the furniture which consisted of chairs, toy chest, tote drawer cabinets, kitchen cooking corner, fire engine footstrige and doll bed was made by Mr. Lambert to the Belleville General Hospital to be used in the Pediatric Ward.

Mrs. E. Else on behalf of the ward accepted the beautiful gifts, and expressed sincere thanks, stating that since she works closely with the children, she knows their many needs.

The second scene was a Fall Fantasy, showing students wearing Fall clothes modelled amongst colorful falling autumn leaves. One student of 12H wearing a reversible sport coat with round collar and pockets in the side seams. Jumpers were shown by 10H, A. C. B. and F. These consisted of brushed rayon in yellow, green, black wool jumper in a loose novelty weave; red wool with a V neckline, and fitted skirt. Skirts and tops were modelled by 12 H students. One outfit was a sky blue weskit and Persian grey erlene skirt a toast brown shirt and weskit lined with taffeta, another black weskit with a bright red sheath skirt. Blouses were shown made by students from the same pattern, but there was a marked contrast between them because of the variety of color and materials.

Miss Lynn Punchard favored with three solos, "Winter Wonderland," "April Love," and "Moonlight on Cape Cod Bay," accompanied by Mr. C. Templer on the organ.

WINTER WONDERLAND

The third scene depicted a "Winter Wonderland." Here the girls from 12H modelled their coats against a background of frosted trees and soft falling snow. First item was a car coat with matching jumper of brown wool with flecks and milliun lined for added warmth in red wool straight cut coat for all occasions.

Dresses were shown by the 11 and 12 Option class. One featured a moss green wool dress complete with jacket, trimmed with contrasting satin a turquoise wool sheath, boat neckline in front and V back; a dress up dress in blue, empire waist and a decorative belt. A special feature was an excellent New Year's party dress in yellow brocade.

The fourth scene was a "Spring Spectacular." The setting was gay with apple blossoms, forsythia and budding green leaves, as the models displayed coats and suits from 11H; one was a soft green wool suit, a reversible coat in forest green; Easter bonnets made of flowers and flower petals were designed and made by Grade 11 and 12 girls and consisted of pink, turquoise, red, blue and white, etc. Spring dresses were modelled by 10 and 12H. One was a powder puff blue sleeveless dress and jacket, a grey sheath of butcher linen, brown printed cotton with a princess waist line.

SUMMER SUPREME

The fifth scene was "Summer Supreme," bringing holidays and relaxation. Here sportswear was modelled by 11H, which consisted of shorts, pedal pushers, skrides, slacks, and terry cloth tops. Summer dresses were modelled by 9H which were made of the same pattern, but the different colors and material gave variety.

The sixth scene was "Dance Time," showing party dresses by grade 11 and 12 students.

The final scene took place in a bedroom setting. Students from 10H, with their favorite pets, modelled cotton dusters and pedal pusher pyjamas of different colors.

All students made and modelled their own clothing, and much credit should be given to them and their teacher.

CRAFTS DISPLAY

Property manager was Marjorie Ruse. Make-up was by Diene Anderson, and lighting by the stage crew directed by Paul Yeaover. Mr. C. Templer, director of music at BCI, played soft organ music from the beginning to the end of the program.

Mr. Linscott expressed sincere thanks for such a fine program.

A short business period followed. It was announced that the Belleville and District Home and School Council is holding its annual dinner meeting at the of all students.

Tabernacle United Church on May 19, and a workshop meeting at Queen Alexandra School on May 30th.

Mr. E. Foltwell stated that he and a committee were willing to provide funds for a banquet for the graduation class.

Mrs. R. Jones, president of the Belleville and District Home and School Council, installed the new slate of officers for 1960-61 sworn in follows:

1960-61 OFFICERS

President: Morley Linscott; vice-presidents, A. Wynne and A. V. Barclay; recording secretary, Mrs. R. Stenson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. N. C. Beatty; treasurer, G. D. Ellis; executive committee: Mrs. J. Hodgson, Mrs. H. Thomson, Mrs. W. A. Lasalle, Mrs. A. E. Purdy and Mrs. R. Bateman.

WHEN THE ENGAGEMENT IS BROKEN

For the past few months the coming of May and June, traditional wedding months, has been heralded by the announcing of many engagements. Unfortunately, or fortunately, whichever way you want to look at it, some young couples decide before the wedding day that marriage just wouldn't work. Some young girls make the great mistake of going through with the marriage because they fear unpleasant comments or criticism on the part of their friends. This is a tragic decision to make. It's much better to admit your error before marriage than after.

There are certain dignified ways in which to announce a broken engagement. Naturally it takes courage to admit that you have made a wrong choice, but you the most heartless friend will infringe on your privacy by asking questions. Detailed discussion about the whys and wherefores is neither necessary nor in good taste.

If the engagement is broken before the wedding invitations are issued, even though the engagement has been formally announced, the less said the better. No formal notice, such as announcement in the newspaper, is necessary. To quietly tell the family and close friends is sufficient.

If the wedding invitations have been sent out, there is a dignified procedure to be followed to recall them. An engraved card may be issued to all those invited to the wedding. The wording on the card would be as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. James William Black announce that the marriage of their daughter, Mary Helen, to Mr. Kenneth John Smith, will not take place." It is to be remembered that such a card is never resorted to when the engagement is broken prior to the issuance of the wedding invitations.

An announcement should be sent to the social editor of the newspapers, and the wording would be similar to that of the card, except that a little more detail is added. For instance: "Mr. and Mrs. James William Black announce that the marriage of their daughter, Mary Helen, to Mr. Kenneth John Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Henry Smith, of Boston, will not take place." Mention of the date which had been set for the wedding is superfluous in this instance.

The important question of whether or not wedding gifts should be returned, if the ceremony is called off, is one that is often asked. The answer is a definite "Yes."

FOXBORO UNITED W.M.S.

The April meeting of the Foxboro United Church Woman's Missionary Society was held in the Sunday School room with Mrs. Priest in charge, Psalm 95 was read in unison, followed by a reading and prayer by the president.

Sixteen members and two visitors answered the roll call. It was decided to cancel the May meeting and as many members as could accept the invitation of the Canadian Woman's Missionary Society to hear the guest speaker, the Rev. Elinor Leard.

Mrs. Hayton reported that a most successful sock shower had been held at her home for a needy expectant mother. Mrs. Priest offered to take orders for the two books, "Facts and Figures" and "Missionaries At Work."

The treasurer's report was then given by Mrs. Priest. Mrs. C. Arthurs asked the support of the Woman's Missionary Society members for a "Mother and Daughter" banquet to be held later.

Mrs. Priest turned the meeting over to Mrs. S. C. Gay and Mrs. Pickering as program conveners. The program, from the Missionary Monthly, "At the Name of Jesus," was followed with Mrs. Pickering giving the call to worship and prayer.

The Scripture was from Philippians 2:5-11, and comment by Mrs. I. F. Eagleton and Mrs. C. Arthurs. The Litany from the program for April in the Missionary Monthly was read with Mrs Pickering as leader.

Mrs. S. C. Gay dealt with the fifth chapter of the study book under the heading of "Labor, Hand, Cash and Law".

A skit, on the "United Nations and Christian Missions," was introduced by Mrs. Pickering. Those taking part were: Mrs. Tummon, Mrs. Rombough, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Hayton and Mrs. W. Scott.

A social hour was spent over tea and cookies.

Pupils of Miss Colleen Yandt Present Colorful Dance Recital

WELLINGTON — The auditorium in the Wellington school was filled both Friday and Saturday evenings when Miss Colleen Yandt, teacher of tap and ballet dancing and her pupils presented their annual dance recital. Parents and friends enjoyed the fine display of the various types of dancing.

One of the stars of the show was Little Miss Donna Lee Ostrander, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Ostrander (Shirley Cunningham), who gave an "Umbrella Dance" and the 'Dance of the Brownies'. All the pupils were costumed appropriate to their dances and music.

At each performance, Miss Yandt welcomed the pupils' parents and friends. Mr. Beverley Gibson made an excellent master of ceremonies and Miss Linda McKenzie was the pianist.

After the performance on Friday evening Miss Yandt and Miss McKenzie were called to the platform where the Misses Cathie Rose and Joanne McKenzie presented their teachers with beautiful corn flower cake plates and Little Miss Donna Lee Ostrander presented the pianist with a lovely necklace and earring set, on behalf of the pupils.

The following program was presented on both nights.

Community Nurses' Registry Presents Report, Names Officers

The annual meeting of the Community Nurses' Registry was held in the Ritchie Memorial Residence with 33 members in attendance.

Mrs. C. Howie, the president for 1959, introduced three new members to the group. The minutes of the last annual meeting and the last executive meeting held in January were read by the secretary, Mrs. M. Linscott. Reports were heard from the various committees as follows: secretary, Mrs. M. Linscott; treasurer, Miss Jessie McIntosh; registry, Mrs. J. Campbell; education, Mrs. G. McDonnell for Miss Joan Churchill, who is recovering following surgery; finance and civil defence, Mrs. G. Barclay; publicity, Mrs. S. Morton; credential, Miss Doris Smith; married nurses, Mrs. D. Doolittle.

Mrs. M. Hull presented the nominating committee's slate of officers for 1960, Mrs. W. Prentice, who was ill and unable to be present.

Miss Doris Smith, superintendent of Nurses for Belleville General Hospital, extended an invitation to the Registry members to use the new residence, now nearing completion, for their anticipated Refresher Course in the fall.

MANY CALLS ANSWERED

Mrs. J. Campbell, the registrar, reported that the registry now has a membership of 44 Registered Nurses and one practical nurse. In the year 1959 the registry received 1500 calls for private duty nurses, 12 of which were to homes. The Registry was unable to supply nurses for 77 calls to fill vacancies in the staff at the Belleville General Hospital, but did supply nurses for 1,267 days of general duty nursing for the hospital, through the registry nurses were assigned and completed 6,623 8-hour periods of private duty care to seriously ill patients in Belleville. Besides its work in allocating the R.N.'s as above, the registry received and transferred all calls for the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Canadian Cancer Society, the Arthritis and Rheumatic Society and answered many and varied inquiries regarding nursing services, in the community.

Mrs. J. Campbell expressed her regret in the loss of Mrs. C. Morton, who after four years as registrar, resigned in November to do full time nursing, but is pleased to have Mrs. H. Morrison as her new assistant.

Mrs. C. Howie, in retiring after three years as president, extended thanks to all those who have worked with her, and introduced the incoming president, Mrs. H. Crowe.

Mrs. G. Barclay expressed appreciation on behalf of all present to Mrs. Howie for her excellent leadership during her terms of office.

Mrs. N. Barrigar was appointed to represent the registry on the committee for the "Nurses Tea," which is to be held in September of this year.

DETAILED REPORT

A detailed and interesting report on the Institute for Registry Personnel, held recently in Toronto, was presented by Mrs. J. Campbell, representative. She also announced that Dr. Edna Moore, who is conducting a survey of registrees in Ontario for the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario, will be visiting the Belleville Registry on May 11th.

The meeting was adjourned and lunch served.

The officers for the year 1960 are as follows:

Hon. president, Miss Doris Smith; president, Mrs. H. Crowe; 1st vice-president, Miss M. Hicks; 2nd vice-president, Miss C. Gould; treasurer, Miss J. McIntosh; secretary, Mrs. M. Linscott; directors of registry, Mrs. J. Campbell and Mrs. H. Morrison.

Committees — education, Miss J. Churchill, Mrs. G. McDonnell and Mrs. C. Howie; finance, Mrs. A. Cunningham, Mrs. J

Neighbors' Aid Plans Future Activities

2nd THURLOW — The Neighbors' Aid held its April meeting at the hall on Wednesday afternoon with about 23 ladies present. Two quilts were near completion during the afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Gerald Stratton, called the meeting to order about three o'clock for a short business period. Mrs. W. Lazaruk read the minutes and correspondence and Mrs. R. Boldrick reported the financial standing. It was decided to hold one more euchre with Mrs. Gerald Stratton and Mrs. Ernest Stratton to convene same on May 13th. It was also discussed to have hall redecorated with the executive to inquire regarding cost. Any one who could, was to come to the hall on the afternoon of May 4th to help complete the quilts.

Lunch was served by the hostess for the meeting, Mrs. Eric Leeming and assistants, Mesdames C. Keene, E. Keene, S. Ray and C. Howard. A social hour was spent.

Campbell, Mrs. B. Burley and Miss J. McIntosh; credential, Miss D. Smith, Mrs. J. Campbell, Mrs. H. Crowe, Dr. Nelles; publicity, Mrs. S. Morton; married nurses, Mrs. D. Doolittle; nominating, Mrs. C. Howie.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

WHITE'S CHURCH W.A.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. Charles Hatch entertaining the ladies of the White's Woman's Association on Thursday afternoon with a good attendance of members and visitors.

The president, Mrs. William Yateman, presided and opened the meeting with the theme song and prayer in unison.

The devotional service was taken by Mrs. Hatch, who read the Scripture from Matthew 28, and readings about, "A Little Girl" and "A Little Boy."

The March meeting minutes were read by Mrs. Albert Jones in the absence of the secretary. The roll call was answered with a verse of Scripture by eight members and seven visitors.

The travelling apron was passed around with Mrs. Ernest Curtis serving on several donations.

It was decided to have a tea and sale at White's Church on June 22nd.

Mrs. W. Jeffery gave a report of finances, showing a good balance.

An address was read by Mrs. R. Ketcheson and a gift of money was presented by Mrs. W. Yateman to Mrs. W. Jeffery in appreciation of her work as pianist at White's Church. Mrs. Jeffery thanked the ladies for their kindness.

An invitation was received from Grace Church to attend a tea on May 4th.

Mrs. Ernest Curtis was program convener. Readings were given by Mrs. Ernest Curtis, Mrs. C. Ketcheson and Mrs. R. Ketcheson. A contest of riddles was won by Mrs. Casey Ketcheson and a contest of names of places was won by Mrs. R. Ketcheson. Mrs. Eric Jones offered her home for the May meeting and will also be in charge of the program.

Mrs. W. Yateman read a letter on devotions written by Mrs. R. Smithrim of Trenton.

Mrs. Staveley thanked the ladies for a get-well card sent to her.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Verna Waldron.

Mrs. E. Curtis moved a vote of thanks to the hostess.

Mrs. A. Jones, Mrs. A. Ketcheson, Mrs. R. Ketcheson and Mrs. F. Sandercock, donated articles for sale for which $2.75 was received.

Mrs. C. Ketcheson, Mrs. E. Nicolson and Mrs. Jermyn Palmer will donate articles for the June meeting.

Large Crowd Fetes Couple Recently Wed

ROSLIN — On Monday evening a large number of friends and neighbors gathered in St. Paul's Parish Hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Meeks, (nee Gloria Robinson), who were married recently.

During the early part of the evening euchre was enjoyed with 10 tables in play. Prizes went to Misses Hazel Wilson and Phyllis Sills and Messrs. Joe Chisholm and Gerald Bailey.

Mr. Harold Reid acted as chairman and invited Mr. and Mrs. Meeks to take seats at the front of the hall. Mrs. Don Chisholm read the address and Mr. and Mrs. Meeks were presented with a platform rocker, a stepend table, and cushion.

Howard and Gloria graciously expressed their thanks and appreciation and invited all to visit them in their new home at Roslin.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Ina R. — I'm ashamed to have my dates call for me.

Mrs. F. R. — She's bitter about the babies.

* * *

Ina R. — I am nearly 15 and started to do quite a bit of dating recently. My problem is unusual because I have a sister of 3 and a brother of 18 months.

Because we have these babies, my mother is always busy and the house is always a mess. I try to help, but I have to practice dancing and the piano and keep up with my school work. All that takes a lot of time.

When my date comes to call for me the whole house is in an uproar with the babies screaming, Mother soaking wet because she is trying to bathe them and Dad rushing around with diapers and junk. It's getting so bad I'm ashamed to have my dates call for me — and I mean it.

* * *

Mrs. F. R. — These late babies have been quite a surprise in our lives and have turned everything topsy-turvy. Yet my husband and I have never been so happy. Ina was born when we were both still in our teens and too young to really appreciate parenthood.

Lot I thought Ina would be happy to have a sister and brother. She always wanted one of each when she was younger.

The last thing that occurred to us was that Ina might be jealous. We consider her a nearly grown young lady. We thought she would take the babies to her heart immediately. I don't think she doesn't love them. It's just that all too often she is resentful of them. She is especially bitter about them when her friends come around.

* * *

The Council: Ina may be a "nearly grown young lady" but there is a long road between "nearly grown" and a fully grown adult. The R. 's, wrapped up in their new offspring, fail to recognize that and Ina is getting a rather rough deal.

These new babies will never be to Ina what a sister and brother close to her own age might have been. She will never know that close companionship with them and she will always be like an aunt. She can enjoy the babies from the distance of her superior years. Yet at times they get in her way even more than would a sister and brother of approximately her own age.

Ina still has one foot in childhood and needs a good deal of attention from both her parents. The fact that they fail to recognize she has a legitimate complaint indicates that they are not aware of their sympathetic contact with her.

Every young girl hopes that her home and parents will make a good impression on her dates. She wants to be valued highly and she rightfully recognizes that her background is a very important starting point. Of course, she may be wrongly rigid in her idea of what her background should be. She should be proud of her busy, cozy home and her young parents.

Ina can attain this pride only if her parents show their concern for her and her problems. Certainly, her parents should make an effort to get the babies out of the way long enough to greet her dates properly. This is as important as giving the babies their bath. The parents should also give Ina special adult attentions like an occasional evening out with Mom or Dad. She still needs to be their special girl once in a while.

Community Fetes Couple Recently Wed

ROSLIN — On Friday evening a surprise party was held in St. Paul's Parish Hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bates (nee Elinor Wright) who were married recently.

The early part of the evening was spent playing cards with 13 tables in play. Prizes went to Mrs. Ted Hudson and Mrs. A. Gray; Mr. Stanley Hart and Mr. Gordon Carleton.

Mrs. J. Fargey read the address signed on behalf of the community. Mr. and Mrs. Bates were presented with a room divider, two step-end tables, cushions and an oil painting.

Both Don and Elinor thanked their friends for the gifts and invited all to visit them in their new home in the village.

SAGE Installation, Bomarc Site Near North Bay Will Be Continued Says Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes reconfirmed Tuesday that work on the Bomarc site and SAGE installation near North Bay will continue.

"The work will proceed until the United States informs us of any change in the Bomarc program they may suggest," Mr. Pearkes said in a Commons reply to J. R. Garland (C—Nipissing).

Mr. Pearkes said the SAGE (semi-automatic ground environment) electronic control unit at Trout Lake near North Bay will be continued "according to present plans". Irrespective of what happens to the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, SAGE is used to control the operation of manned and unmanned interceptors.

Paul Martin (L—Essex East) asked whether the government has taken any step to ascertain the U.S. government's position on the Bomarc. A congressional committee last week recommended scrapping of the weapon.

WON'T TELL HOUSE

Mr. Pearkes said he had been informed Tuesday of the U.S. government's intentions by the assistant secretary of defence but that it would not be "proper" to disclose the information to the Commons.

Mr. Garland said there has been "understandable confusion" and "genuine concern" in the North Bay area over the fate of the Bomarc program.

Mr. Pearkes said a $3,000,000 contract was let Dec. 14 for construction of the Bomarc site at North Bay and that more than $97,000 has been spent. It was not the intention "at the present time" to cancel the contract.

Later, Mr. Pearkes was asked by Opposition Leader Pearson for comment on a Washington report quoting Norstad, of the House of Representatives military appropriations subcommittee as saying that if the Canadian government exerts pressure "we may as well all have to spend money on this missile in which we have no confidence at all".

WORTH WILL DECIDE

Mr. Pearkes replied that it is "ridiculous" to think the Canadian government would exert pressure. The ultimate decision on the Bomarc would depend entirely on its military worthiness.

He reiterated that U.S. cancellation of the Bomarc program without reference to Canada would be a breach of contract, and that was recognized in U.S. government circles.

Mr. Pearkes said he had not indicated any preference as to the decision on the Bomarc in his talk with the U.S. assistant secretary of defence.

DIVORCE FOR BETTE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actors Bette Davis and Gary Merrill have by mutual consent decided on a divorce, her press agent said Tuesday night. The hearing probably will be held in July. Miss Davis and Merrill were married in Mexico in 1950.

Coroner's Jury Finds Boy Died Of Injuries

ORILLIA (CP) — A five-man coroner's jury Tuesday criticized "lack of organized supervision" at Camp Couchiching. It made the ruling on the death of a five-year-old relative's boy.

The jury found Harvey Collin Lyons died of injuries received April 23 or earlier.

Evidence showed that no hospital staff members were present during a fight between the boy and six-year-old Daniel Campbell in the playroom.

It was the second time in as many days the Campbell boy had injured the Lyons boy, officials said. Efforts to keep them apart were hampered by overcrowded conditions.

Evidence showed the fight between the boys took place during a change of the five-person shift and staff members were all occupied in other places.

Mrs. Katherine Pavelich, night supervisor, said she arrived on her shift and found Danny Campbell holding the Lyons boy down. There was all covered with blood."

Dr. Anthony Barkwick, provincial pathologist, said the Lyons boy died several hours after the fight of "brain injury. He said a depression on the back of the boy's head could have been suffered three or four days before death.

The jury ruled that "there is apparently a lack of organized supervision which should be corrected as soon as the provincial minister of health carries out plans to alleviate overcrowded conditions now existing."

Three Bodies Are Recovered

MILWAUKEE (CP) — The bodies of an air commodore and his wife killed in an RCAF Yukon crash last Friday that killed seven persons, were recovered by deep water divers in Lake Michigan Tuesday.

The three were identified as Air Commodore John G. Stephenson, 47, of Ottawa; Sgt. Laurence Bisson, 38, of Windsor, Ont., and FO Robert F. Howard, 29, of London, Ont.

The others aboard were Wing Cmdr. Joseph K. Kustar, 46, of Hubert, Que.; Flt. Lt. D. E. Dyck, 38, Moose Range, Sask.; and Lac Neil A. Porteous, 23, Ottawa.

eliminated? There is no void," suggested Texas Democrat Rayburn, because there is no Bomarc.

"It had one very successful test," argued Dixon.

"Generally it was a very disappointing program," said Mahon, chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee on defence which recommended killing Bomarc-B production.

The Bomarc concept was becoming obsolete, Mahon added. It would have been of use in operational capacities five or six years ago, even this year or next, but not in future years when the great threat would be from intercontinental missiles and not the manned bombers Bomarc was designed to intercept.

William Minshall, Ohio Republican, said no project in American history "has been more of a complete failure" than the Bomarc-B. Jamie Whitten, Mississippi Democrat, said the Bomarc-B had been test-fired eight times at Cape Canaveral and had left the launching pad only once.

Margaret Will Take Vows In Scene Familiar and Dear To Her Heart Since Childhood

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret will take her wedding vows Friday amid a scene of incomparable splendor, a scene familiar and dear to her heart since childhood.

She marries Antony Armstrong-Jones before the high altar of Westminster Abbey, for more than seven centuries the mother church of British royalty. Margaret has known and loved it all her life.

As a wide-eyed child of 6 she was by her father crowned there.

At 17 she was bridesmaid at her elder sister's abbey wedding.

Six years later, perhaps a trifle anxiously, she looked on again as the same elder sister was crowned queen.

TIME OF TROUBLE

Through the years she has gone to the abbey for the vows of royalty and state, sometimes of thanksgiving, sometimes of sorrow. And it was to the abbey she turned in her own darkest days after the breakup of her romance with Peter Townsend in 1955.

A vicar-choral there, on Sundays, would draw up discreetly by an entrance hidden to the abbey's visitors. Sometimes alone, sometimes with a trusted lady-in-waiting, Margaret would slip by a side door and kneel in prayer unobserved amid the carved oak stalls of the abbey's Henry VII chapel.

Now she goes to the abbey once more, this time in a glass coach and between cheering crowds along a route thick with history.

As the coach swings out of Clarence House it will pass St. James' Palace, where Charles I once set out for another royal occasion—his execution on the headsman's block.

WHERE HENRY PLAYED

Then along the Mall, where Henry VIII once played croquet with his first wife, Catherine, past the concrete fortification which covers the underground room where Winston Churchill directed the war effort 20 years ago.

So into Whitehall. Now the princess will look down to Parliament square and the 320-foot tower of Big Ben. Across the square stands the abbey, flanked by velvet lawns.

Strictly speaking, Westminster Abbey is not an abbey any more. The Collegiate Church of St. Peter at Westminster is the correct name.

It is a "royal and exempt peculiar," which means only that it is not subject to a bishop's control. It is the 53rd episodic directly to the monarch.

Henry III built it as a burial place for English kings. He failed well—by only a few years ago there were fears that it might fall down.

SMOG CUTS STONE

The sulphurous smog of 20th century London is deep into stone that had lasted since the 13th century. The walls began to flake as though from some disease. Wind and rain tore away whole stone every winter's day.

But the people raised a "save the abbey" fund. Complete restoration will take until 1975—and then it may be time to start again.

For the wedding day the grey stone walls will blaze with colour, the setting for a display of magnificence as only the Britons can stage it.

On the arm of Prince Philip, her face veiled, Margaret will march nearly 500 feet from the immense west door to the altar and her waiting bridegroom. The procession will pass through a nave lined with gleaming pillars of sandstone and marble climbing to the awesome roof.

The abbey, packed with 2,068 guests, will be a cavern of sound. Cathedral music is the glory of England, and the abbey's all-male choir is more than ordinarily gifted.

Trumpeters in golden tunics will greet the bride with a blaring fanfare. Soldiers in crimson and gold uniforms, unchanged from the days of the first Elizabeth, will stand along the aisle.

Only the noise of an occasional television camera will show that this is the year 1960.

The tiny bride, a shimmering vision in white, will kneel with her bridegroom before the Archbishop of Canterbury in his robes of richest red and gold. They will pray together on the spot where through the centuries kings and queens have knelt to make their coronation vows.

As their prayers end, the choir will sing the solemn 121st Palam: "I will lift up mine eyes to the hills." Henry Purcell's Trumpet Tune and Airs will pour forth from the great organ as Margaret leaves on the arm of her new husband.

Then the bells will burst into rejoicing, and the abbey and Margaret will have turned another page in their joint history.

GASOLINE FUMES

PARIS (AP) — Air pollution caused by increasing automobile traffic is annually killing thousands of the shade trees that have made Paris one of the greenest cities in the world, says the municipal council.

Missile Warning Network Being Built Quickly

OTTAWA (CP) — Construction of the Canadian communications system to link ballistic missile warning radars in Alaska and Greenland with headquarters of North American Air Defence Command at Colorado Springs, Colo., is proceeding full tilt, officials say.

The 3,000-mile-range radars at Clear, Alaska, and Thule, Greenland, are being built to provide warning of any 8,7-mi rocket bombardment of North America. About 30 minutes' warning at the most could be given.

These radars would be useless without a communications system to channel the information back to the United States. This is where the Canadian contribution to the system comes in.

MICROWAVE LINES

One communication line — a microwave expansion of existing facilities—is being prepared by the Alberta Government Telephones and Canadian National Telecommunications between the Alaska and U.S.-borders, along the Alaska Highway. This line will carry other communications as well.

The other line, the publicly-owned Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corporation will construct between Dawson Creek, B.C., and Whitehorse, Yukon, a 1,200-mile coastal cable from Cape Dyer on Baffin Island to Corner Brook, Nfld.

Last July 13, Canada and the U.S. signed a 10-year agreement on establishment of the communications system.

CHARGE POLICE CHIEF

SEOUL, South Korea (Reuters) —Police arrested Lee Kang Hak, Seoul police chief, Tuesday on a charge in connection with alleged irregularities in the March presidential elections. Police said Lee had been hiding since April 19 but surrendered to the prosecutor. Choi in Kyu, former home minister, already is under arrest.

Stephenson, Air Commodore Killed in Crash, Made Many Friends at Home and Abroad

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Air Commodore J. G. (Joe) Stephenson, one of the RCAF's best-known senior officers who died in a plane crash Friday, April 29, was a bluff, dark-complexioned world traveller with the build of a heavyweight prizefighter and the savvy of a career diplomat.

A 22-year career in the air force during which he travelled widely and made many friends at home and abroad gave him an intimate knowledge of major world capitals and he was proud of his reputation as a man who knew the choice places to eat and entertain in London, Paris, Rome and other cities.

LAURENT TOUR

Joe Stephenson was a group captain in 1954 when he conducted former prime minister Louis St. Laurent on his world tour. He travelled with the Duchess of Kent and Princess Alexandra on their visit to Canada in 1958 during self-assurance and aplomb made him a natural for the role of master of ceremonies on the prime minister's trip and he watched with the cream of the party and many of Mr. St-Laurent's personal requirements at his beck and call.

With ceremonies and receptions jammed into a crowded schedule, he often proved his boast that he could shave, shower and get into a full-dress uniform in five minutes without a button out of place.

Though there were three RCAF pilots on the C-5, he occasionally succumbed to the temptation to take the controls himself, a throwback to the Second World War when he flew with 422 squadron of the RCAF's No. 6 bomber group, stationed at Eastmoor, Yorkshire, England.

He was shot down on a bombing mission against Hanover, Germany, in January, 1945, but parachuted to safety and was a prisoner-of-war until the spring of that year.

During his travels, he liked to shop in his spare time for gifts for his "bride," as he called Mrs. Stephenson, and for such things as linen gloves used in his bobby, shooting.

Both he and his wife, Barbara, were ardent skeet shooters and both had been entered in the Quebec province and Canadian meet in Montreal May 7-8. He usually shot as a member of a five-man team representing the Ottawa Skeet Club. His wife, only a few days before his death, had won the ladies' championship of the Capital of Canada skeet shoot at Ottawa.

Until his death he was chief of operations and training at air force headquarters in Ottawa. Previously he had held posts with the Canadian Army Staff College, was on the Canadian joint staff in Washington and attended an Imperial Defence College course in England.

Joe Stephenson didn't like to have his name misspelled and in the watches he gave at his stephenson so that acquaintances wouldn't spell it Stevenson.

RECORD

He was jealous of his record of getting his charges on air trips to their destinations safely and on time.

COSTLY LITTER

LONDON (CP)—It costs £10,000 a year to pick up litter in London's parks, says Lord John Hope, minister of works.

Pro-Fluoridation Witnesses Have Fling Before Board

64 cyns = DL fluoridation 4d

TORONTO (CP) — Advocates and opponents of putting fluorine into community drinking water to halt tooth decay are warming up for a tough fight before an Ontario government royal commission.

In two days of public hearings pro - fluoridation witnesses have been having their say, and opponents have been laying the groundwork for future scraps in sessions that might last for the next couple weeks.

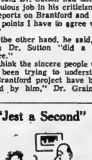
The subject is controversial, but the Ontario government is politically touchy. This is one reason why it has been handed to a three-member commission headed by Mr. Justice J. C. Morden of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Some guessing here is that the royal commission will recommend a form of fluoridation that the provincial government will not make it mandatory for all municipalities.

Dr. R. M. Grainger, dental health statistician of the University of Toronto, took issue Tuesday with a book set out last year by Dr. Philip R. N. Sutton of the dental department of the University of Melbourne, Australia, criticizing some favorable studies made on fluoridation including that at Brantford, which began in 1945.

Brantford has had artificially-fluoridated water since 1945. Stratford has had natural fluorides in the water for 42 years. Sarnia has no fluoridation.

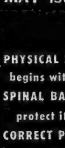
The Sutton book said there were statistical errors in the Brantford - Stratford - Sarnia surveys that could throw the evaluation of the results.



Dr. Grainger would not agree, and he spent most of the afternoon session suggesting that statistics can be either off the beam or prove what they are not supposed to prove.

He said Dr. Sutton had done a meticulous job in his criticism of the reports on Brantford and "on some points I have in agree with him."

On the other hand, he said, he thinks Dr. Sutton "did a disservice".



"I think the sincere people who have been trying to understand the Brantford-Sarnia figures have been misled by him," Dr. Grainger said.

Naval Officer Was too Busy Chasing Ammo Carriers To Savor Taste of Battle

By DEREK BLACKMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—When the first shells from the German cruisers began to churn the sea into a fury around his ship, the young Canadian lieutenant aboard HMS Caradoc had no time to savor his first taste of battle.

"I was too busy chasing the ammunition carriers into action," said Rear-Admiral Victor Brodeur (Ret.), "Most of them were 15 to 17 years old and were down below crying their eyes out."

The sea battle, fought in a thunderous four hours of an October, 1917, morning, was the last major action in the struggle between the Allies and Germany for North Sea supremacy during the First World War.

Admiral Brodeur, a member of the Royal Canadian Navy when it was founded just half a century ago on May 4, 1910, vividly remembers his first action.

SLIGHT DAMAGE

"The shells were falling on either side of the ship, so close I was drenched with spray. Yet we weren't hit once: Our only damage was a small splinter torn from one of the decks."

The Caradoc was luckier than her sisters, HMS Ceres, Calypso and Cardiff, all of which suffered severe damage. The Royal Navy cruiser squadron finally was withdrawn as the battle raged.

Stretching his stocky, still-trim frame in an armchair of his memento-crammed study, Admiral Brodeur, 67, recalled one humorous incident arising from the action.

"I believe the only direct hit we recorded was on the German cruiser Koningsberg. The shell landed in the mainmast and failed to explode. When the Koningsberg surrendered with the German fleet in 1918 we found the shell aboard her, nicely polished and mounted."

SERVED 38 YEARS

Rear - Admiral Victor Gabriel Brodeur, CB, CBE, CD, spent 38 years in the Royal Canadian Navy in a career that also took him into battles against Bolsheviks, thrust him into the midst of a South American revolution and eventually exposed him to the quiet rigors of a Washington desk.

Born in Baiocil, Que., son of Hon. Louis Philippe Brodeur, former liberal minister of marine and fisheries and lieutenant-governor of Quebec in 1923-24, he was part of the six-cadet nucleus of the RCN in 1909, serving aboard the fisheries protection vessel Canada.

When the Canadian navy officially came into being 50 years ago he became a midshipman aboard the cruiser Niobe, delivered to Canada from Britain Oct. 21, 1910, Trafalgar Day.

In 1911 he was sent to Britain to join HMS Dreadnought. During that time the original six cadets still together—formed a hockey team that played the European champions, Crystal Palace.

REFLECTED GLORY

"We played in the Crystal Palace," he recalls. "We just couldn't get used to seeing ourselves in the mirrors around the London arena. But we won."

In 1914-15, then a lieutenant, he served aboard the cruiser HMS Berwick in the West—Indies squadron. Returning to Britain to join Caradoc, he witnessed the surrender of the German fleet off Rosyth, Scotland, at war's end.

With guns hooded and pointed fore and aft, and the German crews below decks, the warships steamed between two long lines of Allied vessels to complete the surrender.

"It was a sad sight for any navy man. They were very fine ships."

The German fleet later scuttled itself off Scapa Flow.

Following action against the Bolsheviks along the Baltic coast, he returned to Britain for further gunnery study.

In 1931 he was a commander with two RCN destroyers, Vancouver and Fraser, under his command off the west coast of Panama, intercepting a call for help from the British consul in revolt-torn Salvador, he landed a small force and succeeded in protecting British interests.

He was officer commanding the Pacific Coast from 1936 to 1940, served with the rank of captain early in the Second World War as naval attache in Washington, then returned to the Pacific Coast. Job in 1943 as rear-admiral. He retired in 1947.

He now lives in Vancouver with his wife, Dorothy. His two sons, Nigel and Philip, are both in the services.

Not the least among the changes in the RCN's first 50 years, he believes, is in discipline.

"If we retained the sort of discipline, including the 'cat,' we had in the earlier days, we'd have a mutiny on our hands."

ORIGINAL MEMBER — Retired Rear-Admiral Victor Brodeur, CB, CBE, CD, was one of the original six cadets who formed the nucleus of Canada's navy when it was formed 50 years ago. Son of Hon. Louis Philippe Brodeur, former Liberal minister of marine and fisheries and a lieutenant-governor of Quebec, he served in the navy during two World Wars, retiring in 1947. During the Second World War he was naval attache in Washington and Pacific Coast commander. Rear-Admiral Brodeur, whose two sons are both in the services, lives in Vancouver with his wife, Dorothy. LONDON (Reuters)— The Soviet Union has issued a 60-kopeck (14-cent) stamp showing a map of the moon's reverse side, the official Soviet news agency Tass announced Monday.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Miss Sylvia Bilham attended the wedding of her friend, Miss Juanita Wessel, to Mr. Robert Denike in Trenton, on Saturday, April 23rd at King St. United Church.

Mrs. William Yateman was a visitor on Friday of her daughter, Mrs. Bernard Wadsworth of Belleville, who has been ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clark, of Trenton, were last Monday tea guests of Mrs. Everett Nicolson.

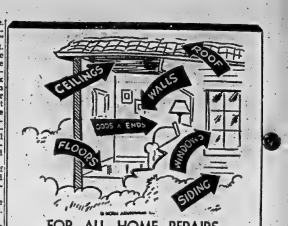
Mrs. Wesley Cunningham, of Rose Hall, Hillier, is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Donald Sandercock, and infant son.

There was a good attendance at Bayside school on Friday evening at the 'Fun Fair' sponsored by the Bayside Home and School.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yateman and Mr. and Mrs. William Yateman were Sunday callers of Mrs. Bernard Wadsworth in Belleville General Hospital. They were tea guests at the home of his parents.

Church service was held on Sunday morning at White's Church with the Rev. Roy Rickards, B.A., taking the service. The choir assisted with an anthem "Sunshine and Shadows" with Mrs. W. Jeffery as pianist.

In the Sunday School service in the absence of Mrs. George Milham, temperance superintendent, Mrs. Albert Jones took charge of a short program on "Standing on your own rather than following the crowd." It was shown that alcohol is the chief contributing factor of highway accidents, of crime, of poverty in some families, of mental disorders, of many physical diseases, of many broken homes and juvenile delinquency.



From school age up pledges of abstinence were taken. All joined in singing "Yield Not to Temptation".

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Hunt were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Richards of Trenton.

Much sympathy is extended to the Acker family in the passing of the late Lorne Beddick of Kemptville.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Hunt and Mr. and Mrs. A. Westover were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones.

Mrs. Walter Jones is a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

FEARS CIVILIZATION'S ADVANCE — Rev. Antonio Ostan, Roman Catholic chaplain at the Mid-Canada Line radar station in Great Whale River, Que., 800 miles north of Montreal, is concerned about the pace with which civilization is moving northward and fears it may destroy the way of life of the Eskimo. An opposing view is expressed by R. A. J. Phillips, veteran northern affairs expert, who believes a change must be made quickly to save the Eskimo from extinction. Father Ostan is shown with two Eskimo children who live near the RCAF station at Great Whale River, the most southerly point where Eskimos live. (CP Photo).

Different Views Expressed On Bringing Modern Living To Members of Eskimo Race

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GREAT WHALE RIVER, Que. (CP)—Modern civilization is being brought to the Canadian Eskimo in a single generation. Are we moving too quickly?

Yes, says Rev. Antonio Ostan, veteran Arctic chaplain, who fears that the white man is introducing the Eskimo to new methods without the sense of values that must accompany them.

No, says R. A. J. Phillips, longtime northern affairs expert, who maintains the jump must be made quickly to save the Eskimo from extinction.

The two attitudes were expressed in separate interviews.

"Our duty is not to change the Eskimos," said Father Ostan. "We should not make white men of them. We must bring them into civilization slowly."

Mr. Phillips, assistant-director of the northern affairs department's administration and lands branch, says:

"The white man's world is coming to the Eskimos and there is nothing they can do about it. They'll have to live in it or be extinguished. It isn't possible any more to give them a slow introduction."

The standard go-slow policy had been followed for years. Only recently had the department realized it was futile and undesirable to treat a massive, intensive program of training and education.

"We don't want to make white men out of them," says Mr. Phillips, "but they now have to compete with white men and they must be given the chance to compete successfully."

Father Ostan says he feels there is often too much done to teach Eskimos simple skills that make them into useful laborers and little more.

"There are many things in their attitudes to life that are even better than ours. We should raise their standards of living, but we should not destroy their life."

The white man, he says, tends to confuse machinery with civilization. The Eskimos, he found during 12 years of service in the north, have an intricate civilization of their own that is worth preserving.

Father Ostan has served in Igloolik, far north of the Arctic circle, and in Fort Chimo, Que., where there is another large population of Eskimos, and for the last year at this Mid-Canada line radar station 800 miles north of Montreal, the most southerly point Eskimos live.

He denies that the Roman Catholic Church itself, being a foreign institution, charges the Eskimos or confuses them.

"The Church does not wish to bend people to its will, but to be at home among them in their own way."

Mr. Phillips says missionaries and fur traders have been in the north for more than 100 years, surely a long enough period to adapt them to the white man's civilization. Yet few Eskimos had learned English or received more than a rudimentary education.

"There are still people who say don't destroy their animal customs. Keep them in the igloos.

"But you won't find a single Eskimo who has lived in a house wanting to go back to the igloo. You won't find a single one who's learned to drive a tractor wanting to go back to seal-hunting.

"We can't deny them the white man's life they've learned to like. People who say go slow just want to keep them in ignorance."

Both agree that the Eskimos must be taught English. Both say the Eskimo native culture should be preserved.

"We really are working towards the same end," Father Ostan says. "but in different ways."

"We welcome the northern affairs department with its schools and nurses. They have many more facilities and larger resources than we have. But they are going too fast."

Mr. Phillips says the northern affairs department intends only to free the Eskimo from total dependence on his environment, which often failed, or total dependence on the white man, who often exploited.

The department teaches technology and mechanics and still encourages Eskimo culture.

"We help them with their carvings and, block prints," he says. "And last year we established the first Eskimo-language magazine.

"Intensive, mass effort now is better in the long run than dribs and drabs of inadequate help over years."

ROSLIN

Clarke Rollins Gives Talk to O.F.U. Branch

ROSLIN — Roslin branch of Ontario Farmers' Union met recently for a potluck supper at which there was a large attendance.

Muriel Robinson led in a sing-song.

The guest speaker was Mr. Clarke Rollins, M.P.P. In his remarks he stated he would like to see all school children have an opportunity to attend parliament in session.

Mr. Clarence Graham gave a brief address in which he said "Although I'm not one of your Roslin local members, I have attended more of your meetings than some members." He expressed his pleasure in seeing so many children and young people in attendance, particularly since this is a family organization.

He read a number of excerpts from the 16-page brief presented to parliament. Mr. Graham also invited the members to the county meeting on April 22nd at Melrose.

The May meeting of the Roslin local will be cancelled because the farmers are so busy at that time. However a strawberry and ice cream social will be planned in June.

'The True Face of Duplessis' Written by Correspondent High on List of Best Sellers

By BERTRAND THIRAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—High on the list of best sellers in French Canada is a book about the late premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec, probably as controversial a figure as ever appeared on the Canadian political scene.

The book, written by Pierre Laporte, legislature correspondent for the independent Montreal Le Devoir, is not a biography. Entitled Le Vrai Visage de Duplessis (The True Face of Duplessis), it is largely a collection of anecdotes showing something of the character of the man who directed the destinies of his province for almost a quarter of a century.

"He left no one indifferent," writes Mr. Laporte. "People considered him as the anti-Christ or as a sort of messiah, depending on whether they were opponents or supporters."

Published by Les Editions de l'Homme, the book was placed on sale March 3 and on English translation is expected to be ready for distribution by the end of May.

The Toronto Globe and Mail has purchased serial rights to the English-language edition and plans to publish about 10,000 words from the 140-page book.

Interest in the book arises primarily from the person who inspired it—Maurice Duplessis, who died last year at 60 after more than 30 years in politics.

It stems also from the personality of the 33-year-old author whose writings provoked some of the most violent outbursts of temper by the late leader of the Union Nationale.

In a foreword Mr. Laporte explains that the book is not meant to be a biography but a portrait although he confesses that the finished product does not represent a complete picture.

CONCEALED TRUE FACE

Each of the 13 chapters of the book deals with a different facet "of the man who always refused to disclose his true character completely."

The book notes that Mr. Duplessis was one of the most caricatured men of his generation. His nose, "its length ever-magnified", his eyes "astonishingly alive and intelligent," and his hands which "frequently reflected his thoughts' always supplied inspiration to cartoonists.

The late premier was invariably dressed impeccably except for his hats which were old and battered.

"An old hat brings you closer to the people," he is said to have explained.

SUPERIORITY COMPLEX

Mr. Laporte describes Mr. Duplessis as highly intelligent with a superiority complex, outspoken and sometimes brazen, a man with a quick retort, "sometimes cruel," but one whose reasonings were sometimes fantastic.

He loved politics passionately. The history of Canadian politics intimately and spoke about politics constantly.

The author recalls an exchange of quips between Mr. Duplessis and Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland at a federal-provincial conference in Ottawa. Mr. Duplessis said Sir Wilfrid Laurier, former Liberal prime minister, had made a public statement which said a great deal about the principles of the Liberal party.

"What did Laurier say?" inquired Mr. Smallwood.

"He said that the Liberal party had only one principle . . . and that was not to have any," Mr. Duplessis replied.

"Agreed," said Mr. Smallwood, "but why in the devil was it necessary for Laurier to say that in public?"

Another anecdote deals with a day in the legislature when the Liberals were accusing the Union Nationale of stealing their political program.

"No, Mr. Speaker," interjected the premier, "that is not theft. If one commits the crime of theft it can be seen that for there to be theft, the item taken must be worth at least 25 cents."

Other stories show how Mr. Duplessis could humiliate an opponent or laugh at protocol, even on important occasions.

On the day that Jeanne Gagnon, long-time member of the Duplessis cabinet, was sworn in as lieutenant-governor, the premier suddenly shouted:

"Lieutenant-governor, go jump in the lake! Go jump in the lake, lieutenant-governor!"

Mr. Laporte says the word "jumper" is not exaggerated to describe the painful impression this outburst left on the invited guests.

HOST TO OARSMEN

MONTREAL (CP) — The Laval-Chine Rowing Club will be host to the season's opening Eastern Rowing Association regatta, May 28, Other regattas are June 4 in Ottawa, June 25 at Montreal and July 16 at Brockville.

PUBLISHES BEST-SELLER—Pierre Laporte, legislature correspondent for Montreal Le Devoir, has written a book about the late Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec which is near the top of the best-seller list in French-speaking Canada. "Le Vrai Visage de Duplessis" (The True Face of Duplessis) is largely a collection of anecdotes showing something of the character of Duplessis who died in 1959 after more than 30 years in politics. The French edition of the book was placed on sale March 3 and an English translation is expected to be ready for distribution by the end of May. (CP Photo).

May Transfer Franchises to Other Cities

BUFFALO (AP)—If the Continental League becomes a baseball reality Buffalo and Toronto are certain to become a part of it, but they may not sever their international baseball connection in doing so.

The Associated Press learned today that a plan is under consideration that would permit the Buffalo and Toronto third major league while avoiding to some extent the International's high indemnity demands.

The plan, it was learned, involves the transfer of franchises under Buffalo and Toronto ownership to other cities.

The International League has set a $1,700,000 compensation price tag on the combination lors of the Buffalo and Toronto franchises.

The transfer plan is a one-stone, two-bird arrangement. In addition to avoiding the heavy compensation, Buffalo and Toronto would be strengthening themselves with triple - A farm clubs.

While officials of the clubs have declined to comment, it was learned that Jersey City and Ottawa are the cities under consideration in the franchise moves. The Toronto move would be to Ottawa.

The plan would need one thing to make it workable — league approval.

Thailand Champ Named Fighter Of the Month

NEW YORK (AP)—Pone Kingpetch, the newly crowned world flyweight champion from Thailand, has been named "fighter of the month" by Ring magazine.

The publication also has named Sonny Liston into the No. 1 spot among the heavyweight contenders.

Liston's knockout of Roy Harris in Pittsburgh also has to displace Zora Folley, Ring rater Floyd Patterson, who lost the world title to Ingemar Johansson last June, as No. 3 contender. Patterson meets Johansson in a June 20 rematch at New York.

SIGN BOO GUARD

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes announced Tuesday the signing of homebrew Doug Hargreaves, a 200-pound guard and linebacker, for the 1960 Big Four football season. Hargreves, a native of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., played his first college football at Queen's University in 1951, but dropped out of college in 1953 and did not return until 1959 when he also played for the college team.

Aging Jet Seems to Be Seasoning Fine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Diomedes Olivo, the 41 - year-old pitcher with the Columbus Jets of the International League for many "seasons" in the past Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League, seems to be progressing satisfactorily.

Tuesday night, he pitched four innings of three-hit relief ball in getting a 6-4 decision over Rochester Red Wings. He also had a double and single, scored a run and drove in another in the Jets' come-from-behind victory.

Richmond Vees used league-leading Buffalo's favorite weapon —the bonp run— to beat the Bisons in the only other scheduled game.

Olivo, who pitched in Mexico before coming to the Pirates organization this spring, took over for starter Tom Cheney in the top of the sixth and pitched his first time up to spark the Jets to a three-run uprising that put them ahead 5-3.

The Wings added their fourth run on Dick Carnevale's homer. Luke Easter also homered for Rochester, whose starter Bob Keegan (6-1) lost.

Bill Shantz, Deron Johnson and Bob Martyn belted home runs for Richmond to support winner Eli Grba (2-0). He struck out seven and walked five in hurling a 6-hitter.

Art Mahaffey (2-1) was the loser, giving five hits, including Shantz and Johnson's homers in the fifth. Bob Keegan and Mark Surkont finished up for the Vees, who still holds first place by a game over idle Toronto.

Bing Wins Battle of Bulge, Just Has Smaller Portions

By BOB THOMAS

Bing's back in college—playing a tycoon who returns to his alma mater in High Time—and dogone if he hasn't got a freshman's figure. As he lolled between scenes I asked him how he managed to win the battle of the bulge.

"I've been working at it a couple of years now," he reported. "I just got tired of carrying around that extra weight.

"The secret? There isn't anything I can eat. Oh, I haven't lost my love of food. I still like eating. I like a hell before dinner and I always have wine with my meal. I just have smaller portions of everything."

PRETTY GOOD AREA

Bing said his weight now hovers in the 155-160 area, which is a pretty good neighborhood for his five feet, nine inches.

"Once I was up as high as 185," he recalled. "It was making a riverboat picture called Mississippi and I had to wear those tight southern pants. I looked like a sausage. I was always a wonder to me how I got another job."

Rumors of Bing's retirement recur, and he sometimes adds fuel to them; but it appears certain that he'll continue as a performer, working as always at his own choices pace.

Now he's preparing one film a year, two TV special, occasional record dates and a morning radio show with Jimmy Cooney that takes little of his time.

Cards Drew Four Big Aces In Deal With Three Clubs

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Chalk up a bonus run for St. Louis Cardinals in the player exchange league. They probably wouldn't swap their trading record for anything.

The Cards obtained four key baseball players for manager Solly Hemus during the winter and now are saying "so Solly" to San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, the clubs with whom they dealt.

St. Louis acquired Daryl Spencer and Leon Wagner from San Francisco Giants for Don Blasingame. Spencer is batting .304 with five homers and 12 runs batted in. Wagner has a .302 average for four homers while Blasingame is wallowing at .214 with only three doubles in the extra-base hit department.

BEATS OLD MATES

In another deal, the Cards picked up pitcher Ronnie Kline from Pittsburgh Pirates for Gino Cimoli. Kline beat his old mates Monday night for his first decision. The Pirates, who lack pitching depth, have gotten little mileage from Cimoli, a .125 batter so far.

Carl Sawatski, obtained from Philadelphia Phillies for Bobby Gene Smith, has been a big surprise for the Cardinals. He shows a .381 mark with two homers after 21 at bats. Smith has had to bat only five times with two hits.

From other trades, only a half dozen or so players are doing well with their new clubs.

Hal Smith of the Pirates is batting .400 after 10 at bats. Pittsburgh obtained him from Kansas City. Roger Maris, another former Athletic, is hitting .387 with three homers for New York Yankees. Minnie Minoso, another ex-Athletic whirl with the Chicago White Sox after a stopover at Cleveland, is at .333 with 13 runs batted in and three homers.

INDIFFERENT SUCCESS

Johnny Callison, with the White Sox part of last season, is batting at a .341 pace for the Phillies. Lee Walls of Cincinnati, a Chicago Cub in 1959, is at .343. Bobby Thomson, another former Cub, is hitting .297 with two homers for Boston. Norm Siebern, an ex-Yankee, has a .320 mark and four homers for Kansas City.

That, however, is just about the extent of the trading success. The Harvey Kuenn for Jerry Colavito deal has shown little trend in favor of either Cleveland or Detroit. Kuenn is batting .207 for the Indians while Rocky is at .205 for the Tigers. Colavito, however, has hit three homers to none for Kuenn.

Johnny Temple, for whom Cleveland gave up Billy Martin, pitcher Cal McLish and Gordon Coleman, is hitting .200. But Martin is batting only .235 for Cincinnati while McLish is 0-2 and Coleman is back in the minors.

TO COACH PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Hal Laycoe was named Tuesday as coach of the Portland team in the Western Hockey League. He coached Victoria Cougars last season. Portland enters the league next season with a franchise transferred from New Westminster. Laycoe was coach there before going to Victoria.

Commercial 'A' Bowlers Hold Enjoyable Party

They argued a little over league matters—waxed a little between courses—but after it was over they decided they had been a rousing good time to climax a fine season.

The Men's "A" Commercial Bowling League forgot headpins and agreed to forget major "A" keglers at their highly enjoyable annual party last night.

Some 85 of the biggest and best league in the city, sat down to a tasty turkey dinner then honored collective and individual champions in post-party presentation.

They re-elected the slate of acting officials with Wally Dever going back as president; Ralph Tuck as treasurer and Cam Smith as secretary. The choice was unanimous.

Champions of the twelve-team loop were the Begley Wheelers, who won the LaBatt Trophy, presented by Dick Stirman. The team includes Wally Dever, Jim Begley, A. Dever, C. Smith, B. Charlton, B. Rushlow, Leo Lucciola and Len Rumleskie.

Brown's Bread were the "A" division winners, taking the Credit Bureau Trophy, presented by George H. Carver. The team includes G. Forestall, F. Clarke, D. Smith, H. Kinnear, Neil Halpin, G. Lucas, Bump Ed Bowers and A. Ethier.

The "B" section winners, Basin Shoe, took the Sports Centre Trophy, presented by Bill Sainsbury. Included are D. Bishop, A. Bartlett, C. Bartlett, J. Wilson, John Wilson and D. McLeod.

All winning team members received miniature awards.

The high average award went to Ron Saylor (242); high triple, Len Rumleskie (914) and high single to Terry Bender (350).

Perfect attendance prizes were presented to J. Begley, C. Smith, R. Tuck, B. Cannon, K. Cannon, J. White, B. Cruickshank, C. Radway, L. Ward, D. Dafoe, B. Long, T. Allens.

Door prizes went to Harry Eaton, Gerry Bongard and Ray Walker.

Collins Wins Houston Golf

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Bill Collins won the $55,000 Houston Classic golf tournament Tuesday for two strokes under Arnold Palmer. Collins shot a three-under-par 68.

Collins, seeking his first tournament victory of the year, bounced back from a two-stroke deficit in the first nine holes of Memorial Park Golf Course. He banged two birdies on the incoming nine while Palmer took a one-over-par to go with one birdie.

Toronto Opens Home Season With Miami

TORONTO (CP) — The new-look Toronto Maple Leafs, home after a 13-game road series, open their 31st International Baseball League season against Miami Marlins today.

Leafs, last in the eight-team league last season, now are second with a 9-4 record, their best in five years for a home opening.

A crowd of 16,000 is expected for an opening that could be Leafs' last in the triple-A league. They are an entry in the Continental League which is scheduled to start operations in 1961.

Leafs have an almost new roster of players, and even manager Mel McGaha is new. He succeeded Dixie Walker who quit the team when it reached its lowest depths towards the end of last season.

Under McGaha, Leafs so far have shown remarkable speed. This, combined with effective pitching, has been mainly responsible for their second-place spot behind Buffalo Bisons, last year's pennant winners.

An interested spectator today will be Branch Rickey, president of the Continental League.

BIGGEST AUDIENCE

OTTAWA (CP)—The telecasts of the Stanley Cup hockey finals attracted the largest viewing audience in the history of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. A corporation survey showed an audience of 7,007,000 in 18 cities.

Ezzard Charles Takes up Pro Wrestling

CINCINNATI (AP) — Former world heavyweight boxing champion Ezzard Charles has been taking wrestling lessons and says he plans to take up the professional grappling sport.

In fact, Charles and his "teacher", pro wrestler Mark (Little Gorgeous George) Webb, leave here today for Montreal where they will start a two- or three-month tour.

"Ezz probably will be used as a referee at first," Webb said, "then later on we'll break him in on that mat."

Webb figures Charles ought to be "real good" in about six months.

Johnson Meets Floyd Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Harold Johnson, the fighter hardly anyone wants to fight, makes one of his rare appearances in the ring tonight as scheduled 10-rounder against Clarence (Tiger) Floyd.

Johnson, No. 1 light - heavyweight contender, has had but 11 fights in almost five years. None of the name fighters wants any part of him. They blandly acknowledge the 31-year-old Philadelphia slugger is too tough.

Johnson's last outing was a technical knockout victory over Sonny Ray, Nov. 12, 1959, in Chicago.

On the Track

FORT ERIE (CP) — The most successful spring meeting in the history of the Fort Erie Jockey Club concludes Saturday with the running of the $7,500 Vigil Handicap. This closing day race will be featured by the 1960 Canadian debut of Tyhawk, which set the world record of 1:14 4-5 for 6½ furlongs.

Tyhawk, trained by the colorful Les Lear who played professional football with Canada and Los Angeles Rams before coaching Calgary Stampeders to a Grey Cup football championship in 1948, arrived from Florida last Wednesday. Tyhawk won two races from outstanding sprinters at Gulfstream Park during the winter.

Despite Tyhawk's reputation, the favorite in the Vigil Handicap is likely to be the top weighted War Eagle, owned by Peter Del Greco of Toronto.

On Tuesday Strongboy, owned by J. R. Fronek Segram of Waterloo and ridden by Avelino Gomez, scored an impressive victory in the featured Beamsville Purse.

It was the first start of the season for Strongboy which wasn't extended in beating Peggy Page by two lengths while Norwin G. was third.

NEW MASERATI ENTRY

TORONTO (CP)—Two of the new "birdcage" Maseratis — a car hailed by some experts as potentially the fastest sports racing car in the world today—have been entered in a 300-kilometre race to be held May 28 at Harewood Acres Track near Simcoe. The race, Canada's first International Formula Libre automobile competition, features a $15,000 prize money totalling $6,000.

Rags-to-Riches Maroons Feted By Home Fans

CHATHAM (CP)—A team that a few months ago was on the verge of bankruptcy and disbandment returned home today with amateur hockey's most coveted award—the Allan Cup.

A hero's welcome was prepared for Chatham Maroons at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport. A fleet of convertibles was assembled to carry the team the 70 miles to Chatham.

After a parade through the city the team was to be taken to the Memorial Community Centre where a fireworks display was prepared.

A dinner open to Maroons fans is planned for this evening, under sponsorship of the Chatham Hockey Association.

Final event of the busy day will be a dance at which team members will be presented with surprise gifts from the hockey association and the city.

Early this season, poor attendance left Maroons finances so low the club couldn't meet a $2,000 performance bond demanded by the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

The team declared bankruptcy, and resumed play only after the league agreed to forget about the bond.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Guy Lombardo, famous orchestra leader and well-known figure in unlimited hydroplane racing circles, will attend the Harmsworth Trophy Races in Picton in August.

The darkly handsome originator of "The Sweetest Music This Side of Heaven," told the reporter in an exclusive interview Monday night "you can say that I definitely will be there."

Guy chatted with us "behind the scenes" on the stage of the Peterborough Memorial Gardens where the Royal Canadians were playing an engagement.

There is also the chance, hinging on circumstance, that the world's champion jet-propelled hydroplane will make its debut in Canadian waters at the same time.

"The circumstance," Mr. Lombardo smiled, "is whether my new jet hydroplane can wrest the world title from Britain's Donald Campbell."

"If I can and I think I can, you can tell the people in Picton that both of us will be there on Harmsworth race day."

The Lombardo boat is the "Tempo Alcoa", a jet-propelled beauty that is now undergoing severe tests for an attempt at the world unlimited speed record.

What had "Alcoa" done? Had her test speed marks approached anything like the Campbell record?

"Yes," replied Guy, "she has responded very satisfactorily. On one run she reached the 240 mph mark, but on the return she went too close to the shore to oblige photographers and ran into trouble."

"It was not serious," he added, "and the boat is again back in perfect shape ready for the big event."

If and when "Tempo Alcoa" and her famous owner came to Picton together, would he drive her?

"Certainly," replied Guy, "but don't expect any such thing as a 260 mph show. I would nurse her along at a modest 180."

"In any event, I shall be there for the Harmsworth races," he added. "The band will be in New York at that time and it is not too far by plane."

Did he recall flying to Picton back in 1946 when his 218 cubic inch "Tempo V" was entered in the Picton Gold Cup race?

"I certainly do," replied the band leader. "And I should because I drove Tempo and it was one of the few times she conked out on me." I was doing very nicely when something broke and I was out of the race but for good.

Perhaps it was just as well for the star-studded field that competed for the Picton Gold Cup that year that Tempo did "conk out".

After she was overhauled and reconditioned the Lombardo boat with Guy at the wheel won the American Gold Cup race in three straight heats, each heat at 58 miles. "Tempo," the former "My Sin" drove to a new record of 90 miles with an average for the three heats at 68.128.

The London, Ontario-born music maestro recalled the fine Picton waterway over which he raced his former "Tempo." Told of the new Harmsworth course with its increased natural and other facilities for world racing, he smiled and said "That will make it that much better. I certainly shall be glad to see it—and I hope—drive over it."

Guy Lombardo has poise, self-assurance and natural charm. There is nothing of the snob about him. He has a marked personality that is apparent both on and off the stage.

The Lombardo affability puts his listeners at ease. He makes you feel he has known you—and vice-versa—for years after speaking with him for minutes. He speaks with sincerity rather than boastfulness. There was nothing of the "I'll tick him" braggadocio in his open conversation with us regarding racing the world speed boat title for the United States. Rather it was a confident "I-hope-I-shall" note.

Occasionally he glanced over to where his brothers, Victor, Carmen and Lisbert were in a hushed close conversation with Tommy Mossaro, manager of the Park Theatre in this city.

Tommy has been a life-long friend of the Lombardo family and a schoolmate of most of the boys. He also knows other members of the original band still playing with the Royal Canadians.

He received a heart-warming welcome from his old buddies. Tommy is a Londoner (in the bush) and he regaled his Lombardo friends with the news of the old home town and the folks they used to know before a small orchestra, given the name of "Royal Canadians," headed for the United States and rode the rainbow that led to a musical pot of gold—and international fame.

Tiger Tail Droops Lower; Indians Drop To Third

Bengals Battered by Yanks For Seventh Straight Loss; Reds Trounce Dodgers Again

By ED WILES
Associated Press Staff Writer

The way things were going at Los Angeles, it looked as though little guys who make the Chicago White Sox big.

While the rest of their starting pitchers were stumbled, contributing just one victory and one complete game, Pierce has the defending champs all by themselves in the American League lead after beating Baltimore 5-3 Tuesday night for his second complete game victory.

Washington tripped Cleveland out of a tie for first with a 7-6 decision for Camilo Pascual's winning streak at five and dropped the Tribe to third place. The New York Yankees took over second, a half-game behind Chicago, by whipping Detroit 10-3. It was the Tigers' fourth straight setback. Boston defeated Kansas City 4-3 in 10 innings.

COMEBACK BID

Pierce (3-1), bidding for a comeback at a game when after 17-11 and 14-15 records the last two seasons, allowed 10 hits, but struck out six for his 20th win over the Orioles in 36 career complete games. Right after Ron Hansen hammered his first major league home run in the fifth inning.

The White Sox made it six out of seven games when Hansen came in the second inning and a deciding pair in the third on double steals by Al Smith and Minoso and a single by Jim Landis. Second baseman Steve Barber (1-1) was the loser.

A pop fly by Jerry Green fell for a single in right field and he put it in the ninth for the Senators. Then Vic Power opened the first inning, had batted back behind Tito Francona, who drove in three runs and scored another-inning it 6-6 in the ninth with his second double. Jack Kralick (1-0) won it and Bobby Tiefenauer (0-1) lost it, both in relief.

A LONG SLUMP

The Tigers, who won their first five games and hadn't won since, blew a 2-0 lead as the Yankees unloaded for all their runs with five straight scoring innings. Bill Skowron's fifth homer run tied it in the fourth, and three fifth inning runs brought the defeat on Don Mossi (0-2). Mantle and pinch-hitter Ted Hedley also homered for the Yanks.

Dilmar gave up five hits and one run in his five innings after starter Whitey Ford pitched one inning and quit with elbow trouble. Ryne Duren mopped up with three hitless innings.

The Red Sox, held to a tie Monday, got an early 2-0 lead and never was in danger. Gene Conley, the loser, got the first two batters in the Kansas City 4th on singles, walked none and struck out six for 5-3 victory over Baltimore Orioles that kept the Sox in first place.

Hitting: Dutch Dotterer, Reds, hit his first homer and doubled home the deciding run in 5-3 victory over the Dodgers.

'Bally Ache' May Trouble 'Victoria Park'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The trainer of Victoria Park, Canadian candidate for the Kentucky Derby, said Tuesday that if Bally Ache got a fast start in the Derby and no one forced the pace, "you can kiss the money goodbye."

Horatio A. Luro, who trained Victoria Park for K. P. Taylor of Toronto, was asked to compare C. V. Whitney's Tompion and Leonard Firestone's Bally Ache. The latter two are favorites for the big race Saturday.

Luro said that a pace of 48 seconds or better for the first half mile would be necessary to slow Bally Ache down in the later stages.

Someone suggested that Victoria Park had enough speed to force Bally Ache's pace.

"I am not running a benefit for the rest of the field," said the Argentine trainer. "I plan to go to the front and I am not going to run my horse into the ground in attempting to do the same to Bally Ache."

But the Hollywood reporter cast a dissenting note in saying:

Archie Moore, as the Negro slave, is a piece of casting that will strengthen the cast of this ex-pugilist (Archie will deny that) does not have the variety to sustain the role."

OUT TWO MONTHS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lanky Roger Craig, a key man in pitching Los Angeles Dodgers into the world series last year, will be out of action probably for two months, the club physician said Craig suffered a fracture of the collarbone when he collided with Frank Robinson of Cincinnati Reds Monday night.

Moore Gets Split Decision From Critics

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Archie Moore got a split decision from the critics Tuesday for the reviews of his debut as a movie actor.

Bosley Crowther of the New York Times said Moore "is a powerful man and he would seem to play De Lawd in Green Pastures and director Mike Curtiz would like to direct him in that —or anything else."

But the Hollywood reporter cast a dissenting note in saying:

Archie Moore, as the Negro slave, is a piece of casting that will strengthen the cast of this ex-pugilist (Archie will deny that) does not have the variety to sustain the role."

WINS PREVIEW RACE

CHESTER, England (AP) — Jockey Lester Piggott, who has not entered in next month's Epsom Derby classic, won a major preview of the big race Tuesday.

Turn on Eastern Champions With Fancy 9-3 Clobbering In Rowdy Rough House Game

TORONTO (CP) — A startling reversal of form by Edmonton Oil Kings and a peevish display of muscle-flexing by the Caterthon Oil Kings and a peevish display of muscle-flexing by the Catharines Teepees has set the stage for one of the most exciting Memorial Cup finals in years.

The Oil Kings, who refused to play dead after knocking 6-2 and 9-1 lacings from the Teepees, turned on their eastern tormentors Tuesday night with unholy them 9-3 and tie their best-of-seven series at two games each. They played up to their first-game form when they won 5-3 at Catharines.

A crowd of only 2,344 was at hand at Maple Leaf Gardens, expecting St. Catharines to make it three straight, but the Oil Kings soon changed their minds as they held the Teepees to a 2-0 first - period draw, moved ahead 5-3 after two sessions and closed out a rough bout—a final 20 minutes with a four-goal splurge.

22 PENALTIES

Referee Jos Vinet of Winnipeg called 22 penalties, including two misconducts and five majors, as St. Catharines, with the hope of catching the high - flying Oil Kings, tried to close them down.

"Those Teepees are real bushcrs," declared Oil King coach Harry Hicke. "Our players said the Teepees were out to get Ed Joyal, the individual star of the game with four goals.

"If they want to play that kind of hockey, which doesn't draw crowds in any rink, then let them go to it. My boys are no patsies. We'll fight them with our fists, not sticks as they did."

Manager Leo Leclerc commented that if St. Catharines wanted to play it rough in Friday night's game here, "we'll line up at the blue line and be ready for them."

The rough stuff started when Edmonton had piled up an 8-3 margin.

JOYAL BRILLIANT

Joyal's brilliant goal scoring made him the high goal scorer of the series to date with seven. Bruce MacGregor, captain and centre of the Oil Kings, and Cliff Pennington, a replacement from Flin Flon Bombers, each fired a hat trick. Bob Marik scored the other.

Ray-Cullen, 18-year-old centre, scored twice for the Teepees in the first period that gave St. Catharines a 2-0 lead in the first five minutes. John Brenneman closed out the St. Catharines scoring late in the second period.

ROUGH GAME

The slashing, high-sticking and fighting started midway through the third period when Jerry Maki high-pitched defenceman Wayne Muloin of the Oil Kings. Players milled around and after sorting out things out the referee gave Maki a major, Don Paiutlo of the Kings a minor and Teepees defenceman Pat Blaquiere a misconduct, for conduct, for sassing the official. Fifty seconds later fighting broke out when Chico Maki slashed MacGregor. Both were given majors. Centre Bobby Cox of the Oil Kings was awarded a misconduct in the last minute and with seconds remaining Cullen and Harry Lunn of Edmonton were thumbed off for fighting.

Announce New International Soccer League

MONTREAL (CP) — Establishment of a new international soccer competition embracing five overseas clubs and two Montreal teams was announced Tuesday.

The eight teams will compete for a new trophy—the North-Atlantic Soccer Football Cup—with competition beginning June 1 and ending July 27.

The Montreal teams are Concordia and Hakoah of the amateur provincial Soccer League.

The overseas teams are Nice, French First Division champions; Burnley, English Football League champions; Ellmsannahr, runner-up to Hearts in the Scottish League; Red Star of Belgrade, the Yugoslavian champions; Hamsphorn, one of the top teams in Italy's First Division, and the Bangu club of Brazil.

It was announced that plans are underway to have the winner of the North Atlantic Cup play the winner of the new international League series.

The International League, set up in New York by Cox, plays its first game at the Polo Ground May 25. Twelve teams from as many countries will compete in the league.

Atlanta, Chicago Enter New Grid League

NEW YORK (AP) — Atlanta and Chicago have been granted two more franchises in the American Football League, Harry Wismer said Tuesday. He is president of the league's New York Titans and chairman of the AFL's expansion committee.

Wismer said the Chicago team will play in 1961 and that the Atlanta franchise might start operation at that time if Georgia Tech's Grant Field could be enlarged for the season. Atlanta's new stadium is expected to be completed in time for 1962.

Wismer noted, however, that Grant Field is state property and that Georgia has a law which forbids a Negro to play on state property with whites. This could relay the start to 1962.

Pitcher: Billy Pierce, Chicago White Sox, gave up 10 hits eight of them singles, walked none and struck out six for 5-3 victory over Baltimore Orioles that kept the Sox in first place.

Hitting: Dutch Dotterer, Reds, hit his first homer and doubled home the deciding run in 5-3 victory over the Dodgers.

REGAIN PITCHER

BUFFALO (AP) — Buffalo Bisons, defending champions and current leaders of the International Baseball League, got their best relief pitcher back from Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday. Henry Mason, a righthander who had a 13-3 record last year, was optioned to Buffalo.

SPLIT - LEVEL
Would you like to live in your own street—where there is no through traffic—and yet all the features are new. We have a mighty fine brick that the owner has had to leave because of a transfer and it is now vacant and we have the key. It is just waiting for you to move in. Has room throughout. Has living room with big picture window like the finest chest. This one we must sell right quick—we would be glad to show it to you day or night and submit your offer. The downpayment is easy.

A LITTLE HOUSE
BUT what a wonderful place for retirement — not very far at all from downtown, and has one bedroom on ground floor. Has wide open recreation room with fireplace as well, and has a lot large enough to care for when "retiring". It's a little house — it's a little price — and we are sure it would make you more than a little happy. $6,900.

SOUTH CHURCH ST.
A 3-bedroom home plus an extra apartment and well kept. A good investment or a good place to live if you would like to conduct a small business. Taxes less than $100. $8,500.

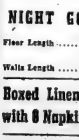
HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS
IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats . . . actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.



In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden bile helps break down these fats . . . for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actively improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Astrological Forecast

Thursday, May 5,

By CARROLL RICHTER

General Tendencies: This is certainly one of those days when every sort of chance is present to have a very happy day and/or to find the articles of art, charm, beauty, culture and use that appeal to you the most. Be sure to show the attractive side of your nature, and you can get almost anything that you desire. Thus this can be a splendid day — evening.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — See that you get your clothing in good order as well as take the treatments you need to improve health. Also, invest in any new gadgets that will make your work easier either at place where you labor, or at home, out-of-doors, etc.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A fine day ahead, if you resolve to make it so. Dress nicely, then set to sell your fine talents to higher-ups. Be active and creative. P.M. combine pleasure with business. Use that fine smile — have fun!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Being affectionate and truly devoted to closest ties will bring excellent results today. Know the joy of loving and being loved. P.M. use that fine artistic touch to make abode lovely and comfortable to live in.

Moon Children (June 2 to July 21) — Now is the right day to do your shopping since you can find just the right articles at the proper price. Also fine for sales and visits. Then plan your future trips wisely. P.M. be very devoted to closest ties.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Good day to make improvements on property of all kind so that you increase its value as well as its beauty. This will make the right impression on the right people. P.M. set up a more workable budget for yourself.

Virgo (Aug. 2 to Sept. 22) — A fine day to contact those higher-ups whom you feel can be of assistance to you in some material way. Dress impeccably and then off to the appointments that could bring wonderful benefits. Be nonchalant, charming, witty.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Ideal day to get in touch with the person who means most to your happiness. Go to dinner, discuss your personal wants, ideas. You will be able to make real headway.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Ideal day to go out socially so that you can enjoy the company of persons who can be of assistance to you. Don't be afraid to express your desires and ambitions, honestly. Then you will get enthusiastic co-operation.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure you confer with those persons vital to your financial and business interests today. Explain your ideas and present situation candidly and you can come to a real understanding. Use that nice smile.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Fine suggestions come to you today that should quickly be put into operation. However, be very broad-minded when you confer with key persons. Courtesy will also lead to some very worthwhile advancement, success.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Set up a better method for taking care of all your debts and doing your regular work today. Tonight you will then be able to come to a far better understanding with the one you love the most. Be kind, practical.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Long, serious talks with today's contacts bring fine results. Later, impress close ties with the importance of this day's conferences and come to a far better understanding that will augur well for the future.

If your child is born today ... The delightful child born today is the type of individual who will never be neat and tidy about the house as well as in personal appearance, even during the earliest years. Teach the spiritual values early so that this fine personality can involve gracefully. Excellent chart for the doctor, nurse, dentist and the like. A life of service and much personal happiness is in this chart.

LIGHTING DAMAGES

THOMASBURG — A severe electrical storm, which occurred about midnight on Saturday, April 23, did considerable damage to village homes.

A great many telephones were put out of service as well as electrical appliances and Hydro installations. Several homes reported lights as well as telephones completely destroyed.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. Prindle a bolt entered through the ceiling and in the fireplace it struck the brick work knocking a chimney sweep and damaging the wood to such an extent that new roof will be required to repair the damage. Fortunately no fire resulted and the loss is covered by insurance.

It was not until Saturday, April 30 that all telephones had been repaired.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Thompson, John and Claudia of Brighton, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H.R. Vance's son.

The W. A. of the United Church served a hot dinner to the teacher and pupils of the junior room of the school on April 27, in the vestry of the church.

This will be the last dinner until fall. The regular meeting of the Association followed the dinner.

Glad to report that Mrs. George Dyson and Mrs. A. W. Brough, have both returned to undergone surgery in Belleville General Hospital, are improving and expect to be home again in the near future.

Mrs. Alice Shea has been employed at the Post Office during Mrs. Dyson's absence.

Mrs. Ted Boldie and daughter, of Montreal, Quebec are with her father, Mr. George Dyson at the present time during Mrs. Dyson's stay in the hospital.

Capt. Boldie and Terry Anne, have returned to Montreal after the holiday.

The public school teachers of the district held their regular meeting at Thomasburg school on the afternoon of April 29.

Mrs. Ethel Mae Tracey Emerson, who recently purchased a home in Belleville, have disposed of their house and lot, in the village, to a Belleville resident.

It is understood they will be moving in the early summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Porter, with speed limit signs each week with Miss E. Porter here, have returned to their home in Toronto.

The dance, sponsored by the Thomasburg I.O.O.F. Lodge in the hall on the evening of April 29 was well attended.

Music was provided by the Country Partner's Orchestra.

UPPER BERTH

Railway sleeping cars were introduced in 1858, but the folding upper berth did not appear until 1864.

Northport

NORTHPORT — Mrs. Percy Pearsall and son Philip of Bethesda, are staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Foster, while Mrs. Pearsall is a patient in Belleville General Hospital following a car accident several weeks ago.

Mr. James Lazier, Shannonville, was through this vicinity on Monday, buying stock.

Mr. Ed Rabbis motored to Clinton on Friday to visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Haynes and daughters Doris and Marjorie, of Toronto, and Mr. Stewart, spent Sunday at their cottage, here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Norton and Debbie, Foxboro, were supper guests on Sunday of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Norton, Ronnie and Michael. Several children on the street have chicken pox.

Danny Connell, Belleville, spent the weekend with Ronnie and Michael Norton.

Mr. Howard Smith is working at Milford, remodelling a store.

ROYAL WELCOME

NEW YORK (AP)—His Majesty Mahendra Bir Bikram Shah Deva, king of Nepal, rode up Broadway Monday today appearing slightly stunned by the city's traditional ticker tape welcome. The Himalayan king rode unmiling between the skyscrapers and confetti was strewn up to the 30,000-odd people who lined his motorcade route and fronted windows.

Use the Naran Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat with the Naran Plan, which is the home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help retain slender more graceful curves; if those ugly bulges and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just rush the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More slim, youthful appearing and active.

LOST TV RACE

Cooke recently lost out in his bid to obtain Toronto's second television license. He is president and sole owner of Consolidated Fyrbrook Industries Limited which publishes several Canadian magazines and holds the license for radio station CKEY.

Congressman Waller's memorandum to the House said that since 1946 Cooke has spent "much of his time" in the U.S. "he has long admired this country, its customs, its people and their way of life."

He added that the Hamilton-born industrialist, who rose from an $11-a-week stock broker's runner to millionaire in less than 25 years, has total investments in the U.S. of about $1,000,000. Cooke is reported in the congressional documents as having assets totalling more than $500,000 and an annual income of more than $100,000.

SEEKS U.S. STATIONS

Waller said that Cooke, who jointly operates a radio and television firm in New York City with his brother Donald, has offered to buy certain radio stations in the U.S. and has investigated a newspaper property in Elizabeth, N.J.

He also tried to purchase the old Philadelphia Athletics baseball club and made an offer to buy the Detroit Tigers baseball club, said Waller. Cooke holds the Toronto franchise in the new Continental Baseball League.

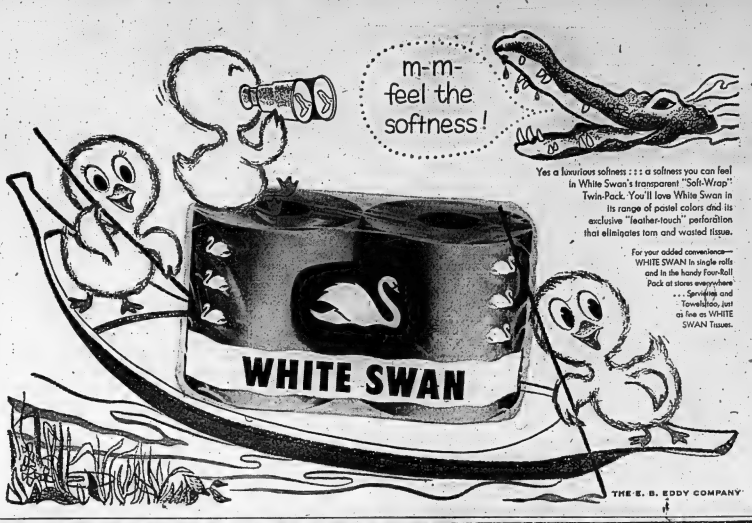
Waller said Cooke also has bought stock interest in Carlon Products Corporation of Cleveland, established Broadcast Equipment Corporation, a California company which leases broadcasting equipment to radio stations, and established Strand Records in New York City.

Because of his rapid rise to fame and wealth, Cooke has sometimes been referred to as the "wonder boy from Canada." In 1937 he was hired by publisher Roy Thomson as manager of a radio station Thomson had just bought in Stratford.

QUICK PROFIT

After managing stations in Northern Ontario, Cooke bought his own station at Rouyn, Que., for $21,000 and sold it 18 months later for $100,000. He went to Toronto in 1944 and bought station CKCL, changing the call letters to CKEY. He entered the magazine field in 1946 with the purchase of the Canadian edition of Liberty magazine, which he renamed New Liberty.

In 1953 he purchased Consolidated Press, publisher of Saturday Night magazine. In 1954 he purchased the controlling interest in Toronto's International League ball club.



He married the former Barbara Jean Carnegie, a Canadian, in 1934. They have two sons, Ralph and John.

York Twp. Probe Report Critical Of Land Sales

Councillors Fell Short Of Duties Says Judge

TORONTO (CP)—There have been "serious shortcomings and deficiencies in the local government" of suburban York Township, Judge Joseph A. Sweet of Hamilton says in his report of a judicial inquiry released today.

Handling of land sales was "seriously and adversely affected the financial affairs" of the township, he said.

He proposed strengthened legislation regarding land sales and zoning bylaws and recommended that some of the evidence given during the 47-day hearings last summer be reviewed by "proper and competent authorities" to decide whether action is necessary.

Judge Sweet was appointed commissioner for the inquiry after criticism of some municipal dealings in the area, which lies northwest of the city in Metropolitan Toronto.

LAX IN THEIR DUTIES

His detailed conclusions were:

"That the township councillors in recent years "have fallen far short of their duties."

In the sale of township lands "the interests of the township have not always been protected in the same councils" and as a result the township "has suffered grievous financial loss;"

An "unhealthy attitude" was sometimes adopted by some councils toward the law of Ontario and the City of York Township which "is a cause for serious concern."

The judge considered several individual land sales. One concerned the allegation which sparked the inquiry, that Reeve Chris Tonks had purchased township land through a proxy.

ILLEGAL UNDER ACT

The Ontario Municipal Act makes it illegal for a member of a municipal council to buy from or sell to the municipality.

Judge Sweet said Tonks and his wife made the purchase in the name of another, and the judge found that "there appears to have been an attempt to avoid the Act."

He recommended that "proper and responsible authorities review the Tonks' purchase. If they find Reeve Tonks "not eligible to sell and vote in council" or that "the sale or what purports to be the sale is void" they should consider appropriate proceedings to avoid action.

The judge also wrote of "allegations (that) were made of malfeasance" on the part of some members of council. The report names Deputy Reeve Kenneth B. Graham, Frederick Wilfred Hall, Harold B. Linden and Fred Hooper.

BUILDING PERMITS

The report says there allegations were "considered" in the issuing of building permits."

"If applications are found acceptable or sought by members of the public, the township of York in connection with the issuing of building permits," Judge Sweet said, "there is the impelling inference that the motivation for the issuance of such permits was either (a) to procure a benefit which should not be issued or withheld in the ordinary course or (b) to assure the issue of a permit which should not be issued or the issuing of which would be withheld."

Fascinating Young Married Life Opens for Princess Margaret Friday

LONDON (AP) — A new life starts Friday for Princess Margaret.

And a fascinating young married life it certainly should be, a mixture of the royal rigidity she has been conditioned to accept and the gay Bohemianism in which Tony Armstrong-Jones feels most at home.

Despite her occasional taste for a fling, Princess Margaret is a devoted the pomp and position of royalty. Someone once asked if she did not find the royal round wearisome. Back snapped the answer:

"I can think of nothing more wonderful than to be royal."

Close friends, for this reason, discount suggestions that the princess is tired of life in the headlines, that she wants to with-draw to a quiet country love nest.

If withdrawal from the royal world is what she wanted, they feel she could have done it five years ago — and married Peter Townsend.

Certainly for the next year or two Margaret will avoid such things. Her life hours overcrowded. But the explanation is simple.

The princess will be 30 in August. Like any other couple marrying late, Margaret and Tony will hope to start a family as soon as possible.

Far more likely, family friends say, is that Queen Mother Elizabeth, Britain's "Queen Mum," of the royal scene. Some even suggest that after eighty years of widowhood she may wish to re-marry. .

WILLIAM HOUCK, LIBERAL MP, DIES AT NIAGARA FALLS

Political Career Extended 26 Years

Mr. Houck, whose political career at civic, provincial and federal levels spanned 26 years, would have been 67 Tuesday. He had undergone surgery in Toronto some weeks ago for a digestive tract ailment.

A former mayor of Niagara Falls and an Ontario cabinet minister without portfolio from 1867 to 1942, Mr. Houck also was a member of the United States-Canada International committee designed to improve relations.

Born in Buffalo, he attended high school there and was graduated from Princeton, University with the degree of bachelor of science.

BECAME CITIZEN

He came to Canada in 1915 and in 1917 married Rae Catherine Patterson of Niagara Falls. He became a naturalized Canadian in 1926.

Mr. Houck was first elected to the Ontario legislature in 1934 and was re-elected in the election in 1938.

In 1951 he again was re-elected but resigned his provincial seat in the House of Commons during the general election two years later.

He retained his federal seat in 1957 and 1958 elections.

HEPC COMMISSIONER

A member of the United Church of Canada, Mr. Houck was commissioner and later vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission during his years as an Ontario cabinet minister.

A fuel dealer and operator of a 1,000-acre farm, he had been home of the world's champion Holsteins.

Mr. Houck was a former semi-professional baseball player and sportsman who boasted of several diamond championships on the Greater Niagara area in 1944-46. He also was a well-known golfer.

Besides his wife, he leaves a daughter—Mrs. C. Boyd Slemon of Niagara Falls — two grandchildren and a grandson. A twin brother, Rev. Chris Houck, lives in Niagara Falls, and two other brother, Jack, lives in Brampton.

Paying Top Price

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is paying the top price supported by the 90 cents per pound for the top classification of first-grade butter, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton told Wednesday in the Commons.

The 90 cents a pound support price is paid for first-grade butter scoring 93-28 and 61 cents on first-grade scoring 40-90.

Both 40-93 and 39-92 score first-grade butter which supported at 54 cents a pound last year.

EARTH TREMOR

REGGIO EMILIA, Italy (Reuters) — A three - second earth tremor shook the mountain town of this southern Italian town Wednesday. No loss of casualties was reported.

The tremor sent a large diamond-studded pre-wedding ball at Buckingham Palace Wednesday night to the cheers of 50,000 sightseers along the route.

As time grew short, Britons speculated about the chances of Armstrong-Jones getting a title.

If he goes to the altar in Westminster Abbey without a title, he will be the first male of English princes in 450 years to marry a plain "mister."

"Title for Tony? What nonsense!" exclaimed a banner headline on the front page of the tabloid Daily Mirror. An editorial declared:

"Does young Tony want a title? No. Does he need a title? No. Maybe he will deserve a title later on. Maybe he will not. But on what grounds does he rate a title now?

"Mr. Jones fell in love with a princess and a princess fell in love with him. "All good luck to H.R.H. Princess Margaret and happiness to the young couple.

"But Lord Antony?

"Viscount Armstrong?

"Earl Jones?

"Oh, no, please no!"

The commoner — a suggestion came from L. G. Pine, editor of

A 63-year-old Carrying Place man, Ronald Currie, had a narrow escape from death when he was attacked by a 300-pound bear near Cee Hill, in Hastings County. While trout fishing Currie disturbed a mother bear with three tiny cubs. The huge animal grabbed him in a bear hug, ripped his clothing and burned him 13 times. Two companions, Harold Morrow of Frankford and Gordon Moffitt of Trenton, heard his cries and witnessed the battle from a distance. Currie escaped without serious injury after he knocked the beast down with a big stick he found on the scene. Carrying Place is 20 miles northwest of Picton. (Hodgson, Picton).

Trustees Urge United Front Against Teachers' Federation

TORONTO (CP)—A resolution, urging unity among secondary school boards and as unsuccessful bid for a royal commission were among the highlights of Wednesday's central zone conference of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association.

John Anglo of Collingwood presented the resolution asking for formation of a provincial salary schedule committee to assist all secondary school boards against the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation.

It was passed by a large majority and will go to the OURSTA annual convention in June for approval.

The proposed committee would prepare a Metropolitan Toronto-type provincial secondary school teachers' salary schedule for use by all Ontario high school boards prior to board-teacher salary negotiations.

The bid for a royal commission

London Keyed up for Big Blowoff for Royal Wedding

LONDON (CP) — The flags are out, the crowds already are milling around Westminster Abbey and London is keyed up for the biggest royal festivity since Coronation seven years ago.

Preparations for the wedding of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones reached a crescendo in the last 24 hours before the bride and groom the abbey's long aisle Friday.

The princess went to a diamond-studded pre-wedding ball at Buckingham Palace Wednesday night to the cheers of 50,000 sightseers along the route.

As time grew short, Britons speculated about the chances of Armstrong-Jones getting a title.

Passenger's Foot Amputated as Cars Collide

TORONTO (CP) — Fifty-one persons were injured, and one of them had to have a foot amputated, when two crowded streetcars collided Wednesday at the intersection of King and Bathurst streets.

John Muir, 65, had his left foot amputated after the impact of the collision nearly tore it off.

Firemen worked half an hour with acetylene torches to free him while five ambulances and three police cars made trips to hospital, taking 49 persons for treatment.

Burke's Peerage.

"The splendid preparations being made for the marriage would seem to point to an honeymoon of unparalleled magnitude," he said. "It would be a fitting climax to a most romantic match if Princess Margaret could be given any title bestowed."

Pins suggested that Tony get "a beautiful-sounding title . . . which would give proper recognition to the dignity of the marriage without necessarily creating a peerage." His nominees included "the Knight of Glin," "the Knight of Kerry" or simply "the White Knight," all titles from British history.

U.S. Plane Shot Down Over Russia, He Reveals; 'No Preparation' For Talks

Chances of Success of Parley Hurt By Attitude of West, He Declares

MOSCOW (Reuters) — American plane was shot down when it violated Soviet air space Sunday, Soviet Premier Khrushchev announced in Moscow today.

He did not mention the pilot, plane, the number aboard, or their fate.

(In Washington, James C. Hagerty, President Eisenhower's press secretary, said he had heard nothing previously about the plane incident. He was not in immediate White House reaction on any phases of the Khrushchev speech.

(Officials at defence headquarters said Khrushchev apparently referred to a U-2 research plane missing since May 1 after a takeoff from a field near Adana, Turkey.

(That plane is assumed to have come down near Lake Van, not far from the Soviet Armenia border.

TRANSPORT ALSO LOST

(The area is close to the point where a U.S. C-130 transport was ordered over the border but disappeared from radar screens in 1958. The U-2 is a National Aeronautics and Space Administration and Air Force flying laboratory. Its assignment is high-altitude weather observations and such tasks as air sampling to check on the radioactive contamination resulting from nuclear tests. It is a single-engined jet.)

Khrushchev expressed regret that Eisenhower would receive only seven days to the summit talks. The duration of the meeting, he said, should be determined by the necessity of achieving results, and there should be no other aim than the prevention of war.

CRITICIZES NIXON

He then went on to say that he had known several times, and it was difficult for him not to have the impression that Nixon was the last person to think of stopping the cold war or of ending arms race.

He told the deputies they would be asked to approve a program for abolition of income taxes in stages. Beginning in October, the tax on incomes up to 300 roubles ($30) a month will be abolished. Income taxes between 300 to 500 rubles ($70) a month will be ex-empt.

Khrushchev first promised abolition of the income tax during the 1957 United Nations session in September. U.S. government experts have said this would be comparatively little, since the income tax, according to the current Soviet budget, will produce only 900,000,000 rubles, or about one-tenth of the total government revenue. The bulk of the Soviet government revenue comes from the turnover, or sales tax and the profit tax, which are budgeted at 61,000,000,000 rubles.

While calling for even greater efforts to avoid war, Khrushchev promised that by 1964 a start will be made on gradually

Chances of Success

MOSCOW (CP) — Premier Khrushchev said today that his first problem facing the May 16 summit conference is disarmament "the most radical means of ensuring peace and banning war."

The second task is a German peace treaty and the West Berlin problem, he told a joint session of the two houses of the Russian Supreme Soviet.

He said the chances of success at the summit talks has been "somewhat dimmed" because of the United States, British and French officials whose heads he said will be meeting in Paris in two weeks' time.

Khrushchev repeated his demands for an end to the Western occupation of West Berlin. He said nobody could lose by concluding a peace treaty with Germany, as the Soviet Union wished to do.

OUTLOOK GLOOMY

As applause echoed from the Kremlin chamber, Khrushchev said the outlook for the summit conference "is gloomy because of what he called aggressive actions and speeches by American leaders.

Khrushchev said that for President Nixon to sit in for him at the summit conference would be "sending a goat to take care of the cabbage."

Eisenhower had said that if his presence were required back in Washington on domestic matters while the conference was continuing, he would send Nixon as his representative.

Khrushchev expressed regret that Eisenhower would receive only seven days to the summit talks. The duration of the meeting, he said, should be determined by the necessity of achieving results, and there should be no other aim than the prevention of war.

CRITICIZES NIXON

He then went on to say that he had known several times, and it was difficult for him not to have the impression that Nixon was the last person to think of stopping the cold war or of ending arms race.

He told the deputies they would be asked to approve a program for abolition of income taxes in stages. Beginning in October, the tax on incomes up to 300 roubles ($30) a month will be abolished. Income taxes between 300 to 500 rubles ($70) a month will be exempt.

Khrushchev first promised abolition of the income tax during the 1957 United Nations session in September. U.S. government experts have said this would be comparatively little, since the income tax, according to the current Soviet budget, will produce only 900,000,000 rubles, or about one-tenth of the total government revenue. The bulk of the Soviet government revenue comes from the turnover, or sales tax and the profit tax, which are budgeted at 61,000,000,000 rubles.

While calling for even greater efforts to avoid war, Khrushchev promised that by 1964 a start will be made on gradually

Malaya's P.M. Publicly Assails Louw

LONDON (Reuters) — Malaya today broke off its private talks with South Africa here on the apartheid policy of racial segregation.

Tunku prince Abdul Rahman, the Malayan prime minister, issued a statement rippling the lid off efforts to keep peace at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, now in its third day.

The immediate target of the Tunku's rage was South African External Affairs Minister Eric Louw, who told a press conference Wednesday his government has no intention of altering its apartheid policy.

Louw agreed to discuss the issue privately with Abdul Rahman and other Commonwealth leaders but not at the conference table.

.The Malayan leader said it was "cold, calculating and downright unfair" for Louw to speak up at a press conference while the private talks are still in progress.

The tunku declared Louw's "uncompromising and unhelpful" defence of apartheid makes it impossible to discuss the issue with him further.

Learn Slain Millionaire 'Recluse' Actually Often Roamed Skid Road

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A millionaire rancher, whose trussed body was dragged from the Spokane River, apparently did a lot of travelling that his friends and neighbors on his ranch never knew.

Clarence E. Wiltse, 54, put more than $3,000 miles on his car in less than a year, Sheriff Lawrence J. Reilly said Wednesday. But the wealthy bachelor had the reputation of staying close to his home 2,000 acres ranch, Wash., except when on buying trips.

Investigation showed that Wiltse made many visits to Spokane and apparently spent most of his time on Skid Road. He often was seen moved through the streets wearing old clothes and sometimes with from $200 to $300 in his pockets, but is believed to have gone to a barber school for a haircut, Reilly said.

The heavy-set Wiltse had a large wardrobe in his farm home, but was always seen in Spokane wearing the overalls and a denim jacket.

The sheriff said he was informed that Wiltse had between $300,000 and $100,000 in bank accounts and safety deposit boxes in Spokane.

Wiltse's body—hands bound with wire and weighted by a generator casing—bore no signs of violence and an autopsy failed to show conclusively the cause of death. Laboratory tests are being conducted on tissues taken from the body. So far, examination have eliminated heart attack, carbon monoxide poisoning and skull fracture as cause of death.

REV. M. G. McFARLANE ACCEPTS CALL TO TABERNACLE CHURCH

At a recent congregational meeting of Tabernacle United Church, a unanimous call was extended to Rev. Morgan G. McFarlane B.A. of St. John's United Church, Georgetown, Ontario. Mr. McFarlane will begin his ministry at Tabernacle Church on the first of July.

Expect Cancer Group's Drive For Funds to Exceed $5,000

The initial month-long campaign held by the recently-formed Belleville unit of the Canadian Cancer Society is expected to go over its $5,000 objective when all donations have been brought in and counted.

Campaign treasurer Frank McGetrick of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, reporting at noon today a total of $4,965 has been received.

"I think it will go over the $5,000 objective, since there are still some donations that are not yet in," he said.

Campaign chairman Clarence D. Fuzzen, concurred with this opinion. He estimated another $100 still to be received, as there are between 10 and 15 canvassers' kits which have not yet been returned.

"I'm sure the campaign will go over the $5,000 mark," he said this morning. The campaign officially ended Saturday night.

Mr. Fuzzen reported public response to the campaign, the first held by the newly-organized unit, was "tremendous."

"The canvassers found that people were waiting for them to call . . . and were more than anxious to give a donation," he said.

Success of the campaign, he added, shows that local residents are greatly interested in doing their part in helping to lick cancer once and for all.

Mr. Fuzzen also highly commended the 30-odd women volunteer canvassers and other volunteer workers who gave their time so willingly to help make the campaign a success.

Approximately 300 persons "answering the unit's call" for volunteers to canvass the city's seven wards.

THANKS CANVASSERS

"I would like to thank all the canvassers and other volunteers who have helped in this campaign," Mr. Fuzzen said. "We really appreciated their assistance."

He noted although the unit received four cheques from outside Belleville, the greatest portion of the close to $5,000 collected came from city residents.

Mr. Fuzzen explained although all the funds collected locally will be sent to the Canadian Cancer Society's Toronto headquarters, the Belleville unit will be able to draw back 20 per cent of the total funds for local use, for a period of two. He said the major portion of all funds collected locally, during the campaigns across Canada, will be used for cancer research.

Commenting on the entire campaign, Mr. Fuzzen said the response for canvassers was "tremendous," particularly in view of the fact the committee had only a short time to organize the campaign.

He said although the majority of canvassers did an excellent job of canvassing all streets, some streets or parts of streets were missed.

Those who were missed by a cancer canvasser and who still wish to donate, are urged to send their cheque to the Belleville unit of the Canadian Cancer Society in care of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, or contact any member of the campaign committee. Campaign treasurer is Frank McGetrick of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

He noted although the unit published its intention of not canvassing local merchants, a "comedy of errors" resulted in their being canvassed anyway.

"They were very co-operative about," he said. "The canvassers were just as well received in the stores as they were in the homes."

Mr. Fuzzen said next year it canvass of local businesses will be definitely organized. He also declared that next year the campaign may be extended outside Belleville, possibly taking in Foxboro, Trenton and other nearby surrounding areas. The exact limit of the campaign area will be decided by Toronto headquarters. This would not include Picton or Napanee, however, as each has organized its own unit.

He also announced the unit's Women's Auxiliary group will hold an organizational meeting this month in the Kiwanis Centre. The group will be organized under the chairmanship of Mrs. Wilfred Price. She has taken over this duty from Mrs. Naomi Spiegal who was forced to resign because of ill health. He said the making of dressings for local cancer patients will commence as soon as the group members have been trained.

Obituaries

ROBERT DRYDDALE MOORE

The death occurred suddenly in the Peace River district of British Columbia on Thursday, April 14, of Robert D. Moore. Ailing for several years, he had recently suffered an attack of influenza and died that morning with a doctor in Dawson Creek hospital.

Robert Dryddale Moore was born at Bird's Creek Hastings County, in October 1891, but received his schooling in Dundas. He was named after his grandfather, who was clerk of the Town of Renfrew at the time of his birth, and he was as well a grandson of the late Elias Moore (Admaston), the "valley's first numberman and one of the real founders of Pembroke. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Moore.

He went west at an early age, where he homesteaded, then when the first world war broke he enlisted the same day a younger brother joined up from Ontario. He was wounded and decorated in action, and he was in an English hospital when he was notified that his younger brother had been killed in action.

After the war he returned west, married and brought his wife and two daughters to live in Dundas for a while, then it was off to the west again, where they lived in Peace River district, where his brother H. M. Moore (Pembroke) visited him last year and was planning a second visit next year. He is survived by his widow (the former Agnes Deline), five daughters and four sons, and the 7th youngest son married and living in the Peace River district, two brothers, H. M. and I. A., Pembroke, and three sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Brownell (Mrs. A. W. Forsythe, Regina, Sask. and Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Douglas.

MRS. JOHN FLANAGAN
Amherst Island
(Contributed)

Jane Flanagan, a well-known resident of Amherst Island, passed away at her home there. She was born on the island 84 years ago, daughter of the late John Downey and Mary Ann Bailey. Left to mourn her loss are four daughters, Mrs. Harry (Mary Elice) Westwood, Mrs. Hugh (Minerva) Dewsnip, Belleville, and Mrs. Arthur (Violet) Wemp, all of Amherst Island, Her husband, John Flanagan, died 36 years ago. Two sisters, Mrs. Ann Wiles, and Mrs. Rose Ushers, Thomas, Robert, Ernest and Frederick, also have died. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. John (Catherine) Brown (Detroit), Mich., and Mrs. Ernest (Minerva) Tracey of Belleville, Gen.; also nine grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

General service was held from her home to Christ Church, Stella. Rev. Canon H. C. Dexter of Kingston and Reverend W. B. Williston of Stella officiated.

The bearers were Kenneth Miller, Edward Wemp, Ross Filson ,Francis Wemp, John Eves and Bruce Caughey.

Interment was in Glenwood Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN SANDERCOCK
Canborne

Although in failing health for a short time, Mrs. Phillias Sandercock, Canborne, an aged and highly respected resident of that community, died in the Cobourg General Hospital on Tuesday morning. In the death of Mrs. Sandercock a link with the past was broken in Hamilton township, for she lived her entire life in that district.

Mrs. Sandercock was born at Harwood, Ontario, 89 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Carruthers. She was educated in that community and in 1888 married John Sandercock who died in 1720. From her earliest childhood she took an active interest in her church, first the Methodist Church and later in the United Church. She was a member of Canborne United Church and was active in every branch of the work especially the Women's Missionary Society and the Women's Auxiliary. Not only was she active in her church but also in her community.

A neighborly women she was always busy helping out some stricken family or bringing comfort to those bereft of loved ones. She was kind and considerate and enjoyed a wide circle of friends. Mrs. Sandercock had an outstanding memory and could clearly relate events of the olden days. She was a fine, conversationalist and enjoyed meeting and talking with people.

Surviving are three sons, Elmer Sandercock M.P.P. for West Hastings, Melville of Bourg, Albert of Harwood, two daughters Mrs. R. (Ruth) Dropo of Harwood and Mrs. R. (Mavis) .MacLean of Canborne. Another daughter, Mrs. Woodford (Myrtle) Orr, died some years ago and her two children, Mrs. Edgar Cunningham of this city and Mrs. Hugh Thompson of Harwood were taken into the family and raised with the rest of the family. Also surviving are 11 grandchildren, 15 great grandchildren and one great great grandchild.

The funeral will be held from the Bowes Funeral Home at Cobourg on Friday afternoon to Canborne United Church for service with interment in Canborne cemetery.

Planning Board Told About Council's Long-Range Plans For Expansion by Annexation

TRENTON — Councillor D. R. Fraser met with members of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board last night to explain to the board with plans for long-range annexation, formulated by a committee of which the councillor is the head. The plans have been tentatively approved by council as a whole.

Opposition to one phase of the plan came from board member Donald Sutherland. The committee had drawn a north-south boundary line from a point 198 feet west of Dundas St. which would form the western boundary of the new city, extending from the present northern boundary of the town south to the Bay of Quinte.

Mr. Sutherland said that he approved of the plans of the committee for annexation in the east part of the town, which would extend the present east boundary eastward to the airport line, and encompass the north-south area between Dundas Drive and the bay. However, he said he thought the western boundary line could be extended as far west as the "Cemetery Road."

Mr. Fraser pointed out that John Weir, a Toronto lawyer, specializing in annexation problems, had approved of the committee's original plan and had suggested the suggestion that the Municipal Board would approve the plan, but had said that the board would hardly approve the annexation of land for which the town would have no immediate use. Councillor Fraser added that the present or future residents of any land annexed would press for town services and that the town might very well find itself "overextended" in the event that east annexation could be justified by the argument that Trenton police and fire protection to the area in question, and that the west annexation could be justified by the fact that it would provide badly needed land for residential expansion.

Board member Grant Gooding suggested that the western boundary line could be extended to square off with the western line of the Kingston subdivision, west of the Champlain Heights area.

Councillor Fraser stressed the urgency of the situation. He said that council would like to be able to apply to the Municipal Board for approval of the plan by June and arrange for a hearing with the board by August. He said that council had decided to expand, and would like the approval of the Planning Board.

G. W. Larry, secretary of the board, said that it was "refreshing" to have council invite planning boards experience with previous councils.

"The attitude of previous councils was that they would not annexe land for the benefit of land developers," said Mr. Sutherland.

"There's been a change of council and a change of attitude," replied Mr. Fraser, "we realize now that we need the assessment."

The planning board will hold a meeting to consider the annexation plan. Following the board's decision, Project Planners, the formulators of the town's official plan, will be consulted. Surveyors will be required to survey the portions of Sidney and Murray townships which will be affected by the annexation and by-laws must be passed by council stating the intention to annex those areas.

Some opposition is anticipated from residents and owners of commercial property in the affected areas, but Mr. Fraser said that John Weir had read to that the opposition was not a factor to be considered.

Main Production Well Nearly Ready for Use

TRENTON — Digging operations on the main production well at the Sidney Street site have been almost completed, and as soon as a special filter screen arrives the 16-inch casing pipe will be installed.

The well-digging firm of Harold Jones and Sons has gone down to a depth of 28 feet. A test of the water will be taken at this level, Mr. Jones is of the opinion that he will probably have to dig deeper through the limestone in order to arrive at the proper level for the well.

This is the fourth well dug by the firm on this site. The other three were each similar, being a 3-inch pipe, 300 gallons of water were obtained from one test well. It is expected that the main well will yield 1,000 gallons per minute.

Preliminary tests indicate that the water in this area is extremely "hard" and the Trenton Public Utilities Commission has a long-range plans to alleviate this situation by mixing the water from the well with river water and pasing the combination through a filtration system.

Contractor Asks Permission to Use City Sewer

TRENTON — Local contractor Gus Scalzitis has made formal application to council for permission to use the town sewer for a new sub-division to be built south of Highway No. 2 at the rear of Hendrick's Apartments. Auxiliary sewer services will be installed by the contractor and will serve 48 persons.

WILL HOST MEETING

On May 19, members of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board will play host to a number of Trenton citizens at a special meeting in the Gilbert Hotel. Mr. John Pierson of the Department of Planning and Development will be present at the meeting.

This is a follow up of a similar meeting held in February, when Mr. Pierson discussed the town's plans for staged development with interested citizens.

HOLD JOINT MEETING

The Trenton and Suburban Planning Board will proffer the drive branch of the townships of Sidney and Murray by-laws for a meeting with township representatives on the next meeting. Topics to be discussed will include border-line expansion and the question of sub-division in the township areas being serviced by the municipality.

The situation arose over the suggestion that a letter be sent by Community Planners be sent to Murray township authorities concerning a proposed subdivision to the west of the Rosedale Acres development.

It is felt by board members that co-operation on the part of the fathers township would be about orderly direction of development outside the town's borders.

TORONTO STOCKS

The 11 a.m. volume was 404,000 compared to the 439,000 shares traded at the same time Wednesday.

Hahn Brass led industrials lower with a one-point drop at 10. Among the winners, Argus Corp. Trusts gained two points at 35.

Base metals was the only section to find support in dull trading Wednesday.

On index, base metals gained a point at 155.79, while industrials were down .50 at 488.04, golds dropped .35 at 81.62 and base lows for 1959-60—and western oils were off .15 at 88.58.

prevented or at least opposed by payment were not made to some person or persons in a position to prevent or oppose its issue."

Judge Sweet recommended that the evidence be considered by appropriate authorities "to determine whether or not any action or proceedings should be taken or any charge or charges laid."

COMPULSORY LEGISLATION

Judge Sweet proposed new provincial legislation to provide "enforceable compulsory disclosures" between municipal departments officials "on an affected municipal corporation" whenever the minister of municipal affairs thinks there should be such disclosures.

He suggested that an independent body be established with membership consisting of a judge, an engineer, an expert in town planning, an accountant and an expert in real estate and given power to recommend the municipal department concerned or up temporary controls over any municipality.

He said the independent body should have power to determine whether financial affairs of a municipality "are adversely affected or in danger of being adversely affected by reason of negligence, inefficiency, incompetency, lack of diligence, lack of due and proper attention, disinterest, lack of information, corruption or other mismanagement, nonfeasance or malfeasance."

E. P. Bernstein Dies at Home, Ill Long Time

Edward P. Bernstein, retired manager of the Mead-Johnson Company of Canada, 375 Bloor street, Toronto, 175 George Street, this Thursday morning. He has been ill in health for the past 2 1-2 yr...rs. In the death of Mr. Bernstein, the city has lost an outstanding citizen, one who was interested in the welfare of others and who took an active part in the social and community life.

Mr. Bernstein was born in Hamilton, 63 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. Bernstein and was educated in that city but later moved to Toronto.

Thirty-five years ago he came to this city as manager of the Mead-Johnson Company, which opened a branch plant in this city and for 31 years he was the efficient general manager. He retired in May of 1953 due to ill health. From the time he came to the city until his failing health forced his retirement from public life, Mr. Bernstein took an active and interested part in all community affairs.

He became a member of the Rotary Club and that service organization was one in which he took his highest honor, that of president. He was an active member of the club especially in the work of the crippled children. He also became interested in the work of the Chamber of Commerce and was active for many years was named president of the organization.

On the completion of his work with the company he entered municipal affairs being appointed by council to the Industrial Commission and he served for two terms as the chairman. Socially he was a member of the Belleville Club and enjoyed his game of bridge with the fellow members. Fraternally Mr. Bernstein was a Past Master of Mount Sinai Lodge A. F. & A. M. in Toronto and also a Past First Principal of Mount Sinai Chapter, Royal Arch Masons.

Mr. Bernstein, although of a retiring nature, was a friendly and highly educated man, who won the respect of his fellow citizens in practically every walk of life. He enjoyed friendship of a wide circle of friends who will sincerely regret his death.

He was a member of the Sons of Jacob Synagogue, and is survived by his wife, the former Lillian Waldman, and one daughter Mrs. Orie (Elinor) Loucks of Fredericton, New Brunswick; one brother, Max of Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. Harry (Marie) Simonsky of Toronto.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Naval Veterans Plan to Attend Service Sunday

A very successful meeting was held by the Quinte Naval Veterans Association last Wednesday evening at the Sea Cadet Building. It was well attended by a number of interested persons and plans were made for the chartering of a bus to carry naval veterans to Kingston this coming Sunday for the annual head ceremony to mark Battle of the Atlantic Sunday. The association has been invited to this ceremony by Commander H. Cheesman of HMCS Cataraqui. The bus will leave the market square, Belleville, at 1 p.m. on Sunday and any naval veterans in Belleville wish to take part in the event.

A membership drive will be started shortly by the association and Mr. W. Collins was appointed membership chairman at the meeting. Another new appointment to the executive was John Watson as treasurer. Bill Slater and Clarence Cook will carry on as president and secretary respectively.

Also under discussion at the meeting was the possibility of a reception being held during the association and the coming naval veterans' reunion. The latter will be held in Cobourg on June 11th and 12th and will be the sixth annual reunion to be held.

Those naval veterans interested in the activities of the local association or who would like to find out more about it are urged to join the members in attending the drumhead service or to contact Bill Slater at WO 8-1778.

THE WINNER — Bill Vermilyea of Quinte Secondary School is seen above as he breasted the tape at the end of the 16th annual running of the Colling Memorial Race staged Wednesday afternoon. The four-mile race saw both a record entry and record time with Bill finishing the course in 20 minutes 9 3/10th seconds. Inset shows Bill regaining his breath.

In Record Time

Bill Vermilyea of QSS Wins Ken Colling Memorial Race

By GAREY ALEXANDER

Quinte Secondary School's Bill Vermilyea, running with ease and determination from start to finish, captured the 16th annual Ken Colling Memorial harrier race yesterday afternoon and set a new record in the process.

Vermilyea, superbly conditioned for the five-mile course, outdistanced 55 other entries, largely due to his skill in the history of the race, by a wide margin.

He covered the course in 20 minutes, nine and 3/10 seconds, surpassing Jim Green's previous record of 20.18 of two years ago.

Second was another Quinte runner, Alex McGaughy, a good 200 yards back; McNaught's time was 21.07.

In third spot was BCIVS' Harvey Brant with a time of 21.58 followed by Brian Tricky of Tweed High School in 22.04. Don Richardson of the Otaziolo School for the Deaf crossed the finish line in fifth position in 22.24 while Lawrence Boyle of BCIVS completed the top six prize list. Finishing in the next three spots, just out of the money, were Ken Gaitin of QSS, Paul Emerson of BCI and Dennis Gaitin of Quinte Secondary School.

Vermilyea, who finished second to Don McMullen last year in 21 minutes and nine seconds, ran a fine, steady race, taking command early in the race and leading all the way.

SPRINT FINISH

He was 100 yards ahead of McNaught about half way down the backstretch but the race was on in sight. The "killer", Church Street, proved the undoing of Vermilyea as he came up with ease and broke like a sprinter at the crest of the hill to the executive road to set a new record. And he did, chopping eight and 7/10 seconds off Green's record.

The winner appeared comfortable at the finish and glanced back over his shoulder several times on Station Street and seemed content to pat an uncle, Mr. Clarence Vermilyea, on the back, about a mile from the finish line. Vermilyea appeared only slightly winded at the finish even after the sprint that brought him the new record.

McNaught too ran well, given no serious challenge for the runner-up spot, but he was no match for his smaller school mate. As has been indicated, there were no "photo finishes" among the top finishers but farther back in the pack the race duelled it out in several instances.

Many, if not all of the entries finished most in surprisingly good shape considering the hot afternoon sun that prevailed in some 70 degrees of temperature.

Four of the original 37 entries did not start but three late entries did. Chris Gray, the seventh-place man, was one of these.

A large crowd watched the start and finish near the BCI campus while many lined the route for the presentations in the school gym later.

PRESENTS TROPHY

Mr. Cleo Colling, who donated the beautiful Ken Colling Trophy in memory of his brother, one-time sports editor of this newspaper, presented the trophy to Vermilyea amid the cheers of fellow students and his opponents. Vermilyea is the second winner of this particular trophy, the original being presented to Jim Green two years ago for permanent possession after the third consecutive win. Green too was from QSS and is now attending Queen's University.

Mr. Colling also donates prize money for the first six finishers and crests for all entries.

Runners from eight district schools took part in the race. Schools represented were Quinte Secondary School, BCIVS, Moira Secondary, OSD, Albert College, Tweed High School, Bay Ridge High School and St. Michael's Academy.

Pulled From River

The local fire department answered a distress call shortly after yesterday to pull people out of the river. The first alarm was turned in at 7:18 p.m. yesterday evening. Ken Tufts of 327 Front Street had fallen in the Moira. He was rescued by a Mr. J. Fitzgerald who, on the arrival of the emergency unit.

The second call was turned in at 8:43 p.m. when it was reported that a child had been seen in the river. This turned out to be a false alarm.

Major A, Classic Leagues Hold Hawaiian Party

All your needed was the sighing of the sax on white bosched shirt, a cool tropical breezes through swaying palms; hula gals swaying with "on any" and be transported for the Major "A" - Quinte Classic bowling league's annual post-season presentation party.

Never in the city's history of toppling lanes has such a colorful background and setting been provided for a bowler except last night to the twin-circuit members their ladies and their guests.

You wouldn't know what a colorful Hawaiian shirt will do for the appearance of young, middle-aged or ancient keglers.

You wouldn't know what a beautiful lei draped around Dalady's neck, a lovely wahine flower or two in her hair; the music of the islands and a delectable Hawaiian luau feast do for the distaff side.

There was also nothing there that was Hawaiian except a volcano. Lovely Freddine Smith in one of the latest fashions, he has ever seen in her interpretation of the native dances of the islands. The talented youngster received tremendous ovation at the end of her performance. She merited it.

Great skirts, fashioned from mixture palm trees for dinner decorations, "live" pineapples, a gift to each guest and the ever-young Hawaiian miss who draped the lei around each person's neck; the Hawaiian turkey served (a dinner there's no turkey for guys) and she remainder of the mouth-watering dinner served by McEwen's roundsmen rounded out one of the best bowling celebrations ever held in the city.

And in the midst of all this south sea decorative splendor, the leagues' powers-that-be took time out to honor outstanding individual champions. President Art Atkins of the Major "A" League and top brass Jim McKenzie of the Quinte Classic circuit, emceed the gala event and parade.

In the major "A" champions, the Seeley's Clippers went the whole way, presented by Elmer Hardy. The Clippers had gue champions, Parsons Cleaners were presented with the Bowl-O-Drome Trophy, through Bill Bateman.

The high average award of the Major "A" League went to Jim Mercier with a 256 mark. The average of the Quinte Classic went to Bill Bateman with a .249.4. He was awarded the handsome Labatt's Trophy presented by the league's popular representative, Nick Stefan.

Quarter winners of the Major League were Stevart Steel Shop and Lloyds Cleaners (3). Quarter winners in the Classic League were Parsons, McDougall's Insurance and O'Connor's Jewellers.

Belle Cleaners won the Major League playoffs with wins with Begleys and Lloyds Cleaners (2) while Parsons Cleaners won the Classic League playoffs title.

The high triple award for the Major "A" went to Bill Bateman with 1006 while high single of 368 was shared by Cec Hardwick and Lorne Lavender. Bill Bateman won the Classic high triple with 1006 while Cec Hardwick's 401 won for him the singles award.

Second place winners of the Classic League was the team of Bell Telephone.

Dancing and other entertainment rounded out a highly successful and enjoyable evening with Jack Fitzgerald starring in his role of amateur comedian.

BRIDGE FINAL SET

TURIN, Italy (AP) — France headed Britain in its first defeat Tuesday night in the open series of the world bridge matches, putting the two teams into a tie for the lead going into today's finale. The United Arab Republic won the women's tournament, with Britain second and Denmark third.

Family of Nine Made Homeless At Rednersville

A large old frame house one mile west of Rednersville burned to the ground this morning putting a family of nine out of a home. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith and their seven children were tenants of the house which was owned by a Mr. Stan Scott. Unfortunately the fire trucks were unable to reach the house before the flames had a good head start although a large storage building adjacent to the house was saved.

One thousand feet of hose had to be laid to get water from the Bay of Quinte in order to extinguish the flames and the fire men spent over three hours at the blaze. The alarm was turned in at 9:31 a.m. Mr. Smith was away working out of town at the time but the family will be staying with relatives at 84 Bell Boulevard.

Yesterday afternoon an oil burner caught fire in the basement of an apartment building at 202 George Street. The burner was destroyed, the contained being melted by the flames and considerable smoke damage occurred through the house. Apartments were occupied by Col and Mrs. R. S. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wilkie, Mrs. J. T. Delaney and Mrs. Brown. The building is owned by a Mr. Clifford Adams. The alarm was turned in at 5:35 p.m.

Firemen were also called to 21 Moody Street to extinguish a fire in an excavating machine at 3:33 p.m. Wednesday afternoon.

A false alarm occurred this morning at the Belleville General Hospital when one of the thermostatic alarm controls became overheated.

Considerable Interest Shown In Opening Civilian Airport

The report of an airfield survey conducted by Earl Dickneother, secretary-manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, supplemented with information supplied by Jim Jamieson, Manager of the W.T. Hawkins firm, touched off a lively discussion amongst those present at the monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce executive held yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Dickneother indicated that considerable interest was shown by local firms questioned as to the possibility of an airport and a number of them indicated that if an airport were available they would be using it constantly. It was also stated that the Industrial Commission was making a survey of district municipalities with the purpose in mind of having a view airport for civilian use.

Considerable interest was shown at the suggestion of Mr. Marker that the possibility of establishing a part of the Trenton RCAF airfield to civilian air traffic now that there was no training command at the field. It was pointed out that the current high rate of traffic is relatively low at this base and that it should be possible to utilize the facilities, which the RCAF would offer for civilian and commercial traffic without interfering with the military value of the field.

Alderman Walter Elliott suggested that every possible effort should be made to get as much traffic as possible from surrounding municipalities for this project. He investigate this and pointed out that the airport survey was formed at the suggestion of president Ernie Atwell. Members of the committee will include Alderman Walter Elliott and Jack Ellis, James Marker of the Hawkins firm, Don Harvey Aviation Limited of The Pinnacle, Intelligencer and two other members. The latter will include a representative each from the Bata Shoe Company and the Northern Electric firm.

DEFINE LINES

Alderman Walter Elliott reported the progress made on the parking problems around the new building. Lines have been painted in the lands of the City Engineer's department which was also responsible for the work. The final property lines established will quickly as possible, a decision might be taken on these problems in the near future.

Mr. Dickneother reported that the proposed by-law for one-way streets was coming on before city council this coming Monday afternoon.

Six new members were announced as the result of one membership team's activities. Those present confirmed the acceptance of Vaqden Mills, Roth Upholstery, Garm's Beverages, Kelly's Drug Store, Little's Pharmacy and the Trent Lumber Company as members. A report was given by Mr. A. Revill, chairman of the manufacturers' section of the Chamber of Commerce, in connection of the Junior Achievement program. Mr. Revill said that it was felt by the committee that a greater emphasis should be put on acquainting the public with the free enterprise system which is the bread and butter of the Canadian economy. "We should sell what we have," said Mr. Revill, "or we may lose it."

It was decided that it would be left to the discretion of Mayor Frederick Thompson, Mr. Dalvid, and the secretary-manager, Earl Dickneother, as to how to support the resolution which will be coming up before the Convention in Toronto next week.

Strange Bedfellows

Reflection upon recent events which have occurred in South Korea and Turkey have led us to wonder just what sacrifices must be made in order for the western democracies to maintain some form of balance of power. We also wonder as to whether these sacrifices are at all worthwhile.

Presumably any sort of an alliance, if it is to be a sound, an honorable and a lasting alliance, should be based on some fundamental bond of identification. In business corporations will make a successful merger because the protagonists are mutually interested in the better promotion and manufacture of a common product or service.

We can see where this theory should be equally well applied in the case of international agreements between governments.

When a government such as that of the United States, which is the leading power in most alliances involving the western nations, makes a pact with nations such as South Korea and Turkey, whose governments now appear to rely upon a strong tinge of dictatorial practice, we wonder whether there has not been some sacrifice of principle for the sake of political expediency.

The Americans, as we know them, are a most gregarious race of people, although there still remains a trace of isolationism. We sometimes wonder whether they, in their eagerness to win friends and influence people, do not see the forest for the trees, and commit themselves to some temporarily happy union which in the long run turns sour.

There are a fairly large number of what we might call unattached nations in the world today. It would seem to us that any long-term policy should proceed very cautiously before making any alliances of either a military or economic nature, no matter how golden the temporary advantages of such a union would be.

If one does not take care in this respect one may well find oneself in the position in which the United States finds herself today. Through her various agreements she is committed to the support of countries which are governed by means which are not entirely democratic to say the least. History has proven that countries which rely upon force as the major cohesive medium through which to control the will of a country and its people eventually crumble politically with alarming frequency.

It would seem to us to be much better in the long run to follow our basic beliefs when looking about for eligible allies. The strongest companions will be those who hold to similar democratic ideals and highly value the freedom of the individual. Our weakest will be those which do not. It appears rather senseless that the position of the western world should be compromised because of one companion. This could well lose us the moral support and assistance of the myriad other non-committed nations who do believe in what we profess to be our basic way-of-life, philosophically speaking.

We are known by the companions we keep. Let us be sure that we are in honorable company.

Trout Catch Small

Of twenty-five varieties of fish caught commercially in Ontario waters last year, one accounted for over 30 per cent of the total value of the catch, $4,157,000. Which one? If you ignore the lordly lake trout and vote for the popular yellow pickerel, you will be making the right choice. Pickerel weighing 4,515,000 pounds and valued at $1,281,000 were netted or otherwise caught by commercial fishermen in the great Lakes and in northern and southern inland waters.

And what fish came second? Not trout, nor even whitefish; but the lowly perch, 19,657,000 pounds of him, worth $741,000. Whitefish were a close third, a mere 2,907,000 pounds and almost as much, $737,000, as seven times the weight of perch.

In fourth place were chub and tullibee, in the hey-day of the Great Lakes lake trout fishing days largely bait fish, bringing fishermen $229,000. White bass, the little scrappers, were worth $204,000 and the dwarf smelt $183,000, all ahead of the one-time monarch, lake trout, worth only $175,000 to fishermen.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WORDS OF GOLD

A traveller in Asia Minor was found in the four Gospels with the exception of one saying in the Book of Acts. Many of there sayings are a repetition of sayings in other Gospel- This means that the sayings of Jesus are quite a little a small number of basic moral principles.

But another fact is that they are basic indeed. They touch us where we live. They point us to the goals which we with to attain. They reveal to us the nature of God and encourage us to appropriate to ourselves powers and with the Divine ready to pour into our lives.

Jesus spoke of His words as inscribed in gold. Fitting indeed for that perfectly reveals their true nature.

Strictly Personal

Wit, Judgment Rarely May Be Said Allied

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

When we are young, we find it no wit in the world we do not agree with; as we get older, if we possess any wisdom at all, we discover that even an opinion contrary to ours contains a vein of truth which we can usefully assimilate to our own views.

Wit and judgment are rarely allied in the same temperament, so this is why witty persons so rarely know when to refrain from exercising their talent.

Conditions haven't changed much in the centuries since Hamlet cry observed: "In order to make a great deal of money, the first thing is to find a good ad".

A man who is openly engaged in building up a reputation, is often at the same time subtly engaged in tearing down his character; which is the whole meaning of the Gospel warning about not laying up treasure for moth and rust.

Experience teaches us little about love — when we finally find we have made a mistake, the experience is cut out on the opposite mistake. Multiple mistakes are a pendulum, not a progression.

The trouble with the super-patriot is that he has no good to any country except his own; and the only good he does anything is that he finds good in every country except his own.

The best that life unveils begins over nothing, and that is what they call a new notion.

Just as no person can smell his own breath, no person can see his own basic faults; and it is only years later that we can see the faults we have in ourself not it really was. This inherent blindness is what compels people to defend their faults more pugnaciously than their principles.

It is a curious fallacy to say that "we learn by doing"; learning is only a preparation for doing something over and over again is just confirming our habits, and habits are unlearning. Finally, we are unable to unlearn and start over again the proper way.

We are more willing to forgive a man who does a wrong than one who shows contempt for us; which is why the world has always been more tolerant toward the bully than toward the snob.

The surest sign of self-centredness in a woman is her choice as her best friends only those women who are plainer than herself.

Why Russia Wants Babies

New York Times

Soviet statisticians have been projecting population trends at home and abroad fifteen years into the future, and they don't like what they see. That seems a fair inference from an article in the head of the Soviet Central Statistical Administration, V. N. Starovsky, has recently published. Power forces are at work to reduce still further the Soviet birthrate, he notes, listing such factors as the declining number of women who will enter the fertile age brackets in the years ahead and the increase in the education of the Soviet population.

Since Mr. Starovsky's article was published in the organ of the Academy of Sciences, many of its readers undoubtedly detected a sharp enough to see that the data be presented show that not only is Communism failing to match the birthrate, he notes, listing such factors as the declining number of women who will enter the fertile age brackets in the years ahead and the increase in the education of the Soviet population.

Since Mr. Starovsky's article was published in the organ of the Academy of Sciences, many of its readers undoubtedly detected a sharp enough to see that the data be presented show that not only is Communism failing to match the birth and rate of natural increase high-er in many part of the Western but that Peiping's still relatively high death rate offers substantial possibilities for improvement in consequent acceleration of its rate of population increase.

Five years ago, Mr. Starovsky noted, Premier Khrushchev said the Soviet Union's population were to increase by 100,000,000 persons to 300,000,000 so that would still be little. The reason the Soviet Union's chief statistician found the Moscow of 1975, fell called upon to remind his readers that Premier Khrushchev wants more babies becomes apparent if we do a little calculation based on Mr. Starovsky's data. His discussion suggests that over the next fifteen years it suggests that over the next fifteen years annual Soviet population increases equal those of the past decade and now and 1975 could well be about as great as the present Soviet population. But the Soviet Union has roughly three times the land area of the United States and the contrast between the two nations' wealth in resources and population would seem something like that between Peiping and not only in Moscow and Peiping.

Letter To The Editor

Immigrant Opposes Having Own Schools

Ontario Intelligencer:
Editor:

With growing concern I happened to read the article printed in the local newspapers of Bellefield and Trenton, on the weekend edition.

Mr. van der Vliet mentioned the fact, and how very true his statement was, that Dutch immigrants have retained their church characteristics by building their own schools and churches in this country. They have also formed their own organizations, newspapers and magazines.

As far as newspapers, magazines and organizations go, this is a good and very helpful system to follow for any immigrant. But why mention the schools and churches are being built by the Dutch people right in their own offspring who will grow up to be Canadians anyway, and after they go to Dutch schools and churches or not.

Mr. van der Vliet not see this as a grave mistake and certainly not a very good example to hold to other New Canadians?

Why do not more Dutch immigrants fight tonight to have Canadian churches and send their children to Canadian schools? Wouldn't they find it an asset in learning a better understanding of the Canadian language and the Canadian way of life?

Never did I put a foot on Canadian soil, and believe me I bear no resentment for this today, many others like myself have learned to love this country even though we have had our ups and downs, but this feeling of patriotism a great deal.

But when immigrants separate themselves and their children by living in Dutch districts, attending schools, they are causing a break in understanding between Old and New Canadians.

This break can be easily repaired by the New Canadians by understanding and a little dab of patience.

It is easy for newcomers, when they compare differences between the two countries, to criticize, but in this country, we, as a form a little club of attitudes which would have to be changed, we are unable to unlearn and start over again the proper way.

We are more willing to forgive a man who does a wrong than one who shows contempt for us; which is why the world has always been more tolerant toward the bully than toward the snob.

The surest sign of self-centredness in a woman is her choice as her best friends only those women who are plainer than herself.

Should the exigencies of war ever demand that women take their places at the wheels of motor ambulances or other mechanized equipment, at least thirty attractive young Belleville ladies would be ready to answer the call; for exactly that number gathered at the J. B. Boyce Company last night for the preliminary of eight lessons which will train them. Engaged in Belleville under the sponsorship of General Motors, the Voluntary Auxiliary Drivers Corps as it is called, got its start with Mr. J. N. Lister of General Motors. It has courses under way in several prominent cities of the dominion, and by the end of June over one thousand young ladies will have graduated from the course which will enable them to instruct women in elementary automotive m e c h a n i c s and roadside repairs.

A strong plea is made for the conservation of wild flowers. The warm spring is carpeting our woods with color and the impulse to gather these pretty little flowers is almost irresistible after the long months of frost and snow. But it is an impulse which must be sternly resisted. So serious has the annual destruction of wild flowers become that it has been found necessary to stage a province-wide campaign to save Ontario's floral heritage, the trillium, from extinction. It is to be hoped that the efforts of this campaign will be such to educate the people against tearing up the wild flowers. In their way they are as much assets of the natural life as the material wealth of the country, for they speak of beauty in its native state.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SLOWER-THAN-AVERAGE PULSE RATE CAN BE 'NORMAL'

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is a normal pulse rate for a man 70 years old, five feet five inches tall and weighing 194 pounds? My husband's pulse has been as low as 45 beats per minute. Is usually is about 60. He has not been sick. He is retired and keeps in good shape by working around the house and yard.—A.A.S.

The pulse rate can vary so widely that I prefer not to offer any rule-of-thumb. Only a diagram by your physician will tell whether there is any disorder involving the rhythm or conduction — conduction being the physiological method by which the heart receives a sort of "signal" to tell it how often to beat.

If the cardiogram shows things to be normal, there is no cause to worry about the pulse being slower than average, but I have known any number of people in whom it has been slow and who perfectly adequate and satisfactory.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Many women these days worry about their small busts. Why can't we never hear about the women who have been given the satisfactory share. Is there any way to increase the bust size? Is diet the only control? I am 18 years old, only five feet tall and 98 pounds in weight. Is my height it should be 32 or 34 inches?

I've heard the same complaint you make, although the opposite is also heard from those who have years ago the flat — chested "boyish" figure was the popular. Attitudes change, and women, without too much success, to follow the fads.

You didn't tell me your weight, but I am guessing that then diet control is the only solution. You are quite right in weight (I'm guessing that you are too heavy) you may not get much of a bust. But if you are slender you might very well get down to satisfactory size over a few months. Don't look for an easier way; you're reducing your weight by a pounds that fits your height.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our eldest boy is 15 years old and we want to know if my monthly OS examinations should be more thorough. He has been selected by the G.T.R. team as he is not only a good receiver but also a reliable batter. Frank Goyer, brother of President Goyer, Belleville celebrated pitcher, will take Mills' place behind the bat. Last year he was catcher with a Western Ontario team that was rated high.

The concert given by the Belleville Philharmonic Society assisted by the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, was a most enjoyable event to the music lovers of this city. The principal soloists were Miss Maryel Hall, Miss Ada Cameron. The officers to whom much credit is due, among the members of the society, are as follows: president, P. D. Ross; vice-president, A. A. Allen Chown; treasurer, Dr. C. A. Marshall; conductor, assisting secretary, Prof. George C. Phelps.

The city council refused to grant the sum of $90.00 to-wards the expenses of a celebration here on Victoria Day.

Mr. Percy Anderson has left for Toronto to take a course at the Normal School.

Perverse Machines

Windsor Star

We often have bad reason to complain about the perversity of inanimate objects. It is impossible to reason or argue with mechanical equipment. It knows no logic, has no feelings. Yet it seems to have an uncanny instinct for causing trouble at the most inopportune times.

It's a dreaded queer thing, for instance, that household equipment so often goes on the blink on week-ends. It seems to know housekeepers' plans will have difficulty getting new equipment of repairs immediately. It deliberately sets out to put them to the greatest possible inconvenience.

It may be plumbing or heating equipment. It may be the hot water heater or perhaps it is the stove. They all have the same miserable attitude. Usually they give no warning; they just wait until the most embarrassing moment and then quit.

The thing that had me puzzled was this: out of the 37 boys and girls in my grandson's class less than fourteen of us were squalling, had our faces in motion, or our noses wrinkled. But in my grandson's class picture, only one child was making a face. Every one of the forty-three was facing the camera with clear open countenance.

Sex Sells Neckties

Rhrebrooks Record

A British psychologist was quoted recently by the Men's Furnishers' Association of Great Britain as saying a little market research indicated sex sells a necktie.

After he had analyzed 14 women, all wearing colored ties, he came up with a pat answer — sex sells them.

He claimed that when a girl says, "Your tie's crooked" it's really an overture to romance. And when she straightens a man's tie it signifies ownership. It's only a substitute for caressing.

None of this is very exciting chattering. But his research also produced a color code which he offers to unmarried girls.

If the boy friend turns up in a red tie expect a talkative evening; a pale blue tie without stripes or spots is a token of head-holding type; but the darn thing has two ends and when the back row and no time to watch the movie."

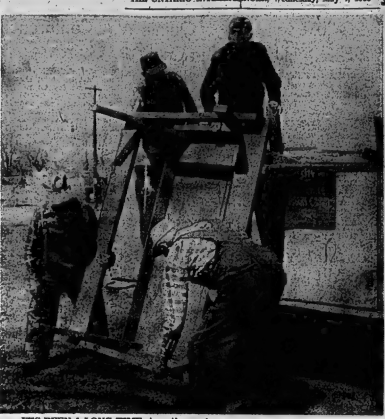
Camera Club's Annual Salon Winners Named



The winners of the Belleville Camera Club's third annual salon were announced at the monthly meeting Tuesday night. Norman Wells of Peterborough won first place in the black and white print division, with Peter Wade of Colborne day taking second and third place. In the color section William Wilkins of Trenton was first and Mary Thain of Belleville was second. Mr. Wilkins also won the third place. There was a nature division this year for the first time and top honors were won by R. Higginson from Cobourg. The judges for the salon were Mr. Robert C. Ragsdale, ARPS, of Toronto, and Mr. A. C. 'Jack' Austin of Wooler, who judged the nature entries.

All entries accepted for the salon will be on view in the auditorium of the Corby Public Library from Monday, May 9, to Saturday, May 14. There will be a showing of color slides every evening at 8 p.m.

Many club members have found the constructive criticism and advice of the monthly print and slide competition a valuable way of improving their pictures. The judges, who have conscientiously given of their time and knowledge, are sincerely thanked by all who have made use of this club activity. Edgar Buchanan showed the prints and slides which were entered in the April competition. John Termeulen placed first in the beginners' class for black and white prints and Wally Kirkpatrick took first, second and third in the amateur class. In the color slides, Mike Peters was first, Art Gee second and Katharine Mills and Mike Peters tied for third place.

A list of nominations for officers was presented to the club and will be voted on at the general meeting held in June. It is hoped that every member will be present to elect the best possible slate for next year.

After the business meeting a very enjoyable Photographic Society of America slide lecture was presented. "Near By and Close Up" by B. J. Kaston showed in a very entertaining way the photographic possibilities of plants and insects which can be found right around home. Also shown was a film from Canadian Industries Limited entitled "Wars Under the Microscope" which dealt with the search for the cause and cure of malaria.

How About You Coaching Minor Baseball Team?

The baseball section of the Belleville Minor Sports Association is in urgent need of coaches for the 1960 season, it was announced following a meeting at the Recreation Centre Tuesday night.

Officials called the meeting "not too successful" when only six persons turned out. Last year 16 teams were organized and at least that number of men will be necessary for coaching duties alone. Then there are a number of other jobs to be done also. Umpires and assistant coaches are also wanted.

To date 629 boys have registered for play. 448 of this number are in the peewee division, 151 in the bantam and 30 in the midget. The association is asking that those others of some of these boys get out and volunteer their help so that the boys will be able to continue playing baseball.

Another meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday, May 10, at the Recreation Centre, beginning at 7.30 p.m. A large attendance is necessary.

It has also been announced that the Belleville Minor Sports Association annual meeting and election of officers will take place at the Recreation Centre at 7.30 p.m. on Thursday, May 26.

The annual minor hockey party has also been arranged and will be held at Memorial Arena on Saturday, May 14, beginning at 1.00 p.m. More news will be released on this shortly.

Coroner's Jury Finds Death Was Accidental

A verdict of accidental death was returned Wednesday afternoon by an all-Indian Coroner's jury at the inquest of Thomas Gordon "Rusty" Brant, former police chief on the Tyendinaga Reserve who died February 13th following an accidental gunshot wound.

It was the first time in the history of Canada that an all - Indian coroner's jury had been empanelled to act at an inquest and the jury members were commended by Coroner Dr. D. C. McVicker. Dr. McVicker said the jury had done a very efficient and thorough job.

Main witness, aside from experts, called by Crown Attorney John Pringle, was John Ashton Brant, who was with the former police chief at the time of the accident.

Chief Brant died at his home when the revolver which he was demonstrating accidentally discharged, the bullet striking the chief in the head.

Quinte's Air Cadet Squadron, Out for Annual Inspection, Highly Complimented by All

Members of the No. 608 Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron of Quinte Secondary School put on a "stirring demonstration of ceremonial and precision drill" to use the words of Wing Commander P. E. Songhurst, CD, inspecting officer at the squadron's annual inspection yesterday afternoon. In his remarks to the cadets following the inspection, and march past the senior technical staff officer of the RCAF Air Transport Command at Trenton said that he could well understand how the cadets were such keen competitors for the Strathcona Trophy.

Wing Commander Songhurst complimented the squadron's men and officers for achieving the fundamental goals of the Air Cadet movement and gave a brief description of this movement in Canada. He noted that one of the objects of the Air Cadet training program was to develop good citizens and a high standard of mental alertness and was designed to supplement their formal education and not not in any sense to replace it.

The inspection took the usual form of an inspection of the troops by the inspecting officer, followed by two march pasts and an advance in review order by the salute. This was followed by a precision drill display by the squadron's drill team. Their routine was done very well with no words of command being given and a number of intricate manoeuvres being performed. The highlight of this was the formation of an outline of a Sabre jet aircraft, which was very warmly applauded by the spectators.

A band demonstration was also put on which received the plaudits of the visiting dignitaries. The band was led by Drum Major Ronald Day and was instructed by Mr. R. Schroder, Mus. Bac. A grade 11 girls' marching display was also presented and it was carried out in very fine fashion.

A number of presentations were made. The major one was the inaugural presentation of the RCAF Association Cadet of the Year plaque to WO Dwight Chard.

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED

Graduation diplomas for four years training in the Air Cadets were presented to Flight Sergeants Charles Turner, Gordon Marriott, Henry Tom and Ray McWilliams and to WO. 2 Alan Wardle. A number of marksmanship awards were also made with a gold medal award being presented to Fl. Sgt. Henry Tom.

Alderman Leslie Reid, principal of Quinte welcomed the guests and visitors to the inspection and introduced the special guests and speakers. Mr. Doug Whitely, vice-president of the Ontario Provincial Committee of the Air Cadet League, spoke briefly, congratulating the cadets on having won the Strathcona Trophy last year and complimenting the school band.

Mr. James B. Durant of the Bay of Quinte High School Board extended the greetings of the board and said that he felt the squadron had lived up to its past achievements and hoped it would continue to do so in the future.

The dean of the city council, Alderman Robert Temple was present on behalf of the City of Belleville and extended his congratulations to all who had made the inspection such a success. "On such a day as this I am proud to be a citizen of Belleville" said Alderman Temple.

The inspection was assured of its complete success by the presence of what might seem to be the inevitable cadet representation. This year's representative was a shaggy black dog, who made a reasonable thorough inspection of all activities.

Bay of Quinte W.A. Conference Held in Chalmers Church

The annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference Woman's Association of the United Church of Canada opened in Chalmers Church, Kingston, on Monday, May 2nd, with a worship service conducted by members of the W.A. of Collins Bay United Church, led by Mrs. Harold Clark.

Warm welcome to the many delegates from the eight Presbyteries was given by the president of the conference, Mrs. G. E. Dobbs, of Belleville, as the service opened by singing the "Lord of light whose Name outshineth

All the stars and suns of space."

Deign to make us Thy

Co-workers

In the kingdom of Thy grace."

Delegates were reminded that the first conference of the Bay of Quinte Conference W.A. was held at Chalmers Church during the time of its organization, as a Methodist conference, and entertained by Chalmers Woman's Association. Greetings from the Conference executive secretary were read and warmly received.

SPECIAL SPEAKER

Introduced by Mrs. R. C. Elliott, president of the Kingston district, Mrs. J. Y. MacKinnon of London, a native of Kingston, graduate of Queen's, past president of London Conference W.A., and now resident of Dominion Council W.A. and also a member of the Commission of the Church Union Committee and "Work of Women in the Church," was welcomed by all at the afternoon. She presented a progress report of the work of the Commission which is to be presented to the 19th General Council in June next.

She dealt first with what she termed "Concerns of the New Organization, the Intangibles,' which do not go into figures; leadership — a challenge should be made as the approach for new officers is made — service within the church should be emphasized; stewardship of life, allegiance to secular organizations.

Payment of annual fees should be more than a business transaction; it should be a re-dedication to the carrying out of the aims and objects — what the W.A. stands for, providing for the spiritual life of women of the church; its first object. Money should be emphasized as a means to an end; bazaars, suppers, should be used as a channel through which fellowship is reached, by help and friendship to others.

Mrs. MacKinnon advertise the joy and happiness of Christian service and unity within the church; "stewardship — in the use of time and talent, even to the point of offering; willing use of vice; our witness, if true and attractive will promote this in others; "quality of our worship which can rise to the tone of our meeting — early in the meeting, that we may challenge ourselves and others; church attendance of W. A. members is important. "My place is in my pew on Sunday" gaining strength from the united worship of all the women across our Dominion.

"That women have a place within our church is the reason for a new woman's organization in the United Church. Racial social changes are occurring where — in the church as a whole; in mission fields. Missionaries only go in now at the request of local leaders to go in and work with them in the native Christian Church. It is also sometimes necessary to leave, so that native leaders will take more responsibility.

"Our organization was considered at the time of church union, namely Women's Missionary Society and Woman's Association. It is hoped that it will begin in January, 1962

MORNING SESSION

Morning sessions on Tuesday, May 3, of the Bay of Quinte Conference Woman's Association at Chalmers Church, Kingston, opened with a worship service by Lindsey Presbytery, with the theme of "Prayer". Members of the eight Presbyteries were introduced, also chairmen of standing committees of Conference. Mrs. W. G. MacLean, press chairman, announced that Mrs. J. L. MacKinnon had recorded an interview by request, on broadcast over Kingston's CKWS, 960, on Sunday, May 8, at 1 o'clock over Kingston Review program.

Mrs. R. E. Smitheim of Trenton gave a report on the Retreat' held at Five Oaks on Thursday, April 28th, under Lindsay, Cobourg and Hastings-Prince Edward Presbyteries, when 90 women attended. Registering from Impressions, he said: "Five Oaks Christian Training Centre is the one place in Ontario where the Christian education for everyone from cradle roll, at age 3 to 73 or over; to enter the door is to step into the realm of the Spirit."

BIBLE STUDY METHODS

Two methods of Bible study were taught, the first called "The Unfolding Drama of the Bible" was given by a panel of five working together, the leader gathering the facts from the groups to present on the blackboard; in same groups study two books of the Bible with regard to meaning, context, content, and title in Christian doctrine, the leader gathering the facts. In both methods discussion was used, a member contributing.

Mrs. Smitheim spoke with enthusiasm of the full program she had found so helpful, summing up: "We had learned better programs, better worship, and to be better fellowships, to look ahead and do something about our Christian concern."

Announcement of the 'Retreat' for Peterborough, Renfrew, Kingston Presbyteries in Fairmount was made for the autumn, Mary Lou Petrie reported on arrangements in making donations to the camp to assist it in its far-reaching influence. A memorial fund, by the president, Mrs. Dobbs, for such gifts might be considered for forwarded through the conference treasurer, Mrs. M. E. Ross. It is used in the purchase of a rug for the Upper Room, the cost of which in full will be $1,000.

STEWARDSHIP

A tape recording on Stewardship is to be purchased and used throughout the conference in local Woman's Associations. It may be procured for use from Mrs. A. A. Crowle of Oshawa, chairman of Christian Stewardship.

Miss S. Bennet gave a resume of important publications as a literature table for purchase: "Like a Watered Garden", a handbook for Study Groups; service suggestions; "The Art of Building a Worship Service," "Conduct of a Meeting" also "Rules of Order". The Mid-week Service Pattern and Booklet; Report of the Committee of Evangelism and Social Service"; also a play, "The Baker's Dozen", presenting problems of older people.

W.M.S. WORK

The president of the sister organization, The Bay of Quinte Conference Woman's Missionary Society, Mrs. B. H. Soper, of Smiths Falls, gave an arresting picture of the far flung and meaningful work of this group. Mrs. Soper referred to the "Carrying Forward" theme of the year as she stated: "Our objective is stated with our organization in mind, but the emphasis is on the work."

Mrs. Soper spoke of workers, missionaries and workers throughout Canada, in the Indian hospitals and in the homes of exiles from other lands, who have been a part of their work and prayer. She also referred to her older people, with the Presbyterial Group carrying on the study work — and further, Mrs. Soper's concern for the work of the Presbyterial Church of Reserves, of which Mrs. Dr. Pierce Murray was the head for 25 years, in war and peace carrying out just physical needs but things of God's love.

She spoke also of the work in Africa in Angola where Dr. Gilchrist, Edith Clark and others carry on a program of healing, teaching nutrition, home making, Child Welfare and Christian Training Centre where young men and women, leaders are being trained for more fruitful service. "Go and Tell" the India Study theme, with certain topics, age looks for support; Lodge Hall, Bombay College is a promore help; many other fields and Hindi Song. Principal Jadai Japan — personnel and money would make so much more possible.

M AND M FUND SHARED

The W.A. shares in the Missionary and Maintenance Fund with $104,854 last year; $118,000 this attitude. Mrs. Soper said. She concluded, "Let us build that new Temple, or helped someone who went to 'go and teach all nations'."

It was announced that Miss Muriel Stevens, a registered nurse from Bowmanville United Church, Bowmanville, graduated from the Training School for Nurses, will be commissioned on Wednesday night at the Memorial Hall, the last ordination service at Sydenham Presbyterian Church will be posted for service in Africa.

A bursary to be presented to a boy or girl attending the United Church Training School in the Bay of Quinte Conference, or entering the ministry, for full-time work, which was chosen as the project of the year for the Conference, all Presbyteries participating.

GREETINGS READ

Greetings from Rev. M. C. Flagg, president of Bay of Quinte Conference, were read, in which he invited all to attend the Bay of Quinte's University. He appealed to the W.A. to pray for the church. He impress upon members the immensity of the task of teaching the Christian way, the demands of the secular world is making, and the opportunity to secure the required numbers of leaders.

A report on program planning, prepared by Mrs. R. Hill Woman's Association, was on the program planning packet, a new copy will soon be available.

There was a registration of 90 delegates on Monday, and 178 on Tuesday. Luncheon was served by the Y.W.A. in the Anglican Church, Mrs. Gwen Smith in the MacGillivray Room.

Miss Beatrice Wilson, executive secretary of the Dominion Council W.A., was the special speaker of the afternoon. She spoke of "Being" come to the most important period since this Conference was born, the consideration of a new constitution for the new organization. It had been prepared by the committee with three things in view; the desire to keep the best in all the things valuable in the old; in drawing the skeleton of an organization that would be of interest to more than W.M.S. and W.A. women—now less than half of the women belong to either group; today's United Church is kept in mind, at all times.

An inventive and thoughtful study of the report was suggested under Miss Wilson's skilful direction during the afternoon session. Many helpful suggestions for further consideration of the Commission.

INTANGIBLES

Mrs. J. L. MacKinnon summed up the intangibles which do not appear in a report; emphasized the grave responsibility resting on the W.M.S. meeting and going forward; the challenge to progress forward to increase membership; press forward to fresh endeavors — to know their work better and become better informed about the working of the church; all women's service should be considered, loyalty and willingly; women are actually coming to maturity, as an opportunity to better their life and in the church; a tremendous field of service is opened to them. The success at every stage of any work depends upon each individual woman, prepared spiritually and mentally for the work in hand, in the midst of change, there are eternal values that never change. Mrs. MacKinnon reminded the audience in closing.

Mrs. Davidson, president of the Hastings and Prince Edward Presbytery, gave the report of the Courtney Committee, thanking all who assisted in the preparation of the successful conference, as well as members of the Women's Auxiliary Kingston churches who assisted in the arrangements for the conference.

NEW OFFICERS

Nomination committee's report, and the installation ceremony for the new year, conducted the conference. New officers added this year were: recording secretary, Mrs. Vera Speers; Christian citizenship, Mrs. J. M. Cornish and press, Mrs. A. E. Emerson .

HEIRESS PREGNANT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Andrei Porumbeanu and his heiress wife Barbara Hutton, the former Gamble Benedict, announced Wednesday they are expecting a baby early in 1961. Andrei, 31, and Gamble, 19, Remington typewriter heiress, were married April 6 in Rendersonville, N.C. after a dramatic cross country search for a judge willing to tie the knot. Porumbeanu is director of guest relations for the Danville Hotel here.

Fashioning Jewelery of Agates, Polished Silver Life Work

By Paquerette Villeneuve
Canadian Press Correspondent

PARIS (CP)—In her modest little Paris jewelry shop, Cecile Desjadon is doing some of the things she dreamed about while working in a factory at her boring machine.

When I worked in Montreal, I flourished a secret ambition that one day I would be able to devote my time to a little work," said Miss Desjadon in an interview.

Now she spends most of her days fashioning jewelery of agates from Peru, Chile, and of polished silver, She describes her products as an old-about of antiques.

Miss Desjadon, a middle-aged woman who tends towards the styles of a sportswoman, said she first became interested in jewelry when she visited an agate museum at Peyrat where the mineralogical laboratories turned up on the beach with pebbles. The three agates are considered among the best in the world.

STARTED AS HOBBY

In off-work hours she began making jewelry, working first with ebony and silver thread. Soon a few friends were soon sold at the Art Centre in Perce. She also found leadership in carving out pen-drawings on linen. Some of these She sold in Montreal.

She established her shop in Paris just two years ago, but still closes it occasionally to work elsewhere. She was employed at the Canadian exhibit at the World Fair in Brussels. She also serves as a translator for secretaries of the International Civil Aviation Organization here. The organization holds seven or eight conferences a year in Paris and each lasts from 10 to 15 days.

She has visited Mar-Oberstein in Southern Germany where

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Marian F. — I'm fed up with the mother-in-law situation.

Fred F. — Mother never asks for anything.

• • •

Marian F. — My husband and I are in our late 30s, have been married four years and have a 2-year-old son. Our problem is my mother-in-law who was recently widowed and claims to be an invalid.

I am willing to have her come to live with us, but she refuses. She says she wants to be "independent." At the same time, she makes all kinds of demands on my husband and me. Her daughter lives in another city and can't be of any help.

My husband goes straight to mother's home every evening after work. He says he has to "check up." If she isn't feeling well he remains the whole evening. The next day I have to do all her shopping and bring everything over to her. I am fed up. I don't think there's anything wrong with her — except that she's spoiled.

• • •

Fred F. — Marian has one opinion of my mother's health, but the doctors have another. She has suffered severely from high blood pressure for the past few years. My father's illness and death haven't helped her condition.

Mother isn't the type you can tell things to. I know it would be easier on all of us if she would move in with us, but I don't blame her for wanting to keep up her own place. Both she and Marian are too strong-willed to get under the same roof.

My sister is also willing to have Mother come to live with her, but Mother has rejected this idea. Dad left her with enough to be comfortable in her own apartment. She doesn't want to be just an extra person in her daughter's home. I admire the way Mother manages to do things for herself. She never asks for anything.

• • •

The Council: Apparently this mother doesn't have to "ask for anything." Her hold over her son is so strong he is best managed by remote control.

An unselfishly loving mother would not permit a son to neglect His own family in her favor. Fred's subservience to his mother's needs has resulted in an actual betrayal of his family. Apparently Fred cannot understand that his wife and child need him more than his mother does or even though they may be strong and healthy.

This "strong-willed" woman is not being considerate of others when she refuses to live with her son and daughter. She simply wouldn't take the chance of being relegated to a back seat in another woman's home — even if that woman is her own daughter.

Since this woman is fortunate enough to have some means of her own, she can make much more satisfactory arrangements for herself. She can take in another woman as a companion, offering rent free or a very low rental. She probably realizes, however, that she will have to change her ways if an outsider is to stay with her. And she won't take that chance forced to it.

This situation can only be changed by Fred's intellectual recognition that he is doing the wrong things — for himself, his family and his mother. When he is ready to stop playing the little boy tied to his mother's apron strings, his family responsibilities, his mother will make a different arrangement. In the meantime, Fred should remember that high blood pressure, believed to be induced emotionally, was never cured by a self-sacrificing son.

MODERN MANNERS

QUESTION BOX

Question: I have a friend with whom I go grocery shopping twice a week. Ordinarily she is a very nice person. But for some reason, the minute we get inside the supermarket, she lets go. She is loud and rude to the people working in the store. She pushes her cart around with no regard for those she bumps into. To put it mildly, she is awful. How can I straighten her out concerning this habit? It embarrasses me to be with her.

Answer: I have only two suggestions to offer. One, that you gracefully bow out, and stop going with her; the other, be frank with her about it. You run the risk of losing her friendship, yet if she is a real person, and you put it tactfully, she may be hurt at first, but she should come to her senses and mend her ways.

Question: My wedding is to take place next month. How should the members of the wedding party, and the parents of the bride and bridegroom, stand in the receiving line?

Answer: The mother of the bride always stands first in line. She is not only the bride's mother, but also the hostess. The father of the bride comes next, beside her, and next to him, his wife. Then the father of the bride, the bride, the bridegroom, the matron of honor, the maid of honor and then the bridesmaids. The best man and the ushers never stand in the line to greet guests. They mingle with them and make sure that all are served with refreshments and meet other people.

Question: With all the wedding's coming up, what initials should be engraved, or embroidered, on a wedding gift? Those of the bride, or the man she is to marry?

Answer: There has been a lot of controversy about this. Some say that the surname initials of the couple should be placed on everything. Others think that her maiden name initials, followed by that of the bridegroom's surname, is correct. Personally, I am against both of these. My reason being that most young girls start a "hope chest" long before Prince Charming comes along. Naturally her own initials appear on all her treasures. The placing of the initials of the man she married on wedding gifts certainly will not be in harmony with the things she already has. In my opinion the argument is really settled if it is remembered that the gift is to the bride . . not the bridegroom!

HOUSEHOLD LIQUOR

DERBY, England (CP) — Applying for a license to sell alcohol, which was granted, the manager of a supermarket here said: "Many women do not like to be seen going into a public house in the middle of a day. The granting of a licence would satisfy the needs of a housewife's home without causing her to lose face."

Glamorous Dessert From Leftover Egg Whites

by Mary Moore

While I was at a Sunday School executive meeting, some mischief was afoot at home—for it was Pete's weekend off.

Doris phoned: "Would your mother like us to bring over a lapful of egg whites? She's yen for I bet Peady $50.00 she'd want them and she bet $50.00 she wouldn't!" Ever helpful Pete said "Sure, bring them. I'd love to see Peady hand over that fifty bucks."

All of the betting in this family is ready talk. But what I did do was make them eat their leftover egg whites — and like them.

The way I figured it was if they had leftover egg whites, lots of other folks would have to. They had someone to hand them over to but how was I to use them up to the best advantage? I've made meringues and angel food cakes and gives them to you until I am — and I'm sure you are too — blue in the face.

So here was a test.

In the refrigerator I spied some of the orange marmalade—recipe for which I gave you around the end of March. This gave me the idea for an orange souffle. So a couple of days later eggs), 3-4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 9 tablespoons sugar (1-3 cup plus 1 tablespoon), 2 tablespoons orange marmalade, 1 teaspoon orange flavoring, to serve with this have chopped almonds or/and sliced sweetened strawberries. (Or fresh frozen raspberries or cherries, in a red syrup thickened with cornstarch or arrowroot.)

Grease a medium large casserole or 10" tube centre pan, without removable bottom. Beat together until stiff the egg whites with the cream of tartar and salt. Gradually beat in sugar until very stiff. Fold in marmalade and orange flavoring. Pour into prepared pan. Set souffle in pan of water (1" deep) and bake at 300 (or 325) deg. Fahr. for 1 1-4 hours (or 1 hour). Serve at once sprinkled with chopped almonds or with fruit as suggested above. It's lovely.

Athletic Assoc. 'Record Hop' Successful

DESERONTO — The "Record Hop" sponsored by the Athletic Association at the Lions Hall recently proved popular with the younger group. During the evening a dance contest was held and was won by Larry Hearson and Linda Kimmett. Their prize was a pass to the next dance and a free lunch. Another contest for the best dancers was won by Garry Moon and Linda Kimmett. The prize for this was $2, donated by Cathie Murphy and John Tunnicliffe.

The committee in charge inquired from the crowd if they would like the dances held each month and the response was overwhelmingly in favor of the proposal. As a result, the next dance will be held at the Lions Hall on Friday, May 20th, and the music will be supplied by the Deseronto Quinte Teen Age Band.

The Association is also looking for talent for a variety show and would like anyone who can sing, dance, clown or do acrobatics, to contact Jim Howard, who is chairman of the entertainment.

Each dance in future will have a contest with a prize and, at the end of the year all winners will compete for the grand trophy. Only teenagers will be eligible.

On the draw sponsored to raise funds for the swimming pool, the prizes went to Miss Virginia Brant, Deseronto; Morley Marsden, 1230 Pinnacle Street, Niagara Falls and D. Mabee, R.R. 2 Picton.

In other activities the Association is progressing favorably. On Saturday morning of last week some 78 youngsters signed up to play baseball this summer. It is expected that work on the wading pool will be started this week. The wet weather has delayed the project. The pool will be built on the lot next to the open air rink.

Melrose W.I. Elects 1960 Officers

The annual meeting of Melrose W.I. convened at the home of Mrs. N. McKechnie with a splendid attendance of 32 members and two visitors.

Mrs. A. English, 2nd vice-president, opened the meeting and welcomed all, thanking the hostess for opening her home, after which she presided over a lengthy business period.

The secretary, Mrs. E. Pascoe, read several thank-you notes, and an invitation to a tea in Canniffon on the second Wednesday in May.

An urgent appeal from the Red Cross for blood donors was read and Achievement Day at Stirling was announced for May 14th.

Mrs. L. Gneedinger gave a glowing resume of her visit to the County Home W.A., which the W.I. has recently joined and, in September, the W.I. is planning an entertainment for the residents of the Home.

The district director, Mrs. C. Weese, reported the recent district executive meeting held in Belleville, and announced the district annual at Bethel-Zion on May 19, with Mrs. Gneedinger and Mrs. W. Embury as delegates.

The five various committee conveners gave encouraging reports of the year's coverage, which revealed the Institute had a year of activity and co-operation.

Mrs. R. Badgley was in charge of the election of officers, which resulted as follows: past president, Mrs. C. Weese; president, Mrs. K. McMechan; 1st vice-president, Mrs. M. Lester; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. A. English; secretary - treasurer, Mrs. E. Pascoe; district director, Mrs. C. Weese; alternate, Mrs. E. Lester; press reporter, Mrs. R. Badgley; pianists, Mrs. L. Weese and Mrs. F. Robinson; auditors, Mrs. E. Badgley and Mrs. Vernon Pascoe.

Standing committees: agriculture and Canadian industries, Mrs. F. Bush; citizenship and education, Mrs. G. Stratton; home economics and health, Mrs. Roy McLaren; resolutions, Mrs. R. Badgley; historical research and current events, Mrs. A. English and Mrs. L. Gneedinger; card committee, Mrs. N. Denville, Mrs. J. McFarlane, Mrs. R. Fox and Mrs. C. Hagerman; sewing committee, Mrs. O. Stratton, Mrs. E. Lester, Mrs. L. McLaren and Mrs. R. MacFarlane.

All members stood and pledged their support to the new officers for the coming year.

The roll call, "Each member is responsible for two minutes' program," proved most entertaining, with readings, jokes, contests and music.

The next meeting will be held at the Melrose hall with Mrs. A. English as hostess.

The president and lunch conveners served a delicious lunch and a social hour was spent.

Mrs. W. Tinsdill Heads W.I. For 1960-61

MARMORA — The annual meeting of Marmora branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. S. Neal, with a good attendance.

The year's reports were given. The treasurer's report showed the finances in good shape, following the year's donations which included $75 to Marmora public library; Marmora Recreation Association, $10; Legion Christmas Fund, $10; Tely Milk Ship, $5; Mental Health, $5; four pair of blankets were donated to burned out or needy families.

Mrs. F. Bowen gave a paper on "Public Relations and Community Activities." Mrs. G. Warren gave an Easter reading and Mrs. Bessie Tinsdill also gave a reading.

Mrs. George McCrimmon of Madoc, district president, was present and gave an interesting address.

1960 OFFICERS

The slate of officers was arranged by Mesdames G. Sabine and Percy Gordon and was presented by Mrs. Gordon. The officers for 1960-61 were installed by Mrs McCrimmon and were:

President, Mrs. William Tinsdill; 1st vice-president, Mrs. George Empey; 2nd vice-president, Miss Ann Richardson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Don E. Bailey; pianist, Mrs. R. C. Prentice; district director, Mrs. M. F. Nayler; directors, Mrs. Garth Sabine, Mrs. Percy Gordon; auditors, Mrs. L. Green and Miss Grace Warren.

After the meeting closed lunch was served by hostesses in charge and a social hour spent.

OLD SONGS

The earliest fragments of Scottish minstrel songs date back to the 13th century.

Women's Activities

THOMASBURG W. A.

On April 27 a dinner was served to the pupils of the Junior school room and teachers, followed by the W. A. meeting in the church vestry with 23 members present.

Mrs. Phelps read the Scripture lesson, and a reading was given by Mrs. Earl Morton, entitled "The Spirit of the Land is the Candle of the Lord."

Mrs. E. Carter gave an interesting reading and a poem was read by Mrs. F. Brough, "One Day at a Time."

Business was discussed.

Lacquering of woods has been an art for centuries in China, Japan, and other parts of the Far East.

Millinery School Produces Many Attractive, Practical Hat Styles

ST. SIDNEY — Mrs. Mullin, gan of the Home Economics Branch Department of Agriculture, Toronto, conducted a successful class in millinery three days last week. The class was held in Scott's United Church hall with 12 ladies of Uxbridge Women's Institute, taking the course and each making her own hat.

The first morning was devoted to a lecture by the leader advising the type of hat suited to the face and figure. Short figures required higher hats; tall figures fat wider hats; small faces looked equally good in either, while round or square faces had to have a contrast.

The hats this spring are large, deep cloche of puffy white pure silk organza with six white crown and six bows of licorice silk flowers surrounding the black velvet ribbon between the flowers.

A tall lady used a broad brimmed hat which she trimmed with a cloud of mint green dotted nylon net with three matching silk flowers nestled in the nylon net cloud.

Another lady chose a cheche shape for which she used ashes-of-roses straw cloth and trimmed it with foliage in deeper tones of satin.

An avocado green tailored hat was very pretty with a band of organza in matching color shade around the crown and a bunch of apple blossoms on the side.

A high red hat was striking in flaming youth hue with band of organza in matching color draped around the crown and front trimmed with fruit from the garden of Eden.

Another outstanding number was a high hat made of coral leg straw cloth, draped with embroidered organza around the crown and trimmed with a rose and stem made of the same.

Two practical numbers were made from dress material. A little number of white pique was trimmed with shiny black cherries and curling plums. The other one was made from black and white check shirt material made with a high pointed crown in deep cloche style with miniature fruit and vegetable trim and banded in black velvet ribbon.

Another lady made her hat in the shape of a high cloche with the brim matching her spring coat (a light beige) and the top part figured blue silk to match her dress.

Division Commissioner Davis Addresses G.G. 50th Birthday

DESERONTO — The Deseronto Girl Guide Association celebrated the 50th anniversary of Guiding in Canada, on April 27th at the Legion Hall.

Over 100 Guides and Brownies were present. The girls were entertained with cartoons and Guide films and lunch served.

The main item on the menu was the huge birthday cake which was made by Mrs. Vera Ryan. This was decorated in the Guide colors of blue and yellow with 1910-1960 inscribed across the top, complete with 50 candles.

The candles were lit by guest speaker Division Commissioner, Mrs. Dorothy Davis, and blown out by the eldest Guide present, Merlyn Hearns and the youngest Brownie present, Gail Fraser.

Present at the head table were: Mrs. Dorothy Davis, Division Commissioner; Mrs. Fran Hunt, District Commissioner; Mrs. Betty McVicker, secretary of the Local Association and new District Commissioner, Mrs. K. Lott, who presented the Lott trophy, Mrs. Dorothy Webster, president of the Mothers' Auxiliary, Mrs. Lillie Coles, badge secretary and a number of Guide and Brownie leaders.

GUEST SPEAKER

District Commissioner Hunt introduced the guest speaker, Division Commissioner Davis, who spoke on the Guide magazine and urged all the girls to subscribe to this entertaining and educational book.

Guide captain, Mrs. Bate, thanked Mrs. Davis and spoke on the growth of Guiding in both Canada and Deseronto.

Commissioner Hunt took this opportunity to thank Mrs. Lillie Coles who has been badge secretary for three years, for the wonderful job she has done and to announce her resignation. Mrs. Coles is moving to Kingston with her family, shortly.

Mrs. Hunt also told the girls that the tulips which were planted last fall in the park are beginning to come up.

The yellow tulips which were planted by the Girl Guides all across Canada last fall are called "The River of Gold" and were planted to celebrate the golden anniversary of Guiding.

The first tulips to bloom this year were picked in Vancouver, B.C. and flown by jet across the country to Ottawa. These were presented to Mrs. Diefenbaker by a Ranger, a Guide and a Brownie, of Ottawa at the Prime Minister's residence.

SILVER CUP PRESENTED

A silver cup was presented to Sandra Keetch by Mrs. K. Lott for the most outstanding Guide of the year. This cup called the "Lott Trophy" was donated, three years ago by Lott's Jewellery Store and was formerly held by Jane Fothergill.

The second Deseronto Brownie Pack was presented with a 100 per cent card which shows that they have completely paid their share of the new Dominion Building in Toronto. These Brownies worked and earned their $1.50 each share at a bazaar last fall and deserve a lot of credit.

Guiding in Deseronto has come a long way in the last 14 years. The first Guide Company was formed here in 1946 under the leadership of Mrs. Charlotte Armstrong. There were only ten Guides enrolled then. Out of this start, Guiding has grown until today there are 115 Guides and Brownies enrolled with a waiting list about 30.

This could never have been possible were it not for the unselfish women, who have worked both past and present to make the girls better citizens of the future. Guiding is not just a recreation, for children it teaches them to honor God, country and Queen, to be honest, kind and helpful and it teaches them to do things that will make them to become more efficient wives and mothers.

Women's Activities

MT. PLEASANT W.A. MEETS

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant Rawdon Women's Association convened at the church hall on Tuesday evening with 25 ladies in attendance.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Garth Joslin and Mrs. Robert Merrick on the subject, "Parenthood". A film on that theme was shown.

Mrs. Carleton Potts presided over the business, and the friendship calls were recorded. Delegates were appointed to attend the W.A. annual meeting at Tweed, and they are Mrs. Raymond McConnell, Mrs. Robert Heard and the president. A committee was appointed to arrange entertainment for a tea and bake sale.

The delegates to The Five Oaks Retreat, Mrs. Herbert Smith and Mrs. John Mulberry, gave their report, followed by discussion groups, stewardship message and a sing-song. Mrs. Robert Merrick conducted the worship service. Mrs. Ira Dodd read the Bible, and Mrs. Robert Heard contributed vocal selection. Mrs. Don Knight read an appropriate message and Mrs. Will Wells gave the story of the hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus".

The committee in charge served refreshments.

Mother's Helper

TRAVEL with a small baby is easier with accessories planned to take the trouble out of feeding time. For example: those first "solids" can be taken sloppy-especially in a moving vehicle. There's a special feeder which pushes the food gently toward the nipple but keeps it under control. No spills possible.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

When they opened the diary of a renowned ethical teacher they searched for a clue to his thoughts. But all pages of the book were blank, save one. And on this page there was inscribed a code in a few short lines. This is the sum of it:

"Before you speak or act, ask yourself three questions: Is it true? Is it necessary? Is it kind? And the last is not the least but the most."

There is no substitute for the truth. It has a way of catching up with us. No matter how difficult to face, truth always gives us healing power. When we deal honestly with people we feel clean inside. We are armed with a potent weapon.

But truth alone will not do. When we ask ourselves what we are doing we must consider: Is it true as well as kind?

William Blake, the English poet, reminds us that "a truth that's told with bad intent beats all the lies you can invent."

Some people, like Uriah Heep, deal with their neighbors in a smug, self-righteous way. They act as if no one else is honest and only they have discovered the market on truth. We've got to deal truthfully with people, but kindly as well.

And when we set about saying or doing the things we deem necessary, let's also remember to be kind.

Consider what we do as parents. Of course we must assert our leadership and help our children make wise choices. A parent who lets his children flounder about without guiding them has missed the whole point of parenthood.

But too many parents forget that their children are human beings. Too often they make all of the decisions for their children, instead of making decisions with them. Instead of leadership, there is dictation, and in place of kindly light, there is wooden subservience. The parent may think that he's only doing what is necessary. Yes, that's all he's doing — and forgetting to be kind.

Or think of some husbands you know. A man may suppose that he is doing everything that is necessary to please his wife. He earns a decent salary, he provides a nice house; he even offers his wife a long vacation. He thinks that he's doing everything that is necessary and then some."

But if in the process he forgot to be kind, sweet and understanding, then he's forgotten what is really most necessary. And since marriage is a two-way street, what's true of the gander is true of the goose.

Or ponder the principle and ultimate cause for failure of Communism, Fascism or any of the assort totalitarian forms of government. The leaders may be stoutly convinced of the truth and necessity of their plans and programs. But they have forgotten the meaning of kindness and elementary humanity. And when they've lost this, they've lost everything.

No matter where you apply it, in the family, community or nation, that teacher summed it up neatly: "Is it true? Is it necessary? Is it kind? And the last is not the least but the most."

Club Activities

JUBILEE AUXILIARY

Some 75 ladies were present at the meeting of the Bridge St. United Church Jubilee Evening Auxiliary on Tuesday evening. Following slipper the meeting opened with the singing of a hymn. Reports were heard from the departments and the offering was received.

Mrs. J. Demora's group had charge of the program, "Confidence" was the theme for the worship service. Miss F. Lazier and Mrs. Sylvia Lazier assisted in the service. Scripture reading was from Ephesians.

Miss Marion Donald of the U.S.D. and a former lay worker in the Mission field in China, gave her impressions of the country and peoples during her three years of service there.

Ambassador Is Convinced Women Diplomats Would Do Better Job Than Men

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—You can't always pour lantern, Diogenes. I've finally met up with an honest man.

He is Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine ambassador to the United States, who admits that far men have made a mess of the world, and women probably could do better.

The small, smiling general, a popular figure at home and abroad, has been bombarded with applications from ambitious women since a recent magazine article in which he recommended women peace envoys to represent the United States abroad.

BETTER DIPLOMATS

"I'm serious about this matter," he says. "I have watched women in action, and I'm convinced they are naturally far better diplomats than men. Of course the United States has had some charming and able women ambassadors in the past, and no doubt will have more in the future.

"But I have in mind a less official duty for the average American woman going abroad. If she puts her mind to it, she can do more good for her country than can be accomplished in a dozen summit conferences. Mind you, I'm speaking of not just one woman, but the combined impact of all the thousands who will be touring Europe and the Orient this summer."

General Romulo has observed that women of different countries always find something to talk about, even if they don't speak the same language. There's a genuine interest in how other women live, how they raise their children, how they cook their meals, what are their native fashions and so on.

MEN HAVE FAILED

"An American man taking a holiday in Europe is likely to demand ham and eggs and apple pie in the finest restaurant in France, and be offended if he can't get them. A woman, on the other hand, usually is eager to sample the foods of the region."

The general points out that peace is more important to women than to men, because war takes their husbands and sons.

"We men have failed twice in modern times," he says. "Now let's give the women a chance."

KILLED HER PARENTS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A 18-year-old girl with blood still on her hands Monday night sobbed out a story of stabbing and beating her mother and stepfather to death. Police said Gloria Jean Burge, a slim 5 feet 2 inches, admitted killing her mother, Mrs. Nellie Burge Mc-Nabney, 42, and her stepfather, Fred McNabney, 62, during an argument over her social life.

Attractive Accessories

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The packable hat that fits neatly into a suitcase and can be worn with charm and assurance, is a pretty useful wardrobe item. This one, which fills the bill nicely, is of taffeta in black or a variety of colors. It has a wide, turned-back brim and a puffed chignon type of crown. The hat can be draped to suit the wearer, another advantage. Dacron damask in white is used for a blouse of the dress-maker type, good for almost any spring suit, and excellently cut and detailed.

GAME 8 OF THE NEW SENSATIONAL

LOBLAWS "TARGET" GAME

10,000 PRIZES WORTH OVER $100,000.00

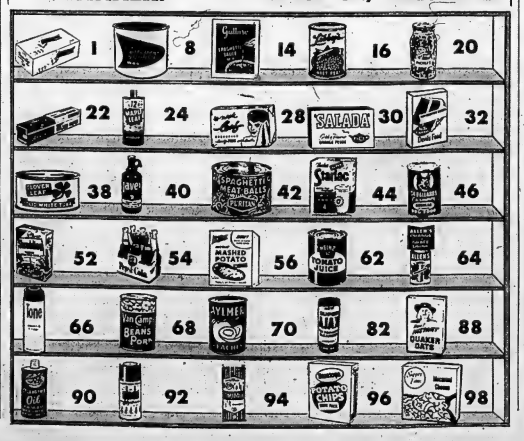
HOW TO PLAY THE GAME

Each week, this newspaper ad will have pictures of 20 Brand Name Products and each will have a number beside it. MATCH these numbers with the numbers on your "Target" Card. Circle the matching numbers in pencil.

If you have circled the number in the Centre of the Target, or all 8 numbers within any one of the circles, you are a winner. You MUST HAVE ALL 8 OUT OF THE NUMBERS WITHIN ANY ONE CIRCLE TO BE A WINNER. To receive your prize, print your name and address and the store on back of Card and mail to address indicated.

If you don't have a winner, erase your circles on the Card. He is playable on next week's ad. Numbers on your Card cannot be carried over from one ad to another. Play one ad at a time.

We reserve the right to correct any typographical or other errors which might appear in any published matter in connection with this game, and reject winning cards not obtained through legitimate channels.



"Target" Cards are given away freely at all Loblaw Stores. No purchase is required. Employees of Loblaws and members of their immediate families are not eligible to participate in this game.

Mrs. G. Weaver Feted on 80th Birthday

—RAWDON On Saturday afternoon 28 people gathered at the Weaver home at Anson, Ont., to honor Mrs. George Weaver on the occasion of her 80th birthday.

The guests were welcomed at the door by Mr. Weaver and all signed the guest book.

Mrs. Weaver received the guests in a dress of rose, crepe with lace trim.

Guests included Mrs. Arthur Phillips, Corbyville; Mrs. James Sharp, Ridge Road; Mrs. Edgar McKeown, Bethel; and Mrs. Weaver's granddaughter, Mrs. Lindsay Sills of West Huntingdon.

The party was sponsored by Mount Pleasant Rawdon Women's Missionary Society, and the president, Mrs. John Mulhern, presided over the program. Mrs. Reed a birthday poem to the guest of honor and Mrs. W. G. Hoover pinned on a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Garth Joslin conducted a sing-song of old familiar hymns. Mrs. J. Holmes read a humorous poem and Mrs. Herbert Smith read two poems on "Friendship." Mrs. Margaret McMullen sang "My Best to You."

Mrs. Weaver has been associated with Mount Pleasant W.M.S. for almost 57 years. She was president during a three-year-period, from 1926 to 1928, and has been a Life Member, since that time. Down through the years she has been a valued member and she has always contributed generously to the cause of missions even though her health did not permit her to attend meetings over the past few years.

Mrs. Percy McMullen spoke briefly on a few interesting events which happened in 1927, and gave a reading which was written at that time by a missionary in Africa. Mrs. Weaver had purchased this reading and given it to Mrs. MacMullen in March, 1927.

Mrs. Ernest Spencer and Mrs. Carleton Potts conducted an interesting contest of old pictures.

Four members who have birthdays on May 1st were given special honor in a group picture. They were Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. Blake Sharp, Mrs. Allen Reid, and Mrs. Clarence Scott. It was regretted that Mrs. Cyrus Summers was not in attendance at the party, these five ladies have been holidaying together on May 1st for over 30 years.

Mrs. Clarence Scott read an address of appreciation to Mrs. Weaver and Mrs. Roy Thrasher made the presentation of the gifts — an aurora borealis brooch, a white stole and a guest book.

Mrs. Weaver thanked all the ladies for the party in her honor and for the lovely gifts.

She was also the recipient of a large potted flowering mum, a mauve nylon dress and approximately 50 greeting cards.

The cake-cutting ceremony followed when Mrs. Scott carried in the large decorated birthday cake, surrounded with 80 pink candles. The program closed with the singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow".

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver, Mrs. Lindsay Sills and the lunch committee served refreshments. Mrs.

Mother's Helper

OF COURSE, your child has a fine teacher in school, and we advise comments should ever be made in any youngster's presence. Critical conversations overheard by your children or their friends can undermine a teacher's authority and have far-reaching consequences. Discuss any problems privately, please!

Blake Sharp and Mrs. Allan Reid presided over the silver tea service.

Mrs. Weaver is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Vandervoort of the 1st Concession of Sidney Township. The Weavers have two sons, Arthur and Kenneth; two grandchildren, and two great grand sons.Mrs. Weaver has one brother, Arthur Vandervoort and one sister, Mrs. George Megginson, both of Stirling

Women's Activities

SALEM W.A.

MINTO — Salem W. A. held its regular meeting in the church hall with a pot-luck dinner and quilting.

Mrs. Mel Wickens opened the meeting with a welcome and an appropriate verse.

Mrs. Tom Clements was to have a quilt done on April 28. Correspondence was read and business discussed. Mrs. Ern Hepworth is to be card convener and Mrs. Albert Twiddy and Mrs. Arnold Ray to be visiting committee for May.

Mrs. Lorne Hagerman took charge of the meeting. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Mursey Johnston and Mrs. Albert Twiddy read the meditation. Mrs Lorne Hagerman offered prayer.

Mrs. Harold Holden read the 4th chapter of the Study Book and Mrs. Frank McGee "The Easter Thanksgiving".

Mrs. V. Hagerman gave a piano solo.

Mrs. Stan Thompson tendered a vote of thanks to the hostess, Mrs. Mel Wickens and her assistants.

Women's Institute

WALLBRIDGE W. I.

WALLBRIDGE — Mrs. Ray Shorey was hostess for the annual meeting of the Wallbridge Women's Institute. 1st vice-president, Mrs. Morley Phillips, was in charge.

The most enjoyable meeting last year was the bus trip to the Health Centre at Kingston, and C.N.E. station at Kingston.

It was decided to canvass for the Blind in June.

The conveners of the standing committees gave their reports. donations were made to the Cancer Fund, Salvation Army Cots, Riverside Church and Temperance "No Vote" fund, also a canvass for the Blind and $60.38 donated.

It was decided to join the Consumers Plan and to help with Area Scholarship, also to hold a bake sale at the home of Mrs. Don Irish, Oak Lake on July 23.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The nominating committee presented the slate for the coming year and Mrs. Art Carleton installed the new officers as follows: honorary president — Jean Carleton; president — Margaret Shorey; 1st vice-president — Christine Phillips; 2nd vice-president — Reta Chisholm; secretary-treasurer — Nellie Nicholson, assistant — Peggy Evans; pianist — Peggy Evans, assistant — Louise Sine; press reporter — Marie Garrison; district director — Jean Carleton; sick and visiting committee — Christine Phillips, Elva Fluter, Peggy Evans, Mrs. Demerest and Margaret Hinchcliffe; program committee — Florence Sine, Nela Ketchenson and Norma Shorey; social welfare — Verna Phillips, Dorothy McNaught and Jean Carleton; directors — Helena Shorey, Ethel Nicolson, Jean Carleton, Nellie Ketchenson, Reta Chisholm, Christine Phillips, Margaret Shorey and Marguerite Geen; standing committee conveners: agricultural and Canadian industries — Margaret Hinchcliffe; citizenship and education — Louise Sine; historical research and current events — Anna Spencer; public relations — Carol Ketchenson; home tonics and health — Jennie Vandevelde; resolutions — Janet Thompson.

V.O.N. Gives Report of Month

Mr. C. Lusk was chairman at the monthly V.O.N. board meeting held recently at the V.O.N. Mr. J. Lennox, who is taking over as president, will not send the annual meetings to be held in Ottawa, May 5 and 6.

It was learned that the Urban Appeal would like information regarding the V.O.N.'s budget for this year by May 15th. They have substituted support.

On May 27th, the meeting of the Ontario Division of the V.O.N. is to be attended by Mr. Harold Parker as representative.

Miss B. Keenan, regional director, will visit the local branch May 9th.

Mrs. R. Brain, convener of the annual spring tea, gave a tea committee report, and the treasurer, Mr. A. Gignac, a statement of the finances.

VISITS MADE

The nurse in charge, Miss T. Connor, reported that during March, 534 visits were made to a total of 126 patients. The case load and visits for March were as follows: medical and surgical, 49 patients and 283 visits; maternity and newborn, 28 patients and 79 visits; pediatrics, other than maternity and newborn, for health instruction only, 26 patients and 60 visits. Ten half-days were spent in special activities. This consisted of five half-days assisting the Belleville Department of Health at the Riverside Centre, three half-days at Carrollton-Corbyville School and two half days at Douglas Atkins School.

Tabernacle Church Contact Club Sponsors Dainty Tea

The Comrade Club of Tabernacle United Church sponsored a most delightful afternoon tea yesterday in the lower auditorium of the church. Sunny weather added greatly to the attendance of guests and patrons.

Receiving at the door during the afternoon were: Mrs. K. Harlow, president of the club, and Mrs. J. Kaycott, wife of the pastor; Mrs. R. McBride and the Reverend Mrs. E. Leard, assistant pastor.

Mrs. R. McBride and Mrs. N. Greenleaf acted as ushers.

ATTRACTIVE TEA ROOM

The tea room was attractively appointed with ferns as pedestals forming the entrance, and the lovely tea table with its beautiful cutwork cloth, centred by an exquisite arrangement of shaded snapdragons, sprays of British Columbia huckleberry, flanked by tri-branched candelabra with tall, pink candles and the shining silver services, completed a pretty setting.

The little guest tables, with their white linen cloths, centred by silver creams and sugars made a further welcoming note.

Those who presided during the afternoon were: The Reverend Mrs. E. Leard and Mrs. F. Kerr; Mrs. J. C. Kaycott and Mrs. A. Lockyer.

Representing the dainty plates of sandwiches and cookies, were: Mrs. N. Greenleaf, Mrs. W. Wonnacott, Mrs. Brodie and Mrs. K. Harlow, while those who served included: Mesdames H. Wares, Reid, G. Priest, A. Bell, G. Stewart, C. Ashley, S. Jose, J. McLeod, L. Andrews, Miss J. Pond and Miss V. Grossel.

Serving in the kitchen were: Mrs. H. Moorman, Mrs. M. Cummings, Mrs. J. Arnott and Mrs. E. Boulton.

LOVELY FANCY WORK

At the fancy work booth, in charge of Miss E. Mossman, assisted by Mrs. R. Irwin and Miss J. Smyth, were some lovely lillie aprons, in red organdy, plain prints and frilled; floral and geometric designs, long-wearing chambray in plain blues, fancy pillowslips with dainty knit borders, others with colorful lace crochet, fancy hostess in white, blue, pinks, and in combination colors, little cushions for TV or car comfort crochet spuds in white, crochet face cloth in blue, panty dish cloths, knit sweaters in various shades, and hot-plate mats. The outstanding article here was the apron worn by little Mary Jane Irvine, some in blue with blue mouths and blue-lined ears, while others were in pink with matching mouths and ear-lining. When the hand was inverted the mouth opened and the ears moved—a cute and arresting contrivance.

HOMEBAKING

The homebaking table drew its devotees in large numbers with its fine display of latticed raspberry, luscious apple, pumpkin and meringue-topped lemon pies, loaf cakes drenched in shredded coconut; mouth-watering chocolate squares, tea buns, raspberry and taffy tarts, drop cakes, doughnut balls, peanut cookies, date squares, cherry and date loaves, jars of fruit tarmale, and containers of appetizing potato salad which tasted as good as it looked. This was convened by Mrs. Brodie, assisted by Mrs. L. Wonnacott and Mrs. L. Walmsley.

That mothers with tiny tots might enjoy to the full the afternoon, a nursery was provided where the wee ones might play under the careful supervision of Mrs. B. Stenson and Mrs. J. Smith.

The over-all conveners were Mrs. Charles Mott and Mrs. Wallace Embury, to whom a "well done" goes for a dainty tea, most attractively arranged.

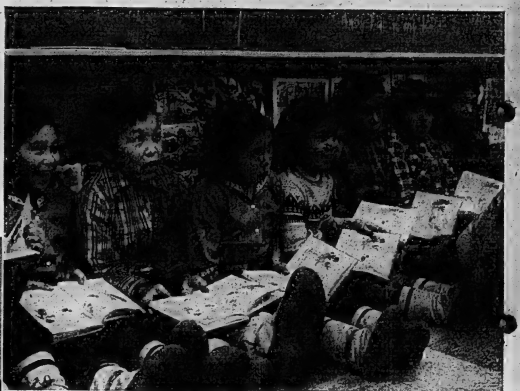
New Town in Land of Tomorrow

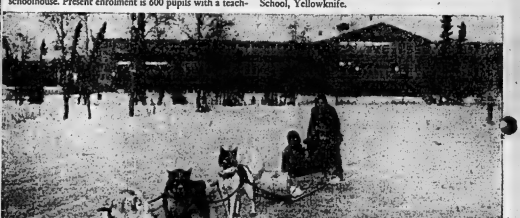


"Place of Man" On Rim of Arctic

A $35 million, 5-year experiment to build a modern town on the rim of the Arctic is nearing the first stage of completion. Inuvik, an Eskimo word meaning "place of man", rises high on a bank of the Mackenzie River, 33 miles eastward from Aklavik and one hundred miles north of the Arctic circle. In 1955 a team of government surveyors and engineers recommended the site for a town to serve as nerve centre for the western Arctic . . . a place where the educational, medical and economic needs of Eskimos and Indians could be met and (incidentally) a pilot study for the creation of other towns to follow as Canada opens up the vast resources of her north.

Unlike neighbouring Aklavik, gradually sinking in silt and sliding into the greedy Mackenzie, Inuvik has gone up on relatively stable ground, free from the danger of river bank erosion. There is a 6000-foot airstrip nearby and good wharf facilities. No one could claim the land is a sub-divider's dream, but the site is as nearly perfect as any that could be found in the difficult building conditions of the Mackenzie Delta. Here the permafrost goes down one thousand feet — an impossible barrier to the laying of essential plumbing and sewage pipes — and a construction headache of the first order. Fortunately, the base of the permafrost at Inuvik is largely gravel, which does not heave like a silt foundation. The town is raised on stilts: 15 to 30 foot piles, steam — blasted into the permafrost.

Inuvik has a fluctuating population of around 1,200, composed of Eskimos, Indians, missionaries, government officials and transient construction men. The 275-acre town (administrative centre for 350,000 square miles of territory) boasts more than 150 residential dwellings, numerous federal buildings—including a modern school with an enrolment to date of 600 pupils — 3 churches, an 80-bed hospital, radio station and movie house. Technically, one of the largest deserts on earth, Canada's arctic region (which paradoxically contains more lakes than all the rest of the world put together) is not a perpetually frozen waste. Inuvik lies across the undulating forest fringe generally known as "tree line". In landscaping the town advantage has been taken of nearby stands of spruce, birch, and poplar. In its brief hot summers colourful mosses and delicate native flowers blossom in abundance. During the annual 60 frost-free days, vegetable gardens have been successfully cultivated. While the winters are long and cold, snowfall is moderate. Householders shovel away less than half the snow that normally falls on Ottawa or Montreal.



Inuvik is expected to be focal point in economic development of Canada's northland. It serves an area rich in natural resources. There are oil and gas deposits within 300 miles of the town; geologists' reports indicate a variety of mineral wealth.

Young Eskimo and Indian children pose happily for a picture beneath blackboard in their 30-room modern schoolhouse. Present enrolment is 600 pupils with a teaching staff of 35. Classes at present run to Grade 9; qualified students will go on to higher grades at Sir John Franklin School, Yellowknife.

A snowmobile and a late-model car park without fear of overtime tickets on Canada's most northerly main street. Five years after the clatter of first bulldozers shattered the Arctic silence, a modern townsite has gone up on construction stilts — engineering answer to the 1000-foot permafrost which lurks underfoot. Stilts create breezeway to disperse heat from buildings which would melt permafrost and collapse foundations.

Eskimo children leave for home at the end of school day by husky-drawn toboggan. Many Eskimo parents, who lead semi-nomadic lives of trappers in the muskrat-rich Mackenzie Delta, have registered their children in student residences run by Roman Catholic and Anglican missions. Special classes are given to help new students catch up with their normal grade level.

ARCHITECT DIES

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Charles Holden, distinguished architect whose skyscrapers and subway stations moulded the face of modern London died Monday. He was 85. Said to have left a greater mark on the capital than any architect since Sir Christopher Wren in the 17th century, Holden was the sole architect for towering London University buildings in Bloomsbury, built in 1931. He also designed London's other pre-war skyscraper, the London transport office building.

He said the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France were among those who received letters, but gave no further details.

CAMPBELLFORD
Tennis Club Names 1960 Officers

CAMPBELLFORD — The annual meeting of the Campbellford Tennis Club was held recently in the Council Chambers, when the election of officers was held for the coming season. Donald E. Meyers was re-elected president, with Captain Henry B. Free, prominent Seymour pioneer, elected vice-president. Mrs. Ernest Anderson (chairman) and members of the executive; social committee, Sandra Neal, Jill Macmillan, Jocelyn Clary and Maureen O'Sullivan; games committee, G. W. Rutherford, (chairman), Bob Holmes and Donald Sanderson; membership committee; public school, Dave Hoey; high school, Terry O'Sullivan; high school, Tony Dolan; and Clarke Clary, seniors, Paul Coughlan and Ken Kingston.

Neil Burgess and Dave Nash were granted permission on a motion by Mrs. Ernest Anderson and Mrs. Maureen O'Sullivan games committee, to build a shed to provide a place to obtain the grounds in a tidy condition, after the grass weekly.

Fees were set as follows — senior man, $10; senior lady, $8; intermediate (under 18 or girl), $4; junior student, $2; junior family, $18 (if children juniors); maximum fee, $18 if children are not juniors.

SENIOR DOUBLES

On motion, senior doubles tournament will be held on court one at all times. Intermediates and seniors have priority on court one from 5 p.m. nightly for both singles and doubles. It was pointed out that the cost of electricity for night play had risen sharply and the club would have problems to raise for cost of power for night play. However, it was the intention of the club to bar juniors after dark if the intermediates and seniors did not require a court.

It was decided to get the social activities going early in the season, and the secretary was instructed to invite the Peterborough Quaker Tennis Club, preferably for mid-week night dance in May, and the Point Anne Club for a weekend date in June.

APPRECIATION GIVEN

The secretary read a letter of appreciation from Mr. H. J. Taylor of the Lawn Bowling Club for the donation of old lights given to the neighboring club.

A motion to have the annual meeting the last Saturday in April whenever satisfactory, was passed.

Kozlov Shifted To Party Post In USSR Shakeup

MOSCOW (AP)—Frol R. Kozlov was shifted from the Soviet council of ministers to a top Communist party job Wednesday night as part of a major shakeup in the governmental and party organization.

The reshuffle—first of such proportions since Georgi Malenkov, V. M. Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich were purged in June, 1957—left Nikita Khrushchev clearly still in command.

The shakeup carried ramifications—that Western observers regarded as significant in long-Soviet planning. The emphasis seemed to be on speeding up Khrushchev's seven - year economic plan and whipping up new enthusiasm in the party machinery by promoting younger elements.

TOURED U.S. IN 1959

Kozlov, 60, who toured the United States last year to lay the groundwork for the premier's visit, had been one of two first deputy premiers in the top rank of the government machinery. He was made a secretary of the Soviet Communist party's central committee.

The other first deputy premier, A. I. Mikoyan, was not affected by the shakeup.

Harrison E. Salisbury, a New York Times expert on Soviet affairs, said the switch means an important boost for Kozlov. He pointed out that chief Soviet leaders have started in the party hierarchy, not in the government apparatus.

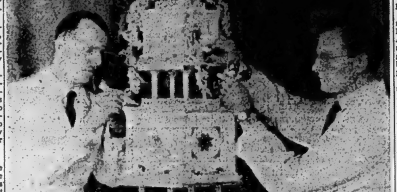
Three new deputy premiers were named.

Alexei Kosygin, 56, chairman of the important state planning committee, moves up to the first deputy premiership Kozlov vacates. Kosygin also becomes a member of the ruling central party praesidium.

Nikolai Baibakov, 50, a secretary of the central party committee, was shifted from that post to be a deputy premiership. Vladimir Novikov replaced Kosygin at the head of the state planning committee, taking a deputy premiership as well. He held similar jobs in the Russian republic.

ON WAY UP

Dmitri Polyansky, 43-year-old chairman of the central party commission of the Russian republic, joins the select party praesidium. Polyansky, who led a Soviet delegation on a tour of the U.S. in January, is regarded as a new Khrushchev protege on his way up.



Ekaterina Furtseva, 59, highest-ranking woman in the Kremlin hierarchy, becomes minister of culture. She was released from her duties as a secretary of the central party committee. The official announcement said the former minister, Nikolai Mikhailov, was given another job, but did not say what it was.

Leonid Brezhnev, 57, party chief in the Ukraine, was elected to the Soviet party praesidium along with Polyansky and Kosygin.

Kozlov fell on two ranking officials who already had been demoted. Nikolai Kirichenko once mentioned as a possible heir to Khrushchev, and Nikolai Belyayev were kicked off of the party praesidium.

American Firm Fights Bid Of Niagara Gas Commission To Export Gas Into States

OTTAWA (CP) — Another bid by Niagara Gas Transmission Limited to export natural gas to New York State opened Wednesday before the National Energy Board.

It ran immediately into renewed opposition from Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, an American firm, which suggested at one point that the Ontario government was taking sides on behalf of the Canadian company.

That line of questioning terminated after board chairman Ian McKinnon told Deputy Minister S. W. Clarkson of the Ontario department of energy resources that he didn't have to answer a query about taking sides.

The public hearing continued today on the Niagara Gas application to export up to 72.5 billion cubic feet of gas over 20 years via Cornwall, for distribution in the Ogdensburg-Massena area of New York State.

The buyer would be St. Lawrence Gas Company, like Niagara Gas a subsidiary of Consumers' Gas Company of Toronto. The original application was rejected by the board in March on grounds St. Lawrence wasn't applying enough for the gas and that Niagara had not provided a formula for how much gas might be required beyond 1963.

Niagara Gas has filed a new contract with St. Lawrence showing a higher rate of return on its net plant—7½ per cent against seven—plus a rate of depreciation stepped up to five per cent as against 1½.

St. Lawrence Gas has been recommended by, an examiner of the United States Federal Power Commission as the distributor to be licensed in northern New York State.

Wednesday's fireworks centred on a letter written to the board April 27 by Mr. Clarkson, saying the Ontario government "would be agreeable" to Niagara Gas obtaining export rights.

Chairman McKinnon said Mr. Clarkson didn't have to answer that. Mr. Clarkson agreed that officials of Consumers' Gas advised the department to make a request formally in the stand and this had been done.

Mr. Finlayson said this was done without telling Niagara Mohawk and Mr. McKinnon broke in to say the matter didn't concern the American company which was outside Ontario jurisdiction.

Photographic Gadgets More Bother Than Worth in Taking Pictures Says RCAF Man

OTTAWA (CP) — Squadron Leader Lloyd Walker, who has spent 21 of his 47 years in the RCAF and those of its most widely experienced photographer, says gadgets are usually more bother than they're worth when it comes to taking good pictures.

"I have found that gadgets are just part of the cycle. You buy them all and finally arrive back to using your bare camera and your head."

He admits, however, that the electronic flash, a high-speed light that doesn't require flash bulbs, has been a major contribution to photography.

Sqdn. Ldr. Walker, a native of Winnipeg, has spent the last 19 years as director of RCAF public relations photography and now has moved to the photo establishment at Rockcliffe for a final stretch in the service as production manager.

What does he think is the most important requirement for a good picture?

"Camera work is secondary. Exploiting the picture for its most important human interest angle must be a prime consideration. The mechanics of operation should be automatic."

He was asked in an interview what changes he has noted as an observer of photo journalism.

"The 'press shot' has just about disappeared from photographers' vocabulary. Not too long ago newspapers settled for pictures that showed white faces on a black background. But in the past 10 years news photos have improved a great deal.

"The improved skills of the photographer are partly due to the electronic flash. But in general the improvement was forced by television which seems to have encouraged newspapers to concentrate pictorially."

He predicted that when color TV becomes a reality on a news-interest basis until it was too late to take any action. He, and other officials, predicted it would still be 25 to 30 years before the per diem rate for CAS branches in the province.

Other executive members, attending the annual convention of Ontario CAS branches, said they were not allowed to discuss the matter with provincial authorities. The legislation will come into effect July 1.

Members felt serious damage to children's welfare may result from placing them in the same municipality in which their parents live.

Rev. Swithun Bowers, director of the University of Ottawa's school of social welfare, told the group:

"One of the grosser defects in child welfare in Ontario today is our refusal to really acknowledge the grave inadequacies of our foste home programs."

He also urged that the federal government establish a children's bureau, similar to that in the United States, to discover the facts behind a break up of a home and separation of children from parents.

photography in general will make home use of electronics, perhaps by adapting to still photography video tape used to record television programs. This would eliminate the need for the chemical process now used in printing pictures, a possibility of magnetic tape photography might be brainless enlargements.

During his career, Sqdn. Ldr. Walker has taken countless numbers of photos which have been published throughout the world, including his record of every Royal Tour in Canada since the war.

In addition, he has gained recognition for his hobby of photographing dogs.

One of his prized photos is one showing a parachutist just as he hit the ground with the lines of his chute still extended above him. He caught it by racing to the spot with a pre-set camera.

The U.S. army parachute school, when it saw the photo, branded it as impossible and suggested that he had faked it. But he sent them an enlargement proving it to be authentic and got an apology.

New Legislation Criticized by CAS Officials

TORONTO (CP) — New provincial legislation permitting boards to charge full tuition for foster children whose parents live in other municipalities was criticized by Children's Aid Society officials Wednesday.

H. H. Dymond, director of the province CAS, said the courts were not told about the new legislation until it was too late to take any action. He, and other officials, predicted it would add 25 to 30 cents per day per diem rate for CAS branches in the province.

Other executive members, attending the annual convention of Ontario CAS branches, said they were not allowed to discuss the matter with provincial authorities. The legislation will come into effect July 1.

Members felt serious damage to children's welfare may result from placing them in the same municipality in which their parents live.

Rev. Swithun Bowers, director of the University of Ottawa's school of social welfare, told the group:

"One of the grosser defects in child welfare in Ontario today is our refusal to really acknowledge the grave inadequacies of our foste home programs."

He also urged that the federal government establish a children's bureau, similar to that in the United States, to discover the facts behind a break up of a home and separation of children from parents.

Child Returns Home Without 'Miracle Cure'

HAMILTON (CP)—Three-year-old Fernande Salloumee arrived home Wednesday from Lourdes, France, without the "miracle cure" to a rare liver ailment for which her parents were hoping.

Mrs. Salloumee took her daughter to Lourdes after reading of the nearby Hannon area where the family lives contributed $1,500 for the trip, says she has hopes. But a miracle.

"It may take six months or it may take a year," she said. "I'll leave it to Our Lady. Spiritually I feel so much better."

While at Lourdes for 18 days she said the little girl bathed in the water of the Shrine of Bernadette and drank the water regularly. She brought home a gallon of the water. She said it was difficult to tell if there had been improvement in her daughter's health.

Fernande has suffered from Dante's disease since birth. She underwent a major operation in December, but doctors held little hope for her recovery.

CHILDREN STOP FIRE

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) Twenty school children swinging branches torn from trees held back a bushfire sweeping down on the town of Bundeena, about 20 miles south of here. "The kids saved the day," the deputy captain of nearby Sutherland's emergency fire squad said.

Fluoridation Less Expensive Than Training More Dentists

TORONTO (CP)—Fluoridation of municipal water is more realistic than to enrob program to train sufficient dentists to meet the province's needs, Ontario's royal commission on fluoridation heard Wednesday.

Jon Kleran, representing the Health League of Canada, said the cost of training one dentist in Ontario — $22,800 including equipment—will fluoridate water for 230,000 persons.

He said the dentistry profession estimates that in 1980 it will be some 600 dentists short of meeting today's low ratio of dentists to population.

Ontario dentists are already overworked and provide only partial service to one-third of the population, he said.

Earlier witnesses at the commission's hearing in Queen's Park have said fluoridation reduces dental decay by about 60 per cent in adults and 40 per cent in children.

George A. MacMillan, president of the Toronto Citizen's Health Association, criticized Brantford's city council's government dentist supporting this reduction rate.

He said more than one dentist should have made the 1954 survey. A lone examiner is apt to miss some cavities. Also, he said, an x-ray machine has effect on the teeth being used.

A third-year University of Toronto dentistry student took issue with Mr. MacMillan.

Donald Weatherhead, 22, of Sharbor Lake north of Kingston, asked if the same kind of examination had not applied before Brantford started the fluoridation experiment in 1945. Mr. MacMillan said he didn't know.

He quoted a federal government publication that stated tooth decay can be reduced by 60 per cent by rinsing out the mouth immediately after eating.

Austin Cooper, counsel for the commission, asked why Mr. MacMillan accepted one government report and rejected an another.

Mr. MacMillan said the Brantford fluoridation report "is critical by many scientists and that creates doubts in my mind."

Dr. A. Allan London of Boonton, N.J., national secretary of the Medical - Dental Committee on the Evaluation of Fluoridation, said all the surveys to date are misleading because of variation in figures.

He cited results of two Brantford surveys, one by the federal government and the other by the city, which show widely different results.

"The one age group the government report shows an improvement of 68 per cent between 1945 and 1958 while the city report shows only a 25 per cent improvement for the same period.

John E. Motz Kitchener, New CP President

TORONTO (CP) — John E. Motz, president and publisher of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record Wednesday was elected president of the Canadian Press.

He succeeds Charles H. Peters of the Montreal Gazette, president for the last two years.

Mr. Peters was elected honorary president, A.-F. Mercier Quebec l'Evenement - Journal was elected first vice-president on motion of John Bassett, Toronto Telegram. Mr. Bassett was re-elected second vice-president.

The Canadian Press is a partnership through which Canadian daily newspapers exchange the news of their areas and bring in and distribute the news of the world. CP also provides news to most of Canada's radio and television stations through broadcast News Limited, a subsidiary.

DIRECTOR SINCE 1918

Mr. Motz, who succeeds to the CP presidency after terms at first and second vice-president, has been a director since 1946.

A native of Kitchener, he represents the third generation of his family in the newspaper business. He joined The Record after graduating from the University of Notre Dame in 1936, was appointed managing editor in 1939, general manager in 1940 and president in 1950.

He was president of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers' Association in 1954-55, and last year became the first Canadian member of the advisory board of the Poynter Institute. He is a member of the board of governors of the new University of Waterloo.

Officers were chosen by the board of directors after the annual general meeting of members at which Mr. Peters reported on the co-operative's operating position and prospects, and Gordon Purcell, general manager, on details of the service.

The annual meeting elected 10 directors for two - year terms. They were elected for two-year terms last year.

Ontario directors: John Bassett, Toronto Telegram, John E. Motz, Kitchener-Waterloo Record, and R. E. Thomson, Kirkland Lake Northern News.

EXPORT ISOTOPES

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan's atomic energy research institute is planning to export isotopes to various countries of southeast Asia, a spokesman for the institute said Monday. The spokesman said the institute, which since its establishment in 1956 has engaged solely in research activities, has begun manufacturing isotopes for sale. It is also designing and constructing atomic reactors.

Committee Finds Indians In Dark About Actions of Govt. in Handling of Affairs

OTTAWA (CP)—A parliamentary committee established on the request of the band, and that band funds were misused.

main point in a five-hour sitting Wednesday: Indians often do not know what government is doing in matters involving their land and livelihood.

The Joint Senate - Commons committee on Indian affairs received a delegation from Ojibway Indians of the Abitibi band in northwestern Quebec, first of seven delegations scheduled to appear this session.

Examples of the misunderstandings, which took much of the committee's time to iron out, were:

1. The band did not know that mineral rights on reserve land was used to purchase land for the site of its village.

2. The band thought a conservation program range of 81 inch beaver pelt sold still was being exacted although it had not been obliged since 1944.

The contusion led Chief Thomas Rankin to remark; "I get a little mixed up at these things."

Chief Rankin presented a brief on behalf of the 250 members of his band living at Amos, Quebec, northwest of Montreal. Philip O'Gulsh presented another on behalf of some 200 band members living near La Sarre, about 70 miles west of Amos.

Chief Rankin's brief called for government aid to build 30 houses on the band reserve outside near Amos.

H. M. Jones, director of the Indian affairs department, told the committee the land was purchased by the department acting said.

Chief Rankin said he had not known band reserve funds were used.

Mr. Jones said the band council, Chief Rankin included, had signed a resolution authorizing the expenditure to do so.

As for the fur conservation program, Mr. Jones said the only fur-handling charges for the band were $1 per pelt royalty and a $5 administration charge of five to six per cent charged by Quebec government-buyer of all Quebec beaver pelts—and a 10-per-cent insurance and shipping charge by the band government.

"I'm still not satisfied," Chief Rankin replied. He said one trapper recently collected $3 a pelt although they were worth $40.

"All the Indians get stuck like that."

Mervyn Hardie (L—Mackenzie River) said the charges listed by Mr. Jones seemed high.

Noting Chief Rankin had said Indians were not given a complete accounting for their furs just a statement of the total amount, he said a full statement should be supplied.

Mr. Jones said complete statements were supplied to district offices and the Indians seldom asked for them.

More Stable Bond Conditions Seen by Company President

TORONTO (CP)—Investors in bonds may not be faced with the same violent fluctuation in market prices as they have seen in recent years, A. Hazlett Lemmon, president of Dominion Mortgage and Investments Association, told the association's annual meeting today.

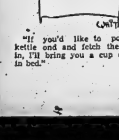
"The necessity of using monetary policy to combat inflationary pressures is widely recognized," Mr. Lemmon added, "but an unfortunate consequence is an effect on the market prices of bonds which is likely to disturb investor confidence.

"It is sincerely to be hoped that developments over the next months, or perhaps years, will permit a freer stability in this market which will encourage funds to be invested in bonds, either directly or indirectly."

Mr. Lemmon, vice - president and treasurer of Canada Life Assurance Company, said events of the last year have had a rather peculiar result in the relationship between borrower and lender.

"It would almost appear," he stated, "that borrowers feel they have an inherent right to be able to borrow money whenever and however they desire. They lost sight of the fact that someone must save this money before it can be borrowed: To obtain this result it is necessary that the saver be made confident that he will receive an attractive rate of return on his savings and that the purchasing power of his savings will not be tampered with over the duration of the loan."

The outlook for this year, Mr. Lemmon stated, appears to be one of good, if not booming, business conditions.



His comments were contained in a text made available to the press in advance of delivery.

The association membership consists of 46 companies—of which 25 are insurance companies, six loan companies, one savings bank and 14 trust companies—administering assets of around $9,500,000,000.

DELAY IN REBRIN CASE

VANCOUVER (CP) — A decision on university lecturer Irene Rebrin's application to have a deportation order quashed was set back Tuesday until May 13. Miss Rebrin, free on $300 bond, appeared before Mr. Justice T. J. Norris and was advised that, because of additional written argument and weight of other duties, the judge's decision will not be made for another 10 days.

SUBWAY EXTENSION — A 10-mile addition to Canada's first subway is expected to carry about 345,000 persons a day and cut by about half the running times for streetcars and buses now in use. The additional underground transit will be built in stages. The first step is a $41,000,000 line two miles long-up University Avenue, paralleling a part of the existing stretch on Yonge Street, and hooking up with it at the southern end near Union Station. This line is due for completion in 1963. Map also shows a projected $149,000,000 Bloor-Danforth line across the northern terminus of the University Avenue route, to be constructed in stages between 1963 and 1969. (CP Newsmap).

WORK IN PROGRESS — Work has started on an additional ten miles of subway system, Canada's first. The $100,000,000 project is to be completed by 1970. STATION DESIGN — Toronto may have some 38 miles of underground rapid transit in the next two decades. About 4¼ miles of subway now are in operation and work on an additional ten miles is under way on Canada's largest municipal project. In 2 Decades Metro Toronto Will Have 38 Miles of Subway Rapid Transit, Cost Enormous

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Problems, $38,000,000 and in the face of endsed controversies beset Toronto's subway planners, but in the next two decades this expanding metropolis may have some 38 miles of underground rapid transit.

About 4¼ miles are operating now in Canada's first subway. Another 10 miles—to cost $302,000,000—are getting under way in Canada's largest municipal project. The remainder is in the planning stage.

The problems are multitudinous and complex, from moving monuments atop the projected tunnels and trying out new construction methods to a running series of squabbles among officials over plans.

But by the end of this decade 14½ miles of subway will be in operation, making a big dent in the clutter of surface congestion and hustling hundreds of thousands of Metropolitan Toronto's 1,500,000 people around the downtown area daily.

EAST-WEST ROUTE

Right now the routes are set for this mileage, to give the Toronto Transit Commission north-south and east-west subways through density. Inhabited sections of the city.

The existing subway, only one in Canada, runs north and south through the Yonge Street business section between Union Station and Eglinton Avenue.

Built in 4½ years at a cost of the commission has vetoed this and chosen another.

Frederick G. Gardiner, retired chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto Council and known locally as "Big Daddy," is trying to knock their heads together by threatening to get the TTC inside a branch of Metro, top body of the federation of 13 municipalities including Toronto proper.

The TTC actually is a creature of the Ontario Legislature, but Metro has a big stake in the project because it is financing some $102,000,000 of the $200,000,000 cost of construction. Also, it is buying up right-of-way involving some 250 buildings.

It proposes to raise $38,000,000 of this on a pay-as-you-go basis through an addition to tax rates. The TTC share will be met through fobenture issues and fare revenue. Fares have just been raised to 15 cents from 12½ with free transfer from surface transportation to subways.

VARIED METHODS

Meanwhile, as the engineers get down to building tunnels, a variety of construction methods are being used.

Most unusual is an import from Europe never before used on a North American subway and calculated to lessen disruption of surface traffic as streets are ripped up to dig out space for the tubes. It was developed in Milan, Italy.

Narrow trenches are excavated on each side of the street to the depth of the subway and filled with concrete. Then the centre of the street is dug to the roof level of the subway only. The concrete roof is poured over the earth. The street surface then is replaced while the digging is resumed within the concrete frame.

The TTC had a crew from Italy lay down 180 feet of tunnel on University Avenue under this technique, and Mr. Duncan said it saved about half the time in traffic disruption.

"We are satisfied with its characteristics," he said, though he added it's more expensive than straight digging.

On the Bloor-Danforth section, contractors will be able to put in bids based on this system.

However, the unfinished part of the University Avenue line will be a combination of straight tunnelling of the sandhog type and the cut-and-cover method used on the Yonge line.

There will be about a mile of tunnel at the north end, including the section that goes under the legislature-building. Special steps will be taken to deaden train noise in this stretch, though this has not been much of a problem on the Yonge branch.

So far, the tunnels are just at the stage of having the vertical shafts dug.

Another North American first for the University Avenue stretch will be the inclusion of an underground parking garage at the south end, costing about $1,000,000 and holding about 325 cars. To be built for the Toronto Parking Authority, it will be a two-storey structure fitting between the subway roof and street level.

On the University line, too, is the task of relocating three monuments including a massive Boer War memorial which may have to be taken apart and reassembled.

"But monuments are not difficult to shift," one engineer said. "It's as easy as shifting a house."

CANADIAN NORTH — By arbitrary limits dictated by climate, most of Canada falls into Arctic and sub-Arctic classifications.

Map shows general limits of each zone and main centres in each. A key qualification for both regions is a long, cold winter. About 25 per cent of Canada is true Arctic, with the average temperature in the warmest month never exceeding 50 degrees Fahrenheit. Temperatures range as high as 100 degrees or more above zero in the sub-Arctic or more below in the sub-Arctic.

About one-tenth of Canada in the south is a warmer zone where most of the population lives. Economic development of the Arctic and sub-Arctic will depend on the demand for resources within the boundaries. (CP Newsmap.)

Northern Frontier Bleak, Barren But Full of Rich Promise for Adventurers

The search for oil and construction of radar warning systems have helped open the Canadian North but the vast area—nine-tenths of Canada's territory—remains largely unpopulated. This story describes the character of the North and the problems of developing it.

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Canadian North still functions in an era of vanishing earth-bound frontiers—a mixture of rich promise and barrenness as bleak as the dashed hopes of 16th century adventurers who first sought the Northwest Passage.

What is the "north" in this northern country, its size, peoples, problems, rate of development and future?

Pat definitions are impossible, even in size. Defined by climate, the true Arctic emerges as 28 per cent of Canada, a treeless and scarred by the still-retreating ice cap where the average temperature of the warmest month never exceeds 50 degrees above zero.

The southern limit is a line wavering southward from the Mackenzie River delta in the western mainland toward the grain port of Churchill, Man., and onward into northern Quebec and Labrador.

VARIED TEMPERATURES

The sub-Arctic is Canada's biggest zone with the same chill trademark of long cold winters and temperature extremes ranging from 100 degrees or more above zero to 70 or more below. The lower mainland, Prince Newfoundland, engulfs 80 per cent of Quebec, two-thirds of Ontario and Manitoba, half of Saskatchewan and Alberta and most of British Columbia.

Arctic and sub-Arctic thus defined contain a fraction of the Canadian population, nine-tenths of her land, much of her infinite variety of resources and a complex set of development problems.

But the public image of the North, nourished by the "riches" of development preached by the Progressive Conservative government, tends to single out that area north of the 60th parallel—the 1,440,000 square miles in the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

A mere 35,000 people live in this vast region of Canada, still in the pre-development stage. From the progress already made there is less concern right now about the finding of resources than there is about marketing them economically.

NEED IS KEY

Growth rate, it's frankly acknowledged, will depend on how economic—or badly needed—those resources prove to be whether oil and gas, iron ore, gold, base metals or nickel. The chief problem is distance to potential markets or source of equipment, labor and other essentials.

Even the most starry-eyed visionary concedes that the highest possible rate of development will leave huge stretches of rock, tundra, snow and muskeg with little or no population; that only relatively small communities will freckle much of the country, harvesting minerals.

The men and women living today in the two territories are a blend of the old and new. Most are civil servants, anthropologists reckon that the eastern Arctic was the last place on the globe to be inhabited by man, perhaps as recently as 4,000 or 5,000 years ago when successive emigrations from Asia finally rippled eastward to Greenland.

Canada's 10,400 Eskimos are their descendants.

The Yukon is the smaller of the two by far. Its mountainous 205,000 square miles bordered by Alaska and the Arctic Ocean contain about 14,000 residents, 12,500 of them non-Indian.

FAMED FOR GOLD

It exists between a golden past and a future colored optimistically by the oil derrick, prospectors' continuing faith and the tourist. Yukon creeks have yielded $400,000,000 in gold since the trail of '98 gave it world prominence.

His main centres of Whitehorse and Dawson, more lively economically today than for some years, still linger in the backwater of that boisterous era when Dawson boasted some 30,000 inhabitants compared to 820 today.

Whitehorse, peopled by about 5,000, took over as territorial capital in 1951 and is now spirit of enterprise is based on construction, more tourists and an industrial haunt for all that remains last year in a well beyond the Arctic Circle.

The Northwest Territories sprawl over 1,253,000 square miles, surpassing only the combined bulk of Ontario, Quebec and the Atlantic Provinces. More of its 21,000 residents—including 8,000 Eskimos and 4,500 Indians—live the 1,400-mile course of the Mackenzie River valley.

SCATTERED COMMUNITIES

It has only about 40 communities, reflecting the first economic forces of fur and whalers or the latter-day influences of defence, aviation, weather forecasting and science, industry and education.

The most northerly permanent settlement in the world is Alert, on the top tip of Ellesmere Island beside Greenland. Its dozen-odd men comprise a joint United States-Canadian weather station 530 miles from the North Pole and 2,500 miles north of Edmonton.

The capital of the far north is Resolute Bay on Cornwallis Island, 1,700 miles north of Winnipeg. It acts as most northerly RCAF station, main weather office, site for atmospheric research and headquarters of the oil and gas search in the Arctic Islands, which Ottawa hopes have been filed for exploration permits on 100,000,000 acres.

Here men from the more remote weather stations drop in every few months or so to have a beer, watch an old movie or get a haircut. Its northern affairs department school—is the most northerly in Canada and its Eskimo village—brought there by a relocation program—yields only six Eskimo children to Grise Fiord on lower Ellesmere for that honor.

PLANNED TOWN

Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island, 1,200 miles north of Fredericton, is the eastern Arctic's administrative centre, a defences radar base, port and international airstrip. Its school, Eskimo rehabilitation service and small business community are a few runner of a planned community to be built for several thousand persons.

Its counterpart in the west is the Mackenzie delta in the 82,000,000 square miles of Inuvik, the new Aklavik with modern schools, buildings, sewer and water systems built on stilts atop permafrost north of the Arctic Circle.

Aklavik in the delta remains the fur trade headquarters for the west while Fort Smith near the Alberta border on the Slave River is a main administrative town.

Yellowknife is the largest city in the Territories with 3,500 people, a true industrial centre built by gold on the north shore of Great Slave Lake and the forerunner of what northern visionaries foresee elsewhere.

ESKIMOS IN MINING

Rankin Inlet on the west coast of Hudson Bay, 800 miles north of Winnipeg, is an industrial centre plagued by declining caribou and the erratic value of the white fox, the main Arctic fur. It has turned successfully to nickel mining.

Today's trading post once a bare site occupied by the Hudson's Bay Company or a rival, RCMP constable or missionary, now increasingly includes a school teacher, medical nurse or other white face, the northern service officer dedicated to helping the Eskimo adjust to changing conditions.

What of the Eskimo and Indian? Eleven years ago the northern affairs department took over the education field and has largely replaced the Roman Catholic and Anglican mission school. Many children still lack education facilities although some are flown up to 1,000 miles to hostel schools at Inuvik and other communities.

More discouraging is that despite programs to turn out technicians, nursing aides, mechanics, cooks and seamstresses, jobs aren't abundant for such trained personnel.

FEAR DEMORALIZATION

Some authorities have expressed concern that the new north will be accompanied by the disintegration and demoralization of the old aborigines reliance in a morass of government relief, alcohol and slum existence among northern settlements.

Politically, both the Yukon and Northwest Territories have emerge governments with limited responsibility for taxing and local regulations. More decentralization of federal authority is being developed but until more population exists, few see new provinces emerging.

The future of the two territories exists somewhere between the extremes of optimism and pessimism, looking to the field of transportation for help.

The airplane is king today with the exception of the short shipping season each summer when a big transport department fleet brings supplies, medical care for the hunting peoples and carries passengers north.

Pipelines, cargo-carrying submarines, cheaper air transport and railways are some eventualities that may hold the key.

MOVIE CONTRACT

ROME (Reuters) — Jean Grinda, the pin-up boy of French tennis, said Tuesday that he has signed a six-months option on a movie contract with Metro Goldwyn Mayer. Grinda told this to a reporter in the changing room of the Foro Italico tennis ground here after his match against Morocco's Chardi Lahcen, which Grinda won 8-6, 6-3, in the international championships.

CRASH KILLS FIVE

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — A Brazilian cargo plane crashed, exploded and burned at the United States air force base here Tuesday, killing all five persons aboard.

2 OUT OF 5 CARS ON THE ROAD TODAY HAVE UNSAFE TIRES!

HOW SAFE ARE YOUR TIRES?

During sustained periods of high speed driving the bald tire you were meaning to replace may give out; or the cut in the sidewall may give way under the continuous flexing as your tires roll along the highway. And in an emergency, it's the brakes that stop the wheels, but the tires that stop your car!

Of all accidents due to tire failure by far the largest percentage is caused by baldness and uneven tread wear. Don't take a chance. Check your tires now!

CHECK THESE TIRE DANGER SIGNS

BALD TREAD — Don't play a long trip with bald tires! Smooth tread gives no skid protection. Use the small amount of tread rubber remaining some less protection against blow-outs.

UNEVEN TREAD WEAR — The ludicrous wear, out of alignment, brake trouble, or improper inflation conditions. Uneven tread results in faster wear and can also cause an unsteady ride.

PUNCTURES — Always have punctures expertly repaired. A faulty repair may lead to an accident. Uneven tread results in faster wear and can also cause an unsteady ride.

CUTS AND BRUISES — You seldom remember when you felt a stone or pebble, or get a small cut from some broken glass. But these little cuts are most prone to failure during sustained periods of driving.

If your tire shows any of these danger signs, don't delay another minute—come in immediately and have your tires inspected FREE.

Van Dusen Bros. Open New Display Store Friday

Modern Youngstown Kitchen Unit

Exterior View of Van Dusen's New Store

Van Dusen Bros. Are Opening Showroom Here

Well known in the plumbing and heating business in the Belleville-Picton area for over a half century, VanDusen Brothers Ltd., on Friday, May 6, are opening a modern showroom at 118 Front Street, Belleville.

The new sales office and showroom will display the latest and most modern plumbing, heating and kitchen appliance equipment.

They will feature "Youngstown kitchens with emphasis on kitchen remodelling in older type homes, and the famous Iron Firemen Custom Mark II oil fired furnaces.

Of particular interest in the Mark II Iron Fireman furnace is its low stack temperature, together with complete absence of soot, making for minimum furnace maintenance. A feature of the Open House program Friday will be the white glove test demonstrating the coolness operation of the furnace.

Of interest to women considering kitchen remodelling is a newly developed exhaust fan installation for getting rid of objectionable cooking odors. The unit requires no venting, thus reducing installation costs. Odors are filter purified and the air blown back into the kitchen.

Kitchen displays and "dream" bathroom designs are included in the VanDusen showroom displays.

Manager of the new VanDusen store is Walter Vanderwaa, who has eight years' experience in the plumbing business in Canada.

Urges Doubling Rate for Ads, Halving Space

TORONTO (CP)—Delegates to the Association of Canadian Advertisers convention received two shocks Tuesday—the first from an advertising man and the second from a group of local high school students.

S. R. Bernstein of Chicago, editorial director of Advertising Age, suggested that newspaper and broadcast advertising rates be doubled and that advertisers buy only half the space they now purchase.

An unlimited physical volume of advertising may be bad, he warned. "I think there is some evidence that we are drowning in a physical sea of advertising with which we are individually unable to cope."

Mr. Bernstein said with rates doubled "and space and time halved, readers and listeners would be pleased with more manageable newspapers and fewer radio interruptions."

He said the advertiser would learn to value his space and probably get better results.

The group of eight Toronto high school students criticized the heavy use of commercials in radio. Moreover, one said students have developed the faculty "of hearing news and music but not hearing a single word of the commercial."

The panel labelled one Toronto radio station a "garbage station." Moderator J. Frank Willis requested that the station be unidentified.

EXPLOSION KILLS ONE

DETROIT (AP)—Floors caved in and walls collapsed in a "gush of fire" explosion that shattered a factory building and killed a passerby Monday. Eleven persons were hurt, one seriously. The man who died, Arthur Furtee, 33, was engulfed by debris. The blast, blamed on a gas leak, shattered the two-storey brick building of the Tri-Part Manufacturing Company on a fringe of downtown Detroit.

Loudly Exploited Startime Series Dies End of Month

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It would be easy to draw some conclusions from the approaching and premature demise of NBC's expensive, loudly exploited Startime series if the general level of the shows had been higher.

The sponsor, who planned to carry the hour - long Tuesday night series through June has— as NBC puts it—"asked for relief" at the end of May.

If all of the Startime shows had been like The Turn of the Screw, The Wicked Scheme of Jebal Deeks, or My Three Angels, it would be easy to come to some pretty devastating conclusions about the tastes of the viewing public which tuned in in disquieting numbers. The sponsor, which budgeted about $15,-60,000 for the series, plans to spend the June Startime money on Overland Trail and Laramie, two hour-long westerns much like all other hour-long westerns.

The unfortunate truth is that while there were a few straningly good shows on Startime, a number were just so-so and some were just plain awful. And this was the series which called itself "TV's finest hour."

Hubbell Robinson, producer of the series, next season will produce a whodunit series called Thriller.

Friday, as if everybody didn't know, is Princess Margaret's wedding day, and the three American TV networks are engaged in a race against time and each other to bring pictures of the joyous event to the public as soon as possible. Everybody has special shows planned, from 4 p.m. on.

Jet planes will fly taped accounts of the ceremonies to Canada for broadcasting by the CBC. These will be picked up by American networks. NBC will use an expensive process to transmit short segments direct from London to New York by cable, so it can get some pictures on the air while the ceremony is still in progress.

My own favorit. phase of the coverage involves the TV receiving sets installed in Westminster Abbey itself—so that lucky guests at the ceremony will be able to see the show as well as the public in his own living room. Science is certainly wonderful!

Guelph Biltmores Have Been Sold To N.Y. Rangers

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B series may be sold within the next few weeks to New York Rangers, a club official said Wednesday night.

Norman (Mickey) McMillan, one of the four Guelph citizens who operate the club, said he expects a decision in about two weeks from Ranger manager Muzz Patrick. Negotiations have been going on with Patrick for two years.

The Guelph operators are "too busy" to keep running the club, said Mr. McMillan, general manager of Biltmore Hat Company. He and Arnold Somerville, also of Guelph, represent the four owners.

Mr. McMillan said he will report on the negotiations to the monthly meeting of the Junior Biltmores next Monday.

Asked what would happen to Biltz coach Eddie Bush if Rangers take over, Mr. McMillan said: "I don't think they (Rangers) will want him."

SIXTH-PLACE CLUB

Coach Bush figured in a recent player revolt after Biltz finished the season in sixth place. High scorers Jean Maille and Ron Gilbert ended up with the Ranger farm team in the Eastern Professional Hockey League, Trois-Rivieres Lions.

Both asked to be made Ranger pros rather than return to Bilts. Six other players were reported to have refused to stay with the Guelph team if Bush continued as coach.

Mr. McMillan said he did not know whether this was true. "Patrick said that," he added.

Biltmore's have been operating in the black ever since the club was founded in the early 1930s by the late Roy Mason.

7,400 ENTER OPEN

NEW YORK (AP)—A tournament record of 2,400 entries, including 11 past winners, will shoot for the 60th United States open golf championship this year. The tournament will be played June 16, 17, 18 at the Cherry Hills Country Club in Denver. But only 150 of the original entries will go to the tee after a double round of eliminations.

Movie Column

Film's Cost Little Concern To Average Theatre-Goer

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Remember the days when big movies used to be advertised as million-dollar productions? Such films would be considered quickies nowadays—or so the publicity would have us believe.

The current product is filled with movies that are supposed to have cost $5,000,000, with some touted as high as $15,000,000 (Ben-Hur). But do they run that high?

When I visited The Alamo location at Brackettville, Tex., producer-director-star John Wayne told me the film would cost $5,500,000 to shoot. His salary and other deferments would bring the total to $7,000,000, he said, and advertising, distribution and other charges would bring the total to $11,000,000.

An associate who worked on the project until he feuded with Wayne now declares that The Alamo actually cost $2,000,000. Who is right?

CAN-CAN THAT BIG?

Can-Can is advertised as a $6,000,000 extravaganza. There is only one big exterior—a standing set at 20th Century-Fox. The musical numbers are staged in one cafe set; the risk of the scenes are played in bedrooms, salons and one small courtroom. Nor do the talent charges seem exorbitant. The cast is reasonably priced, except for Frank Sinatra. And he may have done the film at a smaller-than-usual fee to pay off for when-he walked out of the studio's Carousel.

Another production figure that would seem inflated is Porgy and Bess. It is also billed as costing $2,000,000.

Porgy and Bess was shot with a Negro cast on one big sound stage, except for one brief location nearby. This does not seem to add up to $6,000,000.

BIG ALL RIGHT

Now we come to Ben-Hur. could it really have cost $15,000,-000? It's big, all right, but it would seem a prodigious feat for any studio to spend that much on four hours of entertainment—a chariot race or no chariot race.

Remember that it was made in Italy, where costs are far lower than Hollywood's.

Either the public is being hoodwinked into believing a certain film production cost more than it did; or certain persons or organizations are pocketing funds does a film's cost matter to the that are allegedly going into film production.

As a matter of cold fact, what public? As some hack once said, "the play's the thing."

About "Room At The Top" Held Over

The film "Room at the Top" which is currently playing at the Park Theatre and now held over for 3 more days is based on the controversial novel of the same name by John Braine, one of the most talented and outspoken of England's Angry young men." According to Harvey Breit of the New York Times Book Review, the book was "the most discussed, debated and lauded first novel in England" in years.

The movie now appears to be creating the same sort of precedent. In its initial London engagement, "Room at the Top" broke all attendance records and won three major awards, including the British Film Academy "Oscar" as the "best film from any source in 1958," the British Film Academy Award as the "best British film in 1958," and Simon Signoret won ing of the Academy Award for best actress of the year.

Chatham Maroons With Cup Given Big Welcome Home; Present Players with Gifts

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham made the welcome of its first Allan Cup the best in the biggest celebration this city of 20,000 has seen since Victory in 1946.

A ticket-page parade along the main streets here Monday after the 1940 Canadian senior amateur hockey champions arrived home from British Columbia, where they won out over Trail Smoke Eaters, in seven-game thrillers.

Balcony, sidewalk and paper fluttered down on the players as they rode through the city in open convertibles with their wives and children. Coach John Horeck and team captain Ted Power provided the centre of attention as they held the trophy aloft.

Horseback riders, floats, fire bands, clowns, fire trucks, streamers and police cruisers added to the noise and gaiety of the hastily-arranged celebration.

SCHOOLS CLOSED

Most stores and offices and all schools in the city closed for the afternoon. Crowds lined the streets five and six deep in places.

The giant welcome followed a 70-mile trip from Detroit's Metropolitan Airport, where the team flew in from the West.

After a civic welcome in Windsor, where they were greeted by Mayor Michael Patrick and their old boss, Windsor Bulldogs, the silver cigarette-case was the first in dozens of fans for the trip to Chatham.

All along the route the cavalcade was swelled by cars travelling to meet it. Some 300 awaited at Tilbury, 16 miles west of here, where the sedan temporarily broke off from the procession to turn down the town's main street and be greeted by Tilbury Mayor F. J. Corry.

BANNERS HUNG

At Chatham's western outskirts traffic chaos developed, giving the players plenty of time to notice huge Welcome Hoffe, Maroons banners flying in front of factories in the industrial area.

A temperature that climbed to 80 under a blistering sun made the slow trip a trying one for the homecoming Maroons. Autograph seekers mobbed them at points along the parade route, and at the Memorial Community Centre more than 1,000 children lunched during the procession as the parade ended.

A dinner and dance were held at the arena tonight with surprise gifts to players.

Grimm Is Out

Lou Boudreau Takes Over As Manager of Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — In an unprecedented baseball switch, former American League pilot Lou Boudreau today took over from Charlie Grimm as manager of Chicago Cubs.

In effect, Boudreau handed a radio microphone to the 47-year-old Grimm role exchange for managership of his hometown Cubs after a typically grueling decision by Cub owner P. K. Wrigley.

The unpredictable Wrigley, who, on occasion, changes coaches had named Grimm as Cub boss, decided he didn't want to see Jolly Cholly take a beating and named Boudreau, 42, manager as "just plain common sense."

Boudreau, former star shortstop and manager of Cleveland Indians, Boston Red Sox and Kansas City Athletics has been a commentator on Cubs broadcasts for the last two seasons.

Cubs have won six and lost 11 so far this season.

Boudreau, replaced by Harry Craft a manager of Kansas City in 1947, said it was a good feeling to get back into uniform again.

"The Cubs have a great organization," he said. "And a young team with a lot of problems. They can't all be solved overnight," he added, but it will be done slowly."

He was to meet with the players and Grimm today.

Grimm became a Cubs vice-president. He said the end came Wrigley "are very, very good friends. Our friendship is very strong. Mr. Wrigley didn't want me to take the beating he thought I was taking for the showing of the club."

Grimm's resignation ended the shortest of his three stints as manager of the Cubs. But sports announcing is nothing new to Grimm. He had a couple of terms of it between managerial jobs.

15 Hopefuls Ready to Run For the Roses

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Owners and trainers of some 15 Kentucky Derby hopefuls took a long drag on their great look charging today as they entered their frisky hard thoroughbreds suits for Saturday's 65th running of America's most spirited horse race.

Eight lads already has struck a reigning blow at the $125,000 turf classic inasfar as class goes, experts conceded. Veterans couldn't recall injuries ever cutting down so many top-flight performers in such a short span.

Warfare, 1939 two - year - old champion and future book favorite, was withdrawn because of an injury. Two within the last two weeks, Weatherwise, Eagle Admiral, Noble Noor, Fever Glow II and Beau Purple were forced to step aside. Beau Purple came out of Friday's early trial, which will be won, with a bucked shin.

Only a handful of an expected crowd of some 100,000 moved to the Churchill Downs today, the talk centred on two horses: V. Whitney's Tompion and Leonard Tuchman's Rocky Mata.

TOMPION TOP CHOICE

Tompion, winner of the Santa Anita Derby and Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland, and Bold Ache, best to come out the Florida winter meeting as a 3-year-old, were installed as the favorites with triumphs in the Flamingo and Florida Derby, have been given one - two choices respectively, ever since Warfare was forced out of the race.

Here and there could be heard a good word for Venetian Way, quoted at 6 to 1, or for J. P. Taylor's Victoria Park, 10 to 1. Tompion is the favorite and Bally Ache is quoted at 2 to 1.

It costs $300 to enter a horse and another $1,250 to start. Should the field start the race will gross $183,200 with a net of $118,100 going to the winner.

The race will be broadcast and televised by CBS 3:15-345, EDT.

Rowing Coach Trims Squad for Olympic Drive

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Frank Read has started trimming for the stretch drive to the Olympic Games at Helsinki with the first lambskinning coach, who works his crews 4-6 hours daily on UBC Wednesday night to bring the number in camp to 20—30 veterans before the axe.

"It's a difficult and arbitrary thing," Read said of the cutting. "But time is very short, finances are limited and we've got to do it."

The 32 remaining men, back in training since Monday following a month off for examinations, moved into a campus fraternity house where training expenses will be underwritten by the university and the students' council.

PORT DALHOUSIE-MEET

The UBC fours, with and without Cox, must defeat eastern Canadian oarsmen in July's national trials at Port Dalhousie to make the summer trip.

The eights, dormant in Canada since 1954 when Read first startled rowing circles when his crew defeated England in the British Empire Games here, won't be entered in eights trials. However, there clockings must be excellent or they won't go to Europe.

The crews will row to Long Beach, Calif., against Stanford, Washington, Oregon State, UCLA, California and Southern California universities, May 31.

Geo. Genereux, Gold Medal Winner in Trapshooting, Will Make Olympic Trip This Year

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Geo. Genereux, who won a gold medal in 1936 they had to talk George Genereux into going to the Olympics. This year he is eager to make the trip.

"I've always want to prove something to yourself," says the 38-year-old Ottawa man who won a gold medal winner in trapshooting for Canada eight years ago in Helsinki.

For the husky, quiet-spoken medical student from Saskatoon, the compulsion is obviously to make his Olympic victory as an 18-year-old was no fluke. He didn't make the Canadian team in 1936.

A more sociable, seasoned Genereux, in his fourth year of medicine at McGill University, is set for the Olympic trials which will be won, with a bucked shin.

WEEKEND PRACTICE

Genereux's practice takes time off from his studies to practise at 25 targets a week at the range of the Montreal Anglers and Hunters Inc. Among his shooting companions is Yvon Dubuisson, famous hockey star Tom Johnson, an intermediate, Gerry Gauthier his shooting is sharper than ever, and the figures it has been be sharper for the Rome Olympics.

"It's a lot tougher now. The general standard of trapshooting has improved everywhere. You've really got to be good," he said. His serious approach is in contrast with his attitude in 1936 when as a high school boy in Saskatoon he learned he had won the Olympic berth.

"I didn't want it," he recalled with a grin. "At that time I was pitching for a junior baseball team. I didn't want to leave. My baseball friends had to persuade me to go."

SHOOT THREE MATCHES

Competing against the best shots from 63 nations—all older and more experienced—Genereux calmly shattered 192 of 200 clay targets at the Rome gold medal.

Trapshooting competition provides a real test. The targets, 90 of them, may come from any of five trap houses 18 metres from the shooter. They are released rapidly away from the gun position. The shotgun must be loaded with two shells, giving the shooter a second chance if he misses the first try. Targets are released at varying intervals ranging up to four seconds.

Five times Genereux has made perfect 200 scores in competition. But this takes luck, he says.

"So much can go wrong that the shooter has no control over. A faulty shell, a target that doesn't shatter when hit, a bad spray of the shot, anything can foul it up."

TENSION MAY HELP

He lists concentration and coolness as his best assets. "The most important factors in trapshooting. A marksman is also under great tension during a match but this sometimes proves helpful.

"You do your best when you're keyed up. Your mind doesn't wander."

The 220-pound, six-foot-4 Genereux practises three days a week, pounds and grown two inches since the 1952 Olympics. He describes himself as an average student.

His father, Arthur, is an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist in Saskatoon but George plans to enter the field of radiology.

PLAYED HOCKEY

Genereux played a year of hockey after coming to McGill but gave it up after developing a sore back in 1952.

He also took to wearing glasses for reading and shooting. Many trapshooters use glasses to prevent eyestrain but George's also provide slight correction.

Genereux started shooting at 11, his interest kindled by a hunting excursion of his father. He was 14 when he won his first big prize, a handicap event in the Midwest International Shoot in Winnipeg.

He has since won dozens of championships in Canada and the United States and is ranked among the best in North America. He hopes to continue shooting as a pastime for many years.

RETURNS TO SHOOTING — George Genereux, 38, gold medal winner in trapshooting for Canada at the 1952 Olympics in Helsinki, plans to try out for the Canadian shooting team this year. A fourth-year medical student at McGill University, the Saskatoon-born shooter says he wants to prove the Helsinki victory wasn't just luck. Genereux failed to make the 1956 Canadian Olympic team. 'Sure I Spear Occasionally' Says Harvey

STURGEON FALLS (CP) — Doug Harvey, Montreal Canadiens' star defenceman, said Wednesday night that he occasionally spears a hockey opponent.

"He said he wholeheartedly agreed with charges of spearing made last season by Andy Bathgate of the New York Rangers.

"Sure I spear occasionally," Harvey said, "but for a reason. I spear say forward who runs interference and sticks too close to me."

Harvey received an honorary membership in the local Kinsmen Club.

Harold Johnson Gets Decision Over Tiger Floyd

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Johnson, No. 1 light heavyweight title contender, won a unanimous 10 - round decision over Tiger Floyd Johnson weighed 175, Floyd 171.

With the exception of the first round in which the two fighters merely felt each other out, John son won every round to make the three official score cards.

Johnson appeared almost bored with the feeble efforts of Floyd, who spent the entire fight beating a hasty retreat. The 29-year-old New Yorker opened a cut over Johnson's left eye with a butt in the fourth round. He was warned several times thereafter by referee Pete Tomasso for butting tactics.

Bill Would Forbid Clubs To Own or Control More Than 100 Players Each Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) announced Wednesday he will introduce legislation he describes as designed to wreck baseball's one-manager hoarding of baseball talent by major league ball clubs.

The bill would forbid any club to own or control more than 100 players, and requires them once a year to offer at least 40 of them for unlimited draft to other clubs.

He said his suit - trust and monopoly subcommittee has evidence that rich and powerful clubs have controlled up to 400 players, thus reducing the supply of talent available to rivals. He said this has led for the sport and for the players.

Kefauver said the anti-hoarding provision would help solve the player problems of the new Continental Baseball League.

The bill also would declare it a violation of the anti-trust laws for major leagues in any kind of sport to try to block or hamper the formation of a competing new league.

The bill's declared main objective is to spell out limited exemptions from the anti - trust laws for professional sports.

It has nothing to do with professional boxing, Kefauver's subcommittee plans to investigate boxing scandals in the fall with the idea of recommending corrective legislation.

The bill is a new step in efforts to untangle confusion concerning Supreme Court decisions that the baseball anti-trust laws do not apply to professional baseball, but do apply to professional football.

It seeks to straighten out the interpretations for those two sports and professional basketball and hockey as well.

The measure would provide that in baseball each club through its own and its minor league club rosters, may own or control 100 players. But once a player "in excess of 40" must be made available to be drafted by rival clubs.

After a year more than one club wanted to draft the same man, the player would have the right to say which would get his services.

Tigers Lose Touch

Jimmy Dykes Unable to Get Real Good Team Out of Rut

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Nothing is going right for Jimmy Dykes these days. Not even an eight-game winning streak.

It was exactly a year ago Wednesday that Dykes took over as manager of Detroit Tigers. On May 1, 1939, he supplanted Bill Norman after the Tigers had lost 13 of their first 17 games. Dykes' debut was spectacular. The Tigers whipped New York Yankees in a doubleheader as Outfielder Charley Maxwell came off the bench to wallop four home runs in the two tilts. The Tigers went on to win 28 of their next 42 games to zoom from last place to within a half game of the lead.

DIFFERENT STORY NOW

The Yankees were the opponents again Tuesday. But history did not repeat. This time the Yankees walloped the Tigers 10-3, in a game that stretched Detroit's losing streak to seven. Maxwell, again on the bench for non-hitting, came in as a pinch hitter in the sixth inning with two runners on base and Detroit trailing 5-3. He struck out.

That's the way it's been going for Dykes and the Tigers' ever since they went into reverse after winning the first five games of the season.

"We just stopped hitting," moaned Dykes. "Not just one or two but everybody. We were batting .400 as a team after the first week. Now we're hitting exactly .202. I've tried everything."

HITTERS NOT HITTING

Dykes didn't single out any players. He didn't have to. Steve Biko, the ponderous first baseman, hadn't gotten a hit in his last 27 times. Maxwell is 2 for 30. Rocky Colivito is slightly over .200 with 10 for 46. Johnny Lipon, the team's best hitter, is well below .300.

Despite the slump which dropped the Tigers from first to within a hair's breadth of the basement, Dykes still thinks his team will be a contender all the way.

"I'm more convinced than ever after seeing every club but Boston," he said, "that this will be a wide open race. There isn't an outstanding team in the league. I haven't seen any club that gives evidence of running over you."

Confusion isn't limited to the Edmonton Oil Kings beach in this current Memorial Cup final with St. Catharines Teepees. Leo LeClerc is a good example.

The talkative manager of the Western Canada Junior Hockey champions knows how to hit the public prints with provocative statements and his fast change of pace kept fans in Toronto buzzing for days. His talking resulted in a clamor for tickets unknown in years for junior games.

"We'll take 'em four straight," LeClerc told a reporter after watching the Teepees in the Eastern final. People perked up to this reference to a Western powerhouse and Leo, pressed further, said "we, come on fellows, I was just kidding."

"Don't bet on us," was his next warning.

CHANGED TUNE

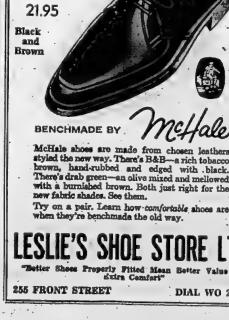
After the series opener at St. Catharines, when the Oil Kings beat the Teepees 5-3, Leo was back in full voice. "This club," he enthused, "is the best junior team in Canada."

Torontonians were inclined to believe him and flocked to get a glimpse of the Westerners. In the next two games at Maple Leaf Gardens a total of 16,000 persons watched the Oil Kings steadily fall apart and lose 6-2 and 9-1.

Maybe the players read the newspapers. Whatever it was, they were a bunch of tied-up tots on the big Gardens ice surface.

Probably the most perplexed persons in the crowd after the 9-1 humiliation were Sid Abel, coach of the Detroit Red Wings, and Bud Polle, general manager of the Edmonton pro club in the western league. One of them had to phone the result to Detroit General Manager Jack Adams holidaying in Florida.

DUBIOUS PRIVILEGE



When last seen, they were flipping a coin to decide which one would have the honor.

No one in the crowd of big league scouts, coaches and managers had a plausible explanation

"FORE"

Getting a golf course ready for spring presentation is something akin to a barber of the years' exhibits readyin a deliberated lumberjack for the camp dance.

You've got to remove the "standing timber" and underbrush and give the new crop a chance to sprout. You can't give it a "one-over-lightly" and expect a polished job that will meet the unanimous approval of the company.

And if the winter weather has been tougher than usual, there are a few extra jobs to be done that have accumulated through the whims and vagaries of the bloke at the elements controls.

Ask any golf pro and he will tell you the greens, fairways and general course scenery got a terrific going-over last winter. And spring, if you can call it that, hasn't been too co-operative thus far- Ole Sol has shown a touch of "chicken" while the rains have been generous in their contributions over the countryside in general.

However, the San Sneads and the Marlene Streits of the Bay of Quinte Country Club haven't too much to worry about. They make their seasonal debut pome Sunday in the first mixed two-ball competition of 1960. "The Year of the New Nine, and the First Eighteen."

And "stage manager" George Balazs has the scenery pretty well arranged for the opening drama of the season.

"The trees and greens will be in good shape for the opener," George said this morning. "The fairways will be a little shaggy but much better than I expected when I looked at them a couple of weeks ago. The grass is beginning to grow nicely and the course should not be in too bad shape for opening."

A little spring co-operation on the part of the weatherman between now and Sunday with some balmy breezes and sunshine would make a big difference, George said.

Last year some 106 golfers of both sexes turned out to mark the opening round of greens festivities and if the number "signed" to date is any criterion, Sunday's opener could be more or less of a record.

And word from a number of the males of the species indicates that no special concessions will be made in the spouse, because it is "Mother's Day." The gals will get their pink slips, compact sets, chiffon handkerchiefs, candies and other celebrational paraphernalia right after breakfast—from there on all friendship ceases. They will be expected to play golf right after the wheaties are digested.

The new club stewards, Mr. and Mrs. H. Buchanan, will serve dinner at 6.30 when it is expected all martial and other teamwork differences will have been amicably settled.

In serious vein, it is hoped the new "nine" will be in operation afterwards, say late July. The "eighteen holers" will add further prestige to a club that enjoys not a little popularity with "outside" par-seekers of the district. In addition the "18" should be of tournament formerly prohibitive because of the club's nine-hole status.

The prospects of whipping the new nine holes into some sort of playing shape for some time this year, did not look very encouraging to the club pro when he looked it over around April 1st.

"Now," he said, "after a lot of work, it is coming along very well. The tees and greens are in good shape and the grass is growing nicely. Where once was pretty rugged terrain is now showing signs of green new life."

"But a lot of work remains to be done," George said. "The most of the fairways are in fair shape but three look a bit rugged yet. Quite a lot of stone will have to be removed."

However George felt quite optimistic over the state of progress and is confident the new nine will be in operation before the August moon shines on the Quinte scene.

Veteran members feel 1960 will be a gala year for the country club. It will mark its debut as an eighteen-hole course unit; its membership is up and flourishing and prospects for a highly successful golf season look exceptionally bright.

Rival Managers of Memorial Cup Teams in Verbal Clash

TORONTO (CP)—The Memorial Cup battle between Edmonton Oil Kings and St. Catharines Teepees simmered today after a verbal clash between club managers.

The debate centred around stick-swinging and rough play in Tuesday night's 9-3 win by Edmonton which tied the best-of-seven series 3-2.

Voluble Oilers' manager Leo LeClerc called it the most disgraceful hockey he had ever seen and suggested Teepees had been "sent out to get "Edmonton.

"I don't know what Leclerc is talking about," St. Catharines manager Rudy Pilous shot back Wednesday night in St. Catharines. "There have been many rougher games in the OHA this season and no one claimed there was deliberate intent to injure."

OIL KING HURT

During a fight near the game's end a blow from the stick of Teepees' Bob Maki open a five-stitch cut on the head of Oil Kings defenceman Wayne Mulolin.

Talk of the stick - swinging overshadowed the surprise win by Edmonton, which was badly beaten 6-2 and 9-1 after winning the opener 5-3. Most fans thought the magic of the Oilers had worn off.

With Edmonton returning as a strong contender attendance is expected to pick up at Friday night's fifth game here. Only 2,364 fans turned out Tuesday night.

Dodgers Drop Into 5th Slot, Yanks Top A.L. Race

Bob Buhl of Braves Beats L.A. Club for 4th Straight; Cleveland and Chicago Lose

By Ed Wilks
Associated Press Staff Writer

If things weren't bad enough already for the Los Angeles Dodgers, the world champions now have found Bob Buhl to be just as touch as ever.

The bushy-browed righthander pitched Milwaukee's Braves to a 3-1 victory with a three-hitter at Los Angeles Wednesday night, beating the Dodgers for the fourth time in a row as Del Crandall singled home a run in the second inning and then homered in the ninth.

It was the Dodgers' ninth defeat in their last dozen games and their fourth straight, dropping the fifth-place champs two games below .500.

PIRATES STAY AHEAD

Pittsburgh retained a one-game lead, although the Chicago Cubs somewhere were plotting their final game under manager Charlie Grimm—dealt the Pirates a second consecutive defeat, 3-1. Second-place San Francisco blew a chance for a three-game tie, losing 3-2 to Cincinnati as Cal McLish won his first with a four-hitter, Frank Robinson of Louis made it nine out of 11 by beating the Giants 6-3.

Buhl (2-1), now 21-8 lifetime against the Dodgers, had to dodge Don Drysdale all the way before his one, his seventh success in eight decisions against the Dodgers over three seasons. Drysdale (3-2) gave up eight hits while going the distance for the fifth time in six starts. The Braves scored in the second on successive singles by Frank Torre, Del Crandall and Johnny Logan.

The Cubs handed three - time winner Bob Friend his first loss in four with a pitching duel of Ellsworth, a $10,000 bonus baby in 1956, Ellsworth, recalled from Houston Tuesday, walked none and struck out four for his first major league victory. Frank Thomas hit his fifth home run, third in two days, in a three-run eighth against reliefer Elroy Face.

SWAP JOBS

After the game, Lou Boudreau, who skippered three American League clubs before becoming a "color" announcer for Cub games, swapped jobs with Grimm, who lasted just 17 games in his third tour as Bruin manager.

McLish (1-2), the righthander who became an ace in the American League after only an 8-21 record in the National League, blanked the Giants on one hit after Willie Kirkland's solo home run in the fourth. The big righthander also blanked Willie Mays, who was hitless for first time this season, but who hit a sacrifice fly for a first-inning Giant run. The Reds beat Jack Sanford (2-1) with Roy McMillan's two-out single in the sixth.

The Cards managed two runs but only three hits in seven innings against John Buzhardt, then scored three unearned runs in the eighth for the winless righthander's third defeat. Joe Cunningham's two - run single was the winning hit, giving the decision to reliefer Marshall Bridges (2-0).

Pitching — Bob Buhl, Braves, kept Milwaukee in fourth place with three-hit 3-1 victory over the Dodgers.

Hitting—Bob Lemon, Senators, scored twice and drove in last four runs in 7-6 victory over the Indians, overcoming a 6-5 deficit with a two-run homer in the seventh.

NOT INTERESTED

CHICAGO (AP)—President Bill Veeck of the Chicago White Sox baseball team said Wednesday he has no intention of getting into the football business. Veeck disclaimed any interest in the American Football League which indicated Tuesday it hoped to place a franchise in Chicago by 1961. Veeck was named as possible head of a Chicago franchise group.

The New York Yankees have decided the easiest way to sail into first place in the American League is to shake loose from the Detroit Tigers and Frank Lary.

They did just that Wednesday, beating Lary for only the second time in two years with a 4-2 decision that gave them a half-game lead over Chicago's White Sox. Baltimore dropped the Sox to second by beating the defending champs 6-4 Wednesday night.

Washington barred Cleveland from a second place tie with a 7-6 victory over the Indians. The Kansas City A's beat Boston 5-4 and jumped free of the cellar as Detroit thumped Chicago's White Sox 8-3.

A six-hit pitching job by rookie Bill Short (2-1) and Elston Howard's two-run homer in the sixth inning made it two in a row over Detroit for the Yanks. Howard, pursuing a sore hand, connected a call in the fourth inning.

Lary (1-2) gave up six hits.

TWO-RUN SINGLE

The Orioles raped the White Sox with a four-run seventh inning assisted by Brooks Robinson's two - run single after Al Smith's two-bagger enabled the Birds to tie it four-all. Frank Baumann (1-1) was the loser in relief for Early Wynn, who lasted no his fourth try for his first victory. Jerry Walker was the 18th major league pitcher to strike out 2,000. The big right-hander fanned six in 4 1-3 innings for a career total of 2,003.

Hoyt Wilhelm (1-1) was the winner, although his knuckleball again gave catcher Gus Triandos trouble. Triandos set an AL record with three passed balls in one inning and tied the all-time high with four for the third time. The major league record for passed balls in one inning was set by Billy Katt of the then New York Giants in 1946 with Wilhelm the pitcher.

Jim Lemon drove in Washington's last four runs, bringing the Senators from behind with a two-run homer in the seventh.

Vic Wertz (1-0) was the winner in relief, coming in on a four-run Cleveland fifth that was triggered by reliefer Dick Hyde's second home run of the game, a two-run shot, Hal Briggs (1-1) lost it in relief.

The A's broke a shutout duel between winner Dick Hall (2-0) and Tom Brewer (0-2) with three runs in the fifth on Whitey Herzog's single, a bases-loaded walk and an error. Hall then singled home the first run elected in the sixth after reliever Al Worthington had followed a walk with two wild pitches. Marty Kutyna saved it for Hall by fanning Marty Keough with the bases loaded in the eighth.

CICIA TO AID MOSS

MONTREAL (CP)—Ray Cicia, former guard with Montreal Alouettes, was named to the club's coaching staff Wednesday as an assistant coach.

General manager - head coach Perry Moss said Cicia "will give us a great deal of help with his knowledge of Canadian football."

Toronto Leafs Lose Opener to Miami Marlins

By the Canadian Press

The two Canadian teams in the International Baseball League drew good crowds in beautiful weather to their home openers Wednesday and both lost.

Toronto had the league's largest 1960 crowd, 15,178, and lost 2-0 to Miami Marlins. Havana Sugar Kings spoiled Montreal Royals' home opener before 10,000 with an 8-2 victory.

Zack Monroe hurled the second consecutive shutout over league-leading Buffalo Wednesday, beating the Bisons 2-0 on a repeat of a six-hitter that Eli Grba hurled Tuesday. In Wednesday's fourth game, Luke Easter smacked a three-run pinch homer to break a 3-3 tie and give Rochester a 6-3 victory over the Columbus Jets.

DALLAS GREEN LOSES

Monroe (1-2) bested Dallas Green, who gave a run in the first on Reed's triple and also an infield out. The Vees got support from others in the eighth on Bill Skowron's single, a sacrifice and an error by Bison shortstop Bob Winkler. Monroe struck out nine and walked only one.

Easter, who won the season's opener at Havana with a homer, hit his game-winning blow after singles by winning pitcher Ray Sadecki and Charlie James in the eighth inning, off losing reliever Don Williams. Bob Matcosky and Jim Hickman also homered for Rochester.

An unearned run in the eighth and Gene Green's homer in the ninth accounted for Miami's scoring. Wes Stock (1-0) held Toronto to five hits. Al Cicotte allowed only three hits in eight innings.

U.S.A. and CANADIAN FACTORIES INCREASE TIRE PRICES

CANADA'S LARGEST TIRE RETAILER DEEP-CUTS TIRE PRICES . . . AGAIN!

CTC CANADIAN TIRE CORP'N

EASY TERMS — to suit your budget

Tire prices have generally gone UP in Canada and the United States recently . . . reflecting the increased costs of raw material and labour. BUT, HERE'S BIG NEWS for budget-wise, quality-conscious car owners — CANADIAN TIRE slashes tire prices across the board. Yes, in face of a rising market, your new SUPER-LASTIC TIRE actually costs you less — in every price range. These special reductions hold only on our present stock — and it's all brand new and factory fresh — from Canada's most modern tire building plants. You'll save . . . and you're safer — at every turn of the tire — on SUPER LASTIC.

SPRING LAMB

We are sorry that so many of our customers were disappointed last week in not being able to have some of our "Cressy" spring lamb.

However Mr. Carson delivered 100-lbs! load this week and while it should be ample we would advise ordering early in order to obtain the choicest cuts.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, May 4, 1956

General Tendencies: The daytime is unusually good for whatever has to do with having more charm and beauty in your life and for finding ways to do the little things in everyday living that please and delight others. Then tonight make sure you do not fuss or nag about anything or you can estrange a devoted admirer. Be gentle.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) A fine day to show more courtesy and be helpful to associates. In the early evening you may then be quite tired and want to take your ire out on co-worker. Take it easy instead or do those light chores of a personal nature that are important.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Do shopping or enjoy favorite sports during free time today, at lunch or coffee breaks. Bring happiness and cheer into the lives of others whenever you can. P.M. enjoy inexpensive pleasures and be sure to assist attachment.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) The situation at home can be greatly ameliorated if you are intelligent in all you do and say. Be charming, also. P.M. refrain from being a nag and realize that joking and fun will be appreciated far more by loved ones.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Dash about buying the accessories or clothing that you need today. Become a magnetic you. Then go about visiting and later be sure you write those important letters. P.M. fine for study. Understand your subject matter thoroughly.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21), — Make all your property more valuable today through improvements, color, cleanliness. Then set up a better bookkeeping system. P.M. be kind to valued advisers in some practical way. Don't forget to take treatments for your throat.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Since you are very magnetic today, you should see those key people who can give you the backing or other favors you covet. Be explicit in stating your aims. P.M. come through with obligations meticulously and with character.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)— Small yet thoughtful acts on your part toward loved ones bring excellent results and rewards today. P.M. fine for correcting any mistakes you may have made. Retire early.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can get some excellent results today if you will contact associates or comrades and give them the benefit of some of your inspired ideas. This will then be mutually helpful. P.M. guard your speech. Do not be caustic.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure you confer with those persons who have power over your financial and important personal affairs today. Impress them with your character and that you are a law-abiding citizen. P.M. act wisely — do not lose prestige.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A.M. is just fine for garnering new data and knowing how to systematize all of your affairs properly. Be sure you write those important letters. P.M. pay attention to what a new friend is saying but do not commit yourself.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Every opportunity is yours today to get tax or government-aid affairs, business matters, etc. in order. However, be particularly considerate in P.M. or you come to some misunderstanding where romantic attachment is concerned.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Day hours excellent for coming to better understandings with associates and cementing better relationships. Financial affairs. Meet any promises made. Tonight you must guard against any caustic remarks. Keep smiling.

If your child is born today — The delightful child born today will be the joy of all about him. Donnaramma and Joseph James or her, since your child will be are charged with torture and endowed with a very warm and cruelty to animals. happy nature. Begin to room your child early for appearances before the general public in whatever capacity is best indicated — music, the arts, politics. There is a great success in this chart, provided you guard against over-sensitivity.

WHAT IT IS!

Syntona is an effective formula of medicinal ingredients including 13 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. It is compounded in a modern laboratory under the supervision of skilled chemists and its unique formula has proven effective in thousands of cases. The ingredients in Syntona act on the stomach, liver and bowels. Taken before meals it tones up the food you eat, thus almost at once relieving upset stomach, indigestion, indigestion and sourness. It actually helps your stomach to digest the food you eat.

At the same time Syntona will bring grateful relief to your rheumatic aches, pains and headaches. Because Syntona will relieve constipation, it will also help improve appetite and end tired, draggy, rundown feelings.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

(ADVT.)

Always Tired? Draggy? Rundown? Take Syntona And Feel Better Fast

If you feel tired, worn-out and listless; if bowels are irregular and you suffer from indigestion, gas, heartburn, and sour, upset stomach; if you have headaches, backache and rheumatic pains and cannot get sound, restful sleep, see what relief you get from a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound.

Two Burned To Death At Trenton

Man And Woman Lived In Rented Rooms In Town

Blaze Had Good Start Before Being Discovered

TRENTON — Two persons died as the result of a fire at Trenton last night. Arthur Munro, 63, and Mrs. Hilda Calbury, about 42, occupants of rented rooms at the rear of a house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Harwood, at 204 Front Street, perished in the disastrous blaze, which gutted the insul-brick dwelling.

Evidently the fire had a good start before a neighbor noticed smoke billowing from the rear of the two-storey building. The owners were away from the house at the time. The alarm was put in at 9.35 p.m. Trenton firemen fought the stubborn blaze for two hours. The bodies were removed at 10.30 p.m.

The body of Mrs. Calbury was found in her bed and Munro's body was found inside the door leading to the outside.

Inspector Al. Williams of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office at Belleville, has been notified and will start investigations into the cause of the blaze today.

While all three fire trucks were occupied at the scene of the fire, a call was received by the department and a truck was dispatched to Bay Street, where a small shack near the sewage treatment plant was blazing. It is understood that a man had notified the police department earlier in the evening and had formed them that he was going to "burn down the shack" he is being held in custody.

Coffee and doughnuts were supplied to the weary firemen after they returned to the fire hall.

Arthur Munro served as a gunner at the front of Mrs. Wallace Wood of Trenton Thursday morning.

UGLY TORNADOES KILL 26 PERSONS IN OKLAHOMA

Torrential Rains Follow Twisters

WILBURTON, Okla. (AP) — Ugly black tornadoes killed 26 persons and injured about 200 in flashing attacks on Oklahoma Thursday night and today.

A twister destroyed 12 houses, two churches and the post office in the small community of Menifee this morning. A woman was killed and 20 persons were hurt.

Torrential rains followed the twisters and hampered rescue efforts. Most of the affected areas were without power and communications.

Eleven victims were counted in this Eastern Oklahoma college town and officials feared they would find more bodies under the rubble today. The best estimate of injured, taken by hospitals in several towns, was about 75.

OTHER SITES

Other tornadoes, all in Eastern Oklahoma, also:

Killed five, including four members of one family, and injured 15 in the Moffit-Doland area near the Arkansas border.

Killed three and injured six near Keota.

Killed two and injured possibly 10 in Spiro, just south east of Tulsa.

Killed one person in a rural area north of Sallisaw and killed another person at a crossroads community near Cheyenne.

Killed two and injured 12 south of Bristow.

Injured 13 in the Hoffman community.

HARDEST HIT

Wilburton, a town of 2,000 with another 1,000 students at Eastern A. and M. Junior College, was hit the hardest.

Two blocks of the downtown area were wrecked and the rest of the business section was heavily damaged. The city hall was blown away.

Homes in an area five blocks deep three miles were almost all levelled. Another 15 blocks of homes were heavily damaged.

Biggest town hit by the twister was Sapulpa, an industrial city of 15,000.

Body Recovered

TORONTO (CP) — The body of an unidentified middle-aged man was recovered by police from Toronto Harbor Thursday. It had been in the water for about two months.

Pig Trainer Is Charged With Cruelty

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Howard Hurley of nearby Echo Bay, who has received national publicity for his trained pigs, was charged with cruelty to animals Thursday.

The charge was laid by the Humane Society for the Prevention of Cruelty after a visit to Mr. Hurley's farm Wednesday by Brownie Sturgeon, SPCA inspector from Sturgeon Falls.

Mr. Hurley's pigs are trained to pull him along on a small cart and have been seen in many exhibitions and fall fairs.

The charge will be seized a number of steel bits from which pieces used to guide the pigs.

Mr. Hurley is to be heard in court here Monday.

Iroquois Indian 'Metropolis' Said Found Near Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — The site of a onetime Iroquois Indian "metropolis" has been discovered near Mount Pleasant in Cavan township, 12 miles southwest of here.

Walter Kenyon, assistant curator of the Royal Ontario Museum, said Thursday some 1,000 Indians probably lived in the village at the time of its peak.

Mr. Kenyon said he considers the Mount Pleasant area the centre of its large size—it covers 15 to 20 acres—and because of its location.

"I have never seen such a big settlement, or one in such a remote area," he reported. "This village was a metropolis—one of the big ones."

Iroquois villages were usually situated beside navigable lakes or rivers. The largest in Ontario are in Huronia, the area between Lake Simcoe and Georgian Bay, and on the shores of Lake Erie.

George Wilson of Mount Pleasant discovered the site while working on land he owns about three miles east of his home.

Mr. Kenyon plans to organize a party of 15 or 20 students to make a thorough study of the village.

He said the location is probably the most easterly of the Iroquois villages of the western group of Iroquois Indians. Algonquin tribes lived in the area of the Canadian Shield farther north.

Mr. Kenyon said he located "heaps of pottery," arrow points, flint knives, scrapers and other tools, a stone net sinker, bone awls, pieces of snipes and stone axes and "a community grind-stone."

Pinned Under Tractor

STRATFORD (CP)—Ephriam Mohr, 50, of New Hamburg was killed Thursday when he was pinned under the steering column of an overturned tractor on North Easthope township farm. His tractor went through a fence and dropped into a three-foot ditch while he was cultivating a field.

Wedding Gives Ministers Needed Breathing Spell

LONDON (CP) — A three-day weekend break, lengthened by today's royal wedding, offers a sorely-needed breathing spell to the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

With Wednesday's unrepentant defence of apartheid (racial separation) by South Africa's Eric Louw and Thursday's angry counterblast by Malayan leader Tunku Abdul Rahman, the possibility of a dangerous rift among the delegates has re-emerged.

Rahman, who had agreed to the compromise solution of pursuing the South African discussions informally rather than on the conference agenda, made it clear in his statement Thursday that he had walked out on the discussion because he considered Louw's defiant press conference as a breach of faith.

There were reports that Rahman had considerable sympathy among his fellow delegates and that Louw, South Africa's external affairs minister, was again in danger of being isolated. The possibility of a South African reply to Rahman's accusation that Louw had "re-enacted Pearl Harbor" offered little hope of conciliation.

KEPT APART

Significantly, separate plans were made for Rahman and

Truck Industry Asked to Sell Act to Provinces

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government should not be asked to impose a new highway transport act on the provinces until the provinces ask for it, Alberta spokesman J. J. Frawley told the royal commission on transportation Thursday.

Mr. Frawley advised the Canadian Trucking Associations to try to "sell" their proposed highway transport legislation to the provinces first—before pushing it on the federal government.

The draft legislation, aimed at replacing the present Motor Vehicles Transport Act, is a key issue in the CTA, brief to the royal commission, which is investigating railway problems and other related matters—including the impact of trucking on Canada's railways.

STRUCK BY CAR

WOODBRIDGE (CP) — Ernest Martin, 39, of Toronto died in hospital Thursday after being struck by a car on Highway 400 three miles east of here.

Commonwealth's Prettiest Maiden Aunt Is Bride Of Society Photographer

Gently Smiling Margaret Rose Solemnly Weds in Ancient Abbey

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — With ancient chivalry and religious solemnity a gentle smiling princess Margaret was married today to her commoner sweetheart, Antony Armstrong-Jones.

As millions watched, the "prettiest maiden aunt in the Commonwealth," long the most publicized girl in the world, softly exchanged vows with the 30-year-old society photographer, now himself the cynosure of all cameras.

One of the largest gatherings of the Royal Family and associated families of Europe was in historic old Westminster Abbey for an hour-long ceremony summing up all of Britain's yesterdays.

All the panoply of a great ceremonial occasion, for so long a British specialty, was packed into the scene as "Margaret Rose"—responding to the name part" with Antony Charles Robert Armstrong-Jones.

FROM SAME NUGGET

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, intoned the words the world had been waiting for, enjoining the couple to live in "perfect love and peace together," as the groom placed on the bride's finger a wedding ring made from the same nugget of gold as was used for rings worn by the Queen and Princess Mother.

London — and Britain — was in carnival mood for the fairy-tale wedding.

Prime ministers of the Commonwealth, whose gossamer bonds have been tested this week by controversy over South Africa's racial policies, suspended their deliberations and watched the ceremony from special stalls in the Abbey.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker sat between Prime Minister Holyoake of New Zealand and Menzies of Australia, with External Affairs Minister Louw of South Africa two stalls away.

The wedding had everything—a beautiful princess in a remarkable simple organza gown with diamond diadem and long train, carrying a bouquet of white orchids; the peal of bells, the sonorous swell of organ music, the tinkling jingle of breastpieces as the escort of the household cavalry trotted down the processional way to the Abbey; excited spectators along the route jumping up and down to catch a sight of the glass coach bearing Margaret and her father, who had given the bride away.

Margaret looked solemn as she stood beside her smiling brother-in-law, her arm tucked under his right arm. The duke, who is largely

Lay Murder Charge

OTTAWA (CP) — A murder charge was laid Thursday night against Arthur Hudon, 41, in the drowning death in the Ottawa River of Mrs. Mary Ann Lee of Rendrew.

Hudon and a companion, Jacques Daigle, 26, both of no fixed address, also were charged with robbery with violence.

The charges were laid on instructions from crown attorney Raoul Mercier shortly after the men were brought here from Montreal.

The men will appear in court today.

Will Give Small Firms Wholesale Price Protection

OTTAWA (CP)—New measures designed to protect small businessmen against price discrimination at the wholesale level are written into proposed new anti-combines legislation introduced in the Commons today.

The legislation, altered heavily by the government since being withdrawn from the 1958 session of Parliament, retains proposed curbs against misleading price advertising and loss-leader selling—the practice of selling certain items below cost to attract customers into a store in the hope of selling them more profitable lines.

The major new provision is a ban against discriminatory "promotional allowances" now depicted from the wholesale price of goods supplied by manufacturers or their jobbers to large retail stores or chains—but not to the small merchants.

Supermarkets are the primary target of the new proposal. At present, large grocery chains buying in volume are able in many cases to win wholesale price cuts, ostensibly for the purpose of advertising the manufacturer's product. Seldom are the same allowances made to the consumtly sales to the small, independent grocers.

Moscow Beats Montreal for 1967 World Fair

PARIS (CP) — The International Bureau of Exhibitions has awarded Moscow the 1967 Fair to Moscow. The vote Thursday was 16 for Moscow and 14 for Montreal.

Vienna had previously withdrawn its candidacy.

The choice of Moscow had been expected. Seven Soviet Bloc countries joined the international bureau 10 days ago.

Mass of Extra Hair Piled High Gives Margaret Added Height

LONDON (AP) — Sleepy-eyed but triumphant, hairdresser Rene Moulards revealed the secret of Princess Margaret's hair-do at 4:30 this morning.

Courturier Norman Hartnell won't go today. The secret will be handed out this morning of the wedding dress confirmed that news leaking down from above room more than a week ago were correct. But the wedding coiffure was a well kept secret.

For the first time in her long social career Margaret chose a chignon, a mass of curls artfully piled high on top of her head to give her added height.

Rene said he submitted seven sketches to the princess and she chose the only chignon.

"I changed the position of the chignon," he reported, "bringing it forward and reducing the height a little at the last minute."

Rene gave his royal client a shampoo, cut and set Thursday. He left at 10 p.m. this morning before the ceremony was combed and set pin on the ears.

Beneath the chignon Margaret's hair swept up from the brow. Curls covered her ears and swept forward on her cheeks.

The coiffure was completed by a sparkling diamond tiara, about five inches high at the centre spray of large round diamonds. The wedding veil was pinned at each side.

CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION POSED BY OPPOSITION

University Grants Subject of Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—Is it constitutional for a province to spend money in a manner stipulated under an arrangement with the federal government?

The question has become central to Commons debate on a bill aimed at making federal - scale grants available to Quebec universities.

The Liberals, who introduced the grants to universities when they were in office and suffered them to be rejected by Quebec as unconstitutional, now are expressing doubts about the new formula proposed by the Progressive Conservatives to solve the impasse.

Thursday a parade of Liberal speakers, led by Opposition Leader Pearson, criticized the formula, under which any province could take over payment of the grants.

The money would come from an increase in the provincial corporation income tax, with corresponding being permitted a comparable reduction in their federal income tax.

The Liberals consider the arrangement unconstitutional be-

Belleville Lodge Degree Team Wears Costumes of 100 Years Ago

This year The Belleville Lodge, A.F. and A.M. No. 13 is celebrating its centenary and at yesterday evening's regular meeting those doing degree work were attired in the costumes of their counterparts of 100 years ago. This part of the observance was the project was arranged by the presiding officers, Very Worshipful Brothers Harold Thompson and George Mountford.

A special presentation was made to The Belleville Lodge in the form of a registration desk set by the Past Masters, Masters and Wardens Association of the Prince Edward District. The presentation was made by the president of the association, Right Worshipful Ray Grant, to the Worshipful Master of The Belleville Lodge, Worshipful Brother Stanley Smith.

A special guest at the meeting was Right Worshipful Brother Earl McKeever of Port Hope who is Grand Registrar of the Grand Lodge of Canada in Province of Ontario.

Following the meeting there was the regular banquet at which the customary toasts were proposed.

Earlier in the day a pair of members rode through the streets of the city in a horse drawn rig in honor of the centenary. In the evening a number of people were attracted by the costumed members assembled at the front of the lodge building around a early model Ford driven by Worshipful Brother Ken Vivian.

RARE COINS SEIZED

HAIFA, Israeli (Reuters)—Several thousand silver coins dating from the days of Christ have been seized by police here from a Druze villager who tried to sell them. Police said they believed the villager found the coins in a large earthenware jar near the summit of Mount Carmel. Experts said the coins were minted between 60 B.C. and 60 A.D. and had apparently remained hidden for 19 centuries.

Jos. McDonald Bank Manager At Frankford

FRANKFORD — The Bank of Montreal announces the appointment of Joseph C. McDonald as manager of its Frankford branch, succeeding Ernest Caley who has been named manager of the Mount Forest branch of the bank.

Born at Chesterville, Mr. McDonald joined the B. of M. there in 1930 and has since served in various branches in this province, including branches in Kingston, Meaford, Wanstead, London, Timmins, Blenheim and Belleville. In 1954 he was appointed accountant at Tweed, where he served for three years before moving to Ingleside, as manager. He leaves his Ingleside post to assume his new post next week.

Interested in community activities, Mr. McDonald was treasurer of the Ingleside and District Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Caley, the departing manager, leaves Frankford after three years active in the organizations, he was treasurer of the Home and School Association and of the Lions Club, and service officer of the Canadian Legion.

IN MEMORIAM

COOKE. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. George ST. Cooke, who passed away May 8th, 1946.

A beautiful memory of one so dear,
A sacred thought we linger near,
No one can fill that vacant chair,
We miss her now and always will be there.
—Sadly missed by the family, Howard, Norman, Marion, Dan, Annie and Gladys.

GIFFORD. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Della Gifford, who passed away May 6th, 1956.
O Happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness,
For which there is no cure.
—Ever remembered by daughters Betty, Marguerite and Shirley and granddaughters Ronald and Donna.

STONE. — In loving memory of my dear husband and father passed away May 6th, 1957.
He left us but not forgotten,
And, as days and years roll by,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are ever nearest,
Days of sadness will come over us,
Memories will fall like rain,
But God will know the sorrow,
That this world has never revealed.
—Ever remembered by his loving wife Catherine Stone.

STONE. — In loving memory of our dear father who passed away May 6th, 1957.
Dad, we'll not forgotten, father, dear, for ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last,
We shall remember thee.
—Ever remembered by his loving son Jim and daughter-in-law Margaret.

STONE. — In loving memory of our dear father who passed away May 6th, 1957.
Think of him in silence,
His name I oft recall,
There is nothing left to answer,
But his picture on the wall.
—Ever remembered by his loving son William and daughter-in-law Mabel and granddaughter Brenda.

STONE. — In loving memory of my dear father who passed away May 6th, 1957.
Lonely for the sound of your voice
And sad with the longing to see
The face of our very precious friend.
—Inez.

Fond thoughts deep in our memory
Are cherished of our dear loving daughter Kit, son-in-law and grandchildren.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank all my relatives, friends and neighbors for cards, flowers and visits during my stay in hospital. Special thanks to my form pupils, Mrs. Bowerman and pupils of 10F, and Dr. Bell.
—Beverly Kilpatrick.

$2,000,000 Shopping Centre For East Belleville Proposed

Land sale arrangements for the construction of a two-million dollar shopping centre in East Belleville have been completed this week by Donald J. Whalen, local real estate broker and city councillor.

Construction of the large shopping centre proposed by Principal Investments will be conditional on city council giving an undertaking that they will not oppose an application for permits for two additional gasoline service stations in the area, and also that zoning change on the north side of Bridge Street to allow for commercial intersection would be allowed. The zoning change is claimed necessary to provide a buffer zone. Council will be asked that the changes be made purely subject to the condition the shopping centre will be built.

Sale price of the land involved was not disclosed but it is believed the highest received for any single parcel of land in the city. The amount is believed to be well over a quarter of a million dollars.

The estimated revenue to the city in taxation should the shopping centre be built, is over $50,000.

In addition to provision for a large number of shops, the complete shopping centre would have paved parking accommodation for 1,000 cars.

Campbellford Club Pays Visit to Senior Citizens

The Senior Citizens held their regular meeting Wednesday, May 4th, with a record attendance. The newly formed club of Campbellford were invited to 4 guests. President J. Brennan opened the meeting with the singing of the National Anthem. The Birthday Song was sung for 13 members, all joined hands, forming a ring in the centre of the room, while singing Happy Birthday. Mrs. Drummond led the singing also vocal solos, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced Mayor Rutherford of Campbellford. Mr. Bennett, Deputy Reeve, and Mr. T. F. Reynolds, Acting Reeve.

Members then round and square danced to the enjoyable music of Bruce Sills and Jim Comment with Mrs. Adams at the piano.

The spot dances were won by Mrs. Ray and Mr. K. Robertson, Mrs. Haley and Mr. Preston. The draw was won by Mrs. Phillips of Campbellford. Euchre winners: ladies, Mrs. McKinnon and Mrs. Thompson; gents, Mr. Hinde and Mr. C. Hyde.

A delicious lunch was served by the ladies of the executive. With the singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" brought an enjoyable meeting to a close.

Stanley Wilbur Given High Post With Company

Former well-known business man of this city, Stanley W. Wilbur has been appointed executive vice-president of the Canadian Wallpaper Manufacturers Ltd., of Toronto.

Mr. Wilbur is a son of Mrs. E. B. Wilbur of this city and the late Mr. Wilbur. A brother, Newton Wilbur, also resides here.

The new executive vice-president started in the wallpaper business here in 1932, when he purchased the Scantlebury interests.

He left here in 1936 when he became associated with the Empire Wallpapers of Toronto. He served with this organization in Toronto, three years in London, Ont., and nine years in Regina as advertising director.

Later he joined the Canadian Wallpaper Manufacturers Ltd. in the capacity of general sales manager, a position he held until his recent appointment.

While living in Belleville he was closely associated with figure skating and was a singer of repute. He is a Rotarian and past-president of the Regina Rotary Club.

Mr. Wilbur married Miss Alice Bell of Belleville. They reside in Toronto.

BOOST PRICES

BOSTON (AP) — Two Boston morning newspapers will raise their price a cent beginning next Monday for copies sold at stores, news stands and by street vendors. The Record and Morning Globe said the new eight-cent price is necessary because of the high cost of labor and production.

Fashion Show Given by Air Rangers

TRENTON — Wednesday night the First Flight Trenton Air Rangers staged a fashion show in the auditorium of Queen Elizabeth School. Organizer of the show, which featured beach and swim wear, nighttime "pretties", elegant formals in summertime fabrics and smart casual wear, was Mrs. Eva Smith.

Commenting on the various fashion firsts were Lynne Kerr and Carole Good. Models were: Kathy Hughes, Linda Baker, Susan Dowden, Margaret Brulnis, Cathy Barlow, Judy Frost, Sharon Ramsay, Janet Mowbray, Jean Kitchin and Sheila Cockrane.

In charge of a drew for door prizes was Joan Davis. F/O E. Armstrong was called upon to draw the winning tickets and prizes went to: Hazel Tass, Bonnie White, Wesley Brooks and Betty Bailey.

The Teen Aires' Band provided a musical background for the fashion parade.

300 Employees Of GE Company To Visit Station

TRENTON — On Saturday, Air Transport Command Headquarters at Trenton will play host to 300 quarter-century employees of the Canadian General Electric Company.

Members of the group will visit the hangars at the base where special displays have been set up, and a miniature air show will be staged for their entertainment.

May 28 will be Air Force Day at RCAF Station, Trenton. It is expected that the famous Golden Hawks aerobatic team will be the feature attraction.

BRANCH REPRESENTED

The Trenton branch of the John Howard Society was represented at the annual meeting of the provincial branch in Toronto last week by Mr. and Mrs. William Menzies. Mr. Jack Goldring of Trenton was elected to the provincial board of directors.

Mr. George Street, chairman of the national parole board commended the Trenton branch for the work they had done last year in endeavoring to rehabilitate a prisoner who had spent practically his entire life in various institutions in Ontario. Mr. Street reported that this man was now under supervision in another community in Ontario, and they felt him he was going to be successfully rehabilitated at last.

Bell Telephone Laying Cable Underground

TRENTON — Residents living in the vicinity of King Street and Dufferin Ave. have had occasion for the last two weeks to scratch their heads and demand of no one in particular, "What the heck are they digging for now?"

Visions of additional gas pipelines, misplaced sewers or even the happy thought that at long last some assayer has uncovered a rich vein of gold running under the pavement were dispelled by the announcement that the workmen who have been busy through the pavement and dug to a sizable trench were engaged in laying underground cable to be used by the Bell Telephone System.

The cable will extend from the Bell Telephone building at the corner of Middle and Balsam Sts. and will eventually be used to service the west side of the town. Similar operations have been carried out on the east side of town. This installation will eliminate serious damage to overhead lines from severe storms and will forestall service interruptions.

LEAPED TO DEATH

NEW YORK (AP)—A father, panicked by a fire in his fifth-floor apartment, leaped to his death Thursday with a four-year-old daughter in his arms. The child was critically injured. "If he had only held on five seconds more we would have had him," said Fire Capt. Francis Lutrel.

Napanee Youth Arrested After 60-Mile Police Chase

A sixty-mile police chase along 401 highway at speeds ranging up to 100 miles per hour ended up with the arrest of an 18-year-old Napanee driver early this morning — the charge, driving while his license was under suspension.

Provincial police at Belleville said the chase started just outside of Napanee on No. 2 highway and ended on a county road north of Brighton with the arrest of Howard Creighton R. R. 5 Napanee.

Creighton's car missed a turn on the Morganston county road and slammed into a tree, police said. Belleville based provincial police cruiser had the same fate when the driver was unable to see the turn because of clouds of road dust. No one was injured.

STARTED EARLY

The chase started about 1:30 this morning when O.P.P. Constable W. J. Lerway of Napanee spotted a car without tail lights. He tried to check the vehicle but the driver sped away west on No. 2 highway with the constable in pursuit.

The pursuit continued along No. 2 through Deseronto and Marysville, then north on 401. The police car was unable to catch the fleeing car and the officer radioed ahead to Belleville.

ROAD BLOCK SET OUT

A road block was set up at 401 and No. 37 but the fleeing car sped through the area with other cruisers from Belleville headquarters close up the chase.

With the police cruisers in hot pursuit the fleeing car sped along 401 highway to where it ends north of Brighton, then north on No. 30 highway before turning west on the Morganston county road.

Clouds of dust obscured the officers' vision on the gravel road and they failed to see a right angle turn ahead. Their car left the road and slammed into a tree. The two constables K. Basserin and R. J. Wood were not injured.

Occupants of the fleeing car also escaped injury when the car left the road and crashed into another tree nearby. Passengers in the car were Charles Thompson, Napanee and Harold Asselstine, Roblin, both 18.

Teach Spelling New Way

No criticism of the results of our educational system is heard more often than the charge that its products cannot spell.

This complaint is not limited to Canada. It is heard in other English-speaking lands, and we suspect in other countries where the language is not English.

New Zealand has decided to do something about it. Which is the easier word to spell, "aeroplane" or "hay"?

Almost every adult will answer "hay". New Zealand educational experts take a different view. The way to learning spelling, they maintain, is not whether a word is long or short, but whether the child is interested in learning it, whether he wants to use it in composition. He will learn a long word he wants to use more quickly than a short word which he may never want to use. In today's world, that means that the average child will probably learn to spell "aeroplane" quicker than he will learn to spell "hay".

A new first spelling list of 1,200 words grades each word according to the frequency with which a child needs to use it. Thus "water" is graded at the first level, "lake" at the second level and "gallon" at the third level.

The new method has the support of the New Zealand Council for Educational Research. The Council will conduct a survey in about four years' time to find out whether general spelling ability has improved. It is anticipated, however, that with the new spelling lists competing with older methods, teachers should be able to assess in about a year the merits of the different systems. It will be interesting to learn the results.

Immigration Figures

New immigrants entering Canada in the first quarter of 1960 totalled 16,589. There was no significant change in this total from the 16,955 people who came to Canada during the first quarter of 1959, but there were some interesting changes in the number coming from different lands. Italians were still the most numerous group, 4,350, but this figure was well below the 5,879 Italians who entered Canada in the first three months of 1959. Portugal, on the other hand, provided double the number of immigrants compared with a year ago and the figure for Greeks was also considerably higher. For some reason the number of Chinese entering the country was halved.

Immigrants from the United Kingdom increased slightly, as did those from the U.S.

One puzzling feature—there are three lists, by ethnic origin, country of last permanent residence and country of citizenship. We can understand the fact that the number of U.S. citizens coming to Canada, 1,896, is smaller than the number who resided in the U.S. before coming here—not all U.S. residents are citizens. What puzzles us is that the number of U.S. citizens is smaller than the number listed from the U.S. in the "ethnic origin" list and that the latter number is precisely the same as the number of those whose last permanent residence was in the U.S. Does mere residence in the U.S. change one's "ethnic origin?"

"Sulphurous Smog"

"The sulphurous smog of 20th century London bit deep into stone that had lasted since the 13th century"—Associated Press story on the history of Westminster Abbey, where Princess Margaret was married today.

"But the people raised a 'save the abbey' fund"—Associated Press "happy ending."

But there are still misgivings—"Complete restoration will take until 1975—and then it may be time to start again."

The Queen of London will probably be prepared to "save the abbey" again and again. But ought there not, perhaps, to be some effort to save the people? Does "sulphurous smog" which causes some wails "to flake as from some disease," have no effect on human lungs and skin?

How about a "stay the smog" drive?

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LIFE IS GROWTH

"Let it be known that when you are dead, you are a long time dead."

People frequently make this remark to justify living a worldly and indulgent life. Why shouldn't I drink and perhaps carouse once in a while. Just remember this — "When you're dead, you're dead, and you're a long time dead."

Of course, statements such as this come out of a wrong attitude toward life. For life is not something that we are to devour, not something that we are to despoil as invaders would despoil a city. Life is an opportunity to grow. Death, of course, comes at last. But death should not be just the raising of a glass and the hearing assurance that life was worthwhile and that there are no regrets. The end of a true life has to have something about it which is noble. We have to be able to look back upon things well-done, things love which was truly used, fish, upon ideals which were worth living and cherishing upon commitments to things of vastly more worth than our own creature comforts.

It is not true that we only live once and then die. We live once and then go on. Whither? We cannot describe the destination because no one has been there and come back, save Jesus Himself. But our faith tells us that what lies beyond is more glorious than anything we have ever known before.

Life in its truest sense is growth.

On Taking of Advice

Montreal Gazette

The great risk in giving advice is that people are likely to do the very opposite to what is recommended. Resentment of advice is an instinct, and it rarely fails to function.

This perversity in human nature is the cause of much distress. And it can give one a cold and twisted satisfaction to see the person who may even invite counsel, do the order is be contrary.

Bernard Shyder, the musical director of the Ballerina Festivus, has described how deeply disturbed he was on his tour in Germany, he says, her partner Nowlandi ventured to suggest that she was exerting herself needlessly, in the way she was performing a certain movement.

She knew at once he was right, but she would not admit it. Instead, she continued to give the most difficult rendering of the step, that she might satisfy her own obstinacy.

There is one way, however, in which a person may reject advice and then follow it, without any admission of having accepted it. It may be the way to carry this off but it can be done. And it is done by successfully accomplishing that which the counsel had not come from someone else but originated in oneself.

George Bernard Shaw could be very artful in this procedure. It was a procedure he employed his brusque and confident manner peculiarly suited him.

In his old age, while he was living at Ayot St. Lawrence, he took his exercise cutting wood. A friend, noticing that the tree overhead was a dangerous one, set a heavy branch might collapse upon him at any moment. He advised Shaw to do his cutting on a safer tree.

Shaw would not listen to this advice. "I like to be well away from the house," he explained, "and on my own." He had been asked for advice and was treating in that corner. "When you are on the land you grow into it," he told his neighbor. "You don't transplant an old tree."

His neighbor felt he could not save the great man to be killed by a rotting elm. He silently went home and got woodcutting equipment to a far part of the garden. There it would be within easy reach of the house and open to the sun — a far more suitable spot.

This thoughtful neighbor could not be sure how he would be received by Shaw when he called again. But Shaw was far too clever and too self-confident to suggest that the change, and far too much himself to admit that he was yielding to advice.

"Next day", his neighbor writes, "when I came in he asked me how I liked the new place where he did his sawing! Of course I thought the spot was admirable. He looked up at the trees and told me that the tree should have been cut long ago . . . If I had been foolish enough to have left the job well . . . I would have been underneath a heavy branch."

But something more than obstinacy may cause a person resentful of advice. At times advice, however well-founded and however kindly given, is resented from what a person is able to do or to be is a reflection on himself. An adviser may only be making the obvious he advises all the more painfully aware that the difficulties are beyond solution.

Some years ago I was told by a medical adviser that she must not tire herself. "Your Majesty must not do more than is essential

CYCC Annual Convention Opens Tonight

The fifth annual Christian Young Councillors' Convention, mid-eastern zone, will be held in Belleville from May 6th to 9th. The convention will begin this evening at 7.30 and will conclude on Sunday afternoon at 3.30 p.m.

The CYCC is an interdenominational meeting of older boys from fifteen to twenty years of age. The convention teaches them parliamentary procedure and relates them to the Older Boys' Parliament in Ontario. The purpose of the convention is also to develop Christian fellowship and leadership. One boy expressed the feeling of all the boys at last year's meeting when he said "it was a wonderful weekend stressing fellowship and spiritual guidance."

The theme of this year's convention will be "The Age and I," and such subjects as "my vocation, my friends, my church, my faith and my function" will be discussed. One of the highlights will be the Saturday evening banquet at 7.30 p.m. Rev. Keith Gleed, formerly councillor for the "Saints" in Toronto, whose story was recently televised, will be the guest speaker.

Bridge Street United Church will be host to the convention with St. Thomas' Anglican, Christ Church Anglican and St. Andrew's Presbyterian Churches also making their facilities available for portions of the convention. It is expected that seventy-five boys from Belleville and the surrounding areas will attend. Out-of-town boys will be billeted overnight by the local churches.

Any boy interested in attending all or part of the convention may contact the Registrar, Rev. J. C. Riesberry, by phoning WO 8-0533 for further information.

Agricultural Service Centre Will Be Built at Brighton

Public Works Minister, Raymond Conneli, announced today that the contract for the construction of the new Agricultural Service Centre Building in Brighton had been awarded to M. Sullivan and Sons Ltd., Arnprior. The tender price is $234,713.

The building, which is expected to be completed this Fall, will provide a headquarters for agricultural operations for the Eastern-Central section of the Province. It will be a single-storey brick structure with finished cement block basement. The main floor will have office space for the agricultural representative, his assistant, inspectors, home economics personnel, the Fruit and Vegetable representative, Soils and Field Crops representatives and the agricultural engineer. It will also contain a Board Room capable of seating 150 for agricultural meetings, a survey and other facilities.

Located in the basement will be a receiving area for animals being brought in for inspection, treatment operations, post mortiems, etc. There will be a corridor running the 140-foot length of the building and, opening off this, will be a large recessed area into the operating room for the purpose of enabling farmers to witness the techniques of various operations.

An office for the veterinarian and laboratories for chemical, bacteriology and dairy husbandry research, will also be contained in the basement. Other facilities will include a glass wash-up room, a woodworking shop, changing rooms, and stores.

OMB Chairman Reserves Decision On Request of City to Debenture Floating Deficit of Corporation

Assessment of certain local improvement costs against property owners not previously billed for the work done, may still slightly reduce Belleville's floating indebtedness of $387,420.00.

This submission was made to a hearing of the Ontario Municipal Board here Thursday afternoon called to consider the application of the city for authority to issue debentures to cover its indebtedness resulting from deficit financing and from operation of a senior hockey team.

The floating indebtedness of the city to the end of 1959 is given as $387,420.00 plus an additional $91,438.00 for the parking authority, or an overall total of $478,858.00.

The hockey and arena deficit to the end of 1958, was given as $125,292 and for 1959, $32,138, or a total of $157,430.

TAXPAYERS HAVE CHOICE

The lion's share of the indebtedness, amounting to 16.67 mills is being assessed against the older portion of the city, while 3.05 mills is being assessed against that portion of the city annexed from Sidney and Thurlow townships as of January 1st, 1959.

Taxpayers will have the choice of paying the special levy at one time or over a five-year period.

The hockey and arena deficit will cost taxpayers in the older section of the city a total of 6.78 mills, while the 1959 hockey and arena deficit will cost property owners in the annexed area 1.15 mills. Both rates are included in the overall rates mentioned above.

BOARD CHAIRMAN PRESIDES

Yesterday's hearing was before J. A. Kennedy, QC, municipal board chairman, who at the conclusion of submissions, said he would delay decision on the city's application until he received the report as to the amount of the deficit which could be identified as proper local improvement costs.

He said that the report be made available by the auditors as soon as possible.

The decision of the board will be necessary before the special tax levy covering the city's indebtedness can be sent out to taxpayers.

Very little interest was shown by Belleville taxpayers in the municipal board hearing with only two residents, ex-Mayor Gerald B. Hyde and former city manager Drury S. Denyes, questioning the amount of the deficit figures as given by Robert Irvine, representing city auditors George A. Welch and Company.

The city's case was presented by E. Guss Porter, city solicitor, who called only the one witness.

Both Mr. Denyes and ex-Mayor Hyde suggested there may be local improvement items in the over-all deficit figure which should not have been included.

Some of the local improvement work dates back as far as 1951 and city auditors will re-scrutinize records in an effort to determine what proportion could still be billed.

Mr. Denyes also referred to a loan of $23,000 made by the city to Belleville General Hospital to make up for unpaid pledges toward construction of the hospital wing. He claimed this amount should have been debentured and paid by the entire city.

Another item referred to by Mr. Denyes was the cost of parking meters installed on parking authority lots, which he said was to be paid out of meter revenue.

Ex-Mayor Hyde questioned what had been done about 1958 high school costs for Sidney township residents since annexed to the city. He said these costs were payable in 1959 but to his knowledge property owners had never been billed.

In reply the city auditor said the $23,000 hospital item had been considered as part of the city's capital loan overdraft at the end of 1959 and Mr. Kennedy said he was satisfied this matter should be left as it now stood.

To Ex-Mayor Hyde's question about unpaid high school costs claimed owed by the annexed portion of Sidney township, Mr. Irvine said this also had been classed as part of the deficit, and would be taken into consideration at the time adjustments for annexation were finalized.

To Mr. Denyes' question regarding parking meter costs, Mr. Irvine said this also has been considered part of the deficit as regardless of the method agreed for payment he felt the payment was due at the end of 1959.

Both Mr. Denyes and Ex-Mayor Hyde stated they were somewhat in the dark in were somewhat in the dark in sending their submissions as they presenting their submissions as they had not seen the auditor's report to determine what items had been included in the deficit.

Ex-Mayor Hyde emphasized, however that he was not objecting to the deficit figures — he only wanted to be helpful.

Mr. Kennedy agreed that any items which could be properly identified as being approved local improvements should not be included in the deficit figure and said he would delay his report until auditors were able to supply him with the necessary figures.

ST. MARGARET'S E. G.

Monday night's meeting of St. Margaret's Evening Guild was opened with a prayer followed by a talk on the revised edition of the prayer book, conducted by the Rev. L. A. Page.

A business meeting took place later and various projects were planned for the fall bazaar.

Coffee and refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Grew and her group.

Parkdale Baptist Church to Issue Bonds

The Parkdale Baptist Church voted Thursday evening to issue building bonds for the erection of their new church to be built this summer on North Sidney Street, Belleville. The Church voted to raise up to $20,000 in bonds. Total cost of the building is expected to be about $55,000, and the value of the land is $7,500.

The plans of the new church are expected to be ready for approval by the congregation by next Tuesday. Erection is expected to begin by the first of July, 1960.

A permanent building committee was elected by the congregation. The new members are: Rev. Robert Snyder, chairman; Mr. Stuart Blake, Mr. Stephen Chapman, Mr. Donald Ernst, and Mr. Harold Robinson.

The bonds will be transferable, 6 per cent interest bearing, and maturing in ten years, but each year the church will redeem a number of the bonds issued.

They will be sold in denominations of $50, and multiples thereof.

An instalment plan is also being arranged for those desiring it. It is the intention of the committee to sell at least half of the issue in the next two months. All the members of the church will be enlisted in the bond-selling program, and will be able to answer questions, and provide literature for those interested.

Blossom Time in Niagara

May 13-21, is Blossom Week in the Niagara Peninsula, the fruitland of Ontario. Millions of petals will unfold to the sun and the gaze of goggle-eyed gapers will clog the highways and make the entire district a mecca for their first glimpse of this springtime beauty.

Officially recognized last year under the auspices of the Niagara Development Committee and the Greater Niagara Chamber of Commerce, "Blossom Week" has been an unofical attraction ever since the first highway traveller spotted the beauty of the blossoms.

Each petal represents the rich goodness of the fruit to come, either fresh from the harvest or hygienically locked in cans. Niagara freestone peaches, Bartlett and Keiffer pears, and prune plums are making their debut this week, dressed in delicate pink and white, to the delight of the onlooker. Whether you attend this comin-out ball or not, you can mark "Blossom Week" on your calendar with this springtime salad.

On a bed of lettuce, water cress or other spring greens, place a mound of cream cheese softened with the juice from a can of pears. Over this place (outside down), a freestone peach half. Slice the pears in petal shape and arrange in formation around the peach centre.

Keen-Age Club Hears Talk on 'Decorating'

The May meeting of the Keen Age Club of Tabernacle United Church was held in the church parlors with president, Stella Swetman, presiding.

The catering activities of the group are presently being completed for the summer with the Club in a sound financial position.

The V.O.N. tea is being held next Wednesday in Tabernacle United Church and the girls were reminded to donate home baking to this project.

The group was delighted in having Mr. G. Stuart Hall, interior designer from Curtis Products, Oshawa, speak to them.

The subject he chose for the evening was "What Interior Design Means." It was indeed evident he all present as the subject progressed, that 'Gary' has had a most thorough and comprehensive training for his profession.

On completion of his talk, a question and answer period was held while Gary took place in a most extremely busy for a time. It was evident there should be considerably more interior planning on among the club members.

"Gary" was assisted by Mrs. Stansfield, not only a most informative, but enjoyable evening.

Refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

Recital Pieces Given by Harmony Club

The Harmony Studio Club met at the home of Mrs. L. Veley, 11 Holloway Street, on Wednesday, May 4th.

Mrs. C. Scott presided and welcomed all those in attendance.

The customary reports were heard. The annual recital was announced for later in May.

The forepart of the program consisted of numbers that are being prepared for the 'recital and for the June examinations and were played by the following pupils: Bruce Christopher, Finale; and Three Blind Mice; Karen Terry, Bourree; Sharon McDonald, Study No. 5, Beller music from Rosamine and Ecossaise; Diane Shorey, Sonatina; David McDonald, Sailor Lad; Garfield Smith, Minuet in G Minor; Victoria Bonisteel, Bach's Minuet; Joan Waters, Sonatina; Stephen Pindall, Tocata; Marilyn Huntley, Sonatina; Grant Hancock, Rondo; Sandra Hanna, Sonatina; and Marina Bongard, Prelude in A Minor.

The last part of the program featured Mrs. Agnes Irwin Longworth gave the story of his life and afterward played his "Etude" in a duet with Mrs. Veley.

The following works of Chopin were played: Waltz-Ab in Flat; Waltz Op. 69 No. 1, Nocturne, Trois Ecossaise, Waltz in Minor, by the following pupils: Karen Pindall, Marina Bongard, Irma Bruce, and Roger Ling and Wayne Vance.

Refreshments were served.

Wedding

MOSSMAN — BERGER

Baskets of white 'mums, ringed with pink gladioli, flanked the altar in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, April 30th, at 2.30 p.m. for a lovely spring wedding, when Rosemary Grace Bladen, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bladen, became the bride of John Robert Mossman, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Mossman. The Reverend Archdeacon, J. B. Creegan, rector of the church officiated. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. John Croyden Withers, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the choir of six boys in their rendition of "O Perfect Love", before the ceremony and "Love Divine, All Love Excelling", during the singing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her bridal gown of delicate white lace over taffeta, fashioned with moulded bodice and bouffant skirt in cocktail-length, featuring a shirred nylon summerhand with back bow interest and square neckline, the sleeves complemented by white lace mitts with white satin shoes. She wore a crown-style headdress encircled with brilliants and lace with finger-tip veil of white illusion and carried a bouquet of red roses tied with wide white satin ribbon.

She was attended by Miss Beverley Flower of Massegaga, Ontario, maid of honor, wearing a cocktail-length gown of rose-coloured lace over taffeta accented by a shirred taffeta cummerbund, white shoes, white lastshaped headdress studded with seed pearls, and lace mitts matching her gown, in rose design. She carried a bouquet of pink roses mingled with white 'mums.

Miss Katherine Mossman, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, attired in pale blue lace over taffeta fashioned similarly to that of the maid of honor, with teal blue accessories and white linen shoes. She also carried a nosegay of pink roses and white 'mums.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Allan Berger of Trenton, while Messrs. James Wallbridge, of Huff's Island, and Fred Mossman, brother of the bridegroom, of Belleville, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the parish hall, where the bride's mother received, wearing a beige wool suit with beige and brown accessories, and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegrooms' mother who was attired in turquoise wool suit with grey and white accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred by an all-white, three-tier wedding cake with pink roses, topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom, and two white doves wearing wedding rings, beneath an arch of white roses. The base was flanked with white tulle, and little pink rosebuds. The bridal bouquet was a delightful nuptial accent.

For the wedding trip, by motor, Lake Ontario, and back to Belleville, and other western points, the bride chose a mint-green woollen ensemble with black and white accessories and corsage of white pink rosebuds.

Guests attended from Belleville, Marina Bongard, Irma Bruce, and Roger Ling and Wayne Vance.

Attendants were served.

Margaret's Wedding Gown Simplest Ever for Royalty

By MURIAL PENN

LONDON (Reuters)—Princess Margaret was an all-white bride today in a beautiful dress of white silk organza and carrying a bouquet of white orchids.

The dress she wore for her marriage to Antony Armstrong-Jones probably was the simplest royal bridal gown ever in terms of embroidery and other trimmings.

Its only trimming was rouleau piping in the same white silk organza from which the whole dress is made.

The dress was classic in style, with a fitted hip-length bodice slightly pointed in front and a voluminous skirt flowing out into a train at the back.

The high standby neckline with a small V-front was piped with an organza rouleau which continued right down the centre front of the bodice.

IN THREE LAYERS

The skirt was made of three layers of organza cut into 12 panels which fell from pleats into the base of the bodice and joined by a fine rouleau piping which also ran down the centre back seam.

The entire hem of the dress, with the light-fitting full length sleeves and the fine veil also were piped with organza rouleau.

The whole dress was mounted on a full cream of ruffled white tulle.

With it the tiny princess wore white crepe court shoes with white satin facings and 2½-inch heels.

Princess Anne and the seven other bridesmaids were dresses which were replicas of the bride's first evening dress—the favorite of Margaret's father, the late King George VI.

OF ORGANZA

The dresses were of plain white silk organza, like the bride's, had little-girl bodices, short cuffed sleeves and peter pan collars tied with a blue ribbon bow.

Panels of broderie anglaise, slotted with pale blue ribbons, fell from the narrow waist to the mid-length skirt.

Around the hem was a band of graduated pin-tucking, bordered with three rows of broderie anglaise.

The bridesmaids' head dress was in the form of a halo, slightly tilted, at the centre and with a forward sweep over the ear and on to the cheek, in soft white feathers.

They were made up of flowers, fashioned in white feathers, interspersed with white ribbon rosettes and sprays of "trembling" crystal drops.

The bridesmaids' shoes were of white kid court shoes with low kid-covered heels and white satin bows.

DIAMOND TIARA

In the midst of royal splendor, only a wide diamond tiara blazing on her head distinguished Princess Margaret's bridal attire from that of other springtime brides.

The royal wedding dress was no surprise, for closely resembled advance reports and sketches. But Margaret's hair-do was.

HOLLOWAY ST. UNITED CHURCH (WMS)

The May meeting of W.M.S. convened May 2 at the church. The meeting opened with community singing, Mrs. Hubbs at the piano.

Mrs. T. F. Townsend extended a welcome.

Mrs. Kilbank reported 83 calls made in April.

Mrs. Johns spoke on "Federation of Women in the United Church," which opened with meeting the allocation for the great Missionary Thrust Fund.

Mrs. C. Holmes announced the Leadership School to be held in Whitby August 15-21. The theme this year "Into All the World, Together."

Plans for the "Blossom Tea" to be held in June were discussed.

Mrs. Way and Mrs. T. Cooke had charge of devotional. The theme was "Mother's Day." The hymn, "Happy the House When God is There," was sung.

Mrs. Vance read the Scripture from Proverbs 31, and Mrs. Cooke gave the meditation. She said in part, "A mother is made by her son or daughter. No matter how great as a mother she may have been, history records her no such recognition if the son or daughter fail her. We know Mary, the peasant girl of Galilee, because of Jesus, the carpenter son of Nazareth. She read a poem, a tribute to mothers, "Old Fellas":

"I have worshipped in churches and chapels,
I've prayed in the busy street.
I have sought my God and have found Him
Where the waves of His ocean beat;

I have knelt in the silent forest
In the shade of some ancient tree,
But the dearest of all my altars
Was raised at my mother's knee.

"I have listened to God in His temples
I've caught His voice in the crowd.
I've heard him speak when the breakers
Were booming long and loud.
Where the winds play out their symphony
With the treetops
My Father has talked to me.
But I never have heard Him
Than I did at my mother's knee."

Mrs. Way read the story of Hannah, the mother of Samuel. Mrs. Sutherland sang a solo, "The Church by the Side of the Road," which was much enjoyed.

After singing "Faith of Our Mothers" and prayer refreshments were served and a social half hour was enjoyed.

EVERGREEN — WILSON

BONARLAW — A double-ring ceremony was performed on Saturday, April 16th at 2 p.m. at Seymour parsonage, when Rev. G. Whitehorne united in marriage Shirley Helen Wilson, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Wilson, of Petherick's Corners and Cornelius Evergreen, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Evergreen, Stanwood in Bonarlaw vicinity.

The bride was attired in a street-length sheath dress of powder blue lace over taffeta trimmed with satin. A matching double-brimmed pillbox with three-quarter length sleeves, white shoes and gloves completed her ensemble. She carried a nosegay of white mums and pink roses.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Margaret Wilson, who wore a dress similar in style to that of the bride's but in beige. Her nosegay was of white and pink mums.

The reception for approximately 50 guests was held in Sentinel Orange Hall at Smithfield's Corners.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a dress of navy blue crepe with a white floral design, accented by a large white collar, with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a dress of navy and white with a corsage of pink and white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Evergreen will reside on the bridegroom's farm near Stanwood.

Community Friends Mark 80th Birthday

CENTENARY — On Monday afternoon about 40 friends met in Belleville, Centenary and vicinity gathered at the home of Mrs. Roy Thrasher to honor Mrs. Thrasher's sister, Mrs. Robert Hart, on the occasion of her 80th birthday. Mrs. Hart, whose maiden name was Ethel Goldsmith, has lived on the homestead which has been in the Goldsmith family since the land was settled. She has served in Centenary United Church and Sunday School all her life and for a number of years was choir leader and soloist.

Mrs. Fred Aikens presented Mrs. Hart with a lovely corsage. After a sing-song led by Mr. Percy Sutherland a number of appropriate readings were given by Mrs. W. Harper, Mrs. H. Nobes, Mrs. L. Pearson and Mrs. E. Ray. Mrs. Fred Aikens expressed congratulations to Mrs. Hart on reaching this milestone, mentioning that the number of friends present was a tribute of her friendliness to others.

Mrs. G. Sills presented Mrs. Hart with a hymnary; Mrs. E. Edmondson an electric iron, and Mrs. R. Ray an electric toaster to Mr. and Mrs. Hart. Several cards, also a lovely pot of 'mums were among the gifts.

Mrs. Hart expressed her deep appreciation of the kindness of her many friends in remembering her on this occasion and for the lovely gifts presented to her.

Mrs. Thrasher carried in a candle-lit birthday cake, which had been made and decorated by Mrs. Lloyd Pearson, and all joined in singing "Happy Birthday."

After Mrs. Hart blew out the candles, a delicious lunch was much enjoyed, bringing to a close a happy occasion which will long be remembered by all.

MODERN MANNERS

— Carolyn Hagner Shaw —

HEADWAITER VOICES PET PEEVES

Seeing ourselves as others see it is sometimes a humbling sight. The comments expressed to me by the headwaiter of a large hotel, relative to our dining-out manners, rather made me pause and think. They disclosed how thoughtlessly remiss we sometimes are! Perhaps a little resume of some of his "pet peeves" won't do us any harm!

When arranging a party, don't be afraid to reveal your likes and detailed knowledge of how to go about it. Ask the headwaiter for his valuable suggestions. They are backed by years of experience in planning successful parties. Save confusion and embarrassment later on by seeing that all arrangements well ahead of time. Also, let the person who insists upon bringing his own flowers, wines, candy and nuts. This is an imposition. After all, the hotel is in business for that purpose. Make some effort also to make last-minute changes in the number attending, considering the resetting of the whole table.

Never just barge in and sit down when you enter a hotel dining room. Always wait for the headwaiter to seat you. If he is really busy, as he often is, don't seat yourself at an empty table that you pass en route!

When ordering meals, remember that only one person at a time should give an order. Don't take forever to give your order, and speak clearly when you give it. Pity the poor waiter who has three people giving him orders at the same time; or who doesn't bend low to catch your mumbled desires.

Make sure that you're not guilty of any of the following errors: Never summon the waiter! The table hopper who leaves from table to table, causing the men at the tables to rise; the friend, obstructing waiter service and causing the food to get cold; the person who becomes rudely belligerent over a supposed error in his check, without excusing himself and going to one side to talk it over; the self-important guest who tests his water glass, whistles or snaps his fingers to attract attention; the person who uses the tablecloth for a scratch pad or balances a cigaret on the edge of his plate and often burns the cloth; the guest who cordially invites himself a special case, demanding a great deal of attention, and who makes caustic and loud comments about the service and the food, threatening to "go to the manager."

Perhaps the most annoying person to cope with, according to the headwaiter, is the total alien to stranger who greets him as if he were a long-lost friend. Such a person seems to be laboring under the illusion that by slapping the headwaiter on the back with a great display of intimacy, he not only impresses his friends, but also will obtain one of the best tables in the room. If he only knew! A table behind a post is much more apt to be his lot!

Question: A friend and I recently visited a bachelor of our acquaintance. Our host, after making us comfortable, passed us cigars and cigarets. I accepted a cigaret and lit it immediately. The host was quite upset when he chose a cigar, snifted at it, and placed it in his pocket. This seemed a rather rude thing to do. What do you think?

Answer: I think you are absolutely right. When cigars, cigarets, candy, etc., are accepted at a friend's home, they should be smoked or eaten at once. It is an affront to your host to put them away for future consumption.

Question: I have a boy friend who is criticizing me so much. I always open doors for myself, lightly my cigarets, etc. He says he should do this when we are on a date. I am used to willing to myself and don't see any reason why I should let him do things for me. What do you think?

Answer: That you are wrong, young lady! It is a man's prerogative to wait upon the lady he is escorting. It is his privilege to perform these small courtesies. Not allowing him to do so makes him conspicuous to others present and results in his resenting your display of independence. Final result? One less friend." You don't have to be a "clinging vine" — but at least be feminine and let the man perform the courtesies that are expected of him.

Mrs. R. F.: Would very much like your recipe or English Pork Pie.

ANSWER:

This is the authentic recipe for:

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

FRIDAY

Grilled Golden Pickerel with Barbecue Sauce; Fluffy Mashed Potatoes; Buttered Peas; Cucumber Cheese Mould (see Thursday); Melon Ball Fruit Cup; Chocolate Chip Cookies; Coffee.

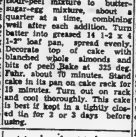
ENGLISH PORK PIE:

Simmer 3 pounds lean pork in barely enough water to cover until very tender — about 3 1-4 hours. Drain and measure liquid. Make it up to 2 cups by adding boiling water. Soak 2 tablespoons gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes and dissolve by stirring into hot meat liquid. Chop meat coarsely or put into piece of cotton. Line a 3" deep medium-size baking dish with English Pastry: Melt 1-2 cup beef dripplings and 1-2 cup lard together (or all lard may be used) with 1-3 cup water and 1 teaspoon salt. Remove from heat; blend in 2 cups sifted flour until smooth. Roll out half to 1/8" thick; line sides of baking dish with pastry. Fill with meat mixture. Roll out remaining pastry to fit top; cover and bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 deg. for 1 hour or until gold brown. Serve hot or cold. Cold, this is solidly jelled and slices nicely.

QUESTION:

Last week I hunted through Cook Book looking in vain for a recipe or pork pie with pickles. . . I would appreciate it if you could send it to me. Would also have you one for caraway seed cake. . . Mrs. R. J. E.

ANSWER:



See recipe above for the Pork Pie with pickles you request. The following recipe for Caraway Seed Cake should satisfy the most ardent caraway seed fan for the 1-3 cup sliced blanched almonds listed in recipe.

PEEL LOAF CAKE:

2-4 cup butter or margarine, 1 cup fine granulated sugar, 2 unbeaten eggs, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 2-3 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup finely-chopped mixed candied peels, 1-2 cup sliced candied almonds, (optional) or 1-4 cup caraway seeds.

Cream butter, gradually blend in sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, combining well after each addition. Sift in vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt and add peels and nuts and coat with flour mixture. Add dough-peel mixture to butter-sugar-egg mixture, about a quarter at a time, combining well after each addition. Turn batter into greased 14 1-2 x 4 1-2" loaf pan, layered evenly. Decorate top of cake with blanched whole almonds and bits of peel. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. about 70 minutes. Stand cake in its pan on cake rack for 15 minutes. Turn out on rack and cool thoroughly. This cake is best if kept in a tightly closed tin for 3 or 3 days before using.

Mother's Helper

WHEN your child has an overnight guest. It's not easy for them to slip off to sleep as usual. Offer them a choice of staying up a half-hour or so beyond the normal bedtime, or going to bed at once and having the half-hour with you tomorrow. If they choose to stay up, be firm about no talking once they've retired.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and three readers. Each week it is presented with an actual case history. The Council reports on problems which have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. D. J. — Claire will have a better chance of marriage without her child.

Claire R. — I don't know if I want to marry again.

Mrs. D. J. — I am a widow concerned about my daughter who needs my help, yet refuses to take it.

Claire has had two unsuccessful marriages. Her first husband by whom she has a 7-year-old daughter, was a scoundrel who married her for the money he thought she had. The second time, she married on the rebound and later discovered her husband was a mental case who had spent much of his life in hospitals.

Now Claire has become manshy. She says she just doesn't want to meet anyone, she is not yet 30 and has her whole life to live for, I want to take care of her daughter while she goes travelling and staying at resorts. She will have a much better chance of querrying again if she keeps her child in the background.

* * *

Claire R. — Maybe I have become mane-shy. Anyway, all I know is that I don't feel like travelling around or stopping at this or that resort and looking for the field over, searching for another man.

I guess I'm just unlucky in love. Certainly nothing good has ever come of my relationships with men. My mother and a lot of other people may think I'm stupid, but I'd rather remain single the rest of my life than fall into another mistake.

I realize that I'm not likely to get anywhere just staying at home with my daughter, but I can't seem to care much what happens to me from now on. The best years of my life have gone by and I've had nothing but a lot of heartache and heartbreak. From now on I'll let the future take care of itself.

* * *

The Council: It is noteworthy that neither Claire nor her mother speaks of the interests of the little girl. Yet she should be the most important factor in Claire's considerations.

This child should not be shunted out of the picture and placed in the care of a grandmother while her mother goes out looking for a third husband. Apparently the plan is to suddenly produce the child as a disagreeable surprise — once the man has been bagged.

On the other hand, the child should not be enclosed in a gloomy environment with a depressed, self-pitying mother.

If this little girl is to get a decent chance in life, her mother must break out of the wretched cycle of tormenting situations she has imposed upon herself.

The fact that Claire speaks of "luck" and says "the future take care of itself" is a fair enough indication that she does not see herself as the shaper of her own destiny. She has never fully taken on the responsibility for her life.

Mrs. D. J.'s suggested plan for Claire indicates that she is all too ready to manage Claire's life. She seems to have little regard for her daughter's feelings when she speaks of hustling her off into another marriage before the young woman has a chance to recover from two disastrous experiences.

Claire needs responsibility rather than the opposite. Her place is with her daughter, but she should also remember that more is required of her. She must become a whole person herself if she is to help the child with men normally. That means leaving behind her self-pity and acting in accordance with the dictates of her own mind and conscience — not her mother's.

Family Should Prepare Dinner on Mother's Day

By EDNA BLAKELY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — If Mother's Day—Sunday, May 8—is to be a truly festive occasion for mother then the family should prepare dinner on that day. And, of course, mother shouldn't be allowed to do the dishes.

A menu, planned especially to be made by dad and the children, has been worked out by the consumer section of Canada's department of agriculture.

Here's the menu: tomato juice, baked marinated chicken, baked potatoes, buttered corn niblets, spring salad, apple jelly, hot tea biscuits, canned peaches with brown sugar crunch.

Preparations start early in the day when the tomato juice, apple jelly and peaches are put in the refrigerator. The potatoes can be scrubbed and the salad vegetables prepared.

MARINADE FIRST

The marinade should be made well before dinner and poured over the chicken an hour before cooking. Then make the brown sugar crunch.

An hour before dinner time, put the chicken and the partially sized unpeeled potatoes in a 425-degree oven.

While the chicken is baking, make the tea biscuits, finish the salad, heat canned or frozen corn, open and serve the tomato juice and peaches and make up fresh tea biscuits. They can be ready-mixed and heated, ready-to-cook packaged tea biscuits or a mix that can be popped into the oven during the last 15 minutes that the chicken is cooking.

Four pounds of cut-up chicken will make four to six servings. The chicken should be washed in cold water and wrapped in a dry cloth for a few minutes.

The marinade is simple. Combine 1/2 cup water, 1 cup white sugar, 1/2 cup butter or salad oil, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1 tsp. paprika, 1 tsp. thyme, sage, rosemary or Worcestershire sauce in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Pour over the chicken pieces in a bowl or glass dish and let stand for one hour, turning the chicken pieces over at half time if it's not entirely covered by the marinade.

BAKE 30 MINUTES

Drain off the marinade and arrange the chicken, skin side down, in a greased, shallow baking pan. Bake uncovered in a 425-degree oven for 30 minutes. Turn chicken skin side up, baste with the liquid that has collected in the pan and bake a further 15 minutes. Baste again and continue to bake until the pieces are tender and golden brown. It should take about another 15 minutes.

The brown sugar crunch is also easy to make. The ingredients are 2 tsps butter, 1/4 tsp. brown sugar, 2 tbsps. chopped nuts, 1/2 cup any ready-to-eat cereal, 1/4 cup coconut, 2 tbsps. brown sugar and a few drops of vanilla.

Melt butter in saucepan. Add the 1/4 tbsps. sugar and nuts and heat over low heat for two minutes. Add cereal, coarsely crushed. It's important to coat it thoroughly at this point. Combine whipping cream, 2 tbsps. sugar and vanilla and whip until thick. Fold in half the nut mixture. Pour into freezer tray and top with remaining nut mixture. Chill in freezing compartment for one hour. MAKES four to six servings.

Delightful Cantata Given At PTA Meeting

St. Michael's Academy and Our Lady of Fatima Parent-Teachers Association held its May meeting Monday evening.

Mr. J. Doyle presided and congratulated the vast attendance stating it was most encouraging to the officers to see so many there.

The Rev. J. J. V. Buckley, pastor of St. Joseph's Parish gave the opening and closing prayer of the meeting.

Sister Mary Andrew, principal of St. Michael's Academy, and Sister Mary Clement, delegates attended the 11th annual convention of the Catholic Parent-Teacher Association held in the Royal York Hotel April 18th and 19th. Sister Mary Andrew gave an interesting report on same.

The president gave a brief summary on the Christopher Leadership course sponsored by Father Keilar, held here recently. He introduced Mr. Frank Noble, who was elected president which later will be known as "The Christopher Movement."

Attendance plaques were won by Sister Mary Andrew, Miss St. Denis, Miss Fluery, of St. Michael's Academy and Miss Pigden, of Our Lady of Fatima School.

To mark the opening of Our Lady of Fatima School, a record player was presented to Mr. J. Ryan, principal, by Mr. J. Doyle on behalf of the P.T.A. and Teachers, for which Mr. Ryan expressed his thanks and appreciation on behalf of himself and all the teachers.

The highlight of the evening was the delightful presentation of a "May Day Cantata". Master James Meeds gave a resume of the play.

Among the spring flowers portrayed by the various girls, the Fairy Queen chose "Sweet Charity," as the May Queen. The choir contributed the suitable music.

The presenting of the crown by tiny Ann Wilson and Elizabeth Ellen Ross, and the crowning of the May Queen brought to a conclusion the delightful ending.

Sister Mary Joan of Arc not only presided at the piano, but was responsible for the training and also displayed great talent in the making of the costumes.

A most enjoyable piano duet was given by Misses Kathleen and Margaret Ann Cleary.

Mr. H. J. Trepanier expressed the group's appreciation to Sister Mary Joan of Arc for her splendid results and also to the pupils who participated, Grades 5 and 6 from the classrooms of Mrs. Rice and Miss St. Denis.

Delicious sandwiches, cookies coffee were served by Mrs. G. Gist and her committee.

American Businessmen Like Voices of English Secretaries

By JUDITH AYER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — What American businessmen like about English secretaries is their voices.

This was one of the conclusions drawn by Mrs. Vera Sogg after a sit-down, coast-to-coast tour of the United States. She crossed the Atlantic to size up the market there for British secretaries, and hopes on her next trip to go to Canada.

Mrs. Sugg, a vivacious and efficient blonde in her mid-30's, is chairman of the Bureau of Overseas Staff Services in London.

BETTER GRAMMAR

"The men I spoke to said that an English voice sounds more efficient than an American one," Mrs. Sugg said in an interview.

"Another point is that an English girl's knowledge of vocabulary and grammar is considered superior to that of her American counterpart."

American bosses liked to feel that if their own grammar is not perfect, they can trust their secretaries to watch for mistakes and correct them without making a fuss. It was felt that a British girl's education prepares her for this duty more fully than that of her transatlantic cousin.

But these are not the only reasons for the popularity of English secretaries. There is also the shortage of native supply. Since the demand exceeds the number of girls qualified for these positions, Mrs. Sugg felt it was only natural that Americans should turn to England for help.

WHAT A GIRL!

As a further encouragement she sent out circulars headed "the English secretary," which told, among other things:

"An English secretary is not just an employee—she is a philosophy. She has been trained and educated in a country deeply involved in the finer and meticulous attention to detail.

"She is a flower of conscientiousness . . . embodying all the best qualities inherent in the English people, understatement, discretion, tact and diplomacy, plus, most important, an ability to work long and hard in the face of any adversity."

With a recommendation like this, it is no wonder Mrs. Sugg has returned to England with a load of inquiries. Men from Hollywood, Chicago, New York and Philadelphia have asked her to provide them with top-grade English secretaries. The future demand is estimated at between 1,000 and 1,500 girls a year.

WAGES HIGHER

But Mrs. Sogg has one slight misgiving when she sends a girl to the States.

"American office girls are exquisitely groomed and beautifully dressed," she said. "This might be a bit discouraging to an English girl whose wardrobe is smaller, but then salaries there are much higher than they are here, so it would not take her long to get caught up."

Mrs. Sugg demands that the girls she sends to top jobs in the states have good shorthand and typing speeds, experience, education and an agreeable personality. She interviews each girl personally.

Applications are coming in from all parts of Britain, but mainly from the large cities such as London, Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham and Glasgow.

120 Boys, Girls Enjoy Theatre Night'

The annual McCarthy Theatre night for some 120 boys and girls of the Belleville Public Schools Band was held on the evening of May 3.

This is a yearly event, very much looked forward to by the boys and girls and greatly appreciated.

The band would like to express its thanks to the McCarthy Theatre manager, Mr. Fawcett, and his staff for their kind hospitality, and many thanks also from Mr. A. Cooper the band director.

Since 1946 Alcoholics In Ontario Have More Than Doubled, Says David Archibald

The Easter meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at the "Y" and closed with an impressive Easter meditation by Mrs. F. Cook. It was taken from Matthew 28 and was a picture study of the women who followed Jesus to His tomb. In loving service they stood by Him to the end. After his Resurrection he appeared to them and to others and said "go quickly and tell."

"As we meditate His glorious Resurrection, the wonder of it all is He not only lives, but will live in us, if we seek Him."

Mrs. Coulter told of a recent visit to Tweed under the citizenship department of the WWS when a panel discussion was presented by Mrs. Farnsworth, Miss Barnum, Mrs. Coulter and Mrs. McCabe, of Belleville W.C.T.U. Many thoughts of duty and opportunity for service in promoting the subject of "Total Abstinence," and creating an interest in Temperance, which women should assume, were discussed.

REPORTS GIVEN

Reports of the several departments were received.

The National Temperance study course reporting four dozen leaflets sent to 11 public schools as a supplementary study to the health book. Eight Sunday Schools sent in papers and $11.25 was given in prizes.

Scientific temperance in public schools was reported by Miss Barnum.

The film, "Liquid Lore" was presented in 11 schools and 1,250 students were reported to have seen it. The teachers pronounced it "excellent."

The essay and poster campaign closed with 220 posters made and 77 of the best sent in also 193 essays written with 26 of the best being sent.

From Queen Mary School, six posters were sent in from the Hillary class. Also a reference book compiled by the senior girls' handicraft class, ungraded.

The excellent book was sent on to the provincial police. An interesting fact is that two girls visited the police station and secured the following information:

Ninety per cent of car accidents are caused by people drinking alcoholic beverages; when people are drinking heavily they often do what they otherwise would not do, like stealing and driving.

Advice was given on: young people should not drink or smoke too many accidents are caused at such times; also, the right way to act and talk.

The clip sheet was on "What Cocktails Are Doing to Our Women." A panel, with Mrs. Wav- as leader, was conducted. Speakers were Dr. Rava Gerstein, consultant to the Canadian mental Health Association, a cocktail party today is any gathering where alcoholic beverages are used as a social lubricant.

"It is most popular with the so-called smart social set and office workers often get their first taste of sophistication and maturities at such events. Are many Ontario homes equipped with recreation room and bar? Yes, a check of residential subdivision reveals that the term "finished," includes a bar. What is this acceptance of the cocktail trend doing for women? Quoting Dr. Gerstein, "today's acceptance of the cocktail for women is the trigger that too often sets off the chain reaction which ends in alcoholism. The cocktail before supper habit is particularly insidious in fostering alcoholism."

The findings of David Archibald, executive director of Alcoholism Research Foundation, reveals that in Ontario since 1946 the number of alcoholics has more than doubled.

"A.A., with more than 6,000 groups on the North American continent, finds one out of seven of its members is a woman, and at present in Canada more than 35,000 women are serious alcoholics. What can be done? If you are a hostess at a cocktail party, it is only good manners to offer your guests a choice of refreshments other than alcohol. We must make this a community responsibility. We must join forces to take the initiative so that men and women with real potential alcoholic problems may be able to seek help professionally, without loss of great fear or shame."

Scarf Print Silk Skirt

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE

The scarf print looms large this spring, giving a new look to many dresses, especially silken shirt-waist types. A scarf print silk skirt and black matte jersey top get together here as a smart separates costume, fine for party wear at home and just as nice for dancing dates. The plaid is of black, blue and green print on a white ground. The contoured belt is covered in the black jersey. Each piece, of course, is well prepared to team up with other things.

Quintena Rebekah Lodge Confers Degree

Tuesday night was another "large" night for Quintena Rebekah Lodge No. 133. Lodge was opened with Sisters Verna Burnmers, N.G., and Ilia Addy, V.G., in their respective chairs.

Sister Burnmers welcomed visitors from Madoc, Tweed and Thomasburg. The N.G. of Tweed Sister Margaret Lockwood, was introduced by Sis. Alice Adams, P.N.G. She and her staff were welcomed by the Lodge, then Sister Lockwood was escorted to a seat beside the N.G.

The Rebekah degree was conferred on two candidates by the Tweed degree staff under the able direction of Sister Hilda Sexsmith. The pianist of Tweed Lodge was Sister Mable Francis (pro tem), and the soloist was Sister Waters with N.G. Sister Margaret Lockwood and V.G., Sister Gladys Rice.

The degree was beautifully exemplified by the Tweed staff and over all the beautiful ways of Sister Waters rendering appropriate solos.

Following regular business, Sisters Alice Adams P.P.N.G. and Ilia Addy, V.G., presented Sister Margaret Lockwood, N.G. of Tweed, with a gift from Quintena in appreciation of their conferring the Rebekah Degree with the expressed hope thanks.

Sisters Dorothy Fisher, D.D.P. also the Noble Grands of Madoc and Thomasburg spoke briefly.

Sister Verna Summers, N.G. thanked the degree staff for the lovely degree work, after which all retired to the upper hall where a delicious lunch was served in buffet style, by Sisters Marjory Large, P.G., and Alice Adams, J.P.N.G., and their committee.

HOME BUILDING SECTION

PAGES 10 and 11

Heating And Cooling Can Be Combined

Some of the most recent advances in air conditioning have taken place in the development of cooling equipment for homes that are heated by steam, hot water or hydronic (modern forced circulation hot water) heating systems.

For these homeowners, there's a wide choice of cooling equipment. Either combination heating-cooling systems or cooling systems that operate independently of the heating system may be selected. Cooling equipment may be installed by the builder or added later. The equipment includes:

Heating-Cooling Convectors, combination units installed in each room of the house but powered from a central source —a boiler or a water chiller, usually installed in the basement. Hot water and chilled water are circulated to the units through the same piping system. Each convector unit has a fan, filter, cooling-heating coil and a thermostat for room-by-room temperature control.

Separate Chilled Air Unit, a central cooling system which functions independently of the heating system. This cooling system is suitable for new construction or modernization in small to medium-size homes. The cooling unit can be installed in unused attic space, garage, basement or a centrally located closet or hall, with fibre-type ducts distributing the cool air. Cooling registers, or outlets, are usually located in the ceiling of each room.

Separate Chilled Water Unit, another central cooling system which functions independently of the heating system. This is also suitable for new construction, or modernization, but especially in multi-storey or rambling designs in which zone control is necessary for best results.

Paint Perks Up the Home With Color

With the coming of spring, the homeowner usually feels it's time to perk up the place with a fresh redecoration job. The first thing that comes to mind is a change in the wall colors.

Truly, a fresh coat of paint works wonders in dressing up a home. Wall colors should, of course, be selected to best suit the specific needs of the home in question and reflect the tastes and personality of the homeowner.

Generally a decorative scheme should consist of a related group of colors, like the colors that you feel most appropriate. Add variety and interest by augmenting the basic color with contrasting tones on one wall.

ACCENT GOOD FEATURES

To emphasize a room's good feature, background it with a wall or area of different color or tone so that it stands out prominently. To minimize a less favorable feature, background it with a matching color so that it will blend into a surrounding area and thus become less noticeable. This is called decorating camouflage.

By the same token, long, narrow rooms can be made to look wider by placing a dark color on the wall at each end and a lighter color on the side walls and ceiling.

Rooms that are square and uninteresting in shape can be improved by painting wall a different color than the other three, thus providing a focal point of interest.

Low ceilings will seem higher if painted white and if the baseboard is the same color as the walls. If you have the opposite problem, too high ceilings, they can be "lowered" with dark paint.

When painted to match walls, sure thumb items like book cases and standing closets can have that "built-in" appearance.

RELIEVE MONOTONY

Paint can break up the monotony of an all-one-color floor. There's no reason why all the rooms should match; paint variety in and get a feeling of spaciousness.

The trend today is to make the kitchen area flow out into the dining room. Paint will help you achieve this pleasing eye effect. Select two colors, one to use on the dining room walls, and the other complementary color for the kitchen. The easy-to-clean surfaces of modern paints will be a great aid in keeping the kitchen walls cleaner for longer.

If the kitchen is small, select a bright color that will make the walls glow with brightness. Chances are the smallest room in anyone's house is the bathroom. New paint colors can help make this room appear a great deal larger. Light shades can defeat the boxed-in feeling common in small rooms.

Temperature Zoning Solves Heating-Cooling Problems

To solve special heating-cooling problems, many homes need more than one thermostat.

A modern home, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out, should be divided into comfort zones. A thermostat in each zone provides heating or cooling so that zone according to its own individual temperature needs, and enables homeowners to enjoy comfort in every part of their home the year around.

The Bureau explains why most homes need zone control.

The more the home is spread out, the greater the effect of sun, wind, and indoor load conditions on individual sections. This results in overheating or undercooling of some rooms and the opposite effect in other sections.

Only a separate thermostat in each major zone can keep the indoor temperature in constant balance with the effects of changing outdoor and indoor conditions.

Zone control allows the homeowner to select the temperature he wants in each area to fit any schedule. Provision can be made to meet the needs of children, an older person, for illness, or to offset kitchen or fireplace heat.

In addition, the system can be planned to meet extreme load conditions by diverting the full cooling or heating output to a single zone when seeded. Unoccupied areas can be shut down when desired to reduce the operating costs.

A plumbing and heating contractor will be glad to explain the application of zoning to a house and also to make an estimate of the cost.

Compact Table Easily Built in Home Workshop

Here is an easily-built fir plywood table that can be used for special events either indoors or out—and folded to a thin slab for easy storage.

Although this design might be called "picnic" or "family-sized," there is no reason why the basic idea could not be used for expanding or condensed.

Fir plywood is specified because it is made with waterproof glue that will stand up to all extremes of temperatures and weather. Look for the identifying mark PMBC Exterior stamped on the edge of each panel.

The table top is a 4'x8' panel of 3-4" fir plywood, with a 2" strip of moulding fastened and glued around the perimeter.

Leg construction is unique but simple to build and easy to fold or erect. Each leg consists of two strips of fir plywood 24" wide and 36" long, joined with but hinges. These dimensions result in a table which stands 30" high when erected.

The legs are attached to the underside of the table with butt hinges, set in about 6" from the ends. The moving ends of the legs are clipped to the metal tops to prevent them from sliding when the table is in use.

The rods are not permanently attached until the table is finished. Their positioning can be varied to alter the height of the table.

To store the table, the clips are undone, metal rods removed and the legs folded flat against the undersides of the table. The rods are replaced to lock the legs in place.

Two wooden rails, made of 1"x2" lumber and screwed to the underside of the top, guide the legs during setting up or folding operations.

There are many ways of finishing the table. One of the most popular is a wipe-down finish which "blondes" the natural wood and allows most of the grain to show through.

This is accomplished by painting on a mixture of white paint and thinner which is rubbed off with a rag while still wet until the desired shade is achieved.

Several coats of spar varnish will give a high lustre to this finish, and also preserve it when the table is used outdoors.

If preferred, the table can be given a wax-stain finish, which will darken the wood but still preserve the grain. Or it can be painted normally with undercoat and high gloss enamel to match other furniture.

Now Home Furnishings Join The Wash-and-Wear Parade

The army of wash-and-wear garments has been joined by some new recruits — wash and use home furnishings. Slipcovers, curtains, curtains, bedspreads and other things for the home are appearing in great numbers with the same wonderfully washable, durable qualities we've come to demand in apparel.

This doesn't mean that we have to forsake tried and true cottons, silks and wools in favor of miracle fabrics. The old favorites now have new qualities, thanks to modern science which has produced many types of fabric finishes.

The finishes are not just protective surface films. They become an integral part of the fabric to which they are applied, and so retain their effectiveness through the fabric's lifetime of usefulness.

There are cotton and cotton-blend draperies, slipcovers and yard goods with wrinkle-spotstain — and mildew — resistance. There are draperies which insulate against cold or heat; organdy curtains with permanent crispness so that no starching is required; upholstered pieces which repel oil-borne and water-borne spots, keeping their finishes.

Many of these household items can be used without any ironing at all, after they've been washed in soap or detergent suds. Some need just a touch-up with a warm iron. Tailgating inch-by-inch ironing is a thing of the past.

Some "finished" items are machine washable, while others require hand washing. These factors are explained on the labels attached to the articles when you buy them.

These days, about the only things you can't toss into a tub of suds are upholstered pieces.

Big Season Seen for Air Conditioning

Air-conditioning in every home is rapidly becoming as common as the car in every garage. More and more, air conditioning is being taken for granted as a necessity of modern living.

It is estimated the retail sales curve of the air conditioning industry will rise to 4 1-3 billion dollars this year and to almost 7 billions in 1965.

Basically there are four ways air conditioning can be installed in older homes:

(1) Central air conditioning; (2) Units that become parts of existing warm-air heating system; (3) Units that become parts of hot water heating system; (4) Individual room air conditioners.

A central air conditioning system consists of a basic unit containing a compressor, condenser, cooling coil, air filter and blower along with a duct system to rooms and room registers.

In a house using a warm-air heating system, the cost of air conditioning can be kept low by using the existing duct and register system.

CHILLED WATER SYSTEM

A house that is heated by hot water may sometimes be cooled by installing the existing hot water pipes and running chilled water through them. A central refrigerating unit must be installed and the radiators replaced with dual-purpose units.

When it comes to room air conditioners, the wide choice of units this season makes it easy to choose "just the right one" to suit your individual needs.

Most standard units are available in 1 1-2 and 2 horsepower models with dimensions in width ranging from 23 to 27 inches, in height from 14 to 20 3-8 inches and depth from 12 to 30 inches.

In general, the larger the unit is in physical size the higher its cooling capacity, which is measured in BTU's (British Thermal Units) and is noted on each unit.

FINGER-TIP CONTROL

Finger-tip control of cooling functions is assured by rotary knobs, push-buttons and slide controls. The controls allow the user to select the combination of temperature, air circulation and dehumidification he prefers, while a choice of fan speeds also permits quiet night-time operation.

In addition, most units have adjustable air directors to cut down drafts and filters which almost totally eliminate airborne dust, dirt, and pollen, providing relief for hay fever and allergy sufferers.

Most manufacturers provide installation kits which allow their units to be installed in almost any type of window (including casement windows) by means of frames, panels or an accordion-pleated device which adjusts to the window size.

Growing in popularity are "through the wall" installations which leave windows clear and permit the unit to be almost flush with interior and exterior walls.

Canadian Garden Service

By GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

BIG DISPLAYS OF BLOOMS

Now that so many Canadians are living on large lots in the suburbs there is an opportunity for splurging in really big beds of flowers which previously were only in the larger city parks. And big eye-catching beds of flowers 25 or 30 feet long need not cost a fortune. As a matter of fact only a modest pocket of seed is required and the actual planting and cultivation, because of the roominess of the bed, is far faster and simpler than when we are working in a confined space.

For big striking displays of blooms, that will make people come for miles to admire, we can use solid beds of one or two or three flowers graduated in height with the tallest in the middle or at the back. It is best to plant in solid clumps and more or less solid colors for the most striking display. For these large beds there is a wide variety of planting material, petunias, zinnias, nasturtiums, pansies, portulaca, cleomes or spider plants, marigolds and many others ranging from a few inches in height to five or six feet. In very long beds and with fairly big flowers such as zinnias or marigolds, one can plant in rows 10 to 20 inches apart and carry out much of the cultivation work with a power cultivator.

DON'T RUSH THE SEASON

Sure it's fun to have sweet peas in bloom days before your neighbor, or to be able to offer him lettuce or radishes from your garden while his are still just growing. But rushing the season is a risky sort of business. A late frost, or a few days of cold, wet weather can set one back so far that later grown things will actually come along faster.

In any case it is always well to make several sowings. There are good reasons for this. For the first place we make sure of having something if the first is frozen or drowned out. But the important is that several sowings will spread out the season.

If one plants everything at once then all will bloom or be ready for the table at once and all the fun will be over too soon. Spread out the sowings and one spreads out the harvest. Moreover, while we can certainly plant things too soon, especially tender varieties, there is not anything like the same limit at the other end. In many parts of Canada it is amazing what a few garden one can have even if we don't get a seed into the ground until late June.

It is possible, of course, to assemble a Hi-fi or some other complicated piece of equipment without any printed instructions. But it is a whole lot simpler and quicker when we do have this help. And with gardening the same is true, only here the manual or instructions are called the seed catalogue. That guide and particularly it is a Canadian Seed Catalogue, is virtually indispensible. Not only does it list all the varieties of vegetable and flowers that are suitable and have tested for Canadian conditions, but it gives other vital information such as how to plant and when, heights, how many days till flowering or maturity, special likes and dislikes about soil, fertilizer, sun, moisture and so on. And remember this! Notwithstanding the good natured fun poked by those who have never had the thrill of picking their own flowers or harvesting their own home ground sweet corn, the pictures of flowers and vegetables in the seed catalogue are from real and unretouched photographs. Anyone with a little care can get the same precisely in his own garden.

TIMELY TIPS

One is missing a whole lot of fun and satisfaction by sticking to the same old varieties year after year. It is an excellent idea to deliberately choose one absolutely new flower and at least one new vegetable each season. In this way, we broaden our knowledge and make many worthwhile discoveries.

Parliamentary Board Told Demonstrations Could Result By Indians Over Franchise

OTTAWA (CP)—A parliamentary committee has been told that demonstrations could result at the next federal election because of Indian opposition to the federal franchise.

Delegates from the Iroquois reserve near Cornwall told the Joint Senate-Commons committee on Indian affairs Thursday that many of the 2,500 Indians there fear the vote. They feel it will bring an end to tax exemptions obtained by treaty.

Chief Alec H. Oakes and Ernest Benedict set the feelings of the St. Regis reserve Indians before the committee.

Chief Oakes said many members, wary of the government because of past treaty breaches, "want it in writing" that they will not lose any rights by voting.

When Parliament amended the Election Act last session to give the federal franchise to all Indians of voting age, both Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Citizenship Minister Fairclough promised there would be no loss. But this was not enough for many Indians.

He had been unable to convince many that they would not lose some rights, Chief Oakes said. "They are skeptical."

Mr. Benedict said his interviews with Indians showed that they think the government had as ulterior motive in offering the franchise. The Indians had not asked for it.

Many felt other Canadians would not be willing to allow the Indian to have the franchise and hold his rights regarding taxation.

At election time, there "could be demonstrations because of the fear of losing these rights," Mr. Benedict said. The Indians have the idea that the government is "imposing its will" in this matter.

He suggested the best solution would be to hold a referendum on any reserve where there was still opposition to vote.

Mrs. Fairclough said she would be glad to put out a letter to Indians stating the government has no rights would be lost.

The St. Regis band asked that the Indian Act be changed to give the bands power to decide who is eligible for membership.

Battle Over Bomarc Centres In Senate Starting on May 18

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States congressional battle over the Bomarc is centering in the Senate and the first big assault against the proposed cancellation of production of the anti - aircraft missile, in which Canada is involved, is likely to come May 18.

At that time, Defence Secretary Thomas Gates will be called before a Senate appropriations committee to state what programs he would like to see restored in the $1,525,000,000 spending program for the next fiscal year approved by the House of Representatives Thursday.

The $39,237,967,000 defence bill, as approved by the House, reduces Bomarc-B missile production into a developmental program and shifts some of the funds saved into the purchase of two squadrons of F-106 manned interceptors.

Canada was to get two Bomarc-B squadrons for defence sites under construction at North Bay and Mont Laurier, Que.

Undoubtedly, Gates — and the service chiefs to follow him in testimony—would call for restoration of all or part of the $294,000,000 funds withdrawn from Bomarc by the House.

That does n't mean Gates's views would automatically gain widespread acceptance. A number of senators, including the chairman of the appropriations subcommittee, have sharply criticized Bomarc performance. Still senators from Washington — the state where Bomarc is produced —have quietly launched a drive to build up more support for the missile in the Senate itself.

Defence authorities may try to build up Senate Bomarc strength or two fronts: diplomatic and test performance.

The Bomarc-B has failed in eight of nine flight tests. This is the big argument used put up by congressmen against continuing the program. Their argument is that the missile is becoming obsolete even before it becomes fully operable. The enemy threat building up in the Soviet Union is against low-level instead of manned bombers.

The Bomarc is designed to knock down bombers but not long-range missiles of the intercontinental type.

But the U.S. Air Force is about to launch another series of Bomarc-B tests, perhaps in the next week or two, in hopeful of demonstrating that the missile has overcome the faults and is ready to fly. This latest tests could settle the issue for many.

The tests are to be at Eglin Air Base, on the West Florida coast facing the Gulf of Mexico. Of the nine previous tests, eight were at Cape Canaveral, on the Atlantic coast, and one was over the Atlantic. All the Cape tests were failures. The only one that succeeded—and this was only a partial test—was at Eglin.

Air Force authorities have made clear to Congress that if the Bomarc doesn't get the Bomarc-B, neither will Canada.

Ian Macdonald Leaves CDNA In 12 Months

TORONTO (CP) — Ian H. Macdonald, general manager of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association for 16 years, announced Thursday he will resign "for purely personal reasons" when his present contract expires in 12 months.

His statement to CDNPA's annual meeting included nothing on his future plans.

Mr. Macdonald, a native of Dunvegan, Isle of Skye, Scotland, joined CDNPA —, then called the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association — in 1941 as assistant manager and as general manager of the association's bureau of advertising.

A year later, when Arthur Partridge retired as CDNA general manager, Mr. Macdonald succeeded him.

200 Evacuated From Peterborough Civic Hospital Without Mishaps

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Four new-born babies were the only near-casualties Thursday of 200 patients evacuated from Civic Hospital here during a general alarm fire.

Thirty babies were carried to safety by firemen. The four were revived on the hospital lawn where the patients were taken after the fire, touched off by a welder's torch, spread black, acrid smoke through the hospital.

A blood transfusion, started when the fire broke out, was continued uninterrupted and successfully on the lawn. Patients were transferred to other hospital and some were allowed to go home.

Later many were returned to their rooms.

Assistant fire chief George Gimblett said the fire started in a new addition and spread to the hospital corridors where it was contained.

Hospital superintendent John Mackay said that within three minutes of the alarm he had checked up to the fifth floor of the hospital.

"Every staff member was at the proper fire station and all floors were cleared," he said.

About half the patients removed had to be helped or carried, some of them on beds.

Station wagons and panel trucks joined ambulances at the hospital grounds in response to a broadcast appeal. Beds and stretchers were scattered on the lawn in the near 70-degree temperature.

Mr. Mackay said no patients were injured in the evacuation but some might suffer after-effects.

Elevators were useless during the evacuation because engineering and maintenance staff cut electric power and ventilators immediately. They were back in operation when the patients began returning 90 minutes later.

There was no estimate of damage.

Britons, Tourists by Thousands Line Route In Perfect Weather for Wedding Procession

LONDON- (CP) — Britons and tourists by the hundreds of thousands poured into the centre of London today for the wedding of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Three hours before the ceremony the crowds were jammed 10-20 deep on both sides of the wedding procession route.

The weather was practically perfect. There was a slight haze, but the sun shone down on the teeming throng and the temperature approached up.

A thin blue line of 4,000 bobbies lined the route to keep the streets clear for the royal procession. Scores of mounted policemen rode up and down the Mall leading from Buckingham Palace, the Horse Guards Parade, Whitehall and Parliament Square, the route to be followed to the Abbey.

Music blared out from military bands, artificial loudspeakers and cable record players and radios.

BREAKFAST ON STREET

Thousand sent the night in chosen vantage places. As dawn broke, many cooked breakfast on portable oil stoves.

Vendors did a roaring business in wedding programs and souvenirs.

Spring flowers and roses were the theme along the route. Gold highlight as a graceful rose arch spanning the Mall between Buckingham Palace and the road leading to Clarence House.

Workmen had spent the night fastening thousands of red and pink roses to the Mall arch so they would be fresh this morning.

Large white gold-tasseled banners hung over the heads of the soldiers lining the route. They bore the monogram "MA"—for Margaret and Antony—embossed on a background of red roses.

TRAFFIC CURTAILED

Traffic was halted on many roads in central London from the early hours and parked cars were removed. Only those with official cars were permitted, and they were halted long before the first guests began arriving at the Abbey.

Men of the famous Brigade of Guards lined the Mall and the wide Horse Guards Parade ground. Other army regiments, men of the navy, RAF and marines formed up along Whitehall.

Even before the sun rose over the city, police closed 30 streets and two bridges over the Thames in anticipation of the greatest crowds since the Coronation seven years ago.

The theme for the occasion appeared to be the song that begins "Getting Married Is the Best Thing" from the musical comedy My Fair Lady. Britons, and visitors from many lands joined in the happy chorus hour after hour.

SURPRISE ATTENDANT

But a senior police official said the crowd was not as big as expected.

"It must be television which is the counter-attraction," he said.

Women, many of them young beauties in light summer dresses, far outnumbered the male spectators. They joked and flirted with the police as keeping them back on the sidewalks.

Soon after 9 a.m. the first of the 2,065 guests invited to the ceremony began to arrive at Westminster Abbey.

The streets and windows of buildings in the area of the Abbey were jammed solid with spectators. Virtually all the 2,000 reserved seats in the stand opposite the entrance were filled.

At 10:40 Queen Mother Elizabeth left Clarence House, the London residence she shared with Princess Margaret, for the drive to Buckingham Palace to join the Queen for the procession to the Abbey.

GLASS COACH LEAVES

Shortly afterwards the glass coach, drawn by eight horses for the wedding procession, arrived at Clarence House drawn by two grey horses. At 10:50 the procession of five cars carrying royal personages, headed by the Queen and Queen Mother, left for the Abbey.

A few minutes later Prince Philip left Buckingham Palace in another coach to join Princess Margaret at Clarence House.

Then came the bridegroom and his best man, Dr. Roger Gilliatt, bound for the Abbey.

Right on time the princess and Prince Philip started off from Clarence House in the glass coach, the princess looking enchantingly beautiful in a simple gown of purest white.

Cheer after cheer roared out as the coach drove off, escorted by cavalry/troops with shining breastplates.

PROCESSION ORDER

The first carriage in the royal procession, carrying the Queen, the Queen Mother and Prince Charles, was preceded by a detachment of Queen's escort of the wedding procession, arrived at Household Cavalry.

Japan Decides to Impose Restrictions on All Textile Garments Coming to Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming sees clearer sailing in future trade relations in the light of Japanese textiles.

Following negotiations that lasted some seven months, Japan has decided to impose restrictions on the shipment to Canada of textile garments and many other textile items in Canada this year.

Mr. Fleming informed the commons of the arrangement Thursday. It will be followed by similar Japanese textile imports to an increase of about 10 per cent—to $45,000,000 or $46,000,000 in 1960.

Mr. Fleming said outside the Commons he expects things will be easier to arrange in future years. It was important that Japan had recognized that the orderly growth of trade, especially in textiles, should be at about the rate of 10 per cent in a good year.

The negotiations this year were complicated by the fact that in 1959 Japanese exports to Canada concentrated heavily on products that were under quota or on restrictions when the year began.

The Japanese, what Mr. Fleming described as a flood of imports of spun rayon garments in the autumn of 1959, caused concern into the Canadian market of cotton, woollen and other textile goods, competing to some extent with the country's hard-pressed textile industry.

The minister said the 1960 Japanese quotas provide for significant decreases in spun rayon exports to Canada.

An example of the sort of decrease he meant is in the 310,000-dozen quota on spun rayon blouses and sports, dress and work shirts. This is aimed at cutting back total imports of these items by 32 per cent from last year's 458,000 dozen which was a sharp increase from 316,000 dozen in 1959.

Another decrease is provided in the 1960 quotas for cotton trousers, outer shorts, coats, jackets, skirts and women's underwear, which would bring the total of those items below last year's level of 3,000,000 dozen pieces, down from the 1,800,000 dozen shipped to this country in 1959.

Meanwhile, negotiations continue with Japan on establishing minimum exports to Canada of Japanese plywood, rubber - soled canvas and water-proofed footwear, plastic footwear and several other products.

The Japanese announcement met cautious appreciation val from Opposition MP Pearson, who said there can be no argument against protection of Canadian producers against dumping and unfair competition. But he added that Canada must not be in actions involving one of the country's largest customers.

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, agreed that action against dumping is necessary.

Battle of Words Erupts Over Harbor Commission Provides Docking Facilities

Increased docking accommodation for Belleville power and sail boat enthusiastic will be the end result of a program of dock construction currently being carried out by the Belleville Harbor Commission.

So far four specially designed docks with a mooring capacity of two boats each, have been constructed and depending on the demand, plans call for further construction next year. Mooring space will be rented to local boat owners, the Harbor Commission hoping in this way to recoup construction costs.

The docks are of an unconventional design which it is hoped will defeat destruction as the result of winter ice. Holes are drilled six feet into the rock on the harbor bottom with steel pipes set in the holes to form the support for the dock floor. The hollow pipes are then filled with concrete to add to stability.

By The Canadian Press

With solemn services, the church service in Halifax. In Royal Canadian Navy celebrates its 50th anniversary Sunday marked at the same time remembers its first victory—the bitter Battle of the Atlantic.

Founded with two old Royal Navy cruisers in 1910, the RCN played a minor part in the First World War and dwindled down to 366 officers and men in 1922.

During the Second World War in the fight to keep the Atlantic life-lines open, the RCN grew to a force of nearly 400 ships. It sank 70 enemy ships and lost 30 of its own.

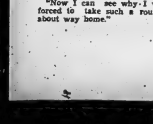
In most centres across Canada, church parades and remembrance services Sunday are the beginning of anniversary celebrations later in the week.

More than 2,000 navy personnel, navy veterans and ex-cadets will parade to an open-air St. John's, Nfld., anniversary observance started last week with a cadet parade.

Defence Minister Pearkes will place a wreath on the Cenotaph in Ottawa after a parade to Confederation Square.

In Kingston, the anniversary will be commemorated with a drumhead service, the first one in Canadian naval history when the ship's colors are not presented.

The drums will be undraped on the lawns of HMCS Cataraqui after a parade by 400 men and three bands, largest in Kingston's peacetime history.



The service in Montreal will coincide with a full scale naval reunion with a firing party, bugler and drummer from HMCS Donnacona.

Vice-Admiral Harry DeWolf will read the lesson at an open-air service at Vancouver — his last function as chief of Naval Staff. He will be succeeded July 1 by Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner.

Man Electrocuted

CHELTENHAM (CP) — A Brampton man was electrocuted Thursday when a conveyer he was operating touched an overhead high tension line carrying 8,000 volts.

Ivan Ursic, 43, was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital in Brampton ,10 miles south of here. Harry Bradbury of Cheltenham, driver of a tractor carrying the conveyor, collapsed with shock when told of the accident.

U.S. Plane Knocked Down By 'Remarkable' Red Rocket

MOSCOW (AP)—Marshal Andrei A. Grechko told the Supreme Soviet today that the American plane knocked down May 1 was destroyed on the first shot by a "remarkable rocket" fired on the personal orders of Premier Khrushchev.

Grechko, who formerly commanded Soviet troops in Germany, charged that the American plane was "sent on a provocative attempt to probe our defences and direct our rockets to give devastating repulse to an agressor."

He told rocket forces such as that which shot down the U-2 American plane was making an "absolute component of our armed forces."

"Separate rocket units have been set up with their own command and separate organizational structures."

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko described as "provocative" the suggestion by the state department that the pilot may have been unconscious when the Russ ed the frontier because of an oxygen failure.

"We have spoken of several other cases when airplanes crossed our borders, when American pilots opened fire against our planes," said Gromyko. "Shall we say they were unconscious, too?"

The foreign minister said "the answer to this allegation is simple— none of those who bear responsibility for such actions can provide any coherent explanation".

Red Star today published a photograph of the wreckage of the plane. The defence ministry newspaper also gave some details of the incident, but made clear no mention of the pilot.

Red Star gave this account:

An anti-aircraft defence unit was alerted by an alarm signal just after dawn on May 1.

"When radio operators received the first reports about the course of an unknown plane which had entered Soviet territory from the south, it became increasingly clear with every passing moment that the plane was an alien machine and that its intentions were hostile."

The plane was flying at a "very great altitude" and at a speed of approximately 540 miles an hour.

"The engagement was brief and it was soon learned that the intruder was brought down. The population of nearby villages helped to locate the wreckage quickly."

Grechko's current job was identified only as a "high post," and there was speculation among diplomats watching the Supreme Soviet session that Grechko commands the rocket units he mentioned.

Deputies at the pre-summit meeting of the Soviet parliament burst into wild applause when he said the American plane was destroyed by a "remarkable rocket on the first shot."

"Soviet servicemen," Grechko declared, "fulfilled the order of the Soviet government with credit—let the aggressors remember that we have enough rockets."

Other Soviet newspapers blossomed today with stories of the incident and photographs of the plane wreckage. They described the quick reaction when a radio detector spotted the plane.

CRASH LOCATOR — Two scientists of the National Research Council's aeronautical centre near Toronto hold up the two essential parts of a newly-developed radio device designed to help locate crashed aircraft. The device, known as a Crash Position Indicator, falls away from its carrier aircraft when the plane crashes on land or water. An automatically-triggered radio beam directs search planes to the scene. D. Markow (left) holds the curved unit which sends out the distress radio signal. H. T. Stevinson holds the 14-inch-square base-curved in the bottom—designed to float the indicator on water or cushion it from damage in a land crash. (CP Photo).

Toll Collector Given Freedom On Fraud Count

MONTREAL (CP) — Eugene Benoit, first of six former toll collectors at Jacques Cartier Bridge to face preliminary hearing, was freed Wednesday on charges of theft and breach of trust by fraud.

Judge Armand Cloutier in criminal court said there was insufficient evidence to send Benoit to voluntary statement on an $8,500 theft charge and the judge said a breach-of-trust charge should have been laid under a different article of the Criminal Code.

Dollard Dansereau, counsel for the RCMP, asked that the other preliminary hearings be adjourned until May 22 in order that he might get a transcript of the judgment and obtain instructions from the minister of justice.

The charges followed investigations which disclosed a spectacular increase in toll receipts when automatic collecting machines were installed.

TORNADOES INJURE 21

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Tornadoes skipped across a 150-mile stretch of north central Texas and parts of Oklahoma on Wednesday night, injuring at least 21 persons. Twisters struck two places north of Fort Worth and Dallas and a farm near Dublin to the southwest.

St. Ola

ST. OLA — The Rev. Finlay Dafoe of Troy, Mich., was a visitor to Steenberg last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Phillips, Mrs. Phillip's father, Mr. McGinnis and Mrs. Elsie King paid a visit to Mrs. King's brother, Mr. German Barager at Coe Hill on Friday last.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Ola United Church W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Hamm in Steenberg on May 4th.

Mr. Raymond Moore, who underwent a surgical operation a short time ago is home again, much improved in health.

Miss Mavis Easler has returned to her home in St. Ola, following completion of her second year in Arts' course at Queen's University, Kingston.

Anniversary service was held in the United Church at Gunter on May 1st. The guest preacher was Mr. John McMurray, of Gilmour.

The Scripture reading was by the Rev. Mr. Hicks of Madoc. The Rev. M. Easler was in charge of the service, leading in prayer, bringing greetings to the group from neighbouring churches of St. Ola and other nearby points. The choir rendered two selections acceptably.

Miss Merrithew of Maple Leaf, gave two fine soprano solos, "Ship Ahoy" and "Tell Me the Old, Old Story" (A. Capello) unaccompanied.

Miss Merrithew possesses an unusual depth of tone and flawless diction. She has also a sense of absolute pitch. Her lower tones are resonant and full, and her entire range is musical and pure.

Mrs. Merton Hamm, the organist of the St. Ola United Church, officiated. The church has recently been renovated and is most attractive.

Device Designed to Guide Searchers to Plane Crashes

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian scientists are perfecting a compact radio device designed to guide searchers to aircraft crashes.

The objective is to make a tough, durable package even more compact.

The crash position indicator—called CPI—has to survive impact, triggering a radio beam on which search aircraft are directed to the scene.

The latest model is 11 inches square and has been reduced to five pounds. It floats on water, peels away from the crash site on impact and slows down quickly in its own flight pattern to lessen any chance that landing shock will put it out of commission.

The work has been going on for several years at the National Research Council's aeronautical establishment at Uplands Airport here.

Following the work with interest are the transport department and the RCAF, especially the search and rescue section which keeps a watch across the country to assist in crash emergencies.

Some American interest also has been expressed in the device which could render invaluable assistance to aircraft are lost over water, mountainous terrain or sparsely-settled areas such as in northern Canada.

CPI is a sister of SARAH, which stands for Search and Rescue and Homing. This is used by the RCAF to aid airmen setting off the radio beacon when they abandon stricken aircraft.

Scientists are aiming to make CPI smaller so that it will fit readily into all sorts of aircraft.

It has been tested with rockets and other devices. Foam plastic is used liberally in the padding of the simple radio beacon and the skin has been constructed of nylon or similar material.

Its contours—one side flat and the other curved—tend to make it peel away from its carrier on crash impact, flying in a wide arc like a falling leaf so that its rate of descent is kept as slow as possible.

For a small mechanism, it has a big voice set in the highest international distress frequency of about 243 megacycles. Its range has been tested from five miles up to 20 or 30 and beyond.

Initial cost per CPI unit is calculated at about $150. This is expected to drop to $300 when production is stepped up. Installation costs aren't expected to be high.

Melrose

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. J. Osborne of London spent a recent weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Osborne.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mills of Oakville spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. E. Emery.

Mr. Leaflor has lately been a Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Milligan and Mr. and Mrs. C. Osborne.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Jones of Belleville visited Mr. and Mrs. L. Gnaedinger.

Scout leaders and assistants attended the entertainment night for Scouters at the Kiwanis Centre on the evening of the 25th.

Mrs. Ken McKeehan was hostess to the Melrose W.I. on Thursday evening. A large part of the program was devoted to business following which many of the members contributed, as was planned, two minute entertainment.

A number of young couples attended the joint meeting held at Carmel on Friday evening.

The sincere sympathy of this community is extended to the bereaved wife, family and relatives of Arthur Leaflor.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Carl McKechan who were married on the 23rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Murray and girls, of Hamilton, were guests at the wedding, returning to their home early last week.

We regret that Mrs. Fred Jeffrey's illness has prevented her from returning to her school duties and hope for an early recovery.

Sunday School Lesson

The Friends of Good Will

By ROY L. SMITH

One of the most cruel deceptions the communists are practising on this world is in spreading their claim that they are friends of peace, and that they are defenders of the world against the war mongers.

Tibet, Hungary, Vietnam, and Laos could probably give some very effective testimony in this regard if they could get their cases adequately before the court of the world's conscience.

EFFECTS ARE NOT CAUSES

Peace is much more than an absence of actual hostilities, as this generation knows full well. As these lines are being written there are no actual hostilities in the field, between China and India, and neither is there peace between these two great Asian giants.

The Russian leaders speak glibly of "peaceful coexistence" and agitate the wells of good will to the point that no one lives in peace.

It is impossible for the world to enjoy peace if it does not maintain good will between the nations. Exploitation, misrepresentation, and the assumption of superiority are as surely the causes of war and the enemies of peace as military action. It is as possible for the conceited tourist to be a trouble maker, as for a big corpulation to make trouble.

Somewhere in the background of every warlike act there is some actual operation of ill will. Underneath every movement in the direction of peace there must be some active and sincere good will.

Within the space of hours following the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor the United States Government set the machinery in motion to put the nation on a "war footing." Every factory had a job to do, every organization was expected to function, and every citizen was confronted with a responsibility. Nothing personal or private was allowed to interfere. We had to win the war.

Peace is an equally complex operation, in which every organization has a part. Every individual has a contribution to make.

In wartime the American government allowed no one to go abroad if there was the slightest suggestion that by doing so he might interfere with the war effort, but in peace time we ship thousands of tourists to the ends of the earth who make the peace effort doubly difficult. There are those Americans who ought never to go abroad — those who can't eat unless they can get the bread that is baked in the little bakery down the street, those who are forever bragging about how much better everything is done "back in the old country."

"You can't buy friends," is a common saying among us and it is true. But we can earn them, by making an effort to understand them.

There ought to be a strong and vigorous group in every church in America dedicated to the gigantic purpose of understanding the people of the world who do not think and live the way we do, who have not been trained to appreciate the values that are dear to us.

It is not necessary to spend hundreds of millions of dollars worth of wheat to India in order to understand a nation that goes to bed hungry every night. A generous mind will find ways of living at peace with a suffering people, if we take the trouble to understand them.

good old U.S.A." those who create a scene in the dining room when they cannot understand the waiter's imperfect English, those who assume that "all these people over here are out to rob you."

The world was never so badly in need of the generous mind as at this moment. This does not mean of course, that giving away of goods is the sure cure for all international tension.

Hard to Keep up With Rapidly Changing Use of Words in TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — It's as hard to keep up with the rapidly changing use of words in television as it is to follow the meandering meanings of terms in Milk. However, there are some semantic developments on which the viewer should be briefed.

Herewith a few:

"Fresh, new talent"—the producer's budget is running low and he can't afford stars, so he must settle for inexpensive unknowns.

"An original comedy"—Wagon-train turned down, so they decided to move the locale to Madison Avenue and play it for laughs.

"An original tragedy" — Ann Sothern turned down this sparkling comedy, so it was rewritten into a soul - searching drama about a neurotic divorcee.

"Creative program ming"—Let's rerun most of those early Martia Kane shows — no one's seen them since 1950.

"Tempted by popular demand"—The sponsor won't spend another cent.

Variety show—New faces, old jokes.

Situation comedy — Old faces, old jokes.

Post-midnight viewers of Wednesday night's Jack Paar Show heard some of the most unlibeled anecdotage yet. Marie Wilson's tasteless dog story, by comparison, made Alexander King's tall tales sound like the prattle of a choir boy and Paar's own unfortunate "W.C." story, something out of a girl scout manual.

An NBC spokesman, however, said that the Paar show is "reviewed" each evening by a member of its continuity acceptance department.

"The story was one of three items considered for editing," said the executive, "and NBC decided that in view of the adult nature of the program it could remain."

Since the W.C. furore, raised in February, the show has been edited a couple of times, each time because of something a guest—not Paar — said or did. Once it was cut during Paar's visit in London when Arlene Francis was presiding over the program.

Full Moon Over Brooklyn, NBC, 8:30-9:30 — Comedy with Art Carney, Elaine Stritch and Frank McHugh.

Bewildered and Humiliated From Losing Top Position

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How does it feel to be fired from a top industry job?

"I had two feelings: I was bewildered and I was humiliated," said Dore Schary. "But I think I avoided the pitfall of becoming bitter."

Schary now can look back in candor at his ousting as head of MGM production three years ago. Since then he has become a writer of a hit play (Sunrise at Campobello), director of another one (Majority of One) and co-producer of both. Now he is producing the FDR Saga for the screen.

Back in the Hollywood where he was once a top power, Schary looks happier. He confirmed that he is leading the life he likes. Is such a mood, he discussed what had happened to him at MGM.

BEWILDERED, HUMILIATED

"I was bewildered because the whole thing happened unexpectedly. I was given to understand that things were going well with the studio. I was humiliated in the way that the thing was done.

"What hurt me most were the accounts of my leaving that mentioned only the fact that we had had..."

Though he disliked the way that it was done, Schary had no regrets at leaving the job. "As you know, I had been pleasantly to leave, anyway," he said. "My work had ceased to be a creative one and became strictly an administrative post, which didn't interest me."

Instead of nursing his wounds, he picked up stakes.

And so Hollywood has lost another of its much-needed film creators.

Academy Award Winner Best, Ardyss Simms Signoret

SHE PLAYS BAD WOMAN

Her role as the youthful hero's mistress in the provocative film, "Room at the Top", which is now held over at the Park Theatre tonight and Saturday evening, has won another "Oscar" — her third — for Mlle. Simone Signoret one of France's leading actresses. Best known to American audiences for her chilling performance in "Diabolique", Mlle. Signoret won the British award as the best foreign actress last year for her role in "Witches of Salem" and a few years before that for the film, "Casque d'Or".

Interviewed in Paris by noted Herald-Tribune correspondent Art Buchwald, Mlle. Signoret talked about her past reputation for playing bad women on the screen. She had starred her movie career playing a prostitute and for years couldn't escape the typecasting.

"Everything they needed a prostitute for a film they called for me", she told Buchwald. "It was fine for a while but it's like everything else. You don't like to do the same things over and over again."

Besides, she pointed out smilingly, she had trouble with people who didn't think she was a nice girl.

"It was the age-old problem of identification", she said. "An actress is to the public what she plays on the screen. Some actresses I know who always play the sweet, wholesome women are the worst in the world. Since I was playing the opposite type of role, I had to face the consequences. Most of the actresses I knew were dying to play a woman of easy virtue, while I was dying to play the part of a mother with five children".

"I liked the role in 'Room at the Top'", Mlle. Signoret continued, "because I didn't play a prostitute. I was just an unhappy woman having her best time. So fair. I was, in fact, the same kind of woma who usually writes to my husband, Yves Montand".

M. Montand, incidentally, is one of the most popular singers and the idol of French females. He is constantly besieged by women of all ages. Buchwald asked Mlle. Signoret if this bothered her.

"Not as long as I can see him", she replied. "Occasionally, when it gets too boring and a woman won't leave the dressing room, I put on my prostitute face and tell her to scram".

"Room at the Top", which co-stars Mlle. Signoret with Laurence Harvey and Heather Sears, was directed by Jack Clayton.

SPORT IN BRIEF

STOPS SCOTS CHAMP

LIVERPOOL, England (AP)—Lightweight Tommy Tibbs of Belfast stopped Scottish champion Johnny Kidd Thursday night in a scheduled 10-rounder. Tibbs opened up a bad cut over Kidd's left eye and with 90 seconds of the eighth round remaining, referee Lou Smith stopped the contest.

RECORD TRY FAILS

BOSTON (AP)—John Thomas failed Thursday to better the world outdoor high jump record he set last Saturday when he cleared seven feet, 1¼ inches in the Philadelphia Competing in unsanctioned Olympic development meet at Boston University field, the 19-year-old student leaped seven feet, ¾ inch.

BENCH HODGES

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dodgers benched veteran Gil Hodges Thursday. He's had only 14 hits in 47 times at bat for a measly .209 average. Manager Walt Alston said Hodger will be out of the lineup "for a few days." He normally plays first base, but was used at third in the last game.

AT THE McCARTHY — Mars comes to life, as Lee Tremayne, Gerald Mohr and Nora Hayden observe vegetation turn to menacing monsters in "The Angry Red Planet"; first motion picture to use Cinemagic, a process that optically and chemically changes the photographic image into what appears to be drawings that move. The film is now playing the Odeon McCarthy and Belleville Drive-In Theatres. 2nd new action-packed hit is "Natchez Trace", with Zachary Scott, William Campbell and Marcia Henderson.

AT THE BELLE — Moses, portrayed by Charlton Heston in Cecil B. DeMille's production "The Ten Commandments", playing tonight and Saturday at the Belle Theatre, is seen here at the time the great lawgiver lead the Exodus out of Egypt. "The Ten Commandments", in Technicolor, is showing for the first time at regular prices. Two showings daily at 2.00 and 8.00. Doors open 1.00 and 7.00, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Howe Has Another Record, Wins Hart Trophy 5th Time

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordie Howe, the big slope-shouldered veteran who makes patrolling right wing in the National Hockey League look easy, has won the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player for a record fifth time, it was announced today.

The award carries $1,000.

Howe, Detroit Red Wings veteran, polled 118 points out of a possible 180, more than twice as many as runner-up Bobby Hull of Chicago. Hull, the NHL scoring champion for 1959 - 60, received 55 points.

Hull's Chicago Black Hawks teammate, all - star goalkeeper Glenn Hall, finished third in the voting with 44 points.

Other players and their points: Jean Beliveau, Canadiens, 28; Bert Olmstead, Toronto, 27; Bronco Horvath, Boston, 20; Terry Sawchuk, Detroit, 7; Doug Harvey, Canadiens, 7; Allan Stanley, Toronto, 4; Andy Bathgate, Rangers, 3; Henri Richard, Canadiens, 3; Bob Pulford, Toronto, 2; Bernie Geoffrion, Canadiens 1; Doug Mohns, Boston, 1.

LED ALL TEAMS

Howe polled the same number of points for both halves. Hull had 31 points for the first half and 24 for the second while Glenn Hall received his 44 points in the second half of the balloting.

The first half consisted of games up to and including those of Dec. 31, 1959, and the second half included games from Jan. 1 to March 20, 1960.

Points were awarded on the basis of five for a first choice, three for a second and one for a third. Judges were from all six NHL cities.

Howe and Hull topped all-star voting with 172 points each.

Eddie Shore claimed the award four times and Howie Morenz three times.

The 32-year-old Howe has just completed fourteen NHL seasons. He has been selected as the right wing on the first all-star team seven times and as a member of the second team four times.

This season he had 28 goals and 45 assists for 73 points. During regular scheduled play, Howe has scored a total of 446 goals and 977 points.

Secret of Running Mile Up in Air

NEW YORK (AP)—A secret for running a 3:57 mile lies high up in the mountains.

By training at very high altitude, a man able to run a four - minute mile probably could shave one to three seconds off his own record.

The scientific fix comes from Dr. Bruno Balke, physiologist, at the School of Aviation Medicine, San Antonio, an expert on exercise and high altitude, and himself a superbly-trained athlete.

The miler should train for three to four weeks at 14,000-foot altitude or higher, Dr. Balke explained in an interview here.

Running at this altitude, he couldn't approach his four-minute mark. Nor could he run a four-minute mile the first day he came back down to sea level.

But three or four days later, he should be able to set a record for himself, due to his greater speed - carrying and breathing capacities.

A week or so later, he would no longer have these extra capabilities.

Aussies Charter Yank Yacht As Trial Horse for Big Race

By ALAN RAMSEY

SYDNEY (Reuters)—A sleek, 69-foot racing yacht, the American-owned Vim, is under charter to an Australian syndicate and will be used as a "trial horse" for the next three years to train an Australian crew to challenge for the coveted America's Cup.

On its international rating as one of the fastest 12-metre class racing yachts ever built and pioneer Australia's hopes of winning the famous yachting trophy for a locally-designed and locally-built yacht, manned by a crew trained on board the Vim, will have to beat that American yacht under racing conditions before Australia will enter a challenge for the cup.

Originally a British trophy, the America's Cup has been held by the United States since its inception 109 years ago. Given by Queen Victoria, it first was competed for by 15 large ocean-going vessels in 1851.

17 CHALLENGERS

The cup was won by the 101-foot U.S. yacht America, taken home and presented to the New York Yacht Club for international competition. There it has stayed for more than a century, despite 15 British and two Canadian attempts to win it.

The original conditions of cup challenges made it extremely difficult for the United States to lose the trophy.

A rule that all challenges must be decided in the defender's home waters and challenging yachts must travel under their own sail to the venue meant that British yachts had to be robust enough to withstand an Atlantic crossing while the American defenders could be lightly built for racing conditions.

Perhaps the most famous challenger of all was the late Sir Thomas Lipton, who spent an estimated $9,000,000 on five unsuccessful attempts to win the cup between 1899 and 1930.

RULES CHANGED

The last challenge was made by the British yacht Sceptre in 1958 under revised conditions which limited yachts taking part to the 12-metre class and decided by the provise that challengers had to sail to the defending country, thus enabling fast, light racers to be shipped by freighter.

Among the thousands watching that race were two veteran Australian yachtsmen, John and Frank Livingstone, who advanced the idea that given the right training under the right conditions an Australian crew could win the cup for the British Commonwealth.

The organizers expect the cost of the challenge, including the building of the yacht, will be in the vicinity of $550,000.

Kefauver Bill Denounced by Baseball Brass

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's bigwigs denounced a congressional bill introduced by Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. - Tenn.) Thursday as one that would kill the minor leagues and stifle incentive.

Led by commissioner Ford Frick, officials of the majors denied Kefauver's claim they were boarding players and refuted his charge that some of the clubs were controlling as many as 450 players.

A club - by - club inventory showed that the, majors actually owned or controlled 3,084 players, an average of 193 a club. The most owned by any club are 275 players by Los Angeles Dodgers.

Kefauver's bill would forbid any club to own or control more than 100 players and would require them once a year to offer at least 60 of them for unlimited draft to other clubs.

The bill also is designed to give minor league players some choice as to which major league team to play for, and make it easier for the new Continental League to obtain necessary playing talent for its proposed start in 1961.

The strongest statements were made by Frick; league presidents Warren Giles and Joe Cronin, and general managers George Weiss of New York Yankees and Frank Lane of Cleveland Indians.

Only president Phil Wrigley, jr., of Chicago Cubs, expressed himself in favor of the bill.

On the Track

FORT ERIE (CP)—War Eagle will carry top weight of 126 pounds in Saturday's $14-thousand Vigil Handicap, windup feature of Fort Erie's spring meeting. War Eagle has won his two day's seventh race.

starts at Fort Erie this season.

Second highest weight of 124 pounds has been assigned to two horses, Anita's Son and Tybewo which holds the world record of 2:14 4-5 for 5½ furlongs.

Avelino Gomez was the main attraction again Thursday, scoring a slashing win on Dark Jet in the featured Westinghouse Purse. He staged a wide-riding finish to defeat That's My Man by a whisker while Nesbenna finished third.

Earlier in the day Gomez had been shelved of any blame in Wednesday's disqualification of Last Time, winner of Wednesday's seventh race.

CAHA Brass Cracks Down On Deliberate Stick Antics

TORONTO (CP)—One of the strangest Memorial Cup finals in the history of the event continues here tonight as Edmonton Oil Kings meet St. Catharines Teepees in the fifth game of the best-of-seven series.

Each has won two games—three ending in puzzling fashion.

In the first game the Oil Kings, playing well, raced to a 5-3 win in St. Catharines home rink.

Teepees came back to outplay Edmonton with 6-2 and 9-1 wins, the latter before the biggest junior crowd of the season here, and seemed to have the Memorial Cup on their mantle piece.

Then, once more, the Oil Kings checked to play hockey, Tuesday night here they handed the Teepees two goals then proceeded to blast them out of the rink, winning 5-3 in a breeze.

Tonight's game is a question mark, but a question mark that should provide excitement.

CAHA CRACKS DOWN

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has served notice it will crack down on the rough play and stick swinging that showed in Tuesday night's game.

Jack Roxburgh, CAHA vice-president, says he has instructed referee Joe Hunt of Winnipeg to get tough on infractions.

"We won't put up with any type of stick swinging," he said. "No championship is going to be won through such action."

Teepees coach Max Kaminsky considers tonight's game "the key to the series."

"If we're skating out there we'll be hard to beat, but believe me we've got to show a tremendous improvement over our last game."

The sixth game of the series is scheduled here Sunday afternoon, with a seventh, if necessary, Monday night.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tomorrow evening The Ox Pointers, augmented by a large crowd of district sportsmen and others, intend raising "Hull."

It is "Bobby Hull Night" in the cement village and his native community is going to pay well-deserved honor to the 21-year-old speedster who is the second youngest player to win the National Hockey League scoring championship.

Harvey "Busher" Jackson, former member of the Toronto Maple Leafs famous Kid Line was only three weeks younger than Bobby when he won the title back in the thirties.

They're going to do it up right and if the weather man is in a co-operative mood, it should be the biggest "spectacular" to hit Point Anne in years.

There is going to be a big parade; VIP's, including National Hockey League figures, local and district civic and political dignitaries; bands, dancing, entertainment which will background the main items of interest, the tangible appreciation of the village and district to the guest of honour.

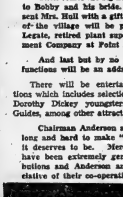
The killed Quinte Pipe Band will be there. So will the smart drum and trumpet band of Six Repair Depot, RCAF, Trenton. There will be dancing by the Point Anne group of the Dorothy Dickey Dancers School and by the Girl Guides of the Mohawk Band. And starting at nine o'clock there will be a mammoth street dance.

The fun begins at seven o'clock when the parade will leave the Canada Cement Company clubhouse and wend its way through the village streets to the softball park where the presentations and other high jinks will take place.

The parade will be led by police and mounted horsemen. Next will be a group of dancers and bales twirlers followed by the RCAF Band. Then comes Bobby and Mrs. Hull with "Elliott and Trudeau" convertibles filled with VIP's immediately behind. Then more convertibles by Lange and Fetter and Johnson with their quotas of dignitaries followed by a car carrying committee chairman Earl Anderson and his co-workers.

Adding a touch of impressiveness to the occasion will be the Mohawk chief and his staff of the band. Indian Girl Guides will follow, supported by dancers. Comes the Kilty band followed by Brownies, Guides, a first aid team and small, fancy and ancient cars. The fire chief and a fire truck bring up the rear.

The parade will halt at a raised dais in the softball park and the visiting officials piped to the platform. The chairman will speak briefly and the VIP's introduced.



Brief addresses will be given by Rudy Pilous, coach of the Chicago Black Hawks and Bob Wilson, chief scout of the Black Hawk organization.

Then comes the big moments, the presentation of gifts to Bobby and his bride. Bonnie Kennedian will present Mrs. Hull with a gift while the tangible appreciation of the village will be presented Bobby by Mr. J. H. Lerate, retired plant superintendent of the Canada Cement Company at Point Anne.

And last but by no means the least of the official functions will be an address by Bobby himself.

There will be entertainment following the presentations which includes selections by the bands, dancing by the Dorothy Dickey youngsters and the Mohawk Band Girl Guides, among other attractions.

Chairman Anderson and his committee have worked long and hard to make "Bobby Hull Night" the success it deserves to be. Merchants of the city and district have been extremely generous in their solicitations and Andersons and company are highly appreciative of their co-operation and generosity.

Tiger Scout Tighe Quits

DETROIT (AP) — Jack Tighe quit Thursday as scout for Detroit Tigers of the American League.

The former Detroit manager, ending 21 years with the Tigers' organization, said he was "just simply tired of travelling over so much territory."

Tighe resumed scouting for Detroit shortly after he was dismissed as manager of the Tigers in June, 1958.

"It was just too much travel for one man," said Tighe. "Besides, I want to spend more time with Mrs. Tighe and my two sons."

Tighe does public relations work for an oil firm.

Reds Come Marching In; Tribe Rookie Pitcher Hurt

Cincy Catches Four in Row With 4-3 Win Over Giants; Hawkins Stops Batted Ball

By BEN WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Cincinnati's long - stumbling Reds finally have themselves a winning streak, now that reliefer Bill Henry is pitching as effectively FOR them as he did against 'em.

The Reds, who hadn't been able to win two in a row through their first 15 games, beat San Francisco Giants 4-3 Thursday for their fourth straight victory. And Henry put it away with his third save in the four-game string that has hoisted the Reds from eighth to sixth in the National League race.

The lean lefty, who beat the Reds seven times out of eight before they got him from the Chicago Cubs last winter, has relieved all 10 men he's faced in those three relief jobs—getting seven on strikeouts.

DEBUT RUINED

The second - place Giants dropped two games behind Pittsburgh Pirates, who won 9-7 at Chicago, ruining Lou Boudreau's debut as Cub manager. Los Angeles beat Milwaukee 4-3 in 10 innings but the St. Louis Cardinals blew a chance to take third place from the Braves by losing 3-1 to Philadelphia.

The Reds shut out on one hit for five innings before southpaw Johnny Antonelli tired, came from behind and beat reliefer Stu Miller with two runs in the eighth.

Henry struck out pinch-hitter Jimmy Davenport with the tying run on second in the Giants' eighth, saving the decision for Bob Purkey (1-1), who earlier gave up a two-run triple by Willie Mays and a homer by Orlando Cepeda.

FIVE-RUN INNING

Bill Virdon's two - out pinch triple gave the Pirates two runs in the ninth against reliefer Glen Hobbie (2-0) after they had tied it 7-7 with five runs in the seventh. Bob Clemente, who drove in three runs, hit a two-run homer in the rally. Fred Green (2-0) won it in relief.

The Dodgers ended their slump at four on rookie Bob Aspromonte's fourth consecutive hit—a two-out, two-strike single with the bases loaded. Larry Sherry (2-3) beat the Braves with four frames of two-hit, shutout relief after starter Johnny Podres had given up homers by Mel Roach and Hank Aaron. Don McMahon (1-3) lost it in relief of Lew Burdette, who had a shutout until Dave Dem e n t e r and Aspromonte homered in the seventh.

Rookies Pancho Herrera and Ken Walters hit fourth - inning homers for all three runs as the Phillies beat Vinegar Bend Mizell (1-3) for the first time in six decisions. Jim Owens (2-2) got away his second nine-inning job with a five-hitter.

It was three years ago Saturday that a line drive ended Herb Score's effectiveness as a pitcher, and almost cost him his sight. Now the Cleveland Indians, derided at least one American League pennant with the loss of Score, await an identical report on a second youngster hit by a line drive while on the mound.

Wynn Hawkins, 24, a right-handed rookie, won his third in a row, 11-6 at Baltimore Thursday night, but had to give way in the seventh inning when a ball hit by Jim Gentile struck his pitching shoulder. The ball hit Hawkins with such force it bounded high into the air to the outfield.

Only one other game was scheduled in the AL and the Chicago White Sox won it, 5-3 at Washington, for a virtual tie with the idle New York Yankees. New York has an 8-3 record and a .727 percentage-point edge over the 9-4 White Sox.

BAD ORIOLES BLANKED

Hawkins, a loser only in his major league debut (against Kansas City), had the Orioles handcuffed the sixth, when Gentile's fourth homer started a two-run inning. The Orioles then put together a four-seventh span Bob Grim relieved Hawkins, who gave up eight hits, walked four and struck out five.

The Indians, replacing the Orioles in third place, a game shy of first, had an 8-0 lead after 3½ innings. Harvey Kuenn and Tito Francona each had three hits for Cleveland, with Francona 3-for-3 and driving in four runs with two doubles and his first homer. Milt Pappas (1-2), first of six Baltimore pitchers, was the loser.

Roy Sievers, the slugger the White Sox got from Washington in a three-player swap, made his first home run of the year good for a pair of first-inning runs against his old mates, Earl Battey, one of the players the Sox bundled together with $150,000 for Sievers, had three of the Sens's eight hits and drove in four runs, one with his fourth homer. The White Sox nailed it with two runs in the seventh off Russ Kemmerer (0-2), scoring on a sacrifice fly by Nellie Fox and a single by Minnie Minoso. Bob Shaw (2-1) won it, with Turk Lown's reliefer, for his seventh in a row against Washington.

REDS TO TOUR

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Soviet Football Federation is sending a first-class league team to Canada to play four matches during August, the Canadian Soccer Football Association announced Thursday. No sites have been decided for the games.

UPSET AT HOME — Billy Martin, Cincinnati second baseman, slides across home plate, dumping Giants' catcher Hobie Landrith, who is about to land on his stomach reaching for the ball. Action came in sixth inning of game in San Francisco after Martin had doubled. 'Bob Purkey singled to centre and Martin was safe on Willie Mays's bad throw to the plate. (AP Wirephoto)

Larry Doby To Make Debut In Toronto

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Larry Doby, the 35 - year - old former American League slugger, may be the man of the hour for the International League's Toronto Maple Leafs tonight.

If doctors agree, the former All Journeyman — outfielder (Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago) will play his first game since breaking his ankle last August with San Diego of the Pacific Coast League when the Leafs entertain Miami. He worked out with the Chicago White Sox this spring and joined the Leafs on a trial basis 10 days ago.

Leafs, idle last night, are second to league - leading Buffalo. The Bisons broke a three-game losing streak, beating Richmond Virginians 7-2, Columbus Jets defeated Rochester Red Wings 6-3 and Havana Sugar Kings edged Montreal 8-7 in other games Thursday.

Toronto has hit only 10 home runs in 14 games this year, well down in the league with a .218 average.

Ken Lehman's five-hitter, his fourth consecutive victory, downed Richmond. Bob Bowman belted a three-run homer for the Bisons. Jim Bennett lost.

Shortstop Dicke Barone and pitcher Earl Francis drove in five runs with a pair of homers in a six-run, sixth inning to pace the Jets. Francis fanned 11 and gave only two hits until relieved in the eighth. Cal Browning lost for Rochester.

Felix Torres had three doubles and Jose Arcia smacked three singles to pace Havana, which had to stave off a five-run Montreal eighth inning, sparked by Jose Cesar's three-run homer. Joe Altobelli hit his fourth homer, a two-run shot for Montreal. Bob Miller was the winner and Rene Valdes the loser.

Jock Recalls Win Aboard Long Shot

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A two-horse race, is it?

"Don't count out the long shot," said Roscoe Goose. "Not in the Kentucky Derby."

Roscoe Goose is a man to listen to when the talk is of long shots. Goose was the jockey aboard the longest shot ever to win the Kentucky Derby. The horse was Donerail, 91-1 in a field of eight on May 10, 1913.

"It was a day about like this," said Goose, "a little overcast, but the track was real fast."

His hazel eyes twinkled as he traced the curve of the track with his hand, stopping at the eighth pole.

"I put on him real easy until we got to there. Then I moved him.

"I never saw a horse move so fast in all my life. He jumped out, and I damn near fell off. We breezed home easy."

The price: $184.90 to win. The time: 2:04 4-5 — a track record.

Goose continued Donerail never was rated as highly as he should have been. Even his owner, the late Tom F. Hayes, was skeptical.

Injuries Jinx Already Hits Major Leagues Ball Teams

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The baseball season is young but injuries already are taking their toll in the major league pennant races.

Detroit Tigers, losers of seven straight, have pitcher Ray Narleski on the disabled list because of a back injury. Outfielder Al Kaline sat out Wednesday's game with New York with a jammed left wrist, suffered while trying for a diving catch in Tuesday's game. Before that, Kaline was playing despite a slight ankle injury.

Kansas City lost the services of relief pitcher John Tsitouris, whose jaw was broken Wednesday when he was hit by a line drive during batting practice in Boston.

WILLIAMS PULLED MUSCLE

Boston Red Sox have been limping along without Ted Williams, who has been reduced to pinch-hitting chores for two weeks because of a pulled leg muscle. Rookie outfielder Ed Kobrosky was forced to the bench with a split finger. Earlier, regular catcher Haywood Sullivan was out with the same type of injury.

Baltimore still does not have the full use of Clint Courtney, veteran catcher obtained from Washington. Although Courtney has been in pinch - hit, his lowly-ranking broken wrist and wrong finger have prevented him from catching at all. Other injuries have hampered pitcher Billy Hoeft and outfielder-catcher Gene Green in spring training and both were sent to the minors while they recovered.

HARSHMAN DISABLED

Cleveland lost Jack Harshman from its pitching staff before the season started. The veteran lefthander was placed on the disabled list due to a back ailment.

Los Angeles Dodgers have been hit as hard as any club. They lost to pitcher Roger Craig for two months when he suffered a broken collarbone in a collision with Vada Pinson of Cincinnati. Charlie Neal, key to the infield, has missed two games in a row with arm trouble.

Joe Adcock, Milwaukee's power hitting first baseman, was sent home from Los Angeles Wednesday night to get treatment for a bleeding nerve in his back. Adcock has missed several games. Outfielder Wes Covington, bothered by a pulled muscle in his side, broke into the starting lineup in Wednesday night's game at Los Angeles.

Pastrano Meets Johnson Tonight

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Willie Pastrano is returning to heavyweight ranks tonight hoping to even matters with Alonzo Johnson.

"But win, lose or draw," he said, "I'm not going to forget my one goal. I want the light-heavy title crown."

Pastrano, 24, who fights out of New Orleans, dropped a close decision to Johnson when they met here last July. Afterwards, Johnson, a 25-year-old slugger from Braddock, Pa., dropped three bouts in a row and fell from the top 10 list of heavyweights.

Pastrano went the other way. He was forced out of the ring for several months and suddenly began to lose weight.

"I didn't go on any special diet," he explained. "I just dropped from 189 pounds to around 177. He says he "feels better, faster and sharper."

He goes into the televised 10-rounder with a 32-6-2 record. Johnson has an 18-4 mark.

Lark Scout Joins Buffalo

TORONTO (CP)—Harvey Johnson, former assistant coach and chief talent scout with Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four football league, has joined Buffalo Bills of the American League in the same capacity.

He signed less than 72 hours after resigning his Montreal job.

The one-time New York Yankee quarterback will be one of three assistant coaches under head coach Buster Ramsay when the Bills open training July 31.

Bobo Wins Over Sparks

VANCOUVER (CP) — Former world middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson scored a fifth-round technical knockout over Winnipeg's Al Sparks in the main event of a professional boxing card here Thursday night.

Olson, on the comeback trail as a light heavyweight, opened a rout over Sparks' right eye in the fourth round of the scheduled 10-round bout.

The former champ three pounds over the division limit, opened a cut over Sparks' left eye in the fifth and referee Ab Keyes stopped the bout at 2:50.

Sparks weighed in at 173 and Olson at 176.

'Bally Ache' Has Long Neck, Is Sentimental Derby Choice

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The secret of Bally Ache's success as a runner-up is sentimental. He's a Kentucky Derby was revealed today by his three-year-old trainer who wound up their training with light workouts at Churchill Downs.

The smooth-striding bay with tremendous long neck in the face of defeat has been getting special attention and training to help make him taller, heavier and longer.

Although winner of more than $300,000 in 1958 and out of the money only once in 16 starts, the son of Ballydam lost five $100,000-plus races by a total distance of less than 1½ lengths. To say the least that was frustrating to Johnson Jacocks and Mrs. Lucille Otto, who paid a mere $2,500 for the colt, and trainer Jimmy Pitt.

"If his neck and nose had been a little longer," Pitt said, he'd have taken at least three of those victories," said Pitt as he watched Bally Ache gallop a mile and a quarter.

"But this year it has been a different story. He's already grown around 15.3 hands to about 16.3. He's much heavier in the right places, too. Now, I think he can really stretch it."

Pitt hopes Bally Ache is in third post position, has been out victories, two seconds and earnings of $211,800. Not once has he finished out of the stake as he scored victories in the Flamingo at Hialeah Park and the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park.

Though he is second choice at 5 to 2 to C. V. Whitney's Tompion, 7-to-2 favorite, Bally Ache could well go forward as the co favorite.

Tompion, a 14th post position, although an easy winner of the Santa Anita Derby and even more impressive in the Blue Grass Stakes, can't match the workout and money - earned record of his rival.

Here also there was some support for Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor's Victoria Park, seeking to become the first Canadian winner of the race, and Isaac's Blumberg's Venetian Way, who gave Bally Ache a tough battle in the Wood Memorial Derby but lost to him by 3¼ lengths. Saturday's Victoria Park has 12th post position.

But not even the supporters of Calumet Farm, winner of seven Kentucky derbies, could find much to shout about.

Wolves Favored Over Rovers In England's Cup Final

By PAUL WESTBROOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Glamor is lent the key to success then Wolverhampton Wanderers look certain to triumph over Blackburn Rovers in Saturday's Football Association Cup final, the big game before 100 goals this season.

Blackburn, which has leading stars, has played basically the same team all year. Little speedster Jeff Bryan has been banished more fits into the attack, and Fullsman Derek Dougan and Peter Dobing have scored more than 40 goals between them.

When Wolves' leader left Peter Broadbent has an off day their attack falters. Blackburn splits scheming between Douglas and England halfback Ronnie Clayton.

High School Activities
By STEVIE DAHL

Every student agrees that the most important organization in a school is the Student Council.

This group, made up of representatives from classes, clubs and staff, governs the extra-curricular activity of B.C.I.V.S. as well as some facets of school life. We have been most fortunate to have had a very capable council to be the past year which has accomplished their aims and has run things smoothly. Our president, Marvin Hughes, represented our school well, assisted by the executive, Frances Dickens, Peter Annis, Julie Brandt, Donna Anderson and Ruth Slavin. Only one of their many successful projects is the new perfect system which has worked out better than we expected and has turned into an efficient, energetic club.

During the past few weeks there was a heated campaign to elect the executive for next year's council. Although we have always been proud of our school spirit, we were disappointed that there was only one nomination for president, perhaps indicating a lack of spirit. However, that candidate, Barry Simpson, is well-known for his enthusiasm and ability and it could have been that no one felt qualified to run against him. Although each council will operate well under Barry's leadership next year — he has a fine set of executives to work hard and succeed in all his undertakings, the rest of the council positions were strongly contested and the new executive is Alan Sterling (vice-president); Julie Bradford, second vice-president and Ruth Ostrom, recording secretary; Iris MacLean, corresponding secretary; and Robert Burt, treasurer.

At this time of year many students are anxiously trying to make decisions about their future, and this is especially true in the grade twelve classes. "Will I go on to grade thirteen and higher education or march out to the working world armed with a Junior Matric?" Fortunately, the boys and girls in grade twelve are receiving a great deal of counselling and advice about this problem in their occupational periods and recently several representatives fro mvarious companies have been visiting grade 13 classes to provide information on different careers offered by their companies. This advice is proving invaluable to us as we now have a clearer idea of job opportunities, educational requirements, chance of advancement, salaries, benefits and drawbacks. On behalf of the grade twelve students I would like to thank all the busy men who have found time to explain their jobs to us, helping us to decide on our careers.

Each spring, much to the dismay of novice skiers, there who tenderly watch over B.C.I.'s gradually depressed campus, scores of aspiring athletes log out to practise for track and field. But it needs a motley crew to cure. Magnetic door latch. Completely automatic defrost.

Each spring, much to the dismay of novice skiers, there who tenderly watch over B.C.I.'s gradually depressed campus, scores of aspiring athletes log out to practise for track and field. But it needs a motley crew to cure. Magnetic door latch. Completely automatic defrost.

The B.C.I.V.S. badminton teams, too, have been participating steadily for the last two months, and are not only tell the bird from the racquet, but also have become expert at the fine arts of smashing, drop shots, back hand and underhand shots. Although the Belleville teams were more-or-less shafted by Friday last year, the B.C.I.V.S. squads are determined to make this year a disgrace occur again, and are out to bring back the winners' crests!

WEDDING GIVES

Lour during the weekend. The Malayan, Sir Tunku Abdul Rahman, Ministers Menzies of Australia, Nkrumah of India and Nash of New Zealand, will be present. Canada's Macmillan's guests at Chequers while Lowe is one of a party, including Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Leader of the Opposition, Earl of Home, secretary of state for Commonwealth relations.

Whether the weekend's weather Lowe would confirm his informal talks with other state leaders on South African policies following Rahman's arrival and his announced intention of discussing possible action against the union will depend on Britain's overseas powers on his return home.

There is no indication that South African Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd might be invited by Macmillan to come to London when he recovers from a mouth infection and a sedation attempt.

Another possibility was that Macmillan and Menzies would seek to persuade Rahman to wait the outcome of the forthcoming visit to South Africa of Secretary - General Hammarskjold of the United Nations, who is scheduled to arrive here May 12 for preliminary consultations.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

CONSTITUTIONAL

cause of the provision that a province must make grants to its universities at the rate of $1.50 per head of population in order for its corporate taxpayers to qualify for the federal abatement. This, they hold, amounts to a federal directive on how the province is to spend its money.

The Conservatives argue that the legislation is merely permissive. It will be up to the individual province to decide whether to take advantage of the formula.

Quebec already has increased the corporation income tax by one percentage point in anticipation passage of the bill. It has refused to accept federal grants until now on grounds they encroached on provincial jurisdiction in education. The other provinces have been accepting the grants as distributed through the Canadian Universities Foundation and the Trans-Canada rate.

VOICES DOUBTS

Mr. Pearson said he has "grave doubts" as to whether the proposed arrangement is constitutional. He gave notice the Liberal opposition will introduce an amendment to the government bill, providing for "something better, of permanent and accepted value."

The opposition leader said the Liberals have no choice but to vote for the government bill on second reading—approval in principle—since they favor federal aid to universities.

The debate is scheduled to resume Tuesday. The Commons turned today to study of agricultural department spending estimates.

Astrological Forecast

Saturday, May 7

By CARROLL RIGHTER

General Tendencies: This can be one of your most upsetting of days, especially in the ways stated as difficult for your own sign following. Poor judgment is apt to exist with most everyone, so even though you may be cautious, you need to be careful of wrong statements or decisions inadvertently made by those about you. A day for double-checking whatever comes to your attention.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Associates either cannot reach decisions or are prejudiced today. Hence, it is important you remain cool and collected and be sure you meet all obligations religiously. Then the day will be very productive for you.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — This is not a day for getting into anything new and untried. Handle only that work with which you are thoroughly familiar. Get reports in perfect order. P. M. be more wreckless is in order and take care of your health problems.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A day to practice economy, particularly where pleasure is concerned. Homely, simple entertainment is the best in the long run. P.M. do not force anything to your desire to get hobbies perfected. Hobbies are for relaxation.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 20) — Be on the spot to come up against some pretty stiff opposition today where close ties, real estate or business affairs are concerned. Take care you do not make your old coats and make matters more difficult. P.M. take it easy.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be particularly careful while out driving or in whatever activity you are engaged. Also guard your words well. Keep a careful watch over your money and go over meticulously any reports or legal papers, contracts and the like.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Your penchant for dwelling in the minutiae too much can now bring you disfavor of higher-ups or those of experience who know that the big issues are far more important. P.M. take treatments that will help your voice.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You erroneously believe that a higher-up is not doing things properly and feel you can do them better. Refrain from butting in. Relax and all will soon work out nicely.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — There is a day when you think you are hemmed in and imposed upon. Think positively instead and figure out accurately where you are making your mistakes. But do not discuss your ideas with anyone until some other day.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — A gossipy individual may start a quarrel of some kind today and you may be tempted to fall right into the trap, if you are not on guard. Be courteous with everybody instead. P.M. be correct socially.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You are sorely tempted to make radical changes in several departments of your existence today, but this would only lead to trouble with higher-ups. If you curb that temperamental outburst, you will win out instead.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — While fine, new ideas and outlets are most appealing today, it is wise you first get important affairs handled quickly and well. P.M. you can now look into that which interests, but do not put into operation as yet.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If you follow that strange intuition today, you can jeopardize some very worthwhile holdings. Solve your problems through objective thinking instead, and you can also add to abundance.

If your child is born today . . . The interesting child born today is of that genre of people who appreciate the finer things of life and want them above all things, but lack the desire to work for them. There may be a slight neurological disturbance here which should be cleared up early and then the life can be a very successful one. Also, give fine religious training. Real aptitude for detective or political work in this chart.

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and waste remain in the system. Then backache, discomfort and worse may follow, and headache and feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to regular action. Then you feel better, work better—look better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now.

COMMONWEALTH

pink carnation in his buttonhole, placed his hand over his chest, thumb tucked under his coat.

TREMENDOUS SPECTACLE

For connoisseurs of royalty, there was almost a surfeit of spectacle—the Queen Mother in blue dress and stole; eight white horse-covered mink; the eight little bridesmaids, demure in organza; the crowds lined in Parliament Square, beneath pinky Gothic columns of the Mother of Parliaments; the zebra-striped awning over the entrance to the Abbey; the Prince of Wales in court dress, with ruffles and kilt, straining forward to watch his aunt walk down the aisle; Princess Anne in a replica of Princess Margaret's first evening dress.

Perfect spring weather blessed the biggest royal occasion since the Coronation.

The Queen Mother bit her lip and wept softly through most of the ceremony.

The bride had a moment of stage-fright in the middle of the ceremony. Within the hallowed, magnificence of Westminster Abbey, all went smoothly until Margaret began repeating her vows before the throng of 2,068 invited guests and millions listening on radio and watching on television.

DURING PLEDGE

It came as she pledged herself to Armstrong-Jones.

"For better for worse," intoned the archbishop.

No response.

"For better for worse," the archbishop said again.

She then repeated the words quietly, her voice in a lower key than usual. It was part of the pledge the bride in the 5,000-can wedding service:

"I Margaret Rose, take thee Antony Charles Robert, to my wedded husband, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse, for richer for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love, cherish and to obey, till death do us part. . . ."

The groom spoke his wedding responses clearly and firmly as he knelt with Margaret before Dr. Fisher, who pronounced them man and wife at exactly 11:45 a.m. (6:45 a.m. EDT).

FIRST IN FOUR

It was the first time in four centuries that the daughter of an English king had married a commoner.

The bride and groom appeared relaxed and happy as they rode separately through the cheering throngs to the Abbey. Armstrong-Jones received an especially loud cheer upon his arrival.

A fanfare of trumpets blared out as the princess entered the Abbey and walked down the long nave on a rich blue carpet. Prince Philip whispered to her as they began the long walk to the altar.

Before them were the clergy of the Abbey in stately procession, with the great cross of the Dean of Westminster.

Behind the bride and her escort came the eight bridesmaids, Princess Anne was the last of the group.

The girls, aged six to 12, were simple floor-length dresses in a white organza like that of the bridal gown.

GROOM RELAXED

Armstrong-Jones, with his best man, Dr. Roger Gilliatt, was waiting for the princess. He sat on the ground floor level of the Abbey, looking and even joking until the moment Margaret arrived. Then he became serious but as Margaret reached him he relaxed to a winning smile.

She smiled back.

Stepping to her side, Tony linked with her, up the short flight of steps to the pink-cushioned kneeling benches.

Princess Anne came forward to take the bouquet from her aunt, then returned to her place among the bridesmaids.

The Queen, on a red and gold seat, sat only a few feet away.

The Dean of Westminster, Dr. E. S. Abbot, began the service: "Dearly beloved, we are gathered here in the sight of God and in the face of this congregation to join together this man and this woman in holy matrimony. . . ."

The dean then asked the traditional question—whether anyone knew cause why the marriage should not take place.

There was a silence, then the Archbishop of Canterbury stepped forward to ask:

"Antony Charles Robert, wilt thou have this woman to thy wedded wife, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of matrimony?"

BOOMING VOICE

"Wilt thou love her, comfort her, honor, and keep her, in sickness and in health, and forsaking all other, keep thee only unto her, so long as ye both shall live?"

Tony's "I will" came on top of the archbishop's last word.

Then — "Margaret Rose, wilt thou have this man to thy wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of matrimony?"

"Will thou obey him, and serve him, love, honor and keep him, in sickness and in health; and forsaking all other, keep thee only unto him, so long as ye both shall live?"

Softly the princess responded: "I will."

Armstrong - Jones placed the wedding ring on Margaret's finger and repeated after the archbishop: "With this ring, I thee wed."

"To those whom God hath joined together," said the archbishop, "Let no man put asunder."

ROARING CHEERS

As the newlyweds emerged from the Abbey, the throngs reacted with roaring cheers to the smiles of the 29-year-old bride and her 30-year-old husband. So loudly were the crowds that ambulances quickly reported 237 casualties, including 171 fainting cases.

In the glass coach, which the groom entered first after a whispered consultation with the bride, they returned to Buckingham Palace for a champagne wedding breakfast to prepare for departure on their Caribbean honeymoon aboard the royal yacht Britannia.

For the first time on a great royal occasion, Margaret presided the Queen into the palace. Crowds estimated at more than 200,000 milled around the palace gates.

From thousands came the cry, "We want Margaret."

When the couple came out on a balcony, another volley of cheers rose from the square below.

WAVES TO CROWD

She was carrying her bridal bouquet. She turned to speak to her husband, then smiled and waved to the crowd.

Frantic cheers followed. Handkerchiefs and programs waved.

The Queen, the Queen Mother, Prince Philip, Princess Anne, Prince Charles and assorted members of the Royal Family were with the bridal pair on the balcony.

Again and again, Margaret joined together," said the archbishop, "Let no man put asunder."

She was carrying her bridal bouquet. She turned to speak to her husband, then smiled and waved to the crowd.

Frantic cheers followed. Handkerchiefs and programs waved.

The Queen, the Queen Mother, Prince Philip, Princess Anne, Prince Charles and assorted members of the Royal Family were with the bridal pair on the balcony.

Again and again, Margaret raised her hand to return the crowd's salute. The bridesmaids clustered around her.

Armstrong-Jones also waved from time to time.

They stayed on the balcony for four minutes.

The din of cheers contrasted with the silence outside during the ceremony, as the crowds listened on portable radios and loudspeakers fixed to the palace gates. Television carried the ceremony to all Britain and to Commonwealth nations as well.

The ceremony brought to a climax 66 days of a steadily building 20th-century fairy tale.

It was on Feb. 26 that Queen Mother Elizabeth announced her daughter's engagement to a surprised public.

The romance of the princess and the professional photographer was the best-kept royal secret of the decade.

And the marriage meant a great deal to the people of Britain.

Some didn't like the idea of her marrying a commoner. A few others complained that the wedding cost too much. But the vast majority shared her joy.

Princess Margaret, one of the most enchanting news subjects, has been described as a fun-loving ghost at whose blue eyes seek adventure. She is just as often described as a person of deep religious beliefs with a mind strictly her own.

Iron and granite-hand character have been demonstrated in the life of the princess, as well as the steadying grace for which she is more famed. In 1956 she renounced publicly a handsome soldier, an older man, Peter Townsend, an air ace from the Second World War, because he was a divorced person, although the so-called innocent party.

This tiny woman then took on a new dimension in the eyes of the Commonwealth.

"Margaret Rose," as she was known as a child, bolted the ancient prerogatives of royalty and embraced a gayer, modern vogue when today she solemnly vowed "to obey" a commoner at her wedding to a photographer. She then became the envy of all girls—and perhaps she herself would smile at that.

JACKIE ATTENDS

There were a few vacant seats in the Abbey, in the section reserved for very special guests. One seat that wasn't vacant, however, was that occupied by Athenia-reared Jackie Chan, actress, former model and onetime bearer of Armstrong-Jones.

He had remembered to invite her—as he invited a few other friends of his old Bohemian days, when he gave midnight suppers in his studio apartment in the unfashionable Pimlico district.

At the wedding breakfast Prince Philip proposed a toast to the bride and groom. Armstrong-Jones replied. He and Margaret together sliced one of the many wedding cakes and passed out portions.

Outside, the crowd which had been singing For She's a Jolly Good Fellow slowly melted away.

At about the same time, the guests in the Abbey—who had not been permitted to move from their seats until the Royal Family departed—were filing away also.

Among them was Sir Winston Churchill, moving along fairly rapidly for a man who'll be 86 in November. Behind him came two more former prime ministers—Anthony Eden and Lord Attlee, with their wives.

Husband Kills Estranged Wife, Self At Oshawa

Woman, Three Children, Living With Friends

OSHAWA (CP) — A young couple was shot to death in a northside home early today and two other persons were wounded.

Police said Albert Bell shot his estranged wife Violet, a waitress, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Caldwell, where she had been living for three months.

Mrs. Caldwell and Helen Smith, 16, Mrs. Bell's sister, were wounded in the five-shot barrage.

Bell killed himself with a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun shortly afterward.

Harvey James, an Oshawa business man, said he was standing about half a block away from the Caldwell home when he heard three shots. He drove his car to the back door of the Caldwell home and saw a man run out into a garage at the back.

The man ran behind a garage, James said, and there were two more shots. He could see that Bell lying crumpled over a beg on the ground, what looked like a porch.

Ontario city and provincial police officers arrived, they found Mrs. Caldwell and Miss Smith walking downstairs. They said the women were sent to hospital.

Police said only half his face shot away, behind the garage.

Police said they were unable to say immediately what prompted the shooting. The Bells were in their 20s.

Mrs. Bell had lived in two rooms in the Caldwell home with her children since the last three months.

'Destination Unknown'—High Seas' Is Reply By Jones Boy and Girl to 'Whither Bound?'

LONDON (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Antony Armstrong-Jones sailed westward through the placid waters of the English Channel today, bound for a sunshine honeymoon in the Caribbean.

To the customary "whither bound?" signal from channel shore stations, the royal yacht Britannia carrying Princess Margaret and her commoner husband flashed back the jaunty reply of Golden-day British sea dogs:

"Destination unknown — high seas."

Then the ship cloved its radio to all but official messages.

The Britannia was headed for the West Indies but no port of call has been announced. Most speculation f a v o r e d Trinidad, which Margaret has visited before and was warmly greeted as the Calypso princess.

One suggested the honeymooners might swing northward and call at a U.S. gulf port such as New Orleans or the Florida coast.

The admiral refused to say.

Behind the princess was a wedding day of never-to-be-forgotten magnificence and pageantry.

It was a day of luminous smiles and the thundering cheers of close to 2,000,000 Britons, for their favorite princess and the man of her choice.

An estimated 300,000,000 people throughout the United Kingdom and Western Europe either heard or watched the solemn Anglican wedding ceremony F r i d a y in Westminister Abbey on radio or television.

They saw a dazzling bride in a wedding gown of purest white and a handsome bridegroom—the first man without a title to marry a British princess in 637 years.

The newlyweds waved goodbye in London as the Britannia cleared Tower Bridge over the Thames. As they waved Margaret was seen in one of her first wifely acts—flicking confetti from Tony's dark blue suit.

Britain stretched its farewell the length of the river and down to the sea.

The honeymoon yacht was cheered by thousands thronging the river banks. Every riverside town emblazoned its waterfront with floodlights, flags and huge bonfires.

Cheers blared a deafening send-off from a myriad of ships. Big Ben

U.S. Pilot Ordered To Kil Self But Is Alive Says K.; Reds Recover Spy Photos

Kept News of His Capture Secret To Trap U.S. Into False Explanation

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The pilot of an American plane shot down over Russia last Sunday is alive and in Soviet hands, Nikita S. Khrushchev said today.

The Soviet premier said the pilot, Captain Francis Gary Powers, was on an espionage flight and may stand trial here.

Khrushchev told a tumultuous session of the Supreme Soviet parliament that he thought "it would be right to put the pilot on trial."

He said Powers, a former captain in the U.S. Air Force before transferring to the Central Intelligence Agency in 1956, was shot down by a rocket near Sverdlovsk in the Ural Mountains.

The pilot was under orders to kill himself to avoid capture but this was now "alive and kicking" in Moscow, he said.

DID NOT DISCLOSE

Khrushchev said he did not disclose the pilot was in Soviet hands in his original announcement of the incident three days ago because he wanted to wait for the right statement version.

"The state department has suggested the pilot might have lost consciousness during the emergency and the plane strayed over Russian territory."

Khrushchev said the plane was shot down from a height of 20,000 metres (about 67,000 feet).

He said that Powers claimed that until 1956 he was a major in American Air Force earning $700 a month. He said the pilot admitted that he then went to work for what the premier called an "American spy organization" and a salary of $2,500 a month.

"That's the way capitalists buy human beings," Khrushchev said. SPOWS PILE

The Soviet premier showed the cheering deputies a film which he said had been taken from the plane and developed here.

Khrushchev called into his story of the confession by pilot.

"Now I am going to tell you a secret. I did not tell you when I first reported the story that we had parts of the plane and that we also have the pilot who is alive and kicking.

"We did that on purpose, because if we gave all that information gathered espionagists, the United States) would have been produced."

Khrushchev told the Supreme Soviet in its closing session that Powers had admitted he was paid had been developed in Moscow, where Powers was being held by the premier Soviet today that Russia is switching completely to guided missiles. He ordered of strategic intercontinental m i s s i l e s has been established and a cut in armed forces announced. His speech was broadcast live to Moscow and monitored in London.

Khrushchev said the ballistic missile command has been established under Marshal Mitrofan Nedelin, recommended in-chief of Soviet Army artillery. Marshal Nedelin, recommended directly to the newly-appointed commander of the Soviet continental g u i d e d weapons. "This is a new branch, I would say, Comrade Nedelin, do put your attention to the armed forces and technical means, with which it is now equipped. Now is the moment to deliver a return devastating blow to the enemy."

CLAIMS ADMITTED SPY

Khrushchev claimed that Powers had since admitted he was working in military intelligence under cover of an official job as a civilian station.

"He has said that he was for days flown over a number of points including Murmansk and Archangel switching on and off his apparatus over various points marked on the map," said the premier.

Khrushchev said he wanted to believe Powers' statement, the word that he knew nothing about the mission.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials learned with amazement today of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's statement that an American pilot has been captured during a spy mission across the Soviet Union.

The dramatic statement by Khrushchev before the Supreme Soviet (parliament) seems certain to bring further increase in tension between Moscow and Washington.

The White House withheld comment today on the Khrushchev statement.

But officials still discounted the possibility that President Eisenhower would change his plans for the summit meeting or for a June visit to Russia.

State department press officer Lincoln White had no immediate comment on the Khrushchev report. The state department presumarily wanted to get its own information direct from Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson at Moscow. Officials also clearly wanted to go over Khrushchev's account in some detail.

New Brunswick Election Called For June 27th

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) Premier Flemming has disclosed his secret — New Brunswickers go to the polls June 27, a Monday.

Over a two-outlet television hookup he said his government is asking for "renewed authority" to carry out positive steps which will be required by 1965.

The Legislative Assembly Act did not require an election until late in 1961 but the presence of matters of "great significance" to the future of the province had prompted his government to seek a new mandate from the people.

LIBERALS ENTHUSIASTIC

Liberal Opposition Leader Louis J. Robichaud said after the announcement he greeted with "pleasure, a relief and enthusiasm" the premier's decision to place his government's record before the judgment of the people.

And, he said optimistically, "following the election" he will call a special legislature session to deal with such pressing problems as the "flemming gerrymum tax which works such hardship on so many of our people."

This was a reference to the premium collected for the province's share of the federal-provincial hospital i n s u r a n c e scheme, $50 yearly for families and $25 for single persons.

REASONS ADVANCED

Among specific reasons given for calling the election were a scheduled Dominion-provincial conference July 25 in Ottawa; pending study of the effects of federal monetary policies on the Atlantic economy and royal commission enquiry into transportation and the nation's coal industry.

Mr. Robichaud said "so many issues have arisen" since the last election June 18, 1952, that Mr. Flemming could not continue to postpone an election and still ensure that he represented the people.

New Brunswick is the fourth province to announce an election in June. Others are set for June 7 in Nova Scotia, June 8 in Saskatchewan and June 22 in Ontario.

Standing in the House at dissolution were: Progressive Conservatives, 12 Liberals, one independent, six vacancies.

Men Charged After Fight

TORONTO (CP) — P o l i c e charged five old Jewish men in March with att..npted murder Friday night after a fight between two men behind a town hotel.

They said one pointed a gun at a friend and pulled the trigger. The autopsy said matthew Sabo, because it contained revolver bullets.

After the incident, the friend grabbed the gun and beat the man. A passerby broke up the fight and called the police.

Marsh was also charged with possession of an o f f e n s i v e weapon. George Peters, 35, was charged with assault causing bodily harm. Both are from Toronto.

Today's Chuckle

To dodge responsibilities is easy; the hard part comes in dodging the consequences of dodging them.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A storm centre over Michigan on this morning's weather map is causing unsettled showery weather over much of the Great Lakes region. As this disturbance moves through Ontario today the cold air over Northern Ontario will spill southward bringing appreciable temperature drops to southern regions tonight. Prospects for Sunday are for mainly cloudy and cool weather conditions throughout the province.

Man Who Killed Trotsky Freed; Thought in Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—Jacques Mornard, the man who assassinated Russian revolutionary Leon Trotsky 20 years ago, was believed held today from vengeance hunters in Havana following his release from a Mexican prison.

Freed more than three months ago after a 20-year sentence expires Aug. 20, Mornard was spirited out of Mexico Friday to undisclosed destination by police by Troiskyites bent on revenge.

Trotsky's 80-year-old widow, who still lives in Mexico City, said Mornard might be headed for a similar fate as her husband. Trotsky met at his home in exile in Mexico in the late summer of 1940. Mrs. Trotsky called Mornard a "Kremlin hatchet man."

USES ALIAS

Mexican officials said Mornard had left under the name Jacques van Dendreich accompanied by two Cuban revolutionary officials— Oldrich Novicky and Eduard Puches. They said the party was to take part in at Havana's Hotel Nacional.

Plan to Spend Billion to Aid Jet Air Travel

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government plans to spend upwards of $1,000,000,000 in the next 10 years to make jet air travel available to the whole Canadian, Transport Minister Hees said Friday night.

He also made clear that the government considers the government intends that Trans-Canada Air Lines will play an expanding role in the job.

"During the next 10 years we intend to make fast air travel commonplace in the lives of the Canadian people," Mr. Hees said in a free-lance speech in the CBC's series, The Nation's Business.

The financial stability of the publicly-owned TCA would not only be maintained in the years ahead "but we also hope that it will be possible to bring about still further reductions in fares for air travel so that more and more Canadians can benefit from this modern, rapid and efficient means of transportation."

Railways, Non-op Workers Meet at Conciliation Board

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's biggest labor dispute — between the railways and about 120,000 of their non-operating employees—moved into its second phase Monday with the opening of hearings before a three-man conciliation board.

The first phase is the contract talks that ended last January and negotiations between the two parties broke down after six weeks of sporadic and fruitless talks until the board was appointed.

The hearings are expected to last a month and the board's decision, not binding on either party, will probably not be announced for at least another month. There is no indication this second phase will be anything more than a necessary preliminary to the third — government intervention to prevent a crippling railway strike.

The non-operating unions, 15 of the 20 groupings all railway employees not actually engaged in running trains and headed by veteran negotiator Frank H. Hall, chairman of the joint negotiating committee, a n n o u n c e d they wanted an additional 25 cents an hour, spread over a two-year contract.

Present average hourly wage is $1.71.

The non-ops also asked paid vacations of three weeks after 15 years instead of 25 and paid holidays after 30 years instead of 25, as well as other changes in working conditions.

But wages are the main issue. The railways—six of them, with the two giants, CNR and CPR the chief spokesmen—refused to consider any wage increase at all at present.

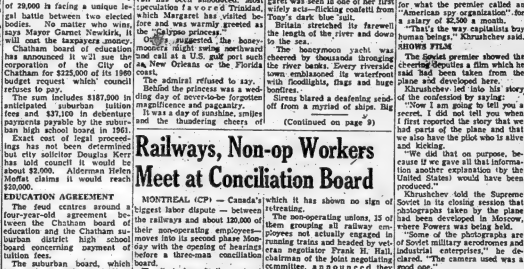
Old Bolshevik K. Voroshilov, Steps Down

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Marshal Klement Voroshilov resigned today as president of the Soviet Union and was replaced by Leonid Brezhnev.



Voroshilov, 79, a member of the original revolutionary band of Bolsheviks which overthrew the Czar's regime, asked to be released from his post on the grounds of poor health.

His resignation was accepted at today's session of the Supreme Soviet parliament in a resolution drafted by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Delegates to Russia's parliament then approved the appointment of Brezhnev, 53, a member of the Soviet hierarchy for several years.

In recognition of Voroshilov's services to the state, Khrushchev proposed awarding him three of Russia's top honors and medals including "Hero of Socialist La-

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ont farmer with wide experienc marketing farm products the salvation of Canada's cultural industry rests on be salesmanship abroad.

It is not good enough, Ha Danforth (PC—Kent, Ont.) in the Commons Friday, for a farmer marketing to be d died, by representatives of United States and Britain.

The Canadian farmer was ing his part by cutting costs and increasing efficiency, Mr. effort, was needed in the trai of an aggressive overseas s staff and in the development new uses for farm products.

Mr. Danforth spoke in a ing debate on problems fa farmers. He is a m mer president of the Ont Fruit and Vegetable Growers' sociation and a former chairm of several marketing co-op ives.

APPROVE BUDGET

The House approved Agri ture Minister Harkness' $1,6 797 departmental budget a Paul Martin — (Essex East) cused the government of a cutting its responsibility tow prairie grain growers.

The minister said the gov ment is considering ways of help — other than deficie payments—for prairie farm but is waiting for final negoti tions to make their suggesti effective.

Mr. Danforth said Canad farmers no longer are satisf with subsidies or floor price best a medicine to take the country over a bad period.

The solution was better sa ing advanced research develop agricultural products to "take away the glut that has been the heart in the very pect of agriculture."

The minister said staff overs would "cost far less than countless subsidies" the gov ment pays to farmers who could help whittle down h storage bills.

"This salesmanship is abs lutely necessary and I am co fident that we will be able to it eventually."

He said that too often Canad sales overseas go through embassies of the U.S. and B sin.

CADETS, VETERANS TO ATTEND SERVICE

Tomorrow both the members of the Quinte Naval Veterans' Association and the contingent of RCSCC "Quinte" will attend the special drumhead service being held at Belleville Armoury in Kingston to observe Battle of Jutland Sunday. A large number of Sea Cadet Corps and Naval Veterans' Associations are expected to be in attendance.

The drumhead service will be preceded by the march of the assembled personnel through the city with a saluting base at the Royal Military College gates, where the commandant of RMC will take the salute.

Members of the Quinte Naval Veterans' Association will be leaving for Kingston by cars from the market square at noon. The Sea Cadets will also travel to Kingston by their own bus following the church parade Sunday morning.

Probe Rossmore Burglaries

Provincial Police are investigating two break-ins at places of business in the village of Rossmore which occurred Friday night.

Broken into were Tobe's County Gardens, and Rigby's Service Station.

The night operators smashed a window in a front door to gain entry to the service station, following which the filing-cabinet was forced open, attacked with tools and the door pried off. As far as could be determined at midmorning, nothing was taken.

Entry also was gained at Tobe's but here police investigation was still not completed and police were unable to say if anything was missing.

Sea Cadets Start 'Cruise'

Members of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" yesterday evening got underway on the first of their weekend activities to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the Royal Canadian Navy, starting off on Friday evening the cadets and officers of "Quinte" began a weekend "cruise" during which they will be accommodated aboard through the waters of eastern Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River.

During this time they will conduct themselves just as though they were on board a ship which was actually underway, rather than just confined to the Sea Cadet building opposite the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club. Regular watches were stood throughout the night and the crew rose early this morning at 6 o'clock to complete the boat work necessary to put Quinte's ship, facilities and entire into the water for use on practising the sail-past which is being prepared for Monday's inspection.

The practising of routines for the annual inspection will occupy much of the crew's time today in the normal ship routine. They will also be receiving their evening meal aboard ship. In the afternoon today there will be a session of close uniform preparation for the Church Parade being held tomorrow morning at the Cenotaph of Battle of Atlantic Sunday.

Following the usual church parade to Christ Church and St. Michael's, the cadets will board buses to take them to Kingston for the ceremonial parade and drumhead service at HMCS Cataraqui, also being held in honour of the Battle of Atlantic Sunday.

Miss H. McLellan Of Picton Wins Special Awards

For 46 nurses from the St. John Ambulance Nursing Division No. 150, 26 of them from Picton, Ont., Thursday night was a memorable time.

The annual inspection of the division was held in St. Andrew's Church hall, Belleville.

Members of the examining committee were: Lt.-Col. Sinclair, provincial superintendent; W.W. Dennison, provincial superintendent and Miss Kathleen Murray, provincial nursing officer, all from Toronto.

Also interested in the inspection were Mrs. M. Dingwall, area superintendent of nursing division; Miss June Grunspeck, divisional superintendent, of the Belleville nursing division, and Dr. J. Stock, head of the local medical staff.

Two awards were presented by Lt.-Col. Sinclair. The "efficient of office, divisional surgeon" award was won by Dr. K. Douglas at Lake Ontario, and the "13-year service" award was presented to Miss Hazel McClellan of Picton.

In a brief address, Lt.-Col. Sinclair highly commended the St. John Ambulance nursing division. He said the division put on "a finer show than ever before," and he was proud of the Belleville unit.

Entertainment was provided by several members of the St. John Ambulance Cadet Nursing division. They also served refreshments at the conclusion of the inspection.

Air Transport Officer Talks To Lions Club

The regular meeting of the Lions Club of Belleville was held on Thursday evening with the president, Bill Lowen, in the chair.

Squadron Leader Jack Maitland, Officer Commanding 426 Transport Squadron at Trenton, spoke on the day-to-day operation of this squadron throughout the world.

Last year, in operation, four engine, North Star aircraft under his command made 747 trips, transported over 19,000 people, 6 million pounds of freight and travelled a distance exceeding 43 times around the world at the equator.

TRANSPORT FUNCTIONS

The squadron, said Sl. Maitland, has three main transport functions: three trips a week to Europe, two carrying freight, one carrying passengers; the support of the Canadian Army Brigade in France; transport for United Nations personnel to and from the Gaza Strip in Egypt; and the Middle East trips participated in Egypt each year by Belleville and district ship's passenger service (mostly for the Department of Transport participating in such exercises as the Canadian Arctic as Resolute and Eureka).

The trips across the Atlantic usually take place during the spring, landing stops, maintenance and relief of air crews. In order to keep the crew fit, 100 men fly all operating at maximum efficiency. The only exception is to fly 70-110 hours per month. This means that each crew member flies one leg at a time and although the plane remains for the trip in 30 hours, it takes each crewman about six days to make the same trip.

CANADIANS ESTEEMED

Sl. Maitland spoke particularly reference to the high esteem in which Canadians are held wherever they go. He told a story in this regard, they are ideally suited to United Nations work. He also made special mention of the friendliness of the United States people, and how they always provides bases such as in the Azores are always a welcome addition extending a most generous hospitality to the crews.

The speaker was introduced by Lion Cec. Parkey and thanked by Lion Jack Boyle.

Hugh Murray spoke briefly on the Brownie and Guide drive for funds to purchase a campsite on Indian Point Road near Wallbridge, Hilton and Redoubt County. He mentioned that the Belleville Brownie and Guide established here in 1922 and this is the first time there has been any direct appeal for money from the group.

The property consists of some 33 acres of pine trees, a tenroom house and a barn with 1,800 feet of lake frontage. It will be used for camping and training by Belleville Brownies and Guides coming from an area roughly bounded by Napanee, Picton, Cobourg, Peterborough and Tweed. Mr. Hugh Murray is chairman of the drive for this worthwhile project.

Lion Ken Bell was also introduced Lions Don McPherson and Web Soper, who were officially welcomed by Lion Tom Colden.

Colonel Duffy To Take Salute At Armouries

Lieut. Col. Angus B. Duffy, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, will take the salute at the Belleville Collegiate Institutes and Vocational School annual cadet inspection at the Armouries on Wednesday evening, May 11.

The inspection will get underway at 7.30 with Captain P. Evans, Area Cadet Training Officer, marking the inspection.

Will Consider Resignation of 13th Teacher

TRENTON — The Board of Education will hold a meeting in the board room at North Trenton School Monday night to consider the resignation of Kenneth J. Ferren, vocational guidance officer at Trenton High School.

It was understood Mr. Ferren has accepted a position as vocational guidance head at the new Adamscott Collegiate in Peterborough.

His resignation was received by the Trenton board at the beginning of this week. The board now needs 13 teachers and a principal to bring the staff up to its former strength.

Resignations were received from public school teachers Miss Ruth Hamilton, Miss Donna O'Neil and J. A. Williams.

The management committee of the board has indicated that a large number of applications for positions in the high school have been received, following the lifting of the "pink listing" imposed by the Ontario Teachers' Federation Secondary School Teachers' Federation. While many of the applicants have the requisite qualifications, some will qualify by taking summer courses.

Scarboro Club Wants Details On Houses

TRENTON — At this week's meeting of the Quinte Disabled Persons Club, Miss Vera Morrison told members that the Kinsmen's Club of Scarboro had offered, through the Rotary Club, to sponsor a similar project.

Judy Whitley, director of the Trenton club, has arranged to have gravel poured on driveways between the four houses erected by the club.

Mrs. Bill Anderson, Scott St., was named the fifth director of the club. Members were urged to attend the United Handicrafts groups' convention in Hamilton, May 14.

The Trenton group is staging a tag day in Trenton this weekend. Plans for future tag days in other Quinte centres were discussed.

Miss Morrison has been selling tickets this week and reports that she has been very successful.

The inspection program will consist of band numbers, rifle drill, P.T. display, marching and drill, signals and map using demonstration.

Cadet officer commanding is Lt. Lundy with C. Box as second in command. Adjutant is R. Flindall with D. McMurray as RSM.

WOULD BOYCOTT BRANDY

WINDSOR (CP)—CCF Leader Donald MacDonald Friday night urged the Ontario government to stop the purchase and handling of South African wine and brandy through the Liquor Control Board until that country puts an end to its apartheid. The federal and provincial governments have not taken firm stands against racial prejudice, he told an Essex County CCF group.

Kiwanians Hold Bike Rodeo On June 4th

TRENTON — The annual Kiwanis Bicycle Rodeo will be held at Jubb Field in Dundonald Gardens.

While the emphasis is on the knowledge and observance of safety rules, the youngsters of Quinte their bikes at a carnival spirit attends the event.

Kiwanian Ted Sulder is chairman of the rodeo assisted by Sgt. Gordon Stenabaugh, safety officer for Trenton, who devotes many of his safety broadcasts over CJBQ to "rules of the road" for the young cyclists.

At Thursday night's meeting of the Kiwanis Club, president Dick Burnham announced that the Kiwanis Peanut Drive is in full swing. On May 16 Kiwanians will "blitz" the Middleton Parkers, and on May 30 and 31, an all-out campaign will be conducted in Trenton.

Les Platt, chairman of the boys and girls week activities, reported that 100 crests had been bought by the club for the Trenton Scout troop.

Len Cowan, chairman of the support the churches committee, announced that the club will hold a church parade to 403 Front Street United Church on May 29.

Vocational guidance chairman Grant Gooding said club members had prepared lists of their names and professions for use by students at Trenton High and from Marmora St. Senior Public School with the object of helping them in their choice of careers.

No Inquest

TRENTON — Coroner Dr. J. V. Byrne, Friday night said no inquest will be held in the death of Mrs. Alva Bradley and Arthur Munro, who died in a fire here Tuesday night.

Inspector Al Williams of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office, Belleville, today went to start an investigation into the cause of the fire.

A. 'Ack' Ketcheson Honored After 20 Years' Service With Income Tax Department

MR. AND MRS. A. H. KETCHESON

The staff of the income Tax/ille Department on Friday afternoon held goodbye and farewell to A. H. "Ack" Ketcheson, chief assessor, who retired after 20 years of service with the Government of Canada. It was a happy occasion for Mr. Ketcheson who was simply "loved" by every member of the staff. Mr. Harold Parker, director of the local branch summed it up most adequately when he stated "your service has been much appreciated and you have made a host of friends in your years of service".

Don Osborne, president of the staff association with his able women helpers served a delicious afternoon tea at which time the usual banter was noted. Calling on Mr. Parker he expressed the appreciation of the staff for the splendid co-operation that existed and the worth of Mr. Ketcheson throughout the years.

"You have been very much appreciated in all your service and I have been requested to express the thanks of J. Gear McEntyre, Deputy Minister of the department, for your splendid service. He also expressed thanks to Mrs. Ketcheson, who has been a wonderful helpmate through the years and you has been able to render notable service in community affairs.

PRESENTED WITH PAINTING

At this point Mr. Ketcheson was presented with a painting by Manly Mumford of a scene on the Trent River, where Mr. and Mrs. Ketcheson had many enjoyable picnics with their family. In closing Mr. Parker wished the "Jolly Good Couple" all the happiness in the years to come and many years of retirement pleasure.

In replying Mr. Ketcheson said he was "thrilled" with the beautiful gift and it would be a reminiscence of many happy years in the service. "I am almost speechless and that is something new for me, but I do thank you for this beautiful gift. It will always have a cherished place in my home. He extended all good wishes to a staff that had been loyal and efficient.

On Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Parker entertained members of the staff and the guest of honor at their home on McDonald Avenue. Mrs. Ketcheson was presented with a beautiful corsage, while she were at the function on Friday. On the occasion she was also presented with a corsage of roses. On Friday evening Mr. Ketcheson was the guest at a "stag" party at which time he was presented with a transistor radio by fellow employees.

BORN IN THIS CITY

Mr. Ketcheson was born in this city, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ketcheson, his father being the assessor of this corporation for many years. He was educated in the public and high school in the city and when the First World War broke out he enlisted with the 39th Battalion and was transferred to the 1st Machine Gun Company. He was mustered out in 1917 and entered his bond business which he followed until his appointment in the civil service. In the Second World War he served with distinction and was discharged with the rank of major.

All his life he was interested in sport. He was a powerful force in the old Belleville Golf Club on which now stands Parkwood Hydro and he was intimately connected with the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club when it was first established.

In both clubs he was captain and on occasions won the club badminton and won many awards in this splendid sport. But he always was interested in community affairs and for twenty years he was the guiding force of the Harbor Commission, serving as secretary-treasurer. He is a member of St. Thomas' Church and has served as People's and Rector's Warden of that congregation. In his education he is taking out up to the unskilled and partially skilled labor basis. All jobs above this level are reserved by law for the whites. The government has also made the black citizen the remote promise of black parliaments in the provinces, each with their own administrations, and tells him that his ultimate goal of advancement will lie in the black parliaments.

The blacks point to the government's recent Bantu Games as proof that the African can govern himself and demands his rights to the full population, man, one vote."

The speaker suggested as the most likely solution to the South Africa problem, a vote for the non-whites, a democracy and income qualifications like South Africa's, and a hope of the franchise, while the Afrikaners run the country to the Afrikaners for many years to come. Failing some such solution, Mr. Hamilton predicted massive emigration of the white population from South Africa, with the eventual overthrow of that country's government by the United Nations population.

President John Luscombe announced final plans for the Belleville Y's Men's thirty-fifth anniversary party, to be held at the YMCA on Saturday evening, May 14. Guest speaker on this occasion will be Air Commodore F. Carpenter.

Y's Men Hear Talk by Former South African

Mr. Frickel Bellstedt, quality controls supervisor of Corby Distilleries, the Rotary special guest of the Y's Men's Club at their Thursday meeting. Mr. Bellstedt was born in Bremen, Germany, and was educated in the Union of South Africa, coming to Canada in 1950.

Dealing first with the historical background of South Africa's racial problem, the speaker told of the almost simultaneous arrival in South Africa of Dutch colonists and Bantus in the 17th century. The two peoples did not make contact for 150 years, when a series of wars and skirmishes began.

Racial problems were further complicated by the bitter and enduring rivalry between Dutch and English settlers. Mr. Bellstedt concluded that the split in the white population, deepend by the Anglo-Boer war, is being overcome by the joint claims for their own purposes. He also discussed training of youth in community services, such as Red Cross, Community Chest and Boy Scouts, which help between Anglo and Afrikaanser groups.

Telling of "Horizontal Apartheid" Mr. Bellstedt explained that the black areas of South Africa was permitted education and training only up to the unskilled and partially skilled labor basis. All jobs above this level are reserved by law for the whites. The government has also made the black citizen the remote promise of black parliaments in the provinces, each with their own administrations, and tells him that his ultimate goal of advancement will lie in the black parliaments.

The blacks point to the government's recent Bantu Games as proof that the African can govern himself and demands his rights to the full population, man, one vote."

Canadian Scouts May Have to Abandon Shorts

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's big scout leaders have been told their program and uniform are losing their appeal for teen-agers and may have to grow out of them if they want to retain it.

Industrialist Rhys M. Sale, reelected Friday as president of the Boy Scouts Association, told the association's annual meeting that adolescents are becoming "more sophisticated in outlook."

The dinner following a meeting of the association's general council at which it was announced that Col. I. H. Nicholson, who retired last year as RCMP commissioner, is Canada's new deputy chief scout.

He succeeded Jackson Dodds of Montreal. Mr. Dodds, an active volunteer in the scouts for 38 years, was elected the council's first honorary president.

TO TRY SHORTS

Mr. Sale, president of Ford reported briefly on a two-year "study of the scout program" begun in January by a national committee.

He said scouting is not attracting enough boys in the 14-to-17 age group. He said shorts have scored upon parts of the movement as "technically" wrong were deterred by short pants"—a matter that may seem trivial to an adult but all-important to an adolescent.

Increased literacy and the "enormous" effects of mass communication.

UNREAL VIEWPOINT

Much of the "so-called teen-age problem" arises "from an adult mental picture of adolescents that does not correspond with reality."

The general council decided to apply for an amendment to the constitution to change its legal name to Boy Scouts of Canada.

Reports to the meeting showed 37,139 volunteer leaders spent a total of 19,011,360 hours serving the 343,000 boys in the movement last year.

15TH PARKDALE

Sea Scouts and Cubs were out in force on the parade at the sea coast banquet. It is good to see so many fathers attending the banquets this year. Pretty soon larger halls will be wanted. There were 190 at Parkdale community hall, but there's room for lots more there. The hall was decorated with garlands and flowers and two colored floorscent lights were very effective. It all looked very beautiful and the well-laid table with Scout programs and small favors as place-cards at every place, gave that added touch. Parkdale ladies "cars enough to give them very best." The excellent dinner which was prepared and served by them fully matched the preparations.

Chairman H. R. Holston welcomed the fathers and introduced the guests: A.D.C. Mac Macdiarmid, Rev. W. J. McGee, F. J. Lancaster, president of District Council, Mrs. E. Ward, Cub R. Holston, District Commissioner Mrs. Allcorn, Mr. Thompson, Ratepayers' Ass'n, Mrs. S. A. Spearman and A.D.C. Don Ferguson. Mr. Ward was Parkdale's first year. He was told a chairman's job is a thankless one—meeting a month. They forgot to mention banquets and the many pleasant hours and the active boys entails. He credited the success to Mrs. Ward, to the enthusiasm of the boys themselves, assisted with good, efficient leaders.

FATHERS INVITED

The chairman will welcome fathers at any or all group meetings, to further Scouting and Cubbing and parents are invited in the program, namely Grandmothers Night, Uncle Night, Harold Frederick, Akela James Hullquist, ACM Mrs. J. Hullquist, ACM Mrs. Hullquist, assistants Tom Schofield and Al Sieg, Cubs Gordon Hullquist, Laurence Bowerman, treasurer Ivan May, members Keeble, Claire Millburn, George Keeble, Scouts' Auxiliary president Mrs. Claire Millburn, secretary Mrs. Keeble, treasurer Reuben Gannon

Wrong Way to Report the News

Khrushchev told the Supreme Soviet Thursday a plane had been shot down over Russian territory. "He threatened to retaliate with rockets if American bers appeared over the Soviet Union." That is blood-chilling second sentence on an Associated s "roundup," the newspaperman's word for a story ten when all the facts are gathered and it is ible to tie in all the information from different ces into one all-inclusive report.

The Ontario Intelligencer did-not use this "round-

Instead it used two earlier stories from Moscow, by Reuters and one by The Canadian Press. The rrage was not "tidy." But we are convinced it had advantage of being more accurate.

The last two paragraphs of a 17-paragraph Reuters said:

"Such incidents as the air space violations, he ared, could lead to a world war.

"Khrushchev rhetorically asked the delegates what American reaction would be if a Soviet plane flew New York or Chicago. U.S. officials have said, went on, that they have A- and H-bombers on duty ready to retaliate. If a Soviet plane was near erican territory, that would be the beginning of

There is no reference there to the Russians using rets. But the ninth and tenth paragraphs of The ociated Press story read:

"Khrushchev called the plane incident an aggres- act, and asked rhetorically of the U.S.: 'If you think can take such measures, why don't you think we take similar measures when a plane appears over territory and threatens the security of our country? have the same rights as you, the same means as you.

"'We have no bombers on duty, but we have rockets duty. They are more accurate and trustworthy your bombers'."

Now ordinary common sense tells us that the words ded by The Associated Press—follow logically and urally after the words quoted by Reuters. The ct of the whole, though, is not a frightening threat, a not unreasonable protest against U.S. planes ating Russian air space. It certainly does not ify that second sentence in the opening paragraph the AP story: "He threatened to retaliate with rockets American bombers appeared over the Soviet Union." fact that a Soviet Marshal later claimed that the plane was destroyed on the first shot by a "re- liable rocket" does not alter the objectionable con- text in which Khrushchev used the word "rockets" the sentences the Associated Press quoted from his ech makes one think of retaliatory missiles, rather n defensive weapons. In this sense, the sentence the AP story's first paragraph was not in keeping the spirit of the rest of Khrushchev's speech both Reuters and the Associated Press noted, torical in nature, in other words used merely to ess his point. No good purpose can be served by h distortion of the facts.

Not Only Bomarc Fails to Meet Test

The Bomarc is easily the most remarkable missile the modern age. It may not have circled the moon, even performed up to specifications on lesser flights, it is encouraged to get members of two governments in the air.

Its record in the House of Commons is well known. w it is operational in another area, the U.S. House Representatives.

One paragraph in a story from Washington on Wednesday, though, ought to cause more alarm than y of the Bomarc's failures. "Only 40 of the 437 use members were in their seats."

When an important international issue like the estion of continuing efforts to develop the Bomarc n only ten per cent of the elected members of the S. House of Representatives prepared to give honest vice for the pay they receive from those who elected em, there is something much more seriously wrong an failure of a missile to leave a launching pad.

We describe the Bible best when we call it a mine, and the characteristic thing about any mine is that there has to be a lot of digging by somebody before anything of value is uncovered. The coal is there, but it has to be dug out. The iron ore, the gold, the uranium — they are all there, but they have to be mined. It is only in fairy tales that things just happen. This is not life. This is fantasy.

The treasures which make life worthwhile are hidden away by God and we are invited to dig for them. Achievement is a costly thing. It only in fairy tales that we as well as in every other area of life.

God's invitation is — start dig- ging.

Notes on Earth-Dwellers

New York Times

Our scientists are beginning to listen for sounds and messages from other worlds — according to a notice from specialists at Green Bank, W.Va. This is to be done by listening for any sounds we think we could use a little extra. But according to one gentleman who thinks for himself (if sometimes for no one else) there is considerable himself an unreconstituted "interplanetary course." We are likely to get nothing but static from the outer-space folk for the time being. Which, in another way, this gentleman believes, is just what they have been left them confused and mumbling. The things that have confused them are not our big problems these, like the East-West split, are largely localized and insignificant. They have been confused by our random activities. The gentleman in question has submitted a few notes which he believes will illustrate the observation-data being circulated among the outer spacers.

"Earth dwellers often seen seated in groups of four. Small rectangular objects of some description held and are removed from a box sized distributed. Each dweller held objects in hand and stare long periods at the simple designs. Also stare at each other at blank expressions. Communications limited to monosyllables. Rectangular objects sometimes are put to mouth and eaten. (Objects apparently unbreakable.) Findings noted by one of the four in mechanical forms. Activity often takes several hours. Other rectangular objects returned to box. Sheet of findings, or calculations, is then discarded. Interpretation of the meaning of this activity, yet to be completed. More data required.)"

"Earth dwellers in bulky dress and headgears seen in activity of group nature. Odd number (usually equinox. Site usually earthen mounds. Participants in many seated earth dwellers (who, though non-combatant, utter loud cries). Weapons carried occasionally carried from clearing by dwellers. Activity at first thought to be muted form of sport, but larger group activity found to be conducted on ice with long-handled cudgels and

Bogs and low water areas are whitened with the bodies of thousands of fish dead from to death in the low waters of the Kawartha district, according to Dr. Gus Peterbaugh Examiner. One trapper stated that he saw in one bog alone literally thousands upon thousands of dead fish — so numerous that they changed the bottom of the Crowbeck River from brown to white.

For the past few days hundreds of women and girls have been making little holes in the earth in tomato flats, and inserting sturdy tomato plants in preparation for the forthcoming planting season. It is estimated that in Prince Edward County alone upwards of ten million plants will be raised for the farmers of that district alone.

Sooner Fight Than Starve

Vancouver Sun

M. J. Coldwell's opinion that the world's future will not be decided by war but by the way in which the nations can help each others to achieve a better life, deserves to be right.

Unfortunately it isn't necessarily so.

The honored leader of the national CCF, in a Vancouver interview, was expressing rather the hope that "the struggle for the resources of nature, without any "imperialistic" drive for them feel—that common sense will prevail and that the nations will beat their swords into ploughshares and that cooperation will result in an era of mutual aid across all seas.

Mr. Coldwell probably would not quarrel with the warning uttered recently by Sir William Newton, former pathologist at the Saanichton Dominion experimental farm.

"I believe the people of the East would rather fight than starve to death."

Dr. Newton was talking about the same thing as Mr. Coldwell, the duty of the prosperous, organized nations to fight want and famine in poorer countries.

And he had a scheme: farming on an international scale, using modern transportation methods to distribute surpluses from one section of the world to another.

The framework of such a scheme is being developed by the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations, he said.

But unfortunately it's only on paper as yet.

It could stay on paper until something is done about cutting down the armaments which now take so much of the industrial nations' surplus wealth.

Only Suckers Bet on Races

Fort William Times-Journal

Betting on horse races, whether through the pari-mutuels at the tracks or through the put-and-take of bookmakers' tickets, is "sucker" betting. Horse owners, racetrack owners, governments and even newspapers take such a large cut out of the dollar the poor chap just doesn't have a chance. The odds against him are tremendous. And all the other kind of private corporation to grip the public to the tune of millions of dollars is lottery for government action would be overpowering.

At Canadian racetracks, surveys have been made between horse breeders and racetrack employees to find out how they made out in the year just ending a season. The great majority of these owners, trainers and grooms have confessed they ended up losers. A few gallop to the public who live up in front—of the peri-mutuel windows with money in their hands. They lose worse.

Put in a poker game the "house" took 25 percent of every pot, the players would yell blue murder. They would have to see their money going down the drain.

Yet that is what happens at racetracks and every race has for the winners are paid off. And tens of thousands of foolish men and women take it without a murmur.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

WHAT TO DO AFTER A STROKE HAS OCCURRED

Yesterday we discussed the three types of strokes. Today we will discuss what to do after one has occurred so we can be certain that if a leg or arm or other part of the body is paralyzed, the damage resulting from paralysis is not in the arm or leg, but in the brain.

Indeed, there is a rapidly increasing tendency to refer to a stroke as a "C.V.A.," or "cerebral vascular accident." This means, simply a blood clot, or a plugging, or a partial but severe interruption of blood flow through a blood vessel in the brain.

In the case of a hemorrhage, which usually comes abruptly, if a disturbing scene to watch as the patient collapses, seeming duper or, barring that, may go right on to the grave without even convulsions.

This initial state of shock usually last very long, and the important thing is to protect the victim from further injury. Be certain that he cannot fall. Elevate the head slightly. Watch the tongue to see that he does not bite or choke on it.

And, difficult as it may be, try to avoid panic yourself. Try to think of the best things I've just mentioned. There is no right for anyone can do at this stage, to stop the bleeding.

Care afterward, however, is another matter. It does without saying, of course, that a physician should be summoned at once. Take pains to listen carefully to his instructions.

After the first two types of strokes, the hemorrhage and the thrombosis, some return of function of paralyzed (or those other parts of the body) is possible. As a rule, the more rapidly and fully this returns, the less permanent paralysis will result.

And in the third type, wifey there is evidence of an artery being narrowed long before the anticoagulant drugs are used to thin the blood enough to prevent, thus reducing the danger of a thrombosis occurring and turning the case into one of the second type.

It is also possible, in some certain cases, to resort to surgery. This depends, of course, on the artery involved being accessible enough so it can be positively identified, and then providing a bypass around the narrowed place, or even replacing the section. Not all cases are suitable for this by any means; in some instances, the artery is inaccessible, and it is then far better to rely on drugs.

Finally, once all has been done in the way of immediate treatment, what is to be done to restore the use of an arm, hand, leg or other muscles that remain paralyzed?

If contraction of idle muscles threatens deformity, splints may be used. Physiotherapy likewise can help combat contractures and at the same time will help keep the idle tissues toned up.

By all means, however, don't despair. Many a stroke victim does go on to recover, a good deal, and even for themselves.

But above all, the patient should use every bit of exercise possible, even if it is no more than a faint movement of a finger, because sooner or later he will be rewarded. Even slight movement means simply that a signal is getting through from the brain, and that slight movement can be increased.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is anemia similar to cancer?—M.D."

No. Cancer is an uncontrolled, unlimited formation of tissue cells. Certain types of anemia are due to the lack of cancer. There are other forms of anemia that have no relation to cancer.

St. Lawrence Our 'Rhine'

Windsor Star

Tourists who like to boast of where they have been are particularly going to envy you if they made a voyage over (down) the Rhine. Admitted- ly, it is one of the world's most famous rivers, and it is a memorable experience to sail some- what slowly up the river. The scenery on the flat country near its exit has been praised, is lovely..

This year something new in the way of accommodation is being provided. A modern steamer will travel from Rotterdam to Switzerland, the voyage taking 5½ days and the itinerary calls for a morning and afternoon each night, tourists will be able to see all in daylight.

All this makes one think more than a little may be lost sight of up the St. Lawrence River, with a side-trip down the Saguenay. This, for sheer beauty and grandeur, including the Rhine seem small and ordinary by comparison. For that matter, it is a great pity more Canadians can't go up the St. Lawrence and appreciate the beauties of it—especially in the autumn.

It is all very well, and very much help, combat the beauty spots in other countries and on the mainland of this U.S. Canada have physical loveliness unexcelled in scope and variety.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What will be the popular recreation in Canada to the establishment of the year 2000? With growing force, the demand that such areas be set aside without delay is being placed upon federal and provincial governments.

In Britain, the wilderness areas are overrun by the demand for special national board. The people are not permitted in the wilderness areas in the British sense right, but only by permit, and then rarely.

The purpose of wilderness areas is to preserve the natural state of forest, lake, river, prairie and mountain, and to save them wholly or partly for the resources of nature, without any "improvement" of the land. There will be some of this business say cutting "mature" timber to "save" it from decay, has been the case in the present vision of some parts. No roads, paths or "nature trails" are allowed. No camping whatever is permitted. Indeed, the idea is that every animal or plant will be "harvested" in the name of balance in nature. For practical purposes, the wilderness areas will remain arrangements.

What will the tourist industry think of this? The great oil companies, the mining interests, the fire manufacturers, the forest industries have interested in road building, the hot dog and ice cream industry generally? What pious lobbies will be roused to guard the sacred public right to travel at all over every square foot of this conquered planet?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE WAY YOU THINK

The sound and words of what you say do not always square with what we think. It is so much safer and happier to take a second time to think than to talk. As we grow older, we learn this. There is nothing more important to the soul than what we think.

In the same way that our actions have an influence upon others, so do our thoughts have an influence upon ourselves. Our thoughts yet unborn. We are our own best or worst companions. Thoughts are deeds!

The way you think is the way you are! The philosophy of a sound mind in a sound body is one of the greatest in life. Clean thoughts are indicative of a clean and healthy body.

A Lift for Living

Service Is Road to Greatness

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Are we as interested in greatness as our grandfathers were? To be sure, we have a keen interest in prominent personalities. Our reading matter reveals that. Fill a book with personal interests stories and it will outsell many times a thoughtful book dealing with ideas. The public eagerly devours news about the foibles of well-known figures.

A notorious criminal, sentenced to serve a lifeline in prison, asked a law-abiding friend to be sure to send any stories which mentioned him. None of the stories would extol him for meritorious achievements. They would have to refer to a vicious, lawless career. No matter what the stories contained, this convicted robber and rapist wanted to read about himself.

Headlines do not make great men. Henry Van Dyke once said "Fame is to notoriety what solemn music is to a loud noise." In this publicity-promoting, spotlight-seeking age, it behooves us to consider what true greatness is.

In unveiling the bust of Whittier at the Hall of Fame for Great Americans, Van Dyke gave this definition: "Fame is durable good renown, earned, by service, approved by the wise and applauded by the common voice."

FAME IS ONLY ECHO

Of course, we must distinguish between greatness and fame. Fame is only the echo of greatness. A public relations expert said some men in his profession held it was good publicity just to have the person or product talked about, whether the comment was favorable or unfavorable. He himself did not agree. Nor do I. Just to be talked about is not fame and it certainly does not constitute greatness.

Some years ago, a magazine compiled a list of 50 persons it regarded as the "immortals" of the first half of the twentieth century. The list was brought to me as the director of America's Hall of Fame with the request that I write a few introductory paragraphs. In the group I noted the name of Al Capone. And I said I could not lend my endorsement to any list of so-called "immortals" which contained the name of Al Capone. "Why not?" said the reporter. "Al Capone will be talked about for decades to come. Nero wasn't good but he is still talked about." No, reverely to be talked about is not fame.

A person may be great without being publicized. The greatest are those who best fulfill the purposes for which they were created. But since we cannot read the mind of the Creator, we must make our appraisals of greatness by studying the reflections of men in the minds of their fellow creatures.

And true fame is durable good renown. A person may be a titan today and be toppled from his pedestal tomorrow. For that reason the Hall of Fame for Great Americans requires that no person be eligible for a memorial in its Colonnade until 25 years after death. A person's reputation must stand the test of time. Woodrow Wilson died a seemingly defeated man. The League of Nations which he sponsored was under a shadow in America. But 25 years later, when the United Nations had been established, Wilson was elected to the Hall of Fame by a big majority.

QUICK REWARDS

A temptation of our time is to strive for the quick rewards. We are more concerned to produce a thing that will sell than one that will last. We would rather write a book which Hollywood will buy for the movies than a book which our grandchildren will read 10 years from now, maybe after we are gone.

Remember also that greatness is measured by service. Jesus said to His disciples, "Whoever would be great among you must be your servant." The world seems to measure the greatness of men by their power to command. A general's rank is graded by the number of men under him.

And let us not discount the value of achievement of mastery. We go to school that we may attain mastery. We rightly honor the scientist who masters the forces of nature, the lawyer who becomes expert in the law, the surgeon who can cut within a half's breadth of a vital organ and save a life. Let us not forget that Jesus had a supreme mastery of the forces and factors of living.

But the point to be watched is this: Worldly persons seek greatness by the mastery of men for the making of things, while Christ would have us seek greatness by mastering things for the service of men.

Weddings

GRYCE — SHOESTED

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized on Friday, April 22nd, at 2.00 p.m. in Bellaway Street United Church, Belleville, when Lillie R. Steed, of Belleville, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Steed, of Kingston, formerly of New Westminster, B.C., became the bride of Robert D. Gryce of Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Gryce. The Reverend C. W. Coleman, B.A., officiated.

The bride was attractively attired in beige with apricot embroidery, matching coat and shoes, with pink rose-petal hat. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Fletcher Bryant, of Kingston, wearing a periwinkle blue two-piece ensemble with white hat and gloves, and corsage of pink rosebuds.

The bridegroom was attended by his son, Mr. Ronald Gryce, of Belleville, R.R. 3.

The wedding luncheon was held at Club Canara, with about 50 guests present. The bride's table was appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier, pillared wedding cake featuring about the base with pink tulips and scattered pink rosebuds, flanked by pink and white candles in crystal holders, vases of lily-of-the-valley. The bridal flowers also made a lovely nuptial bouquet.

For travelling to points east the bride wore pink linen dress with choce a black wool suit with pink floral hat; pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations with beige bag.

Guests attended from Oshawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, Amherstburg and Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Gryce will reside in Belleville, for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. Gryce, previous to their marriage, were the recipients of many lovely gifts.

MALCOLM — LAJOIE

MARMORA — A pretty wedding was solemnized in Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Marmora, on Saturday, April 30th, at 10 am., when Helen Marie, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Joseph Lajoie, of Marmora, became the bride of Lloyd Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Gadsby, of Gananoque. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. P. Healey, P.P., before a bank of white chrysanthemums and pink snapdragons.

Mrs. Hugh Brady, organist for the occasion, was also soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white nylon net overlay over taffeta, in waltz length, with white satin mitteens. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was caught with pearl clips, and she carried pearls and rhinestones and also a prayer book of red roses and white stephanotis.

Miss Jean Lajoie, of Marmora, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Susan Callery, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. They wore identical short dresses of blue nylon net and carried lace over rayon taffeta, white daisy hats and white mitts. They carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

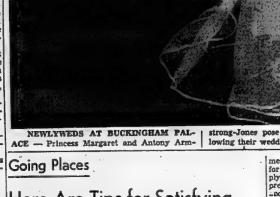
Mr. Robert Lajoie of Carson, brother of the bride, was groomsman, and ushers were Messrs. Brian Brownson of Marmora, cousin of the bridegroom, and Cecil Lajoie, brother of the bride.

The wedding dinner and reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where decorations were similar to those in the church.

The bride's mother received in a gown of navy blue silk with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore pale blue silk with beige accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

For their honeymoon to Sudbury and points north, the bride wore a green tweed dress, mint green coat with beige accessories, and corsage of yellow 'mums. They will reside at Carson.

Guests were present from Sudbury, London, Toronto, Peterborough, Carson, Tweed, Actinolite, Eldorado and Marmora.



Previous to her marriage, a miscellaneous shower was held by her aunt, Mrs. Fred Lajoie, when she received many beautiful and useful gifts.

Here Are Tips for Satisfying European Tour Without Tears

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

(Ed. note: This is the first of two articles by Shirley and Bob Sloane on planning your way to Europe without tears.).

We've a friend who's booked passage with his wife to France aboard the S.S. United States, first class.

Millionaire industrialists? Nah, we don't know any. He's a cab driver.

Small world, isn't it? And wonderful.

That's the trouble; it's almost too small and wonderful. This Allen-in-Wonderland era of three weeks' earned vacations and quarter-of-a-day rockets through the Looking Glass has developed the Canadian tourist into the most North Americans the ideal trip can be seen and heard in Europe by the man who jumped on his jet and dashed off madly in all directions.

For the purposes of this lesson, we can put these three tips inside your hatband without even finishing the column:

1. Don't expect to do and see everything.

2. Don't turn yourself into a zombie by planning for every minute.

3. Don't confine your visit to big cities.

And here's why:

Chances are you're a first trip per. If you're a second or third-time winner, you know ever better that Europe is an infinitely varied, complex, challenging storehouse of most of the valuable things that have happened to mankind. One summer barely makes a swallow of it.

AVOID OVEREXPOSURE

The rewards of travel are palled by osmosis, not exposure. ment. Make sure it allows time for sleep, lone wolfing and simply catching up with your impressions. Too much is too hard, and indiscretion is a blank mind in a limp body wondering what, exactly, it's been through.

As for the metropolitan capitals, while they may still have their classic restaurants, bohemian old quarters and museum treasures, today they are also uncomfortably full of fast-service hot dog stands, aluminum skyscrapers and assorted tourist traps and trappers that are as disillusioning as the authentic attractions are enthralling.

Somewhere out in the country, often not very far, are timeless, violetsteeped medieval villages, bucolic hills where sheep graze and fat grapes climb the vines, forbidding fortresses and castles that still seem to echo with clanking armor and twanging bows, and all manner of other sights, smells and sounds that remain etched in your memory long after you've forgotten that the view from your Grand Hotel window was of an office building across the street.

Avoid frustrating and exhausting yourself by sighting off more than you can view; choose a trip suited to your time, temper, tastes, interests, and physical capabilities; consider getting to know a single area well instead of every place hardly at all; and be content that even if you spend the rest of your life in Europe you wouldn't see everything worth seeing.

Then you'll have taken the first step toward a satisfying tour without tears.

The regular monthly meeting of Prince of Wales Home and School Association was held on Tuesday evening in the school auditorium.

President Mrs. Locke called the meeting to order, with Miss Hoar at the piano.

Scripture lesson was read by Mr. Stanton.

Annual report of May 1959, was read by the secretary. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. G. Marriott.

Mrs. G. Digby, delegate to the Home and School convention in Toronto gave her report on the highlights of. the convention.

Mrs. Locke called on Miss Hoar who introduced the guests for the evening, Misses Dianne Currie, Linda Pritchard, Betty Martin and Mr. Monty Parks and Barry Daniels, members of the "Choraleers" from Bethel Hall and they entertained during the evening with several vocal and instrumental numbers, which were greatly enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Locke announced that the Home and School are having a "Children's Variety Night" later this month, under grades to be on the 26th and senior grades on the 30th.

Room count was taken with winners being: junior grades, Mrs. Mack's grade 1; senior grades, Mrs. Armstrong's grade 6.

Mrs. Locke moved a vote of thanks to her executive of the past two years for their help and co-operation and called on Mrs. Murray, chairman of the nominating committee, who introduced the slate of officers for 1960-1961 which is as follows:

President, Mrs. Y. Bushell; first vice-president, Mrs. J. MacDonald; second vice-president, Mrs. D. Murray; recording secretary, Miss Nicole Hoar; corresponding secretary, Mrs. D. Grant; treasurer, Mrs. G. Marriott; auditors, Mr. Nightingale; executive committee, Mrs. C. Dodd, Mrs. William Steobenzen, Mrs. D. Galloway, Mrs. G. Parkhurst, Mrs. D. Hughes.

Mrs. Locke installed the new executive members.

Mr. Lott moved a vote of thanks to the Choraleers".

Refreshments were served by room mothers of Mrs. Nightingale's grade two.

Club Activities

ROSLIN Y.P.

The meeting of Roslin Y.P.U. was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wannamaker, who led in a discussion.

There were 25 present.

A collection was taken and amounted to $2.

It was suggested that tonight be a social night for crafts and it was agreed upon.

At the next meeting the Salvation Army from Tweed, will be guests and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mc. Belch, from Joy Bible Camp, will be present to show pictures of the camp.

Mrs. Wannamaker led in a Bible quiz.

Prayer and Marion sang "How Great Thou Art," and Mrs. Wannamaker led "Seeking Without a Thread," and led in a sword drill. The closing prayer and a delicious lunch was served.

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

During these unsettled times when the question of racial segregation and racial equality is in the forefront of the news, when we hear this or that country claimed as God's country, when we on this continent especially are inordinately proud of our standard of living and put 'know how' ahead of 'know what' 'know-why', it might be in order to take stock of ourselves and what we have.

We might be surprised to find that few of our necessities and possessions are really of North American origin. It was interesting to read an article about a list, covering two pages of the things we have picked up from other people. Taking a man of this continent through a few hours of the day, giving credit to those who have contributed to our present living, is a real eye-opener.

He rises in the morning clothed in pajamas of Eastern Indian origin. He glances at the clock, a mediaeval European invention, goes to the bathroom (the porcelain is from China) and washes with 18th century Europe, soap from ancient Gaul, razor, (from carbon-alloy from India); at breakfast, he uses a fork (Mediaeval Italy), coffee (Abyssinia), sugar (India), waffles Scandinavia), butter (Near East), bacon (Southeast Asia); then he takes the train (English), reads the paper (Alphabet from Phoenician) (print from Germany, paper from China). He pays his fare (coins from Babylon) and goes to his desk (a system developed from the Assyrians).

A few other odd items are glass and brick from Egypt, wheels and weights from Sumerian, Code of Laws from Babylon, astronomy from the Chaldeans, paper money from China, and on and on. By now we should feel hungry but I'm afraid I'm a little worried. The problem of getting along with people might be easier if we increased our knowledge of our indebtedness to the rest of the world.

Last week we used a report from UNESCO to give some facts about malaria, the countries it infests and some of the work being done to wipe it out. To give emphasis to this problem, World Health Day this year is devoted to the campaign for the eradication of malaria.

There is a whole battery of drugs against malaria; some are preventive and some are effective in treating sufferers. There are the well-publicized insecticide spraying operations, the delicate laboratory work, the numerous transport problems involved and the costly army of workers needed.

Since the drugs only keep the blood parasites under control temporarily one week, it is difficult to keep up treatment among the widely-scattered and nomadic inhabitants of some regions. So a drug which will be effective for a long period is now the goal.

Brazil has come up with the idea of adding an anti-malarial drug to the cooking salt used at every meal by the people of the Amazon area — in the same way as iodine is added to the salt in regions where goitre is prevalent. This seems to have been successful and further research is being done. It is especially useful in areas where the spraying operations meet special difficulties as in the forests of the Amazon where the houses have no walls and consist only of a roof over four supports.

Sometimes in shame and apology we ask ourselves: "How can you say or write about something that is not in you?" We took some comfort from a few opening sentences from Emerson's essay on Prudence. He says: "What right have I to write on Prudence, whereof I have little, and that of the negative sort? My prudence consists in avoiding and going sedentary, not in the investing of means and methods, not in adroit steering, not in gentle repairing. I have no skill to make money spend well, no genius in my economy, and whoever sees my garden discovers that I must have some other garden. I, therefore, set out, here lukrisly and people without perception. Then I have the same title to write on prudence, that I have to write on poetry or holiness. We write from aspiration and antagonism, as well as from experience. We paint those qualities which we do not possess."

Young Couple Honored by Community

WEST HUNTINGDON — On Friday evening of last week, a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace to extend a welcome and good wishes to their son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wallace, who have recently come from Edmonton, Alberta.

The Rev. J. Rooney, minister of St. Andrew's Church, was chairman for the evening's program. Community singing was enjoyed, led by Mr. Alex McCurdy, with Mrs. Lindsay Sills at the piano.

Readings were presented by Mrs. Alex McIlroy and Mrs. Russell Sills. Mrs. Milton Shaw contributed a solo, and Grant and Garry Thompson a duet; Miss Nancy Fargey gave an instrumental number and Messrs. Barton Haggerty and John McIlroy sang duet addresses.

Mr. Ted Pollock read the special address and Mrs. William Pritchard presented the honored guests with a handsome purse of money to which they both voiced their appreciation. Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace expect to leave for their home in the west on Friday of this week. It was nice to have them visit in the community.

STORIES of FAMOUS HYMNS

By HORACE B. POWELL

AWAKE, MY SOUL, STRETCH EVERY NERVE

Awake, my soul, stretch every nerve,
And press with vigor on;
A heavenly race demands thy zeal,
And an immortal crown.

'Tis God's all-animating voice
That calls thee from on high;
'Tis He whose hand presents the prize
To thine aspiring eye.

A cloud of witnesses around
Hold thee in full survey;
Forget the steps already trod,
And onward urge thy way.

Blest Savior! introduced by Thee,
Our race have we begun;
And, crowned with victory, at Thy feet
We'll lay our trophies down.

When Philip Doddridge brought out this popular hymn, in 1755, he gave it the title: "Pressing On in The Christian Race".

It is based on a Bible verse, the passage in Philippians III ". . .forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I forward unto the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus".

Doddridge, one of the most gifted of the English hymnists and a close friend of Dr. Isaac Watts, who also contributed generously to the world's treasury of sacred song, was the youngest in a family of 20 children. Born in 1702, he entered the ministry when he was but 19 years old. Most of his hymns were composed to be sung at the close of his Sunday sermons and afterwards which he held, in turn, at Kibworth, England and at Northampton.

His ministry at Northampton extended over 20 years and in addition to preaching on Sundays and meeting other pastoral responsibilities he conducted a school for young preachers.

Many church leaders are students of hymnody hail the song listed above as the greatest and most inspiring of the many which Philip Doddridge wrote. Another very well-known hymn in his list has this opening stanza and chorus:

"O happy day that fixed my choice
On Thee, my Saviour and my God!
Well may this glowing heart rejoice
And tell its rapture all abroad.
He taught me how to watch and pray,
And live rejoicing every day;
Happy day, happy day,
When Jesus washed my sins away".

SATURDAY

ANSWER: CLAM CHOWDER

Very gently saute together 1 finely chopped onion and 3 strips of chopped bacon until onion is transparent but not at all brown. Now add 2 pared and finely chopped medium - size potatoes and 1 cup water and simmer, covered until potatoes are tender. Add 1 13-oz can of clams, liquid and all, and 1 cup of cream into 2 or 3 pieces (or use canned minced clams) and 2 cups whole milk (or 1 cup evaporated milk and 1 cup water). Add 3-4 measuring teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper and 1 tablespoon butter. Bring to just below boiling point and serve.

Letter: I am always interested in your recipes and would like to send you one of mine which I think is very good either with chiffon or angel food cake.

ANGEL FOOD FILLING

Four egg yolks, 3-4 cup white sugar, pinch salt, 1 cup light cream or canned milk. Cook in double boiler until thick. Soak 1-2 envelope gelatine in 3 tablespoons cold water. Add to boiling mixture with 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon almond flavoring. When this starts to set, add 1 cup cream and add. Beat well, and when it sets, split your cake and put filling between and on top. Sprinkle with crushed salted peanuts and let stand a few hours before using . . .

Name omitted by request.

Answer: Thank you for sending us this lovely dessert.

Question: I have lost your recipe for Low Calorie Cheese Cake. Would you please repeat it in the paper? . . . Cooky.

Answer:

CHIFFON CHEESE CAKE

(Low-calorie)

1 cup graham cracker crumbs (about 18 graham cracker squares)
1 tablespoon melted butter
1-2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon plain gelatine
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 cup reliquified instant skim milk powder
2 eggs beaten
2 cups cream cheese
1-4 cup lemon juice
1-2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
teaspoon vanilla
1-2 cup whipped instant milk powder (see below)

Mix well together the graham cracker crumbs, butter, Spread 3-4 cup mixture over bottom of 9" pan (spring-form pan is best). Mix sugar, salt, and gelatine together in saucepan. Stir in reliquified instant milk powder and eggs. Stir over medium heat until mixture begins to boil (5 to 6 minutes). Chill until mixture thickens and mounds from spoon.

Force cheese through sieve. Add cheese, lemon juice, lemon rind and vanilla to gelatine mixture. Mix well. Fold in whipped skim milk powder. Turn into pan over crumb mixture. Garnish top with remaining 1-4 cup crumb mixture. Chill until firm (2 to 3 hours). Unmould.

TO WHIP INSTANT SKIM MILK POWDER

Mix 1-2 cup instant skim milk powder with 1-2 cup water in a bowl. Chill until soft peaks form (3 to 4 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Continue beating until stiff peaks form (3 to 4 minutes more).

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

THE IMPORTANCE OF CLOTHES SENSE

Clothes in good taste are really good manners. Rather an odd statement, you say? Perhaps. But, from the familiar glance at least, if you are well dressed and well groomed, it is assumed that you are more at ease (particularly when other women are present) and therefore more composed and better able to handle the social situation. And the Spring season is upon us, suppose we take a look at what our personal selections for this season's wardrobe are going to be. "Will I be overdressed or underdressed?" is the question to ask yourself.

Overdressing is putting too much stress on frills and furbelows. Too many clanking bracelets and heavy strands of beads never add anything to the overall picture. Quite the opposite. One piece of your hair may be very fetching. Two plumes may look ridiculous. Overdoing ruffles and ribbon bows will never get you the title of being "well dressed". Subtlety is the key necessary. There is a happy medium. Be sure that the color, fit, and relying on "line" to give the effect, one should attain the goal.

Accessories are an extremely important part of the picture. Since few of us can afford different accessories for every costume, we should learn what type and quality of bags, gloves, scarves, shoes and hats suit us best all around and appropriate service. Quality rather than quantity may be made to do double duty by clever combinations of different accessories on different occasions.

Organize your wardrobe. Store away the clothes you won't guard against overdoing it! Let simplicity be the keynote. Above all, be your age! The sixteen-year-old girl who gets sophistication by dressing in the manner of a woman ten years her senior, only succeeds in making herself ridiculous, as does the matron who shops in the junior mode of the sixteen-year-old! Dress for the occasion but be yourself.

Choosing the proper type of gown is important. Of course the fabric, the cut, costume jewelry, and shoes should be one but themselves. Should you be asked to an afternoon tea; reception; the five-to-seven cocktail party; an informal wedding; the answer is that the same type of outfit is correct for all of these occasions. A dressy little street-length gown, with well chosen accessories, always is considered a big help.

Then a meal at her table is to feel one has dined with noble princes in a royal banquet hall and enjoyed a magnificent repast. A simple stew or meat pie is to feel that one has dined with royalty and the plainest of dishes is served with genuine joy because of the welcome presence of the guest.

Surely this lovely little person possesses life's most precious possession — the true mother heart — shrined in all its glory and unselfish sharing and caring.

The following poem is a tribute to all the vast army of women the world over who are the mothers of small, kindly deeds for all those in need within their scope of thought and vision.

Contact Club Enjoys Bowling Party

Monday evening, the Contact Club of Christ Church held its annual bowling and mix bowling party at the Bowl-o-Drome. Following an enjoyable hour of bowling, the members and their guests proceeded to the parish hall for refreshments.

Tables in the hall were adorned with pretty spring flowers and laden with delicious sandwiches, pickles and various tempting cakes.

President Doris Stewart welcomed the hundreds after which Mickey Lake presented the prizes for bowling. Prizes were Irene Weatherstone for ladies' high, and Mary Wiggins for ladies' low. Al Greene captured honors for men's high, while King Lake won men's low. A hidden score was won by Mrs. Ed Hollow.

The members of Keith Principe's group served refreshments and are credited with a well-planned social evening.

The evening closed with Boo Thorne giving a hearty thanks to the wives for inviting their husbands to the much enjoyed get-together.

Nothing Finer Than True Mother-Heart

By ALMA MASON

There lives in a certain neighborhood, in this city, a kindly little woman . She is self-effacing, humble and sweet. To know her is to love her. She is like a shy violet for she radiates the beauty and tenderness and concern with her unobtrusive but compelling loveliness.

One of her neighbors said of her, "She mothers everyone. If I sneeze anyone who is about, she simply has to do something to help me alleviate the trouble. You know as well as I that money is scarce in her home, but she generously shares the little she has. As she shares more seems to be placed in her hands to distribute to those around her in need. She does without what most of us would consider the necessities of life. She is radiantly happy. Its source must be derived from the daily little kindnesses she performs for others."

But the contents of this dear little soul's purse will not stretch to buy flowers or fruit for those who are ill or bereaved, she shares some small personal possession with them. The gift is always accompanied by such a wealth of love that the gift, be it ever so small, is received a king's ransom.

To be a meal at her table is to feel one has dined with noble princes in a royal banquet hall and enjoyed a magnificent repast. A simple stew or meat pie is to feel that one has dined with royalty and the plainest of dishes is served with genuine joy because of the welcome presence of the guest.

Surely this lovely little person possesses life's most precious possession — the true mother heart — shrined in all its glory and unselfish sharing and caring.

The following poem is a tribute to all the vast army of women the world over who are the mothers of small, kindly deeds for all those in need within their scope of thought and vision.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychologist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each week a family problem or social case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Martha M. — Jane's going to find herself out in the cold.

Jane H. — She's too complacent of men.

• • •

Martha M. — Am I right in feeling that a woman in her 30's is headed for a very rude awakening if she gets herself involved with a younger man?

My friend, Jane, is an attractive widow, but she looks her age — or very close to it. She has married daughter and two grandchildren. But she has recently taken up with a boarder in his 40's. They have been having an affair and Jane hints she may marry him.

I think it's bad whether she marries him or not. Whatever happens, one of these days she's going to find herself out in the cold — just because she's too old.

• • •

Jane H. — I know I'm not doing the right thing, but I just can't help feeling very deeply about him. He has been so lonely all his life, looking for an understanding woman and has never had a permanent relationship such as ours.

Martha has been my friend for many years and has always given me good advice, but she always regards me as a child and take advantage of a situation. Perhaps I am, but I want to be successful.

I'm afraid of marriage, but I feel I can lead him gently to the altar. It's true I'm not in love with him right now, but that's not matter to him and I believe it will come.

• • •

The Council: I don't think the age difference is particularly important in this case. A man in his 40's who gets involved with a woman in her 30's doesn't expect the greatly desired physical youthfulness. He appreciates the particular advantages of maturity and isn't likely to lose his taste for these more interesting qualities.

However, we think the more important issue is the status of this relationship. Jane may indeed be in for a rude awakening if she gets herself involved with a younger man?

Belleville s Ready for Local Airstrip

By DON HARVEY

(Part 2)

Belleville is not ready for an airstrip too costly to build and not enough people would use it. Remember that statement?

Last week we tried to show that Belleville is ready for an airstrip and that construction costs could be kept low or if we wanted a more elaborate setup, the federal government is prepared to kick in some financial assistance.

Now, let's consider the belief that not enough people would use the strip.

Results of a Chamber of Commerce survey, as reported in Thursday's Ontario Intelligencer, have shown that local industries are in favor of a nearby airstrip, particularly if Mountain View Airport or part of RCAF Station Trenton can be used. We had hoped to attend the meeting of the Chamber's directors Wednesday when secretary - manager Earl Dickensheet revealed the survey results, but we were too busy at BGH waiting for Jennifer Jane, our first child, to file her flight-plan. (She was overdue several weeks and we almost called in search and rescue. She made a happy landing, however.)

If, however, an airstrip is built near Belleville we know the Trenton Flying Club would be interested and possibly might move off the RCAF field. The Prince Edward Flying Club would be interested and, because it is not interested in taking a long-term lease on Demorcon Airport, it might eye our field with favor. There we have two flying clubs which might be available to compete on our field in recreational aviation and pilot training. You might say Belleville has a chance of acquiring new business.

It is exceedingly doubtful that long-range airliners will ever provide direct service to Belleville and district. Those companies find it uneconomical to provide short haul service. But, as we said last week, we cannot overlook the smaller airlines like Quebecair and Wheeler. Short-range flying is their business. So, you see, if our strip ever met Department of Transport and airline standards, we almost definitely would get air service of some sort.

THE FUTURE

Here is what we can see eventually on a Belleville airstrip:—one or two flying clubs; scheduled air service; a charter flying service; an aerial crop spraying business; aerial taxi and bus service; one or two concessions; a small aircraft workshop; an aircraft dealership; aerial freight service, aerial ambulance. And we have just scratched the surface of possibilities.

People, and lots of them, would use our airstrip.

Just a word about Jim Markle's suggestion Wednesday about going after the Department of National Defence for civilian use of part of RCAF Station Trenton. It was a good suggestion. But we feel any attempt now to secure part of Station Trenton will prove fruitless and possibly jeopardize further attempts in the future. The RCAF field at present is not ready for civilian aircraft. We think that it will come about some day, but not yet. The field should first be given over to Department of Transport authority. The time is ripe to advocate for that is when the defence budget is cropped and Air Transport Command starts building its new long - range CC-106. Then the field will be a benefit on-the taxpayers as an RCAF installation and the air traffic will be reduced even more than it was when the jets and Harvards went out west last fall. No, let's keep away from RCAF Station Trenton for now.

Instead, let's just get a good-sized field near the city and, for the present, operate an unlicensed flying field.

"And the spring arose on the garden fair
Like the Spirit of Love felt everywhere,
And each flower and herb on earth's dark breast,
Arose from the dream of its wintry rest." — Sel.

SCOHARIE — The Belleville Presbytery Young People's Union spring rally was held in Bloomfield United Church on Saturday, with a good attendance. Several ministers were present to lead in devotional and panel discussions.

The services were inspiring and the young people felt it to be an educational and enjoyable day.

The W.A. of the church served luncheon at noon and dinner at night to those attending the rally.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. James Hanna and Mr. Theodore Foster on the arrival of a new grandson, Mark, to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hanna, on Sunday, May 1st.

Mr. Murray Ireland's greenhouse has been a busy place for several weeks, breaking soil.

Mr. and Mrs. Finley Hennessy and Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Hennessy, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hennessy and Randy, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hennessy and family, Mrs. Douglas Hennessy, Wally and Gerry, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Hennessy and family served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hennessy Sunday with lunch, gifts and a birthday cake, in honor of Mrs. Merton Hennessy's birthday.

She was completely surprised and enjoyed her relatives' kindness very much.

A week later they also gave a birthday party for Mr. Douglas Hennessy.

Mr. King Irish was a Thursday night and Friday guest of Mr. Theodore Foster and Norma.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lloyd and Lloyd, Thornford, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lloyd of Toronto were recent guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lloyd. Douglas and Dorothy Mr. William Lloyd spent a couple of weeks working with John in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Parliament, Mrs. Gertrude Darling and Miss Hattie Hawley, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Foster and Mrs. H. Foster.

Friends here were sorry to learn Mrs. George Kingsley has been a patient in Picton Hospital. Their little son stayed with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Leavitt, during his mother's illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Istead and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reg Sedgley, Carleville.

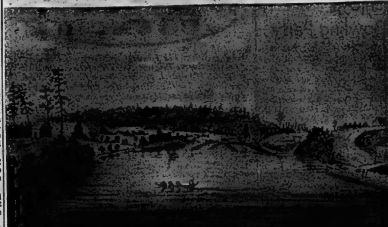
Mr. and Mrs. Norman Leavitt, Ned, David and Paul, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross MacEwen of Picton, the occasion being Mr. Leavitt's birthday.

Members of the Hennessy family gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hennessy on Monday evening to tender Douglas a birthday party.

Miss Darlene Foster spent the weekend with her great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McWilliam. Little Miss Carol visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur McWilliam.

Mrs. George Foster, Belleville, is spending this week with Mrs. Harry Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Foster.

This correspondent was privileged to be one of those in the five or six cars of misfortune-minded ladies from Bloomfield invited to join with Cherry Valley W.M.S. ladies when Mrs. C. C. Alton, Tweed, was present to show her wonderful slides of the Holy Land, taken by Exeter Lions, 1956.



Mrs. Alton is a dedicated Christian worker, with a wonderful knowledge of her Bible who, with her husband, had gone to places Jesus had been.

Her comment was excellent. The only regret was that everyone in the county could not be present.

URBAN GROWTH

Two-thirds of Canada's population were urban dwellers by the 1956 census, compared with 56 per cent in 1941.

Picton Harbor

On July 3, 1797, an act was passed to provide for a township to be struck off from the southern-most parts of the townships of Marysburgh and Sophiasburg. This township was named in honor of Capt. Benjamin Hallowell, whose son-in-law was Chief Justice of Upper Canada and with whom Hallowell was giving at "Muddy York." In 1830 there were two villages side by side in the township with that of Hallowell situated on the west side of the stream and on the other side. In the forest of that part now took was the site of the present town of Picton, named in honor of Governor Sir Peregrine Maitland's wife, Lady Maitland, a member of the family of Sir Thomas Picton, who fell at the Battle of Waterloo.

So great was the rivalry of the two settlements that Hallowell was still spoken of as late as 1837 but such was the influence of Picton's Anglican minister, the Rev. William Macaulay, that when the two were incorporated in March, 1837, the combined village became Picton.

In the picture we see a well-built long dock with its large warehouse and the wide road coming down the hill to it on the Hallowell side while in the middle foreground are four men in a long prowed boat with a high stern, paddling over to the Picton side. At the end of the harbor are what appear to be four slips with a sailing schooner at the mouth of the creek across which a bridge of very inferior construction had been erected about 1812. Hovenden House at the bridge was one of the first inns in the country but had disappeared before this picture was painted.

Drowned in Well

SOUTHAMPTON (CP) — Richie Lindsay, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Lindsay of Southampton, was drowned Thursday when he crawled into a seven-foot well used as an auxiliary water supply for fire prevention.

The boy was playing with a friend on the property of a furniture company when he apparently crawled between the bars of a pipe fence surrounding the well.

Firemen and civilian volunteers recovered the body after an hour's dragging operations.

Second Man Dies

HAMILTON (CP) — A second man has died as the result of Wednesday's collision between a car and a tractor-trailer on Highway 25 near Milton, 30 miles north of here.

Mongo Nixon of Milton, about 60, died in hospital here Thursday. John Rhagson of Milton was instantly killed and Dan McIntyre of Woodbridge suffered head injuries in the crash.

YANIER SEES BIG PROJECT

SASKATOON (CP) — Governor-General Vanier took a first-hand look Thursday at the $100,000,000 South Saskatchewan River Dam project. It was an unscheduled stop on his northern tour, made at his request.

W. Huntingdon

WEST HUNTINGDON — Mrs. Lindsay Sills attended the birthday party for her grandmother, Mrs. George Weaver, who was celebrating her 80th birthday on Saturday, April 30th.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fitchett and Miss Bessie Hollinger attended the 25th wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Orley Park's of Plainfield on Saturday evening.

The farmers have all started working on the land. Some have a number of acres sown.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carr were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stapley, of Stirling; Mrs. Joseph Phillips of Belleville, and Mr. Elick Brummell of Norwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Skinkle and Josephine of Belleville, were Saturday evening guests of Mr. James A. Wilson. Mrs. Floyd Sheffield and Margaret.

Mrs. Harold Thompson, received word on Sunday of the sudden death of her father, Mr. George Morrow of Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Palmer attended the Potte-Bowers wedding at Plainfield, on Saturday.

Sarah and Arthur Wilson were guests on Sunday evening of Mrs. Meville Reid.

DESTINATION

and small ocean liners and bellowed old merchantmen of a dozen nations joined in the chorus.

The happy smiling couple waved back all the way until the gathering dusk hid them from view.

WISHED GOD SPEED

"God speed!" said The Daily Express in a giant headline across its front page.

"Bonny as a lass, too," commented The Daily Mail.

"Escape to happiness," exclaimed The Daily Herald.

The honeymoon is expected to last about six weeks.

Aboard the Britannia all is gleaming with bright new paint. The princess and her husband occupy an upper deck suite decorated in cream and maroon. It is completely private. They can sunbathe beside a canvas swimming pool, undisturbed by the crew.

Queen Elizabeth, the bride's elder sister, lent them the royal yacht to escape rubbernecking crowds in their first weeks of married life.

Now, alone at last, they can relax for the first time since their surprise engagement was announced 71 days ago.

BRITONS CELEBRATE

Thousands of Britons celebrated into the early hours of the morning.

They roamed the floodlit decorated streets around Buckingham Palace and packed the pubs. Parties were held at every west end hotel, restaurant and club.

When ancient Westminster Abbey finally closed its heavy oaken doors more than 20,000 people had filed through to see the sanctuary where the wedding took place.

The festivities, splendor and pageantry rarely have been surpassed. Only the 1953 Coronation could touch it for breathtaking glitter—the type the British do so well.

From the time, just 15 minutes before the wedding, when Margaret left her home at Clarence House—to a thunderous ovation, until she and her husband boarded the royal yacht six hours later, she was scarcely ever away from the roar of well-wishers.

SOLEMN ABBEY SCENE

The great procession of pranceing horses, ancient carriages, and armor - covered guardsmen all took second place Friday to the solemn scene at the high Gothic abbey where the princess and Armstrong-Jones exchanged wedding vows.

The ceremony itself was simple and moving—the same type of wedding service that is often held in a small parish church.

But the glittering beauty of the Abbey's high altar, with its shining gold and silver plate, its many crosses and candlesticks, the 14 powered clergymen, the banks of flowers, and the diadems of royalty—made it a wedding that only a princess could have.

Nearly an hour after a slightly nervous princess entered the Abbey, she came out again, holding her husband's hand.

They drove through the streets, together in the glass coach and the crowd pulled out all the stops to give the couple a royal reception into married life.

APPEARS ON BALCONY

Around the railing of Buckingham Palace, police lines were broken by the eager crowds—all shouting, "We want Margaret"—and they kept chanting until she appeared. The entire Royal Family, and all members of the wedding party, came out on the palace's centre balcony and stayed for about five minutes while hundreds of thousands sent up cheer after cheer.

Then the Queen and Prince Philip entertained about 120 guests at a breakfast reception for the couple—while the crowds waited outside.

It was nearly 5 p.m. BST (12 p.m. EDT) when the 29-year-old princess and her 30-year-old husband appeared again. This time they were in an open car, heading for the royal yacht.

And this time, if anything, the reception was even more exciting. At some places along the route, crowds surged around the car, almost stopping it. Margaret and Armstrong-Jones seemed to enjoy every minute.

BANK HOLDUP NETS $5,000

MONTREAL (CP) — Holdup men robbed a west-end branch of the Royal Bank of Canada of $5,000 or $6,000 cash Thursday. It was the fourth bank robbery in less than two weeks.

COUNCIL FACES

It deleted the suburban money requested in the board's $1,378,682 budget.

MAIN QUESTIONS

Several questions are at issue in the suit:

1. Can a council refuse to grant a board of education any amount, or any portion of the amount, requested in its budget?

2. Can the city legally borrow money on the anticipated suburban tuition fees?

3. Can the city tax its ratepayers for the tuition of suburban pupils?

4. Must the suburban board pay tuition on a current basis?

Chatham board of education last month instructed a lawyer to sue the city in an attempt to find the answer. No formal action has been taken yet.

CONTROL THREATENS

Victor Lauriston, a member of the Chatham board for 40 years, had this to say:

"An obscure and little-known passage in the school law is being distorted in such a way as if it is not promptly and firmly challenged, to give the Chatham municipal council, and incidentally all councils throughout Ontario, that control over board expenditures which the Supreme Court's South Peel decision specifically denied them."

The Supreme Court of Ontario last year ordered Toronto township council to pass the South Peel board of education budget, rejected earlier, by council because of a $350,000 item for teachers' salary increases which necessitated a 5.3 mill increase in the tax rate.

At budget time in 1958 council asked the board of education to put anticipated suburban school tuition fees some six mills in the board budget as anticipated revenue. The board did and council borrowed on the strength of anticipated revenue to provide money required in the budget.

But early last year auditor W. G. Smith said he could find no legal way the city to borrow on the anticipated revenue and pay interest out of city taxes.

SEEN CLEVER MOVE

Board of education members charge that the initial move by council was a political manoeuvre to cut six mills from the tax rate.

Later at a meeting of council's finance committee and the two boards, F. G. Blake, director of municipal auditing and accounting for the Ontario municipal affairs department, said:

City council had no authority to borrow the money in 1958 to pay the amount owed by the suburban board; there was nothing in the agreement between the boards saying the suburban board had until July 1 to pay its amount to the city board; the suburban board should make payments on a current basis; and the two boards should take immediate steps to decide how the suburban board account could be paid on such a basis.

Last October the three parties concerned consulted with department of education officials in Toronto. No solution was reached.

RAILWAY

The bill for the proposed increases, they said, would be $65,000,000 annually and almost half again as much when extended, as history shows it would be, to the rest of their employees.

They claimed their present operating expenses provided no margin for increases and the only source of increased revenues was higher freight rates, or subsidies before next year at the earliest when the royal commission studying the rate structure reports.

They also argued that an increase in rates large enough to meet the requested raise would drive still more customers to other forms of transport.

They will present the same arguments before the conciliation board, but simply proving an inability to pay raises' carries no weight with the unions, nor has it with past conciliation boards.

Since railway revenues are largely fixed by government regulations, the principle has been that to allow wages to be determined by revenues would, in effect, mean employees were subsidizing public policy.

DURABLE GOODS STANDARD

Because of this the crux of the matter is the standard by which co-operating employees' wages are set. This is the so-called durable goods standard which has been used as a scale for setting co-op wages in every dispute since 1950.

First used as a method for setting fair railway wages in the United States, the system compares the average wage of co-ops to that of employees in the durable-goods industries — those making such products as cars, machinery and electrical appliances.

The present average wage in these industries, say the unions, is $1.89 hourly and the increases being asked by the railways are designed to put-non-ops wages on a par.

The railways have attacked the standard in every conciliation since 1954 and CNR president Donald Gordon indicated before the railway committee earlier this year that they would fight it again this time.

U.S. PILOT

But if that were the case, Khrushchev said, it showed the Americans and generals were in actual power in the United States.

Khrushchev said Powers escaped from the plane by parachutes without using the ejector mechanism. The plane had self-destroying equipment and would have exploded if he had used the ejector seat, the premier added.

He said Powers had been told to kill himself rather than fall into Soviet hands. The pilot had been given a special pin, one jab of which would kill him instantly.

Khrushchev said secret equipment from the plane, which he described as the "most genuine" military reconnaissance aircraft, was in Soviet hands and would be shown to the delegates later.

He said the plane was shot down over the Urals on a flight from Pakistan. It was scheduled to land in Norway, he said.

HIGH-SPEED PLANE

The Americans had used an aircraft capable of very high speed and height. They counted on Soviet aircraft and anti-aircraft artillery being unable to shoot it down, Khrushchev said.

But the Soviet said a aircraft forces got it "and should American aircraft fly higher, we would also get it," he said amid wild applause.

Khrushchev dismissed the American suggestion that the plane might have strayed over Soviet territory when the pilot lost consciousness at high altitudes.

He said the American version was a "complete lie" and said the men who advanced it had counted on the pilot being dead.

"Now they have already told us a lot of foolish things," he said. "I am sure they will give more of these things."

Khrushchev said the Soviet authorities would show all the pilot's "suicide equipment" to foreign diplomats.

He said the Americans called themselves Christians and the Communists atheists. But the Communists had never committed such crimes against a human being and never would, he added.

HAD BUBBLE

The pilot was given a large sum of Soviet rubles. But the men to whom he gave the money did not think of the difficulties he would run into because of the new "heavy" ruble (announced earlier in the session).

He was also given a large sum of French gold francs, West German marks and Italian lira, as well as two gold watches, and gold bracelets, according to the Soviet premier.

Khrushchev said the pilot carried a stainless steel comb.

The French gold francs were carefully wrapped in cellophane. "What were these for, to gain altitude?" he asked.

"FLY TO MARS"

The pilot also had seven women's rings—"Was he going to fly to Mars and seduce Martian women?" Khrushchev asked amid laughter.

It is possible, Khrushchev said, that the countries where Americans' spies are based did not know what was being done by the Americans.

But they ought to know for their own good, he warned, because then they could stop the Americans playing with fire. He mentioned Pakistan, Turkey and Norway in his warning.

He said he had dwelt at such length about what happened because many people in the United States believed in the version put out by the Americans—that the flight was an innocent weather reconnaissance aircraft.

Referring to the Eisenhower "open skies" proposal for aerial disarmament inspection, he said: "The Americans decided themselves to open the Soviet sky."

SAGE System Could Control All Air Defence

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Pearkes said Friday that it is not necessary that any Canadian weapons be controlled by SAGE (semi - automatic ground environment), the electronic control system for interceptors and missiles.

"We are in partnership with the United States for the defence of the North American continent," he said in a Command reply to Paul Hellyer (L-Trinity).

"The United States have a large number of interceptor squadrons stationed at various points in the United States which could be controlled by the SAGE system whether or not Canada had any interceptors of her own.

"As I said in the House some time ago, no decision has been reached to re-equip the CF-100 squadrons with any particular aircraft at the present time"

SAGE'S PURPOSE

Mr. Hellyer had asked what Canada weapons will be controlled by SAGE.

"Can we conclude," Mr. Hellyer said, "that the minister has decided to re-equip our defence squadrons with supersonic manned interceptors."

Mr. Pearkes said "such a conclusion would be quite erroneous."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The postman brought a letter this morning that contained a query "just to settle a wager"—where and how did hockey start?

The answer to that question, madam (the writer is a lady hockey fan), at least as far as this department is concerned is, "We do not know."

However, it can be said the game may be as much as 171 years old this year if there is any basis for a report stating the game was played in Kingston in 1789.

The origin of the game has been clouded in mystery for years and conflicting arguments have done little to solve the riddle.

The late James Sutherland of Kingston, a former executive of the Ontario Hockey Association, claimed the game began in his city.

Sutherland said hockey started in the late years of the 18th century after British Army officers, first sent to Kingston in 1789, began to play on a frozen lake.

There is little basis of fact to back up Sutherland's story. Only a few facts can be reasonably deduced in regard to the origin of the game.

One is that it developed from field hockey played in England for several hundred years. Field hockey is one of the oldest games. There are records of it being played 2,500 years ago.

Another fact that is reasonably accurate is that the game of ice hockey was introduced in Canada by British Army officers. But whether the game originated here or elsewhere is not known.

Frank Menke's 1934 Record Book (the sports editors' bible), states that Menke was told by a Montrealer, R. F. Smith, that ice hockey originated in Montreal in 1879. Smith said a friend of his, one W. H. Robertson, came up with the idea of hockey on ice.

Smith also claimed to have drawn the first set of rules after Robertson told him of the idea. Robertson had returned from Europe that year where he had seen field hockey played.

"The first hockey game was played on river ice in 1879," Smith told Menke. "My rules providing nine men to a side. Some of the boys who played borrowed their father's walking sticks. They used stripped lacrosse sticks while the rest came on with broom handles or branches cut from trees."

"A square puck was used. I decided that using a rubber ball would not do as I cut the ears from a hard rubber ball, squared it and ruled it should be the official hockey object."

Smith said a league operated in Montreal in 1880 that has continued to operate ever since. He further claimed to play in the longest game in history. The Montreal Athletic Association played Quebec in 1886, according to Smith.

"The rules called for a two-hour contest," he said. "At the end of play Friday we were tired so we agreed to resume play on Saturday. At the end of two hours' combat on Saturday we were still tied. The captains agreed to continue until one team or the other scored."

That was the first sudden-death game. It dragged on for four hours and twenty minutes.

Another McGill grad wrote that there was a picture of an 1879 team at the school when he attended it.

In contrast to Smith's argument, Sutherland claimed that hockey, as recognized in today's form, was first played by the Royal Canadian Rifles, an imperial unit, on the frozen harbor at the mouth of the Kingston Tete-de-Pont barracks between 1855 and 1869.

And there is at least one biographical sketch extant of the life of Albert, the Prince Consort of Queen Victoria, which tells of him playing hockey with young members of the Royal Family. It places the date as a severe winter during the 1850's.

Evidence favors the argument that Kingston or Montreal have shadowy claims to being the place where hockey originated. And there is little doubt that those two centres had a great deal to do with the development of hockey as a sport.

So there you are, madam. "Yer pays yer money—and takes yer choice."

Pirates Suffer From Willies As Sad Sam Slings 3-Hitter; Score Wins, Tigers Lose 9th

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

They've been few and far between, but southpaw Herb Score has taken another step on the long road back from the injury that almost ended one of major league baseball's most promising careers three years ago today.

Nagged by arm trouble and wildness since recovering from the line drive that endangered his sight—May 7, 1957, Score recaptured some of his old success Friday night, pairing with reliever Gerry Staley for a three-hit shutout as Chicago White Sox beat Washington 3-0.

Score, one-time fast - baller who struck out 245 batters in a rookie season in 1955, had only six strikeout ace, had lost seven in a row since last July 3. In 51 1-3 innings since then he had given up 50 base on balls. But he walked just two and fanned four before being lifted Friday night for a pinch-hitter in a three-run seventh that kept the Sox in a virtual tie for the American League lead.

NINTH DETROIT LOSS

New York Yankees, .015 percentage points ahead of the Sox, defeated Kansas City 8-7. Baltimore pushed third place Baltimore from Cleveland, rapping the Indians 9-2. And Boston scored three in the ninth for a 3-2 decision over Detroit, the Tigers' ninth straight defeat.

Score, 26, a 20-game winner as a sophomore in 1956, had only an 11-6 record with Cleveland after his injury and the Indians traded him to the Sox three weeks ago.

Score squared his record at 1-1 in his third start for the White Sox, who were shut out on one hit for six innings before handing Pete Ramos this third loss of the year and fifth in a row. They did it with two out in the seventh, when pinch-hitters Ted Kluszewski and Earl Torgeson, batting for Score, lined singles after Al Smith's double and a walk. Staley, who hasn't been charged with a run this season, then extended his shutout streak to 13 2-3 innings with a hitless, three-inning mopup.

WIN IT HARD WAY

The Yankees gained their third in a row on Gil McDougald's eighth-inning single after blowing a 5-1 lead and then gaining a 7-7 tie with two runs in the seventh. Rene Daren (1-0) was the winner, pitching the eighth and the ninth for a string of nine hitless relief innings in five games. Bob Trowbridge (0-1) was the loser in relief for the Athletics.

Baltimore cut loose for seven runs in the fourth inning against rookie Dick Stigman (1-3) and reliever Jim Perry, Brooks Robinson, who drove in four runs, capped the rally with a three-run double, his second two-base hit of the inning. Skinny Brown (2-0) won his second complete game in a row, blanking the Tribe until Woodie Held hit a two-run homer in the ninth.

Boston capped its ninth-inning rally with two unearned runs after a two-out error by shortstop Chico Fernandez. Frank Malzone's single won it for reliever Tom Brewer (1-2). Jim Bunning (0-2) lost.

Sad Sam Jones is back in stride, the Willies ..e at it again and the San Francisco Giants are the main cure guns of the National League lead.

It was as simple as that for the Giants Friday night as they whipped Pittsburgh's first-place Pirates 5-1 in the opener of a three-game series at Candlestick Park. They scored all their runs on homers by Willie McCovey, Willie Kirkland and Willie Mays while Jones spun a three-hitter.

Jones, a 21-game winner in the Giants' near-miss of last season, now has a pair of three-hitters and a one-hitter for a 3-2 record. This one handed the Pirates Vern Law his first defeat in five decisions.

REDS STILL WINNING

Third - place Milwaukee, 2½ games behind, was rained out at Chicago, but the Cincinnati Reds won their fifth in a row, beating fourth-place St. Louis 1-0 on a four-hitter by Jim O'Toole, who also drove in the run. That gave the Reds a fifth-place tie with Los Angeles, then hit his second home run by way of marking his 29th birthday.

Los Angeles walked three struck out five, Bob Clemente spoiled the shutout in the seventh with his sixth home run.

PHILS BREAK JINX

The Phillies, with Don Cardwell and winning reliefer Dick Farrell (2-0) holding the Dodgers to two hits, won their first at Los Angeles in 13 tries since 1958.

Bobby Gene Smith's double broke a 1-1 tie in the fi=ve=run 10th and Al Dark added a two-run homer against loser Sandy Koufax (0-2, who struck out 13 while giving up seven hits in nine innings. Bobby Del Greco's home run tied it in the sixth for the Phils.

Cincinnati scored in the sixth when reliefer Marshall Bridges (2-1) walked Ed Bailey, then intentionally passed Billy Martin to get at O'Toole, who delivered a two-out single. The young lefty, now 3-2, struck out three, walked none and kept the Cardinals witless in six starts on the road.

WINS KENTUCKY OAKS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Make Sail, lightly campaigned and highly regarded, gave Harry G. Guggenheim his second straight victory in the Kentucky Oaks Friday when he romped to the $40,350 event for three-year-old fillies. She reached the end of the 1 1-16 miles a neck in front of Quaze. Airmans Guide, 7-to-5 favorite, was third. Earning a net purse of $25,957.50, the winner paid $30, $10 and $7.60.

TeePees Turn Again; Bury Kings Under 9-6 Deluge

Alphonse-Gaston Cup Series Even Mystifies The Coaches; Play Sixth Game on Sunday

TORONTO (CP) — In this base-ball season, it may be pertinent to ask "Who's on first?" in the current Edmonton-St. Catharines Memorial Cup final for the Canadian junior hockey championship. They are playing it as if there were plenty of tomorrows.

The Eastern Canada champions blasted the Oil Kings 8-4 Friday night to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven set. But even the coaches are mystified at the reversal of form by each team.

The Oil Kings opened the series with a 5-3 victory, lost 6-2 and 9-1, hustled back for a 9-3 win Tuesday and then fell apart in the fifth game.

Friday night's crowd of 4,014 wasn't impressed by the 15-goal deluge. Edmonton defencemen, who had smacked every Tepee within range in Tuesday's rough-house game, didn't get in a single check all night as the easterners treated the almost untouched inside the opposition blue line.

It was practically the same story at the other end of the ice but Edmonton forwards, possibly frothered by the sticky ice surface, seemed unable to get the puck mount as attack.

Tepees' peppered goalkeeper Russ Gillow with 36 shots against only 21 handled by Roger Crozier. For St. Catharines, Ron Schock shot Oil Kings 23-9 in the third period.

Edmonton opened the scoring for the first time in the series but lost the lead in the first 10 minutes when Teepees countered with two power-play goals. The Oil Kings equaled in the third period's final minutes.

The game had hardly settled down for the middle session when Teepees rammed in three goals in the first 4:30 and Edmonton replied with two of their own. Ref Bi. Hicks added another pair to sew it up.

TWO GRIT DOUBLES

Defencemen Pat Stapleton and Bentley Hay Gallen led Teepees' fifth two goals each, the others with counting and captain Charlie Majeau, who also had four assists, Doug Robinson, Carl Longarini, Murray Hall and Ron Schock.

Edmonton snipers were Cliff Pennington with two and Don Chin, Ray Cooper, Bobby Hull and Bruce MacGregor.

Pennington opened the game's only picture goal in the third period with Teepees ahead 5-4. He took a pass at the St. Kitts blue line, carried it around defence-man Bill Speer and then fired a wrist-ed shot into the corner after faking a drive that pulled Crozier out of position.

Referee Joe Vinet of Winnipeg called 19 penalties — six to Edmonton — and most were for holding and interference. Tuesday, 22 penalties were handed out.

The sixth game's here Sunday afternoon and the seventh, if necessary, here Monday night.

Eddie Arcaro Missing From Derby Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The most familiar name on the Kentucky Derby program will be missing in today's classic.

Eddie Arcaro, who rode in his first Derby in 1932 and says he hasn't missed one since he piloted Hill Gay to a third-place finish in 1944, will be busy with his chores at Aqueduct but he isn't down.

"After you have ridden in as many as I have it loses its glamour."

He made it clear he would not want to ride in the classic post to be among those present and was not interested in a horse that didn't seem to stand a chance.

Arcaro has ridden five winners in his 20 appearances. His last triumph was on Hill Gail in 1952.

Cubans Shade Royals 10-9; Toronto Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Luis Arroyo, the little Puerto Rican lefthander with the affected, pitching stance, has restored the look of respectability to the Havana Sugar Kings.

The Cubans, winner of the Little World Series in the 1959 campaign, finally reached the .500 mark in the International baseball league Friday with a 10-9 in a game replete with five homers, seven errors, one fight, two batters hit by pitches and a relief work by Arroyo.

The five-foot-eight inch southpaw came on in the eighth to preserve the one-run lead after the Kings had rallied for four runs in the top of the inning to tie Leo Cardenas and Felix Torres' sacrifice fly.

The 33-year-old Arroyo struck out Bobby Gene Smith with the bases full when the Toronto batter walked the leadoff man in the ninth, but ended it by getting the next two batters on a doubleplay and a fly.

TWENTY FILES

Arroyo, who made the save for winner Howie Nunn, has appeared in eight of Havana's 19 games, has a 3-3 record and a splendid 2.25 earned run average.

In other games, Richmond defeated league-leading Buffalo 8-6, Rochester 7-5 on a late eighth-inning rally with a half-game of first-place Miami, but nightcap Atlanta over Miami and Columbus blanked Rochester 3-0.

The Sugar Kings, only three games out of first with a sweep of the doubleheader and a win by Albobilli and George Riley conceded 17 for the Royals.

Montreal Manager Clay Bryant filled the gaps in the fifth. The Royals had the bases full when Angel Scull lofted a fly back of second base. Havana second baseman Octavio Rojas dropped the ball, but umpire Augie Goughlenco ruled Scull out, calling it an infield fly.

SMOOF FOURTH LOSS

The Virginians handed the Maple Leafs their fourth loss in five games by crunching six hits off starter Jim Duffalo and relief Ron Piche. A wild pitch, an error a double, four singles and Jim Pisoni's sacrifice fly did the trick.

Steve Ridzik shut out the Marlins on four hits and centre fielder Jackie Waters' two-run homer accounted for the Maple Leafs' only runs. Ridzik also pitched two-hit ball for Miami, lost it when Waters connected in the sixth, after a walk to Allen Cohen. Toronto's ailing Larry Doby, who had been expected to add the Leafs, was uncondition-ally released before the game.

Rookie lefthander Bob Veale, in only his second start on pro ball, blanked the Red Wings on two hits and struck out 10 as he picked up his first triumph for the Jets. Pidge Browne drove in both Columbus runs with a second inning homer and a run-producing single in the eighth.

Blair Will Manage-Coach Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — A three-year contract with the Boston Bruins organization has been signed by Wren Blair, who led Whitby Dunlops to the world hockey championship in 1958.

He will take over as general manager and coach of Kingston Frontenacs in the Eastern Professional League immediately.

Jim Magee, Frontenacs vice-president, said Thursday:

"I will remain as general manager of Citizen of the U.S. Eastern League and have signed a two-year contract with the Comets to that effect. As of now the Kingston club will become the Boston Bruins No. 1 senior amateur farm club and will have a working agreement with Kingston.

"I will maintain my interest in Whitby but it will only be a distance. I will be in Kingston full time but feel my association with Whitby will make players like Bobby Attersley and Harry Sinden available for emergency duty with the Frontenacs.

Blair has won two Ontario Senior B titles in four tries and two Allan Cup championships in three years of Senior A operation. His Chinese Comets won the league championship in the first year he ran the club.

Last season both Clinton and Whitby finished first in their leagues.

12 Champing Thoroughbreds Went to Post in Derby Epic

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Twelve three-year-old horses, timed as fine as possible at a total cost of more than $300,000 will start majestically in their rich-est day for the signal sending them down history and glory in the 86th Kentucky Derby.

Post time for the start of this mile-and-a-quarter test is scheduled around ancient, flower-bordered Churchill Downs at 5:30 p.m. EDT. It will be televised on the CBC in Canada from 5:10 to 5:45 p.m. EDT.

If the winner should be other than C. V. Whitney's Venetian and Leonard Fridthman's Bally Ache they will probably be dark horses. Stands will be drowned by moans. For these two horses stand out as the Derby's main stemplers.

Tompion, a Kentucky-bred son of Tom Fool, is made the 2-1 favorite in California, is likely to go postward the 7-to-5 choice.

Bally Ache, a Kentucky-bred who's two $100,000-plus stakes for three-year-olds and out of the money only once in 23 starts, is the firm second choice at 2 to 1.

May Form New Pro Loop, Says Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Sports writer Dallis Beck of The Tribune says Jack Ferrin, general manager of Winnipeg Warriors of the Western League, will meet with hockey officials in St. Paul this weekend to discuss possibilities of forming a new minor professional league.

Beck says in a sports-page story Thursday that delegates to the meeting will be representatives of the Warriors, International League, which flourished in northern and midwest United States cities last winter and in its first season of operation.

Cities involved in the proposed circuit, to be known as the Continental League, would be Winnipeg, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Omaha and St. Louis.

"Winnipeg has operated as a member of the WHL for the last five years, but with talk of expansion eastward of Portland, Los Angeles and San Francisco, Perrin's franchise has been left in the unstable position of being 'frozen out' by far-west factions interested in Winnipeg's geographical location", Beck says.

In St. Paul, Perrin called the story "pure speculation". He said another meeting is planned next week to discuss the matter. Perrin was associated with Minneapolis and St. Paul hockey clubs before coming to Winnipeg.

Fans Flocking To Ball Games

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fans are flocking to National League baseball games this year and the attendance is already 266,736 greater for the first 24 playing dates than for the same time a year ago.

Have Commissioner Ford Frick and the league's service bureau announced figures Friday and said if the pace continues, a all-time record for a season could be established.

He said 1,354,189 fans have watched games to date, compared to 1,137,466 for the same time in 1959.

The all-time league attendance mark was in 1947—10,-488,496.

Demaret lost the match on the 17th with a one-over-par five. Snead has a 68-68—136. Friday was Demaret's first round. Low score at the end of three rounds gets top money of $10,000. Jackie Burke Jr. has 72-73—145. Cary Middlecoff fired a 73 in the only round Wednesday.

Wolves, Rovers Will Attract Over 100,000 to Cup Final

By VERNON MORGAN

LONDON (Reuters) — Soccer enthusiasts were expected to join Wembley Stadium 100,000 strong today for the English Football Association Cup final—the dream game for any player who pulls on boots.

Wolverhampton Wanderers are the slight betting favorites over Blackburn Rovers.

"The Cup," as the fans always call it, has been the last century and in theory every amateur and professional team in England or Wales can reach the final.

Some non-league or Third- or Fourth - Division teams have reach the quarter- or semi-finals but only the Cup winner can be First-Division affair.

Tickets for the final can be had only through seven from crackers—but these generally never seem to get the way for the little man.

LONG GRIND

The road to Wembley begins in September when amateur teams start knocking each other out. Later, the Third- and Fourth-Division professional teams have to crack with First-Division big boys—the last ones to get into the act.

Although the lowly clubs don't make Wembley, they enjoy a huge Cup elimination games with First -, Division teams which bring in the undreamed-of gate.

Television cameras will beam the final to as many people in Britain who watched the wedding of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones. Everybody follows the Cup final.

Wolverhampton and Blackburn are evenly-matched teams but with different playing styles. Most sports writers expect a close fight.

Wolverhampton was beaten last year by Tottenham Hotspur, the post this week in the race for First-Division championship as Burnden moved it out for top spot. Tottenham was in the fight for First-Division honors when it started to slack off in league games preparing for the Cup final. It ended the season low in the table.

This century, the Wolves won the Cup and twice in Cup-play. Blackburn made one appearance in 1928, and upset Huddersfield 3-1.

On the Track

TORONTO (CP) — The 104th consecutive year of organized horse racing in Canada will be Toronto opens Monday at Old Woodbine track. Folks will hardly know the old spot in the northeastern section of the city.

The former clubhouse, which operates all thoroughbred racing in Ontario, has spent $1,200,000 on a new clubhouse. It is the latest phase in renovation of the park where racers have been conducted since 1871.

A new policy under which at least 20 per cent of all races will be run at distances between one and 1,000 miles will be introduced at the 34-day spring meeting.

At present, 75 per cent of the races in North America are run at less than one mile.

When work is completed, likely next year, Old Woodbine will have an area of 1,000 hackery and will be able to accommodate crowds of more than 35,000.

Bay of Quinte Country Club Opening Two-Ball Draw

The opening mixed two-ball tournament tees off at two o'clock. A field of 72 golfers has been entered. Post entries will be accepted.

The course is said to be in good condition and games captain Steve Lyseniuk and women's president Joy Bowerman look to an excellent opening day's sport.

Eighteen foursomes are entered at this writing with Vera Levins and Les Vescio with Muriel Jones and Charles Taylor leading the field. Unless there are post entries Ron Cocks and Ray Nolan with Betty Ingram and Herb Hasty will be the final four to tee off at 2.12.

A dinner will be served in the club house at 6.30 by the steward team of Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan.

The Kenney Club season officially opens on May 21 with a Saturday night dance.

Baseball to Fight Action Proposed by Sen. Kefauver

NEW YORK (AP) — Organized baseball vowed Friday to wage all-out fight against the legislation proposed by Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem-Tenn.) that would make baseball subject to the anti-trust laws.

Ford Frick, baseball commissioner, issued a statement calling the bill "vicious, discriminatory and discriminatory" and said it would destroy baseball.

"This bill is absolutely unacceptable because it goes beyond anti - trust considerations in an attempt to spell out the operating rules for baseball," he said. "It is the most harmful bill for baseball ever proposed."

Paul Rand Dixon, counsel for the Senate anti - monopoly subcommittee, said in Washington that Kefauver's proposal "breaks up monopoly but I don't think it does."

Kefauver heads the subcommittee which intends to open hearings on the measure later this month. It will be invited to testify, as will Branch Rickey, president of the Continental League, and George Trautman, head of the minor leagues.

Dixon said he would not require any major league team to abandon its farm franchises and would give the majors two years to reduce the number of players it controls to 100. He contended it would strengthen the farm system because it would mean more players for each club.

The minors also would be fortified by protection from major league telecasts, Dixon said. Games "made available on television" are exempt from baseball legislation, he said. "It would be acceptable to baseball if it were placed in the same category as television," he said.

EASE OF HANDLING is demonstrated by Tom Jury, as he prepares to put the "Turbojet", jet propelled pleasure craft, through its paces. Cluster of control dials on dash resembles auto dashboard. Forward and reverse controls are push button operated. Acceleration is with conventional type foot pedal.

Jet Age Has Now Arrived At Belleville's Waterfront

The jet age has arrived at the Belleville waterfront!

It has arrived in the form of a 150 horsepower jet-driven pleasure craft which for the past week has been scudding about the bay at speeds up to 40 miles per hour.

The jet-driven six-passenger cruiser is called the Turbojet and is manufactured at Ajax. The jet propulsion mechanism is Australian designed. The craft is for sale by the May Marina on the local waterfront.

Trial spins taken in the craft by local boat enthusiasts have resulted in raves for the new concept in boating. The craft has a getaway that would put a gazelle to shame and can jump from a standstill to its full speed of 40 miles per hour in a matter of seconds.

Main feature of the Turbojet, of course, is the absence of any kind of a propeller, the craft being forced ahead by a stream of water jetted from the rear of the boat. Water is picked up beneath the boat and forced out through the rear forcing the boat ahead.

Steering of the craft is done by gates at the rear of the jet. The gates change the course of the jet to right or left and the rear of the craft is turned accordingly. The craft can be turned in its own length, even at quite fast speeds.

With no propeller to get fouled up in the weeds or on rocks, the Turbojet can go where no boat owner would attempt to take a conventional craft.

It draws only a scant four inches and can operate in very shallow water without damage. Manufacturers claim gasoline consumption is approximately one half of a conventional outboard of equal power.

JET PROPULSION — Motor boating without a propeller is offered by the "Turbojet," sleek jet-operated pleasure craft on the local waterfront. The 16-foot "Turbojet" is seen above getting up speed just outside the Belleville harbor.

BASILIO-FULLMER SIGN

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio, former world welterweight and middleweight boxing champion, signed Friday to fight Gene Fullmer in a return bout for the National Boxing Association middleweight title in Salt Lake City June 29. Basilio was stopped by Fullmer in the 14th round of their championship bout in San Francisco last August.

Knight Talks on Tarpon Fishing

Jerry Coughlin, who for reasons best known to Jerry, specializes on tarpon, said in an afterdinner talk that a tarpon is quite like a woman. Fishing for these presents the same problems.

First off a tarpon is hard to hook. So, being larger than most fish, comes and goes as he pleases and is completely unpredictable. Once hooked, his behavior is erratic, no two the same. And when, and if, you do land one you don't know what to do with it.

Well, that may very well be true, at least for conversational purposes. The great Silver King has been responsible for a world of argument in the good sense and he has been credited with qualities which he does not possess. Let's take Jerry's analogy one part at a time.

A tarpon is, without question, the easiest fish to hook of all the game fish in Florida waters with the possible exception of the jack crevalle. I base this entirely with the fly rod. All I have to do is to place a fly within four or five feet of a big tarpon and, at least for the time being, he is my tarpon.

ONE VULNERABLE SPOT

Setting the barb of the hook in the mouth of a tarpon is another matter entirely. His lips and jaws are soft bone. The only vulnerable spot in the fish's assembly is the corner where upper and lower jaws meet. Here you find cartilage into which the hook point can be pushed. Then, when a tarpon rolls up to take a fly in his leisurely, possessive fashion, never attempt to help him while he is looking at you. Instead, wait until he turns and goes away from you. Then is the time to strike with all the force the tackle will stand—both feet of the floor boards. That way, and that only, do the fish's lips be set above the barb.

Once hooked, his manners are pretty much cut to pattern. The first thing he does is to jump. This one common characteristic no doubt is responsible for his popularity. Aside from that his fight is unspectacular and actually rather stupid. Rarely do you get a sustained run of 200 yards from a tarpon. The majority of the fight, between strike and gaff is an arm-wrenching, tiresome process, void of thrills.

Jerry is right about one thing though: once you land him, you haven't the remotest idea what to do with him. Some people eat tarpon but the meat is dark, oily and high-flavored. Far too many delicious fish swim in Florida waters to justify using a tarpon as table fare. So — you take his picture, let him hang on exhibition for the unknowing to admire, and then consign him to the crabs out in deep water.

The fighting prowess of a tarpon is disproportionate to his size. Last year, my son, Dick, landed a tarpon, using orthodox fly-rod tackle, in 37 minutes. Timed by the fight with a stop watch. The fly rod weighs slightly less than six ounces and the leader point is restricted by tournament regulations to 12-pound breaking strength. The fish weighed, of course, on tournament weighmaster's scales, 97½ lbs.

ANOTHER QUICK CATCH

Several years ago I watched a man bring in a 125-pounder in 12 minutes, this on plug-casting tackle with a 15-pound line. That will give you some idea.

Three or four years ago I won the jack crevalle prize in the fly-rod division of the Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament. The land that fish required sustained effort for about 40 minutes, using the same tackle I use for tarpon. It weighed slightly less than nine pounds.

Last March I hooked a tarpon in Florida Bay, a rounder. Thirty minutes later I had him within ten feet of the boat. He was trying to scoot and he swam with his head down so that line and leader were along the length of his body. The tip of his tail extended eight or ten inches above the knot where the line was tied to the leader. At the time I was using a nine-foot leader. That will give you some idea of the size of the fish.

When Rolle Holberbeck gaffed the fish, somehow in the scramble the tarpon got leader and line wrapped around his tail, giving him a down-hill pull. The line, not the leader, parted and the fish slipped out of the gaff. The fact remains, however, that a tarpon at least nine feet long was brought to gaff in 30 minutes with orthodox fly-rod equipment.

Most of the time, when I fish today for tarpon, I use a light line long enough to get what jumps he happens to have in him. Then, when he better starts down to bulldog and sulking, I point the rod at him and break off the fly. That way, he can be fun. There is little point to bringing him in to gaff. Instead we free him to grow and fight again.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED K. WILSON
INCUBATION TIMING

The length of time it takes eggs to hatch varies enormously. Everything works out according to nature — but we must know the pattern in order to tell the birds. Length of incubation depends upon how well developed the baby is when it emerges, which in turn depends upon the kind of bird. If we are sufficiently expert to discover this by the position and look of the nest, as well as the size, shape, colour and number of eggs in the clutch, we can pretty well judge the timing.

Roughly speaking, songbirds' eggs take one or two weeks; but the chick is born blind, helpless, and naked. Eggs of Ducks, most shore birds, and members of the grouse family take at least three weeks; then the babies are covered with down and able to leave home in a few hours. Eggs from which these "precocial" birds come are especially large to allow for growth.

MANY VARIATIONS

But these general rules have many variations. Blue-winged teal eggs take 22 days to hatch, but the young, though born clothed in down, remain 42 days in the nest. The eggs of hawks and eagles take from 30 to 40 days; then the babies, though partly covered with down, are helpless, and take many weeks to arrive at the stage when they can leave home and shift for themselves. Like hawks, eagles, and owls, young bitterns are at first incapable of looking after themselves, but remain at home only about two weeks. It is interesting to notice that all these young herons are of different sizes because the eggs were laid and therefore hatched on different days. Some birds, rookings for example, wait until the full clutch is laid before beginning to incubate. Therefore their babies are all born on the same day.

The story of a gannet egg and its chick is most intriguing. Incubation takes 42 days and the baby is born naked. In about three weeks the down covering is complete, but the young gannet remains in the nest and is fed for 12 or 13 weeks. Then it is almost fully feathered and parents cease feeding, knowing all that is required is the urge to find food for itself. But because the home is on the top of a high cliff, this takes courage. Not until 15 days later does the youngsters' lump overboard, and even then it can only rest on the water. Fasting continues until it is able to rise from the surface and dive for fish.

HISTORIC WINDMILLS

NORWICH, England (CP)—A section takes 42 days and the scheme to restore and preserve 18 windmills of historic interest in Norfolk has been approved by the county council.

TIPS

By JOHN WETTLAUFER

Most people know that the TV antenna on their roof must be in good condition for good reception, but many people do not realize that it requires occasional service to keep it at peak efficiency.

For example, the terminals to which the lead-in wire is attached often become corroded by moisture, dirt and soot which causes them to short circuit and cause poor reception. With a new antenna this usually occurs within a year or two but more frequently in areas where heavy industrial smoke is present.

Lead-in wires, too, suffer from old age . . . the insulation deteriorates and admits moisture, which interferes with proper reception.

Putting TV serials in top condition is a relatively simple and inexpensive job — but it can make a tremendous difference in television performance. CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Colman St., will be glad to give you a free estimate on your antenna. Just phone WO 8-2021.

May Play Sunday Soccer In Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—The English Football Association is expected to recognize Sunday soccer soon.

The association council Friday accepted a committee's report advocating the removal of all restrictions on Sunday soccer, pending it for further consideration at the annual meeting of the association.

The report proposed that "the council remove all restrictions on the participation by Sunday football by clubs, players, officials, referees and linesmen."

Thousands of players already are taking part in organized Sunday football in Britain, but the bodies controlling their sport have hitherto not been recognized by the National Football Association.

There is no immediate likelihood that big games will be played in Britain on Sundays. Under the Sunday Observance Act, no gate money can be taken at matches played Sundays.

Larry Doby Released by Maple Leafs

TORONTO (CP) — Larry Doby, first Negro to play in the American League, was given his unconditional release Friday by Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League.

General manager Danny Mednedez said Doby, who joined Leafs on a try-out basis 10 days ago, would enter John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore for further treatment on his ankle, fractured last year while he was with San Diego of the Pacific Coast League.

Doby's release came after x-rays showed apparent deterioration in the broken ankle bone.

Doby impressed onlookers at all Leafs practices with his batting power but was unable to move quickly in the field.

Cancer Kills Former Hurler

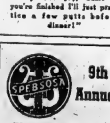
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Vern Bickford, 39, who pitched a no-hit National League game for the old Boston Braves against Brooklyn on Aug. 11, 1950, died of cancer Friday. He had been in hospital since Feb. 26.

In 1950, Bickford, a righthander pitched 312 innings for the Braves and won 19 games. Six times at the end of the season he tried for the charmed 20th victory but failed each time.

A bone spur pinched the nerve in his right elbow and ended his major league career in 1954. After an operation he tried a brief comeback with Richmond of the International League in 1956 but it was unsuccessful.

Since leaving pro ball, he had been an automobile dealer, a travelling salesman and a carpenter. He is survived by his wife, three sons and his mother.

Pastrano Wins Over Johnson



LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Willie Pastrano, the nimble, dancing master from Miami Beach, scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Alonzo Johnson Friday night.

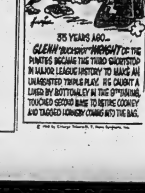
Johnson, who came in at 188 pounds, now has an 18-3 won-lost record, Pastrano, 53-8, weighed 178.

TO FIGHT OIL DRILLING

WINDSOR, (CP)—The metropolitan mayors and reeves committee voted Friday to co-operate with all organizations fighting the oil drilling in the Great Lakes. The committee also voted unanimously to oppose lake drilling because of water pollution.

"Very nice job, dear. If you're finished I'll just practice a few putts before dinner!"



Dodgers Swap Rip Repulski

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles Dodgers' outfielder Rip Repulski is being traded to Boston Red Sox for pitcher Nelson Chittum, an undisclosed amount of cash, the Dodgers announced Friday night.

The first report of the trade came earlier as Dodgers outfielder Duke Snider's local radio show, General manager Buzzie Bavasi later confirmed the deal.

He said Chittum would be assigned to Dodgers' Montreal farm club.

This Day in Sports

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, May 8, 1960

General Tendencies: A very curious Sunday — one in which you are apt, too apt, to be tired of usual outlets and to desire to make sudden and drastic changes from sheer ennui. But proven principles are undergoing. However, you can find modern adaptions that will be helpful today. After services, study all current formulas, systems.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — An unfortunate day for anything in any way with your reputation, so be above reproach in all you do, and particularly courteous and happy with all. P.M. enjoy yourself, but do so inexpensively.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Depending upon new acquaintances today may prove quite depressing. Rely upon own skill and present setup for best results. You will be surprised what a wealth of ideas and fine support is possible in this realm in P.M. also.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Your intuitions are not very good today, so be sure not to follow them. Make it a point to imbue yourself with the finest philosophies of spiritual leader and live the Golden Rule. Then this can be a most inspiring Sunday.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — A loquacious and depressing associate could spoil this day for you, if you permit. Set out to scorn evil wherever you face and follow the practical and elevated ideas and lessons learned. Then you will find inspiration and relief from worry.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Regardless of whom you contact today, nobody seems to have the right advice for you. Get into the so-called Silence for a while and you will get the right solution to all your problems, since you will be divinely guided.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Getting off alone to some quiet place for serious thought and reflection will result in most unusual inspiration for handling any vital matters at hand. Lazy is economical, especially for pleasure. Retire early.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Being worried, you could make life at home quite unhappy if you allow yourself to think so negatively. Get out and enjoy yourself with some new and worthwhile friend instead.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Private worries could surely keep you in a dither today if you do not rise above them. Carry through constructively instead. P.M. be with kind, good friends for pleasant and fascinative activity. Have fun.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You may be quite disappointed by your comrades today, chiefly because they are too busy with own affairs to give you much time or attention. Spend your time wisely delving into enlightening literature, attending lectures, etc.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Don't follow that temptation to tell off certain individuals you feel have not been just or kind with you or you will get into a spell of trouble. Listen to the spiritual side of your nature instead, act accordingly.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Do not fret now about a situation over which you have no control and do not magnify it beyond proportion. Be out with kind-hearted friends and regain your equilibrium and find inspiration so that all will soon be well again.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Services of your choice should be attended today in order to find a more ideal way of life and learn how to be of service to others. This will bring blessings as well as make you a pillar of your community, a living inspiration.

If your child is born today— The fine child born today will soon be thinking along very broad and constructive lines. The desire to succeed will be very strong in this wonderful citizen. Early teach to study subject matter thoroughly or there may be the tendency to cut side opportunities that should be grasped. The perfectionist is here, whether in public life, business or the creative arts. Fame is very possible.

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Monday, May 9

General tendencies: A new chance is afforded you today to discover whatever may not be to your best interests in a very confidential manner from one who knows just what is the situation. But you have to ask the questions and show your willingness to act in an ingenious and resourceful manner to make the necessary changes. Be adroit.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — In the interest of advancement, this is the right day to seek out those persons or contacts who have the data you need. They are usually reticent, but will be co-operative today. Be romantically inclined this evening.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Associate has' excellent suggestions to proffer today that will bring about greater success for both of you. Later you can garner all the information you need by going after it. P.M. go out for real pleasure with friends.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Keep promises and pay all debts today. Put all of your monetary affairs in ideal order. Use this fine ingenuity and impress higher-ups. Be sure you are loyal to fine and true co-workers. Help them to best of your ability.

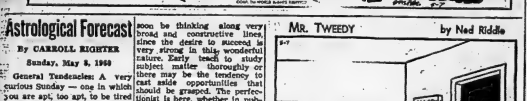
Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Dress in the best of taste and bring out your natural magnetism. You can then be the recipient of fine benefits since lighter-ups will be charmed by you. P. M. go out socially or enjoy sports. Have a wonderful time.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A day to improve vital personal with your good, practical sense. Advance in your career. P.M. it is imperative you have surroundings in fine order and increase harmony with close ties. Invite guests in socially. Be affable.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — The ideal day to improve appearance at barber or beauty shop, health measures, etc. Then get abode in finest order. Early in P.M. be free for going out with influential attachment and cementing better relations.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You are trying to take on more than you can handle. It would be wise to study your true position with key people and then get the backing you require in order to operate properly.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — The right day to discuss with all associates what your policies shall be in the future. Be explicit in expressing your ideas and ambitions. P. M. be sure you go out for relaxation or to some charming social affair.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Some earnest investigation today will reveal just how and where you stand with others so that you can make the adjustments that will bring advancement. Tonight is then ideal for being with loved one, doing the clubs.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You are able to come closer to reaching your goals today if you get the assistance of those in a position to extend real help. Don't be afraid to speak up and express your views, desires, P.M. go out socially. Have fun.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be sure you find out what higher-ups think of you now and what their plans for you in future may be. Act most respectfully. You are sometimes too independent for your own good or comfort, as well.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Strive for better understanding with new friends today, especially those of different nationality or who have been reared differently. Express your viewpoints and listen to theirs with equal respect and courtesy.

If your child is born today — he, or she, will have the natural tenacity of purpose that will bring success in whatever is attempted. The chart is ideal for professions where private investigation, scientific research will be a boon to humanity in general. However, early teach that orthodox and ethical methods are to be used in order to achieve the truly great promise in this horoscope.

Your Car

Pros and Cons Of Owning An Automatic

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

The new car buyer, undecided about automatic transmission might consider advantages and disadvantages.

Convenience and ease are, of course, the most appealing features. However, automatic drive also contributes to safety by permitting the driver to give his complete attention to the road and keep both hands on the wheel at all times. It also eliminates rollback and frantic shifting when starting car movement uphill.

The disadvantages begin with he initial cost — approximately 200 more than manual shift models. Lower gas mileage and higher repair or replacement costs are further reasons why some buyers will not choose automatic transmission. Greater difficulty in push-starting is not a common complaint but a few drivers believe it important enough to affect their decisions. Thus, it belongs on the list of arguments in favor of standard shift models.

B. P. asks: "My car seems to give a much too bouncy ride. How can I correct this?"

(A) Perhaps you're not putting enough air in the tires. Poor shock absorbers or weak springs are also probable causes.

From J. G.: "Last summer, I had fuel vapor lock trouble galore, and want to avoid it this year. Someone mentioned a fuel pump which stops vapor lock — what type or model would this be?"

(A) An electric fuel pump is what you want.

J. McK. writes: "When I look through a certain small area of the windshield it makes things very blurry the glass is alright, though. Can anything be done about this spot?"

(A) Apparently the glass is defective and replacement is the only cure.

T. M. asks: "Since I bought my car over 15 months ago, I have kept a record of the mileage from every tankful of gas. In checking it over recently I found that I got lower mileage in winter. Why is this?"

(A) In winter, it takes longer for an engine to warm up thoroughly and begin operating at top efficiency.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Are Employees Tempted to Cheat When Near Arbitrary Retirement?

By THOMAS COLLINS

The business executives who are settling the policies for the large companies of the country are smarter and richer than anybody. They don't need my help.

However, some interesting little rackets are going on among the older employees in some of their companies, and I would like to pass my information along to them. Not to help them, necessarily, but possibly in a left-handed way to help the people who are running the little rackets.

For a long time letters have been coming to me telling how men moving up to retirement are feathering their nest at the company's expense. These letters, naturally, never come from the men themselves, but from fellows under the men who are hungry to get their jobs.

This week a man came along who put into focus the information I had received in the letters. He retired a year and a half ago from a corporation job that put just under the vice-president level. He apparently knows whereof he speaks. And here is how he spoke:

"The working man in a company who knows he is going to be retired at age 65 can't grip the company very much. He can push his sick leave to the limit and loaf it through in the afternoon. But that's about all.

THINGS BEGIN TO HAPPEN

"Once an employee gets above the working stiff level, and faces arbitrary retirement, all sorts of intriguing things can begin to happen. This applies especially to the employees who have dealings on their jobs with any business or institution outside their own companies.

"The man who is concerned with purchasing anything for his company is obviously in the best position to benefit. If he thinks he needs another job after his company retires him, he is naturally inclined to butter the bread of the most promising firm from which he makes his purchases. This is his best connection for a retirement job. Any executive who thinks some employee in such positions don't do some bread-buttering simply doesn't know that President McKinley is dead.

"The employee who has anything to do with the hiring of personnel can curry favors all the way from the government employment services through the private employment agencies to Bill Jones's nephew. An employee who is concerned with distribution of the company's product can sometimes dispense favors from the credit houses to the trucking lines.

"Right down through the organizational chart of any large company are employees who operate in the realm of judgment. And their judgments, as they are close to retirement, and if they are human, is often going to be influenced by what might be best for You-know-Who."

What this man says tends to smear all supervisory employees who are coming down the stretch toward retirement. It shouldn't because there are many fine employees of large companies who will do or die for dear old Rutgers to the last penny and never sell their companies short.

Still, it behooves the business executives of our time to re-explore the whole subject or arbitrary retirement for employees in key positions. I rather doubt that at 65, any employee could seriously hurt his company by throwing a favor to the Smith firm instead of the Jones firm. There are too many checks and balances. But certainly it is not a healthy situation when a key employee operates on the edge of a precipice — which he does from age 63 on — when he knows he has to retire at 65.

Spurge Family Has Many Members

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Snow-On-The-Mountain, the old fashioned plant that grandmother used in her mixed bouquets was a member of the spurge or euphorbia family. It is a big family of more than 1,000 members. Some of them are common weeds others range from low alpines up to shrubs and trees. Most of them are shrubby and yield a bitter milky substance when cut.

Two annuals of euphorbias are valuable and interesting. E. Marginata, or Snow-On-The-Mountain makes a good filler for the border as well as good for cutting. Hold a candle to the cut ends to stop the sap. This plant seeds it self each year. Seeds could be planted in the fall.

NEEDS FULL SUN

E. Heterophyla, Mexican Fire Plant is quite like a poinsettia. It has branching stems and smooth glossy leaves. The centre top leaves turn a brilliant orange scarlet. This needs rich soil and full sun.

There are several perennial varieties worth cultivating. Most of them have odd greenish yellow bracts which look like flowers. The heads are borne in thick clusters or umbels and last for several weeks. They provide good contrast in the border with needle-like foliage which is soft to the touch. It resembles a low mound, evergreen with deep blue-green color. E. Wulfenii grows to three feet, has chartreuse bracts, horizontal growth. This makes it a suitable plant for the entrance, a low background plant, or at the street end of the border.

E. Corollata is a hardy perennial that comes into bloom in August. It follows after the Gypsophilla or baby's breath and serves the same purpose as a filler for bouquets. Height three feet and large clusters of snowy blooms.

Choose E. Polychromus if you need something new for the rock garden. It has bright yellow globes in May. Cut back after the flowers fade, and it will come again.

The seed of the annual spurge germinates quickly. Some of the seed will germinate quickly of the perennial types but it sprouts unevenly. Keep moist and do not disturb, most of it will come in time. I find the Salvias are like that too. Eventually nearly every seed sprouts. Both the annuals and the perennial spurges can be sown in the fall or spring. All need full sun and most of them will stand poor soil.

KHRUSHCHEV TO URGE END OF MILITARY SECRECY

Russian People Alarmed Plane Got Far Inland

Worry Over Penetration Before Rocket Hit It

MOSCOW (AP) — Some Russians appeared disturbed today about the fact an American spy plane, shot down by a Russian rocket, had penetrated so far into Soviet territory before being detected.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev announced that the plane, before it was shot down, crossed Sverdlovsk, some 1,400 miles northwest of the Pakistani border over which it crossed.

Anger and uneasiness were heightened by the suspicion that other high — flying American spy planes have penetrated Soviet air space without being intercepted.

In an attempt to reassure the people of the invincibility of Russia's armed forces, military leaders in the Kremlin and Communist articles proclaiming Soviet ability to crush any aggressor.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda called the flight further evidence of the necessity for the highest Soviet vigilance against aggression.

DENOUNCES U.S.

Pravda denounced the U.S. State Department explanation of the flight as impudent and unethical and denied that other nations of the world are interested in it. The U.S. statement had said:

"Virtually the entire world knows that, given the state of the world today, intelligence collection activities are practised by all countries, and post-war history certainly reveals that the Soviet Union has not been lagging behind in this field."

The newspaper commented: "Virtually the state department doesn't give a single proof of this absurd fabrication."

TASS DENIES CLAIMING

The Soviet press printed fresh details of the capture of pilot Francis Gary Powers and lampooned the United States in cartoons and articles.

The papers told how workers on a state farm near Sverdlovsk came to French with whom he parachuted from his plane on May 1. They had turned him over to the authorities when they found he carried a pistol, a silencer, dagger, Russian map, Soviet and foreign money, quantities of gold and a gold cigar, the survival kit, fishing net, pliers and a saw and knife.

"Our suspicions were more and more confirmed," said Vladimir Surin, a former engineer. "An enemy was in front of us, an enemy who had penetrated deep."

Komsomol Pravda related that Surin and his family were given a holiday rocket, then he saw a

BRITISH PAPER SAYS REDS FLY OVER CANADA

British Spy Planes Operating Regularly

LONDON (AP) — Two British newspapers said today both British and American aircraft have flown special reconnaissance missions deep inside Russian territory. And one publication said Russian planes have been seen over Britain, Canada and the United States.

The Daily Mail and The Daily Herald carried the reports on their front pages.

"And there is reason to believe," added The Daily Mail, "that American U-2s have made espionage trips from this country."

Asked to comment on the newspaper stories, Britain's air ministry said: "It is the office said they had "no information."

The Daily Herald said:

Western observers believed that the May Day downing of an American spy plane over the Soviet Union strengthens the hand of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and puts United States President Eisenhower in an embarrassing position for the Big Four summit talks opening in Paris May 16.

While recognizing that both East and West engage in intelligence activities, many observers felt the U.S. blundered in the timing.

A banner headlines reflected British concern over last week's disclosure that an American U-2 jet in the Soviet Union.

Opposition Labor MPs privately expressed their intention to press the government for a statement on Britain's role in such activity.

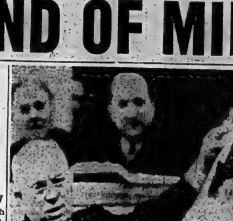
The Daily Mail story said "secret Royal Air Force squadrons have been regularly photographing territories behind the Iron Curtain."

"These planes regularly patrol along the fringe of Russia," the newspaper said, "making 150 miles-an-hour radar maps. Special mirrors are also flown far into Russia to obtain accurate target maps for the Soviet rocket force."

SEEN OVER CANADA

The Daily Mail said Russian planes have been spotted flying over Britain, Canada and the U.S. Correspondent Canadian High Commissioner George Drew, Mr. The sightings of spy planes and even rockets which them have been kept secret. The fact that Russia has now called a halt and has proved her ability to bring down the highest flier of all spy planes, will not be overlooked.

OTTAWA (CP)—It has been generally assumed here for some years that Russian planes occasionally make reconnaissance flights over northern Canada and the U.S.



As far as can be learned, there has never been a positive identification of such a plane flying over north Canada.

As a rule, all that has been seen, have been vapor trails of aircraft so high that the planes themselves could not be seen.

These vapor trails have been seen over Queen Elizabeth Islands—Canada's northern Archipelago—at a time when it was known that no Canadian or American planes were in the area.

It is therefore conceivable here that the vapor trails were created by U.S. or NATO aircraft which

Green Sees Plane Incident As Proof of Need to Disarm

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green, returning Sunday night from a trip to Europe, said Russia's shooting down of an American aircraft "is a good illustration that there has been a failure to disarmament agreement—and quickly."

He said, however, in an interview at Dorval Airport that inspection must go hand-in-hand with disarmament.

Asked whether the destruction by rocket of the American plane high over the Urals of Russia might complicate the outcome of the coming East-West summit conference, Mr. Green replied: "It certainly does not help the summit. Any increase in tension is a danger to the summit."

Mr. Green was away from Canada since April 28. He attended the NATO foreign ministers conference in Istanbul last week and Thursday flew to London where he attended the wedding of Princess Margaret.

While in London he also conferred with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Canadian High

Title Later?

Margaret, Tony Out to Sea, Few Days From Carib 'Moon'

LONDON (CP) — The royal yacht Britannia taking Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones to a Caribbean honeymoon should take about five days on her 3,000-mile voyage, the admiralty said here today.

A spokesman said:

"I would not dismiss the chance that a high wind could delay them at some time in the future. But no announcement was made on the crew or the wedding. Princess Margaret does not necessarily mean she will not get one.

"I would not like to say what the title might be, if he gets one, and it would be profitless to speculate about it."

The spokesman was commenting on a report in The London Pictorial that Armstrong - Jones might be given a title on the eve of his wedding. He tactfully but firmly argued that a title would embarrass him and he does not deserved, the report says.

The newspaper reports that the Queen and Prince, Philip may win plain Lieut. Philip Mountbatten until his wedding eve—urged Armstrong-Jones to take a title. He was supported by Princess Margaret in his refusal, the Pictorial says.

Technicolor films of the wedding were rushed to Britain's movie houses today, after technicians completed in 36 hours the complicated processing which usually takes weeks.

A copy of the film will be flown to the first port where the Britannia makes a stop, so that the stars can see it for themselves.

Britons can't seem to get over the excitement of the Princess Margaret wedding.

The strain began to tell Sunday night.

"For heaven's sake," shouted one fan, a hobby is the thick of the crowds along the wedding route, "why don't you all go home?"

But the fourth successive evening, line of thousands of sightseers jammed the roads along which the princess drove to the wedding in Westminster Abbey.

A square mile of central London was paralyzed in a colossal jam of cars, buses and pedestrians. The attraction was the illuminated decorations along the wedding route.

"It's total chaos," said the Automobile Association.

Abbey officials estimated that nearly 250,000 people had filled up the altar where the marriage took place.

Diefenbakers Plan June Visit To Washington

OTTAWA (CP) — The prime minister's office announced today that Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker will visit President and Mrs. Eisenhower in Washington Friday, June 3.

"The visit will provide the occasion for informal talks between the heads of government of the two countries which are close neighbors and allies," the announcement said.

During the visit, Mr. and Mr. Diefenbaker will stay at the president's guest house.

Will Use Spy-Plane Row To Dramatize Contention Iron Curtain Breeds Fear

U.S. Admits Plane Espionage Flight; Was Not Authorized in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is reported planning to follow up the United States-Soviet espionage row by calling on Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev at their week's summit conference in Paris to join in scrapping military secrecy.

While leading U.S. administration officials publicly deplored the way in which the plane episode has developed, they carefully say inclination toward a defensive approach by the president or his advisers at the Paris summit meeting.

The president is represented as feeling rather that the sensational incident dramatizes a possibility nothing else could the U.S. view that Russia's iron Curtain system of concealment is a basic source of tension and fear of war throughout the free world.

While admitting that the plane made an intelligence flight over Russia, as charged by Khrushchev, the state department said Sunday that President Eisenhower had not authorized by authorities in Washington.

Eisenhower conferred with Secretary of State Herter at his farm near at the White House late Sunday after he returned from a weekend at Gettysburg, Pa. Herter returned here from the Middle East.

FLIGHTS HALTED

The New York Times said in a Washington dispatch today that it was stated on responsible authority that President Eisenhower has ordered a halt to all flights over or near Communist frontiers pending a full investigation.

The suggestion was reflected in the cool or terse communique, which said: "They (the foreign ministers) regret the intelligence flights which the Soviet side has so far shown to discuss specific practical measures of disarmament."

Mr. Green agreed with a reporter's suggestion that this was a call to "stop beating around the bush."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House indicated today that President Eisenhower might make a television-radio address to the nation if he leaves this weekend for the Paris summit conference.

Asked about this possibility, presidential press secretary J.C. Hagerty said, "I can't answer that at the present time."

On other occasions, a reply of that kind by Hagerty sometimes has foreshadowed an announcement that Eisenhower was going on the air. It has been the president's custom to make a nationwide broadcast on the eve of trips abroad.

Hagerty also raised some doubt that the Eisenhower would go ahead with a press conference which he has scheduled for Wednesday.

In reply to questions, Hagerty said he knew of no plans for Eisenhower to go on the air specifically for discussion of the American spy plane — over-Russia episode.

Obviously any Eisenhower address regarding the summit conference would be in the context of the impact of the plane incident.

Hagerty parried with a barrage of "no comment" replies almost all questions dealing with the shooting-down of the plane by the Russians and admission by the U.S. that it was on an espionage mission.

Police Arrest Rhee Bodyguard

SEOUL, South Korea (Reuters) — South Korean police arrested the former bodyguard of former president Syngman Rhee today while a parliamentary committee completed the draft of a bill to introduce responsible cabinet government in the country.

The bodyguard, former police captain Kwak Yong Ku, was arrested for questioning in connection with an attack by hoodlums on university students' during the Rhee government's rule in Seoul which led up to Rhee's downfall Saturday.

National Police Chief Cho Jin Ku said Sunday that 24 men in South Korea's 164 police chiefs will be dismissed or relieved of their present posts within the next few days. The move is part of a campaign to clear out all police who were involved in irregularities during the March election which paved the way for a fourth consecutive term as president.

'Spy Plane' Key Issue at Ministers' Talks

LONDON (Reuters) — The shooting down of an American "spy plane" over Russia was a key issue today as the British Commonwealth prime ministers' conference entered its final phase.

According to authoritative sources, the Commonwealth prime ministers will consider the implications of the plane incident thoroughly before publishing the final touches on the foreign affairs section of their communique to be issued Friday at the end of the conference.

Two Boys Steal Cabin Cruiser

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two teen-age boys with an ambitious plan to get to Florida in a stolen cruiser were picked up eight miles off the shore of Lake Erie Saturday after drifting for eight hours.

They couldn't get their stolen 35-foot cruiser going, the coast guard reported.

The boys, 15 and 17, were penniless, hungry and chilled when the coast guard rescued them. The boys said they had decided to go to Florida after each had difficulties with his parents.

Unable to start the cruiser, the boys tied a rope to a 16-foot outboard motorboat moored nearby and towed it out to the breakwater.

There they tied up the outboard and the coast guard cutter again tried to start it.

When both boys in the steamer Gray Beaver spotted the cruiser drifting in the lake and notified the coast guard, which dispatched a cutter to tow the boat back to the yacht basin.

Says Power From Nuclear Fission Sure to Become More Practical

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The International Atomic Energy Agency says power from nuclear fission — splitting of the atom — will become increasingly practical in the next few years.

But power from thermonuclear fusion is reported still far away, in that way of saying it will take a long time to harness the energy of the hydrogen bomb for peaceful uses.

Athe agency, based in Vienna prepared the report on the basis of reports at the request of the UN economic and social council.

The agency said plants using heat from nuclear fission to make steam for the generation of electricity now costs much more to build than those burning oil or coal, and in smaller sizes are much less economical.

This, it explained, is because nuclear power plants are less efficient in their use of heat than conventional power plants and they require costly materials, expensive shielding against radiation and more precise controls.

"Nevertheless," the document says, "their capital costs per unit of capacity are expected to decrease by at least as much as 30 per cent in the next four or five years, as normal engineering procedures are put in place.

"In addition, in some places larger reactors are built and higher steam pressures and temperatures are employed.

The study said "the greatest possibilities of atomic energy as a source of power in the more distant future" lie in:

1. "Controlling thermonuclear fusion reactions on a large scale" to produce energy.

2. "Economic direct conversion of the heat generated by fission or fusion reaction, into electricity, eliminating the intermediate step of steam generation."

COMMONWEALTH PRIME MINISTERS RESUME TALKS

South Africa Was Big Weekend Topic

LONDON (CP)—The Commonwealth prime ministers returned from their three - day weekend break today to resume a conference apparently still deadlocked on the major issue of South Africa's racial policies.

Split into two informal groups at the country residences of British Prime Minister Macmillan and the Earl of Home, secretary of state for Commonwealth relations, the leaders of the 10 Commonwealth nations, together with Sir Roy Welensky—virtually concerned despite his observer status as prime minister of the Rhodesian Federation—spent most of the weekend discussing the situation.

Malaya's Tunku Abdul Rahman, with growing support from Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah and the evident sympathy of India's Jawaharlal Nehru, is refusing to participate in unofficial talks with South Africa's external affairs minister, Eric Louw, on the nation's handling of its racial problems.

WALKED OUT

Rahman walked out on the talks last Wednesday night, shortly after Louw offered a description of his country's apartheid (racial separation) policies at a press conference. The Malayan accused Louw of downgrading the talks by declaring in advance that his arguments could sway his government from its chosen path.

Macmillan and Prime Minister Menzies of Australia, both anxious to heal the breach, spent the weekend with Rahman, Nkrumah and Nehru, apparently seeking to persuade them not to force the issue.

In the other group, Louw and Welensky were joined by Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Justice Minister Fulton of Canada.

Commonwealth experts noted that the situation had reached an impasse in which certain failure awaited the faction making the first move.

MUST BE UNANIMOUS

Under the loose organization of Commonwealth conferences, decisions must be made unanimously. Any change in policy through a resolution critical of South Africa would fail because of the certain opposition of South Africa herself, with the probable support of Britain, Canada and Australia to avoid a showdown.

A split which would face Louw if he sought advance assurance from his colleagues that his country will be permitted to retain Commonwealth membership on becoming a republic.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — For Southern Ontario this is the driest season of the year with almost continuous rain. From early Saturday until early Monday day rainfalls have averaged from 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 inches.

The cause of all this wet weather is an extensive area of low pressure which has been stirring across the Great Lakes for the past few days and which is being fed by minor centres moving into it from the south.

One such centre—also active is moving towards it now from a position near the coast of Delaware. Little change from this wet objure appears likely for Tuesday.

Flood Threatens Timmins Dam, Families Ordered to Leave Area

TIMMINS (CP)—Families were ordered to evacuate low-lying areas along the Mattagami River here today after a warning that flood waters were threatening to destroy a dam on the river 22 miles upstream.

About 800 persons live in the immediate danger zone in the Timmins suburb and adjoining Mountjoy Township.

The warning, from the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said water was spilling over the Wawaitin dam which helps hold back a 21-mile-long water reservoir on Kenogamisis Lake.

There was a danger, Hydro said, that the dam might collapse.

Residents of the area were warned to leave their homes Sunday but only a handful responded. A few more families vacated the area early today and a mass evacuation began after the Hydro's warning shortly before noon.

A Hydro official said it might become necessary to open the dam at Wawaitin to prevent its destruction. This would send a major flood crest down the river into Timmins.

The Mattagami runs out of Kenogamisi Lake, about 20 air miles northwest of here, and passes through a large residential section of Timmins on its flow north to Bay.

Heavy weekend rains—still falling today—have combined with the late spring runoff of melting winter snow to send the river to one of the highest levels ever known.

Mountjoy Reeve Jack Atkinson ordered the 800 residents from their homes at 10.50 a.m. By 11.30 some 20 families were re-

B of M Offers Scholarships in Arts, Science

MONTREAL — The Bank of Montreal today inaugurates a seven-year scholarship program to provide assistance to students in arts and science for outstanding Canadian high - school graduates in all ten provinces, according to an announcement at the weekend by G. Arnold Hart, Bank of Montreal president.

The plan provides for 36 top high-school graduates to enter university on B of M scholarships next autumn. The program will culminate in 1967, Canada's centennial year and 150th anniversary of the establishment of the bank, Mr. Hart said, with the conferring of centennial awards on the top scientist and the top humanist.

To be known as "Bank of Montreal Canada Centennial Scholarships," the plan calls for 134 awards in all over the next seven years, ranging from $750 to $5,000.

HIGHLY COMPETITIVE

All awards will be made entirely on merit; as determined by scholastic committees consisting of faculty members of universities from coast to coast. The bank will "in no way" direct whatever in the decisions.

The plan, which provides increasing benefits to a reducing number of students, includes the most promising students in series of scholarships and fellowships in the sciences, pure and in the humanities or the social sciences. Certain traditional courses such as law, medicine and engineering are not included.

Scholarship students who are successful in meeting the requisite standards in the second, third and fourth university years will receive awards of $1,-500 per annum, while those accepted for graduate study in 1964, 1965 and 1966 will receive awards of $2,000 per annum for study anywhere in Canada or abroad.

Then in 1967, Canada's centennial year, a final competition is open to all who have participated in the plan at any stage, the top $5 of the Canada centennial awards will be made — one in each of arts and science. These two awards will be in the amount of $5,000 each to be used for further study anywhere in the world.

To each of the 36 winners, if they have participated throughout the plan, the bank will have provided a total of $19,250 at the end of the bank-sponsored study.

The allocation of scholarships and fellowships will be made as far as possible on the basis of population, with a minimum of two for each province. For-mer students who have failed exams with secondary school graduation diplomas this June, will be eligible for B of M scholarships of $750 each. As in other competitions, these awards will be divided more or less equally between arts and science students.

Common Market Countries Meet

LUXEMBOURG (Reuters) — Ministers of the six European common market countries agreed in this tiny duchy today for a three-day meeting expected to include a vote on the contentious Hallstein plan.

The plan, submitted by Walter Hallstein, West German president of the community executive commission, calls for introduction of the first steps toward a common external tariff July 1—18 months ahead of schedule.

A compromise was expected between French and West German reaction to the plan when voting gets under way Tuesday.

Today's conference session centered around purely external matters, including the slump in the Belgian Congo and the European coal and steel community.

West Germany was understood to want a postponement of the Hallstein plan until Jan. 1 to allow time for negotiations aimed at avoiding a European trade war—as between the common market and the seven outside it in the British-led European Free Trade Association.

But France was expected to oppose the German proposal.
